LONDON (CP)—Dr. Thomas Cotton, a native of Cowansville, Que., who has practised in England for 40 years, has donated £100,000 to the Royal College of Physicians. This sum will help finance the 400-year-old college's new buildings to be erected in London's Regent's Park. In particular it will go towards the Osler Memorial Room, a dining room which will seat 300 people.

Weller's Bay in 1830

At the southwest end of Carrying Place, we come to Weller's Bay, an indentation of Lake Ontario, named after Asa Weller, who was the first white man to take up land and settle on the Carrying Place.

He settled on Lot 1 on the northwest side of the old Indian portage and in 1816 kept here a low wagon and a yoke of oxen for the transportation of boats and merchandise across the peninsula. He was followed shortly afterwards by Robert Young, who in 1796 located on Lot 1 on the Amelisburgh side of the trail. His first house was of log but in 1804 he built a frame house and again in 1808 he added a commodious frame house to the east side, both of which are still in excellent condition more than 150 years later.

Charles Biggar later kept store in the original log cabin but this was afterwards replaced by a brick house. In the 22nd of March, 1804, James Young, the fifth child of Capt. Robert Young, and Catherine Weller, were married before John Bleecker, J.P., with Col. R. C. Wilkins as witness. It is their descendants who still live in the old frame house.

In this picture we notice the log blockhouse built for the protection of this former strategic position. You will notice that it commands a good view of Lake Ontario and has been built on an elevation. The red leaves of the two maples nearby tell us that the picture was painted in the autumn as well as the low water far out from the high water mark all along the shore. In the foreground we see a man pushing his flat bottomed boat out into the water.

Seaway Section Now Open For 24-Hr. Use

CORNWALL (CP) — Round-the-clock navigation on the Montreal-Iroquois section of the St. Lawrence Seaway began Thursday night, R.J. Lemaire, director of operation and maintenance for the Seaway Authority, announced today.

Ice and high winds had delayed 34-hour operations on the section because they interfered with buoy laying.

Meanwhile, it was reported that the new Canada Steamship Lines laker Murray Bay, probably the biggest lake vessel afloat, will enter the Welland Canal section of the seaway Saturday morning en route to Montreal.

Tunisia Accuses France Of Raids, Issues Warning

Treat Any More Border Attacks as Acts of War

TUNIS (AP)—Accusing France of new ground and air raids on her soil, Tunisia has served notice that any more border attacks will be considered acts of war.

President Habib Bourguiba cut short a tour of the northwest provinces and hastened back to the capital to deal with the crisis.

The Tunisian government charged that French forces had launched two attacks in the last week. On April 20, it said, French planes bombed and strafed Oulad Soulaim, and two days later Algerian troops in the service of France thrust into Tunisia near Thala.

The communique said many civilians had been killed in the raids. It also accused French commanders in Algeria of interfering Tunisia and placing booby traps to "create insecurity" along the common frontier.

The foreign ministry in Paris had no comment.

SUMMONED HOME

Habib Bourguiba Jr., Tunisia's ambassador to France, was summoned home for consultations.

Observers here in Tunis were using a map reaching the bulging point along the frontier, where Tunisia and Algeria overlap, to illustrate how French outposts from Tunisian soil, France has accused Tunisia of aiding with Algerian rebels in the five-year Algerian revolt.

President Bourguiba warned the French in his home town before starting any real trouble along the border.

"Any new attack against our territory or any violation of our air space will be considered an act of war and our policy in regard to France will be revised in consequence," Bourguiba declared in a speech at Tebourbouk.

If France uses the presence of Algerian rebels in Tunisia as a pretext to make war on Tunisia, he said, "we are ready."

President Bourguiba called he had no planes or ships to pit against France, however, "we are not effective means of ripposting." He pointed out that France still has important bases in Tunisia, and his government could take reprisal measures.

Brunette Patricia, stunned, raised the last matters.

"How long will I have to serve? When will I get out?"

Two Charged With Auto Theft

BARRIE (CP) — Two Toronto teen-agers were arrested Saturday with auto theft, criminal negligence and driving while disqualified after a 25-mile chase during which police fired five shots. No one was hurt.

Charged are Franklin Sharpe, 17, who will appear in court here Wednesday, and a 16-year-old who will be arraigned in juvenile court today.

Police said the vehicle — a dairy truck—was driven in darkness without headlights, went the wrong direction on a one-way street in this city, straddled a two-lane highway for 25 miles, forcing 30 other cars off the road, and was driven for 10 miles with two tires deflated by police bullets.

Today's Chuckle

"I won't be home until late, dear," phoned the fire chief, as he juggled the coffee cup on his knee. "I'm trying out a new siren."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — The very warm spell covering southern Ontario during the weekend is gradually moving east-southward. A broad band of showers and thunderstorms developed along the line separating the warm and cold air during the night. This line is expected to be across Lake Erie Tuesday giving rise to continued unsettled weather over most of the province. Temperatures will drop to ten degrees cooler than they have been.

ESCAPED MENTAL PATIENT KILLS B.C. POLICEMAN

Also Wounds Male Nurse in Shoulder

VICTORIA (CP) — An escaped mental patient armed with two rifles ran wild Sunday night, killing a policeman and injuring a male nurse.

Constable Robert Gordon Kirby, 28, of Saanich municipal police was shot through the heart and Horace Good, 34, a nurse at the Matsqui Mental Hospital, was severely wounded in the shoulder before police subdued the 45-year-old patient after shooting him in the leg.

Witnesses were still trying to determine where the man obtained the two .22-calibre sluggun shot rifles.

Good, one of several male nurses at the hospital who chased the patient when he escaped early Sunday, was in fair condition in hospital. The patient was held in hospital under guard.

About 25 policemen searched the bush and fir forest in the area behind the hospital on Victoria's northwest outskirts.

Police combed through the bush, popping up now and then to shout: "Anyone see or heard a noise."

"It was just a matter of hunting him out but we had to be careful about shooting our own men," said Robert Collman of Saanich, adjacent to Victoria. "Hospital authorities said he was dangerous when aroused.

"TYPE BEST HIT"

"I was with Kirby and we were looking for him in heavy bush. Suddenly there was a shot and Kirby cried out 'I've been hit' and dropped to the ground. He was shot in the heart."

Kirby, married and the father of four children—the youngest 10 months old—died en route to hospital.

Police think the patient may have broken into a nearby home to obtain the rifles.

Strong Criticism Voiced Against S. Africa at Rally

TORONTO (CP) — An orderly crowd of 2,500 persons Sunday night showed a remarkable calling for South Africa to abolish the iniquities of apartheid or get out of the Commonwealth.

They also poured nearly $4,000 into collection plates and cheered speakers who called for a boycott on South African goods and offered to be the internal elsewhere there as "Nazism at its worst."

The crowd, which filled Toronto Massey Hall, responded with a scream of "aye" when mariner of Canada Broadcasting Corp. read the resolution to be sent to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"This meeting resolves that the Canadian government protest most strongly the lack of basic freedoms and the condition of racial segregation (apartheid) in South Africa, and asks that these subjects be pressed at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

Then, meeting further resolves that if these wrongs continue, South Africa, having withdrawn from the Commonwealth, then she should withdraw in fact."

There was no dissenting voice.

The rally was sponsored by the Committee of Concern for South Africa, a group of clergymen, educationists, politicians, writers, newspapermen and artists, newspaper men and labor leaders.

Gerry Berton, Toronto Star columnist who interviewed fellow-newspaper man Norman Phillips on the stage, said the money would be smuggled into South Africa to aid families of persons jailed during current riots.

The money would be sent to the Christian Action Fund in London, he said, and from there it would go to South Africa.

Mr. Phillips, foreign news editor of the Star, was expelled from South Africa after being detained several days under emergency regulations. His arrest came after the government seized one of his dispatches as "banned," and closed operations there.

Dr. D. Hlimsi, professor of sociology at Natal University now teaching in the United States, was the principal speaker. He described some of new regulations segregating white and black students, he said, if non-whites were found in white members, he would resign from the university.

Rev. Lawrence Freiberg, who seconded the resolution, said he had passed at a previous meeting to the "8,000,000 Jews slaughtered by the Nazis in their name," he said, because the ideologies of Nazism and apartheid "are the product of the Nazi spirit."

Meanwhile, the United Electrical Workers union was accompanied by a resolution urging that Canada "refuse to associate" "take his hand from the national policies of the South African government.

Korean Troops Fire Tear Gas Shells Into Demonstrators

SEOUL (AP) — Army troops with gas masks, fixed bayonets and tanks tonight fired tear gas and staged a crowd of nearly 5,000 Koreans demonstrating in Seoul against Syngman Rhee's government.

Led by 200 college professors, the demonstrators and civilians marched to the National Assembly building and demanded the resignation of Rhee, all supreme court justices and members of the cabinet.

It was the first such street demonstration in the four-day partial since a martial law was clamped down on Seoul and other riots last Tuesday and democratic strations were banned.

Students and police cheered as the professors started their march. Then the students pushed their way to the parliament grounds just before the police and troops looked on and at first did not interfere.

"Go back to democracy!" the crowd shouted, and several professors and students climbed to the assembly building rostrum.

Then 200 or so infantrymen moved up and fired tear gas.

The crowd broke the demonstration but did not disperse.

The soldiers continued to fire occasional tear gas shells over the crowd but seemed to be exercising great restraint in dealing with the demonstrators.

Police also ordered the troops, sang military songs and some yelled for the resignation of Rhee, whose government today bowed to a decree of the national assembly and eased martial law throughout the large cities.

Rhee, 85, also promised to run civilian forces as a non-partisan president but showed no inclination to give up his autocratic rule. Opposition party critics and newspapers sharply criticized Rhee for failing to call new elections for president and vice-president.

Military rule in Seoul was stepped down from "emergency" to "alert" and the 24-hour curfew was relaxed.

The change means the military will take back the responsibility but still retain final control. Outdoor gatherings are still banned, but the curfew is now longer be held by military courts. The police—not the military—will enforce curfew, reveil—will resume many of their former duties.

Troops moved into the cities after the riots actually were used by police to break up demonstrations.

Take Referendum On South Africa Being Republic

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — The government plans to ask the country to push a bill through Parliament aimed at making South Africa a republic.

The bill calls for a referendum on the question "In order Algerian rebels out of his country, French commandos stationed in Algeria have indicated France will not tolerate Tunisian sanctuary for rebels any longer."

Weird and Dismal Droning Noise Causing Jangled Nerves in Kent

LONDON (AP)—Down in quiet, Kent, England, a weird and dismal droning noise just never seems to stop.

Most people can't hear the noise at all because the pitch is high. They may be able to pick up the low frequency raise complain the strange sound is keeping them awake.

Electricity and telephone men have been working in the area across the countryside and say they emit no drone.

The government has disavowed all knowledge of the matter—but with a certain degree of guilt, say the surpicions of William Deeder, conservative MP for the market town of Ashford.

He noted that Kent lies nearer than any other part of Britain to the Continent.

"Obviously," said Deeder, "the hum is something to do with defence warning apparatus."

He is investigating the matter up in Parliament and demanding an investigation.

"I do not hear it myself, but far too many people complain for it to be just imagination," said per is Mrs. Edward Hyams, who lives with her novelist husband in Aldington, Kent. For five years she has been tormented by the drone, but could never find anyone else who heard it. She was advised to consult doctors.

Then one day a woman friend who had been out of the country for years visited the Hyams' home. She immediately remarked:

"My dear, what is that awful humming noise? Can't you turn it off?"

Mrs. Hyams was overjoyed. The noise was really there.

Six Negroes Wounded Trying To Use White Sand Beaches

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Gun-carrying police — trying to quell race riots that left 10 wounded and at least four hurt in fighting — said this quiet coast resort city today.

Tension lined faces at both Negro and white residents.

The white sand beaches—where the tragedy of yesterday crew a Negro attempt to swim from sand reserved for whites — slightened today.

Mississippi's worst race riots in recent memory left the 28-mile man-made beach under a warm sun, but with the sidewalks empty.

Three bloody chapters followed in confused sequence.

First, a white Negro men, women and children gathered on the highway separating a white hotel on the sand. Some stepped into the water, the signal for a group of whites to show up. Fighting broke out. Whites chased Negroes off the beach.

Next, four Negro men and about 25 women and children gathered on the beach in front of the New Biloxi Hospital about one mile away from the first fight. A white group broke up the crowd when some of the Negroes

Legalizing Vice Said Major Step To Reduce Crime

TORONTO (CP) — A clergyman suggested Saturday that legalizing vice would be a major step in reducing crime.

Rev. Donald Stout, minister of South Presbyterian Church in nearby Port Credit, said prostitution, gambling and dope sales should be licensed by the government to remove the element of secrecy and gangsters who thrive on it.

"Take the profit out of vice by making it legal and there won't be racketeers and political pressure," he told an alumni meeting of the School of Social Science.

"I'm not saying these things should be indulged in, but I think everybody has the right to go to hell in his own way."

EXPECT HOUSE TO HEAR REPORT ON PM'S VISIT

Trade, Cultural Matters on Agenda

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament is expected to receive a report today from Prime Minister Diefenbaker on his triumphant visit to the capital of Mexico.

He likely will reiterate what he said in a brief television interview here on his return by air Sunday night: that he was impressed by Mexico's friendliness towards Canada and her desire to increase cultural and trade relations.

In Mexico City, Mr. Diefenbaker indicated two avenues for such an increase.

At a Saturday night press conference he said Canada is negotiating a sale of steel rails to the Mexican National Railways, a deal reported to involve close to $10,000,000.

STUDENT EXCHANGES

Earlier, he noted that some 500 Mexican students now are enrolled in Canadian educational institutions and that a growing number of Canadian scholars are going to Mexico each year. He said he would like to see a step-up in each case. The government would do everything in his power to encourage this.

The Canadian prime minister and his wife were warmly received everywhere they visited in Mexico City during their two days and Diefenbaker ended up paying a visit to Ottawa last October by President and Mrs. López Mateos.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the Mexican Chamber of Commerce in his talks with the president were productive and that discussions on trade and cultural matters will be continued by officials of the two countries.

On the steel negotiations, he recalled that Canada began with Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation at Sydney, N.S., sold some $26,000,000 worth of rails to the Mexican National Railway.

Canadian financial interests are reported also seeking to buy the Mexican Steel Co. If Canada gets the order, it is reported that Algoma Steel as well as Dosco would be in on it.

Mr. Diefenbaker indicated at the press conference he would call on his return to Ottawa another possible avenue for cultural relations with Mexico—through the Organization of American States.

He said that while Canada always has remained aloof, has been invited to attend the meetings as an observer at its next meeting in Costa Rica in November.

Mr. Diefenbaker indicated that Canada will participate in OAS as a full member when it is invited. At the same time, he left the door open for a possible acceptance of full membership in the organization. It now stands to exclude United States and the 20 Latin-American republics to which it has diplomatic relations among countries of the western hemisphere.

Back in Ottawa, the prime minister said the cabinet will give "careful consideration to the report" when it receives it from Mr. Diefenbaker. Ministers will all of St. Catharines, were pulled ashore after firemen threw them ropes.

Agreement to Destroy Atom Bombs Our Species' Only Hope - - de Gaulle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President de Gaulle said today the only hope of saving today that destruction of nuclear weapons under "consent" and under international supervision offers the only hope for the survival of mankind.

The French leader said that until then the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union—renounce atomic weapons—"the French republic obviously will be obliged to equip itself with such armaments." Other nations presumably would do the same.

"In the state of increasing uncertainty in which fear throws the peoples of the world," de Gaulle said, "the risk growsBerlin.

Many Children Among Dead In Iran City Of Lar

Billowing Cloud of Dust Obscured Entire Area

TEHRAN (AP) — Estimates of the earthquake death toll in the south Iranian city of Lar and neighboring villages ranged today between 1,500 and 3,000.

Hundreds of the dead were children, gathered in two schools for a "children's day" celebration when the first shock struck Sunday afternoon. The two buildings were demolished. Rescue workers by the morning had recovered 380 bodies from the wreckage.

The governor of Lar, Nooral Qarib, reported the entire city of 17,000 had been destroyed.

The village of Gerash, 15 miles south of Lar, also was destroyed.

The village had a population of about 1,000 and "only a few hundred survived," authorities said.

Lar is 550 miles south of Tehran and 170 miles south of Sbiraz.

TWO QUAKES IN DAY

The first shock struck about 4.15 p.m., sending most of the population into the streets running down. A billowing cloud of dust obscured the entire area. Official reports received here today include buildings at the time were killed.

A second quake hit six hours later and destroyed what had left standing.

Rescue teams which reached the area this morning said two children, 8 and 5 years old, had been rescued alive after being buried for 16 hours under the ruins.

The rescue workers feared that the only other survivors would be those who were in the open air and away from buildings when the first quake struck.

SHAH ORDERS FOOD

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi ordered food, medicine and tents flown to the area. The Iranian air force set up an airlift and parachuted food into the area.

Tents were set up on the outskirts of the devastated city for the survivors. The government sent medical teams to fight the threat of disease.

Seismologists in Norway said the Lar quake registered on their instruments stronger than the quake which shattered the northern town of Agadir, in February, killing some 12,000 persons.

PERRY DENIES BEING BEASTLY TO BRITISH

LONDON (AP)—Singer Perry Como denies he's being beastly to the British.

"Why on earth should I come here and try to show the British as savages when they're visiting TV star asked Saturday.

"I assure you there is no attempt in any way to belittle the English people or to minimize what I think of you."

Several London newspapers have chided Como for staging episodes for his TV variety program that exaggerate English manners and speech. The filmed program will be telecast in North America Wednesday and in Britain four days later, British actor Sam Kydd, who plays a Cockney cab driver on the show, complained about a line he spills Como a "real toff"—cockney for real gentleman.

"It makes us look Victorian—as if we always say 'pardon' and 'real toff' these days. I know the show is for Americans as well as for us but some of this stuff is ridiculous."

Diana Cammel, 14-year-old boy actor, agreed. "It's not intelligent," he said after rubbing shoulders with Como.

FLEES HOME

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Merle Oberon and three others fled from her home in fashionable Bel-Air Saturday when fire broke out. It took about an hour to bring the fire under control. One wing of the home was estimated damage at $75,000.

Big News Coming to IRELAND'S AT THE 4 CORNERS

George S. Cleet Opens Season At Local Port

The 1960 navigation season at Belleville Harbor was officially opened over the weekend with the arrival of the George S. Cleet laker, inbound with a load of coal for Moira Knitting Company here.

Her master, Captain C. R. Randle of Owen Sound, received the top hat from Belleville Harbormaster Mac Smith as the captain of the first boat arrival for the season. A native of Owen Sound, Capt. Randle has been a shipmaster for 27 years.

The top hat which he received Sunday morning was the second one which he has received at Belleville. About 10 years ago his boat had the honor of opening the seasonal navigation at Belleville.

Budget Meeting Is Delayed Until Wednesday

As result of last minute changes made Saturday at a special budget caucus, Belleville 1960 tax rate is now not expected to be announced before Wednesday.

Earlier it had been expected that the budget figures might be made known at this afternoon's regular meeting of council.

"We just couldn't possibly have the budget ready to be presented tonight — there were too many last minute changes," stated Finance committee chairman Alderman William Jarvah.

"Even if the treasurer's department at city hall had worked all night over the weekend, the budget could not have been ready for today. The earliest which could be ready is probably Tuesday but in all likelihood a special budget meeting will be called for Wednesday", stated Mr. Jarvah.

This evening will see the regular bi-monthly meeting of council when it is expected that recommendations for appointments to a transport commission will be made.

The establishment of a transport commission is to speed up and direct the operation of the bus line service which the city is taking over from the Hawson Bus Lines.

Roundup Time For Dogs Keeps Pound Busy

The Belleville city dog pound has been a busy place since the first of the year with city dogcatcher Charles Thorn reporting that a total of 39 dogs and 15 cats having been given temporary lodging.

Currently there are 28 dogs, including nine puppies and seven cats in the pound. All are awaiting their rightful owners, or someone who would be interested in owning a pet.

City pound keeper Thorn noted the reason for the large number of dogs being picked up was that owners were allowing their dogs to run at large, and also the fact that a vast majority of owners had still to purchase their 1960 tags for their pets. So far this year only 360 dog tags had been sold out of a total of 2,300, the estimated dog population of the city.

Mr. Thorn said that all dogs were required to wear tags, thus exploding a popular belief that pups do not have to be licensed.

Keeping the list up and providing them with the current year's licence can save a pet owner money.

The fine and costs for having no dog licence is $5.25 with a similar tab provided for allowing a dog to run at large. And in addition licences are required to purchase a dog licence.

FARMERS' MACHINES

Canadian farms were equipped with 166,000 tractors in 1956, compared with 90,939 in 1951.

Fire Destroys Emily St. Home

A pan of grease which boiled over onto a stove at 86 Emily Street yesterday morning created a fire which eventually destroyed the transference of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Andrews and their three children. Local firefighters received the first alarm at 12:15 p.m. and after their arrival a second alarm was sounded for more assistance.

The building burned quite quickly, thereby gutting its interior and destroyed the personal possessions of the Andrews family. The loss has been calculated as being at least $5,000. The house, which was owned by Mr. Andrews was insured.

Currently the Andrews family are residing with his mother, whose home is next door to the burning building. Firemen fought the fire for about two and a half hours. Mrs. Effie McCabe chairman of the Red Cross disaster committee was at the scene "to give any assistance needed."

Christ Church Chi Rho Holds Supper-Dance

As a change of pace from the series of Lenten meetings, Christ Church Chi Rho Fellowship met for a pitch supper and dance last Wednesday evening. Over 70 members and guests enjoyed the fun, games and surprises.

Margaret Dack and her group were in charge of the pitch supper menu, from decorations with an Easter motif, to games with a dancable beat and perior games to suit the festive mood. Special assistance was received from Jim Bailey, Bill Deck, Al Wood and Ken Tucker (not dancing) and each member brought something to add to the variety of delicacies.

Winners of the various specialty dances were as follows: Elaine Smith and Jim Bailey (elimination dance); Mac Chilcott and Earl Tucker (not dancing No. 1); Marjorie and Bob Bullier (equal dance); and Barb and Jack Keller (not dancing No. 2).

The games were interspersed throughout the evening, making for a well-balanced, diversified evening. The prizes, chocolate novelties, were donated by a local grocery.

The Christmas report on the sale of the pictorial plates was encouraging and it was considered advisable to submit an addition, at order to the firm producing them. The next meeting will be a talk by Miss Mary Donald, teacher at the Quinte Boys' Home for the Deaf, who spent some time in China, both before and during the Communist take-over. On completion of her year's training at OISD, Miss Donald will be returning to Toronto.

Medical Doctor Responsible Says Health Minister

TORONTO (CP) — The medical doctor should continue to have sole responsibility of saying who is sick enough to enter a hospital, or well enough to leave, Health Minister Monteith said Sunday.

He told members of the Canadian Medical Association this responsibility was onerous, particularly with the growth of medical hospital insurance, but no other authority can discharge it properly.

Dr. Monteith spoke at the opening of CMA House, here, the association's new permanent quarters.

Competitors Find Going Tough in 100-Mile Rally

Competitors in a 100-mile rally held Sunday afternoon by the Trenton Automobile Club found the going rather difficult. Only one car, driven by Derek Payne and navigated by Elizabeth Payne of Picton, managed to cover the full route which consisted of two parts.

The rally started out from Napanee and competitors had to find their way along a course which led along the county roads of Lennox and Addington, Hastings, Northumberland and Prince Edward counties, entirely by written instructions without benefit of maps. At various points along the route competitors found themselves facing 40-foot streams due to the heavy rain the previous night and this factor, coupled with frequent poor road conditions due to frost boils, added to the complications which contributed to so many people not arriving on time at their checkpoints.

The Paynes, with their Volkswagen car, were awarded with a win for their perserverance of having lost only 196 points enroute, after arriving quite late at the final control in Roseneve.

Rosicrucians Hold Meeting To Hear Records

An interesting meeting of the Rosicrucian Fraternity took place in the Masonic Temple Building here on Friday. "Music" — of all the fine arts—was creating the consciousness of man almost exclusively as an approach to interpret in sounds the emotions that governed his inner being."

Mr. Orr read the Grand Master's message, "Our Mission." Members were present from Belleville, Trenton, Campbellford and Picton areas, also Edythe O'Neil, Past Master of Toronto Lodge. All enjoyed the usual "gregarious" cup of coffee at the close of the convention.

Foxboro Youth Was 'up Tree' Without Paddle

One has undoubtedly heard the old saw of being "up the creek without a paddle." Saturday afternoon at around 4.45 o'clock, Brian Skinner, 14, of Foxboro, found himself not only "up the creek without a paddle" but "up a tree" without a boat as well. The incident occurred when Brian decided to go boating with what proved to be an unseaworthy craft, same capsizing when he came to two trees with one in the river, which is about 300 or 400 feet wide at this point.

The lad shinnied up one of the trees, removed his boots and proceeded to call for help. Fortunately his cries were heard by someone on shore and Bob Marson of Foxboro rescued the boy after just being able to make headway up the river against the current in an aluminum boat with a 25-horsepower outboard motor.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market got off on the wrong foot again today and trading will show in all sections.

On index, industrials were off more than a half point, while golds and base metals were off more than three-quarters of a point—golds hitting a new low for the year. Western oils off a few decimal places.

The 11 a.m. volume was 488,000 against the 370,000 shares traded at the same time Friday.

Howard Smith Pulp and Paper led industrials lower, off 1½ at 39¼, with Canadian Bank of Commerce, Dofasco and Steel Company of Canada all off ½ at 50½, 67½ and 72¾ and Abitibi, British-American Oil, Dominion Foundries and Greyhound all off ¼ at 37.58.

Kerr Addison further lost confidence on the threat of reduced daily production rates and dropped 1¼ at 13¾. Noranda was off 1¼ at 38¾, Cassiar off ¼ at 13¾ and Steep Rock off 30 cents at 29.70.

Hudson Bay moved ahead ¾ at 45¾, Dome gained ¾ at 19½ and Geco improved ¼ at 17.

In a depressed western oils section, Canadian Husky lost 30 cents at 24.55, Pacific Petroleum dropped 25 cents and Central Del Rio slipped 10 cents at 85. Only Bridger Gas gained ¼ at 10.50.

Stock changes: Industrials off .62 at 468.46; golds off .31 at 235.15; base metals off .04 at 87.58; western oils off .06 at 97.58.

Steps Taken To Investigate Airfield Idea

By DON HARVEY

Since last week's column was published we have heard from several people who think the idea of a fighting field of some sort near Belleville is a good one. Could you comment on it further while we put 1?

Earl Dieckenbrock, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, was interested in the suggestion and talked with us about it earlier this week. At the end of our meeting he decided to: 1. Survey local industries to see if they would use an airfield; 2. Find out if Mountain View Airport is available; 3. Discuss the subject at the next meeting of the Chamber directors; 4. See if local industries would be interested in contributing a representative to an airport discussion.

The results of his efforts will be interesting to learn. However, we doubt very much that the Department of National Defence is entertaining any ideas about Mountain View Airport to the public. But should it be available and found that we could get an air service, the facilities of the field would have to meet requirements of Transport and airline standards. This may or may not prove costly. There would also have to be some deal between the city and the DND whereby the airport could be leased, not bought, and possibly turned over on a municipal cost-sharing basis.

Received a letter this week from Quebecair of Rimouski, Que., which has applied to the Air Transport Board to inaugurate scheduled air service with F-27 turboprop "Friendships" between Montreal, Toronto, stopping at Cornwall, Kingston and Peterborough.

"So far we're not planning any stop at Belleville," said the company's letter, "but this is a possibility for the future."

MIGHT INTEREST CARRIER

It probably would not take much to interest Quebecair in calling on the Belleville district if it could use Belleville Airport. The company said facilities at Cornwall, Kingston and Peterborough don't meet DOT and airline requirements. It might prove cheaper to improve Mountain View than either Kingston or Peterborough.

In any case, we would not get feeder service unless an airline's investigations proved it would pay off. Apparently Quebecair is satisfied it can get enough business at Cornwall, Kingston and Peterborough. We're not Belleville?

A few men approached us and suggested purchasing a few acres west, north or east of Belleville and developing the field as an unlicensed flying field. But we don't believe we can find the land! All of those men were interested in building a flying field because they were a member of Belleville.

The present field (we hesitate to call it an airport) built on pasture land (not plowed) could cost $25,000 to $50,000 for a year-old Shetland pony was sparingly been led away from the stable. Two gates were found open and several wire fences were cut in a circuitous route to a back road.

Value of the stolen pony was set at about $300.

Mr. Parks and his son Morris raise ponies on a commercial basis and have 21 Shetlands.

CHEER THE QUEEN

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth, suffering from a cold made a surprise appearance at Windsor Castle Sunday to take the salute in a chill wind at a parade of 1,000 British and Commonwealth scouts. The Queen, looking pale and wearing a printed cotton colored tweed coat and matching hat, was given a cheer.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds Assumes New Duties Today

Former municipal clerk for London township in Western Ontario, Mr. J. R. Reynolds today assumed his new duties as city manager at Belleville.

He will be formally introduced to city council at their regular meeting this afternoon.

Mr. Reynolds was named Belleville city manager more than a month ago, being the choice of a position from over 40 applicants seeking the job. He is the third city manager for Belleville since the city manager type of government was approved for this city about five years ago.

District Pupils To Pay Visit to Two Hospitals

Students from Belleville and district secondary schools will be among students given guidance teachers from 30 high schools who will gather in Kingston on Saturday to participate in Hospital Careers Day.

The Hospital Careers Day is being sponsored by the Regional Hospital Council 9, under the chairmanship of George Carson of Kingston, to allow students to get first-hand information on the various careers open to young people in hospital work.

The students and teachers will be taken on a tour of Kingston General Hospital and the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston. There will also be a panel discussion on hospital personnel and a question-and-answer period conducted by W.P.O. Theobald of Belleville chairman of the Career Encouragement Committee of the Hotel Dieu Hospital.

Students from the following local district high schools will participate: Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Institute, Quinte Secondary School, Moira Secondary School, Albert College, Napanee District Collegiate Institute, Madoc High School, Marmora High School, Campbellford High School, Stirling High School, Trenton High School, Tweed High School and Picton Collegiate Institute.

Transportation for the students has been arranged by the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries under the direction of Mrs. Nesbitt McKibbon of Picton.

'Trial by Jury' Director Shows Casting Ability

TRENTON — All the satirical pomp and dignity of Gilbert and Sullivan operettas which delighted audiences of a bygone day was in evidence in the Country Club's presentation Saturday night of "Trial by Jury".

Mrs. Marion Spencer, director of the operetta, proved to be almost a genius in her casting. Everyone chosen for a role to portray it as though born to the part.

She could quite picture Tony Casbmore, who played the wagging, calculating legal procedures in a county courtroom; Doug Bannon, as the irresponsible defendant who had failed to promise suit, gave a convincing performance of young man who was quite willing to marry the flirtatious, plaintiff, played by Pat Fairbairn, provided he could marry another pretty girl at the same time.

Cec Brinkman as the legal judge, complete with wig and robes, was the mock solemnity of the court proceedings.

The jury members, complete with black bombers and very evident false moustaches, provided a choral background with their "All rise" and "Hear hear" and the superior qualities of Bill Hamilton as the dis-tracting charms of the disappointed bride, who was the downtrodden of the reluctant bridegroom.

Mrs. Ethel Plaintiff, having arrived in court arrayed in her wedding gown and accompanied by five bridesmaids, proceeded to win the hearts of the judge, jurymen and the whole court. Jovial did the defendant protest his unwillingness to wed, but skilfit his ardent attentions from one member of the fair sex to another, by the time he left the courtroom were against him, to say the least.

FEEBLE ATTEMPT

The bridesmaids raised their voices in a feeble and musical protest to which the judge and jury paid little heed. Their feeble protests were drowned out by the equally misplaced attention of the young man by the jury.

At length the judge, weary of the harangue, solved the problem by ordering the jury to marry the plaintiff as a richer, if less attractive, proposition than defendant. In spite of the attempts of one vociferous jury members (Lloyd cerall) to engage the attention of the young lady himself.

Mrs. Ruth Keefer accompanied the soloists and the chorus on the piano.

Principals were Wilma Alexander, Rowena Smith, Marian Duncan, Ruth Ireland and Grace Langdon.

Jury members were Tom McCullough, Doug Dunning, Wh Schroeder, Ray Beaupre, Howard Langdon, Jim Duncan, Harold Keefer and Lloyd Worrall.

TRENTON — Canadian women must "come out of the kitchen" and take their place in community affairs and conduct life in a small; but effective way to a world-wide effort by women in public life to raise the status of women in every country of the world and to bring about the emancipation of women in these countries.

This was the message given by Mrs. Esther Hymer-of New York to business and professional women at a recent United Nations seminar in Toronto.

Last Wednesday night's meeting of the Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club Mrs. Violet Kennedy gave resume of Mrs. Hymer's address. Mrs. Kennedy said that Mrs. Hymer spoke of the problems of women in public life and the solutions as new countries apply for membership and the ways and means which must be considered by the UN for raising the standards of life in these countries to offset the ever-present threat of communist infiltration. Mrs. Hymer had said that it is important that the western world to forget racial discrimination and realize the rights of individuals as members of the human race.

Mrs. Doris Dunbar of the Trenton Club reported on an address by Mrs. Helen Tucker Grossbeck given to the delegates at the seminar.

Mrs. Tucker was the first Fellow appointed to the UN by the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. She told of her experiences during the year as other Fellows spent six weeks at the UN secretariat in New York. She said she had gained a great insight into the problems of the United Nations in attempting to carry out the UN pledge of aiding the less developed countries two-thirds of the world's population.

Mrs. Jennie Wills, president of the Trenton club, reported on the annual meeting of council outlined by Mr. Perinbam, Malayan assistant secretary of the Canadian National Committee on UNESCO.

The committee said UNESCO was trying to wipe out illiteracy by providing schools to carry out research work to help various countries to preserve their natural resources and is also endeavoring to help nations by understand and respect each other's inherent differences.

Mrs. Eva Smith reported on the work of Mrs. Jean Forsyth, Toronto, national director of UNICEF since 1955. Mrs. Forsyth was instigator of the UNICEF Hallowe'en project. In 1956, Canadian children raised $200,000 to help the underprivileged and ailing children of the world. Mrs. Forsyth travelled extensively in Asiatic countries studying the problem of how best UNICEF funds can be used to control and treat diseases.

Mail for Mrs. Forsyth received an address given by Mrs. Muriel Jacobson, national director of the Canadian Committee on Refugee Year. Mrs. Jacobson said that there were 100,000 refugees still in Europe and that can do much help them.

Hold Farewell For Officers

TRENTON—A farewell party was held at No. 6 Repair Depot Officers' Mess Wednesday afternoon for Flying Officer Jack Jones and Flying Officer Leslie Ward.

F/O Jones, a native of St. Thomas, joined the RCAF in 1943 and until 1945 participated in 36 sorties with bomber command overseas.

In 1947 he joined the Royal Air Force and took part in the Berlin Airlift as an intelligence officer.

From 1949 until 1955 he worked as a transport pilot in England with the RAF, returning to Canada in 1955; he rejoined the RCAF, coming to Trenton with 139 Acceptance and Ferry Flight in September, 1958.

F/O Jones is leaving to work for the Department of Transport. He is married and has three children, Richard 13, Beverley 12, and Ruth Ann, five months.

Flying Officer Crabben was born in Blenheim, England. He joined the RAF in 1941, and trained as a pilot in Canada serving with bomber command overseas in the Far East until the end of the war. Coming to Canada in 1955, he joined the RCAF. In 1958 he came to Trenton with ferry command.

He is married and the father of two boys, with British Overseas Airways Corporation as flight engine instructor.

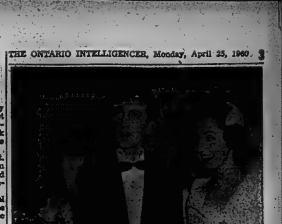
He is married and the father of Jane Elizabeth, five months.

Tea Proceeds Go Towards Guide Camp

TRENTON — West Trenton Brownies and Guides held a Golden Jubilee Tea in the Legion hall Saturday. Proceeds from the event purchase price of a campsite at Wellington.

The conversation piece at the tea was a birthday cake baked by the Brown Guiders' mothers in honor of the members. The Jubilee cake had the place of honor on the centre tea table which was decorated by Mrs. R. Clark. Janet Mowbray and Joan Bowerman poured at the provincial jubilee camp, ran the portion of the table set aside for guests.

Matt Thompson arranged the centre table floral decoration, exhibited a yellow ribbon of fellow snapdragons, against a bank of fern. The display was flanked by tall yellow tapers. The small tea tables were decorated by the Brownies and Guides.



Conveners for the tea were: Mrs. Ken Lange and Mrs. Moore. Mrs. Robert Barlow conveners were:

Mrs. Lange was in charge of the tea room. Serving in the room were: Mrs. G. C. Yoder, Mrs. S. Mowbray and Mrs. N. Ramsay.

Kitchen conveners were: Mrs. C. Hilton and Mrs. W. McLaren.

Assisting with arrangements for the tea were members of the Brownies and Guides, and they were assisted by the Guide captain, dressed in pastel frocks, with gay spring bonnets and matching corsages.

Present Two Fine Plays at Country Club

TRENTON — "The Boor" was presented in a Trenton audience for the first time Saturday night at the Country Club.

The Trenton Drama group's interpretation of the Russian classic by Anton Tchekov, had been acclaimed by adjudicators and audiences alike at every turn. After winning the award for the best one-act play at the Cobourg Weekend Festival of Drama in February, members of the cast, Mrs. Marjorie Oakes, Jim Alexander and Harry Mullhall, went on to win the one-act award at the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival in Deep River last March.

The story concerns the efforts of the servant, Luke (Harry Mulhall) to convince his grieving mistress that it is time for her to forget her husband and being to enjoy the pleasures the world has to offer. In to this calm, if dreary, household, comes trouble in the form of a lieutenant in the artillery (Jim Alexander), who informs the widow that her husband owes him a considerable sum of money, and announces his intention of staying put until the money is repaid. After a stormy scene, the lieutenant finds that he has fallen in love with the spirited widow, and once he has convinced her of his sincerity, she forgets her husband entirely and all else turns his ardor.

Paul Tripp acted as master of ceremonies, introducing the play and Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury," the second half of the twin bill.

Following the final curtain, Harry Mulhall voiced the regret of the drama group that the late Mrs. Marjorie Oakes would appear in local productions. Mrs. Oakes, who was one of the charter members of the group and who had worked tirelessly in the interests of little theatre in Trenton, will be laid to rest on Tuesday with her family. The audience responded with a standing ovation for Mrs. Oakes.

REVEAL FIRE TOLL

LONDON (Reuters) — Fires caused more than £44,000,000 damage last year in Britain, the highest figure ever recorded in peacetime. The loss was almost twice that of 1958.

Tweed District Accident Victim Laid to Rest

TWEED (Special) — Funeral services were held this morning for Michael Whalen, 65 Tweed district resident, who was fatally injured Friday night when struck by a car as he walked on Highway 7 near Actinolite.

Mr. Whalen had no permanent address and lived with relatives in the Tweed and Stoco areas.

Provincial police said Mr. Whalen was walking on the highway when in front of the home of the late Mrs. Marjorie Oakes. He apparently became confused and attempted to cross to the opposite side of the highway and stepped in front of the westbound car driven by Herbert Austin Judge of Buckingham, Quebec.

A MISDEMEANOR

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Persons who use the telephone to threaten others or to voice obscenities to women were declared criminals Sunday by New York state. Governor Nelson Rockefeller signed a bill classifying such calls as misdemeanors. A misdemeanor is punishable by up to a year in jail and a $500 fine.

Shetland Pony Worth $300 Is Stolen

It's a long time since there was much horsey activity in Prince Edward county, but provincial police are investigating what seems the case over the weekend.

Stanley Parks, of R. 7, Pertis, of R. 7, Belleville, found that a year-old Shetland pony was sparingly been led away from the stable. Two gates were found open and several wire fences were cut in a circuitous route to a back road.

Value of the stolen pony was set at about $300.

Mr. Parks and his son Morris raise ponies on a commercial basis and have 21 Shetlands.

Pleasant memories will be enjoyed of their cruise to Nassau aboard the S.S. Bahama Star sailing from Miami by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Simpson, 70 Wright Avenue, Belleville. They are pictured on the sun deck of the S.S. Bahama Star just before sailing.

Chamber of Commerce Week

This is Chamber of Commerce Week throughout Canada.

"Many newsworthy features are being planned by Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce during Chamber of Commerce Week, such as membership drives, joint meetings with neighboring Chambers, announcement of new projects, proclamations by mayors and reeves, ladies' nights, platform appearances by prominent speakers," declares a memo over the signature of D. L. Morrell, general manager of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is undertaking one of the several activities listed—a membership drive. We rather like the choice. Joint meetings, ladies' nights—these are the froth of a Chamber's activities, designed to grab the spotlight, sometimes necessary to gain community attention and support, but never the real reason for a Chamber's existence. A membership drive, on the other hand, is a basic need of every Chamber worth its salt. No matter how able and energetic may be the men who do belong to the Chamber, its effectiveness will always be limited unless its program is broadly based on a foundation of active support by men and women representing every type of business activity in the community.

A Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade ought to be primarily interested in the field which its name suggests, in the promotion of trade and commerce in the community and the surrounding area. This will inevitably mean that it will be interested in a multitude of problems which are not its concern alone, in education and recreation, in good roads and parking facilities, in fire protection and safety campaigns, in promoting interest in elections and in the maintenance of understanding between rural and urban residents.

In all of these fields Chambers of Commerce, here and elsewhere, have done much excellent work. We think, though, that they ought not to lose sight of their primary function, which is the promotion of industry and all other types of business activity, in an effort to see that the community enjoys the highest possible standard of living. "Dollar worship" is often criticized and this criticism is often not without foundation, but we ought to realize that the much maligned dollar, properly used, is of great assistance in providing adequate cultural and recreational facilities.

Some Chambers of Commerce try to be all things to all people. By their very nature, they cannot be this if they are to do their best work in their chosen field. In this field, though, there is no other organization in our community which can achieve as much as this organization of manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and professional men.

What's Cooking?

"How often have we had our appetites dulled by a sloppy uniform, a dirty or dog eared menu or the smell of cooking from the kitchen?"

A civil question deserves a civil answer, but it is difficult to be civil with any question as mixed up as the quoted sentence, from a report on one of the panels at the convention of the Canadian Tourist Association.

Since when has the smell of cooking—good cooking, we mean—put anyone off their food?

We always thought that a whiff from the kitchen was the world's best appetizer, quite the equal of a couple of martinis and not nearly so costly. What can make one hungrier for ham and eggs than the smell of ham and eggs cooking? The smell of kippers lingering for days can be something less than heaven, but kippers smell like heaven to us when we're hungry than reduces the salivary flow. The truth is that you can lead a diner to the table but you cannot make his mouth water without giving his olfactory nerve a shot of odor. This is probably a conditioned reflex, but most people who eat in restaurants have eaten before. The trick is not to bar kitchen smells, but to sort them out, so that the smell of boiled cabbage is wafted the way of the cabbage eater and a mere whisper of Limburger greets the lover of that cheese. Quite a task, we admit, but to class kitchen smells with sloppy uniforms and dirty menus is close to sacrilege.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

—DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE STARS ARE ALWAYS THERE

Trouble bears some people down and crushes them to the ground. Others are not only able to bear up under it, but to use them as stepping stones to a higher level.

Why this difference in people? Heredity and environment have to do with it. Some people are born with stronger characters than others and so are better able to handle the overwhelming problems of life. But most often, the difference between those who are crushed by life's burdens and superficial ideals and have not those who are remade by them is due to the willingness of some people to be taught, and the complete unwillingness of others.

The stars, even in daylight,

Marrying too Young

Gait Evening Reporter

In recent years there has been a definite tendency toward early marriages — sometimes before one or both of the parties concerned has completed a school or college course.

Are people marrying too young? That is a good question to ask during Leap Year, once in every four, when according to tradition matrimonially inclined girls can declare open season on bachelors.

Sentiment and, as well, a staff member of the University of Louisville, Kentucky, who has given the matter some study, says too many young people are leaping into marriage too soon. To a Louisville service club not long ago, Prof. J. L. Long said this:

"Today's youth, before they are earning a dollar . . . think they are entitled to an automobile, a wife and a baby." He added that not only were parents spoiling their children by letting them do that, early marriage was hampering the education of many gifted young people. As a director of an organization handing out $200,000 in scholarships annually, he says the supply of scholarship students is holding up because of the situation.

While in some cases married students tend to settle down and do well in their studies, the professor has sound reasoning that those directly concerned should be counselled before they leap into marriage, be it in Leap Year or any other year.

Not only does the business and professional world need gifted men with adequate training. These same men can say much, in fact, why in considering marriage — needs the help of a person who knows something about the art of homemaking.

Over a period of watching young people and how they fit into the factors that go to make a good home, Prof. Long has come up with a formula that seems to be a sound basis for happy marriage.

To the eligible male in search of a mate, Prof. Long has worked out a marriage rating to apply to those of the opposite sex. He claims that if one can make 74 on it the chances of a happy marriage are good.

The table suggests that the girl be given 40 per cent for physical attractiveness; 15 per cent for similarity of interests — religion hobbies and the like.

All this takes time to learn, and should be learned in order to better a girl from rushing into marriage. Leap Year shouldn't be a deterrent to a man who is determined to obtain a better education or get established in his career.

Accordingly, a good question to ask girls on Leap Year is: "How do you stack up on the professor's rating?" And the boys might well take note of the factors in the rating before they give a definite answer.

A Deficiency Of Democracy Is Inaction

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was travelling back from St. Louis in a day coach, when the man across the aisle asked the porter if he could lower the temperature in the car. Several passengers had muttered darkly about the heat, but only among themselves.

The porter ignored his request. About 10 minutes later he asked another porter, and received the same answer—no comment. By this time he was mad, and he charged in full pursuit of the conductor to make a complaint.

The conductor, the rest of the passengers were mixed. We, too, had been suffering from the heat in the car, but no one else spoke up. We were all passenger types, both pleased us and embarrassed us. He was in the right, and yet no one supported him openly.

I think it is this attitude, on a large scale, that makes our democratic society so deficient.

More accurately, it is not deficient plain; we are unwilling to make nuisances of ourselves, unless the provocation is extremely great. And so we sit by passively until minor annoyances snowball into major ones.

We let the cranks or the crackpots get the aggressively offensive people do our protesting for us. And then we grumble when "they make a fuss." And yet resentment grows inside us until it explodes in some irrational action, more in the nature of a temper tantrum than an orderly petition for justice.

In some ways England, with all its undemocratic heritage, is more democratic than the United States. Englishmen are quick to the formation of individual protest: the average Englishman will down and write a letter to the president of a railway about a minor grievance. If enough complain, they will just stop using that railway after a while.

The English are intensely jealous of their individual rights, and submit to the most outrageous treatment without a murmur. Americans are treated like cattle in many situations, but they rarely apply their high ideals of democracy to specific situations in their daily lives.

The man in the coach was doing what all of us should have done; he was making sure we were timid or too lazy he grew excessively wrathful and defeated his own ends. We must have yet to learn is that when we refuse to be bothered by petty annoyances we soon lose our power to rectify major injustices without a diabolic revolution.

Marry Too Young
Brantford Expositor

By coincidence the day after a television show on the topic "Do They Marry Too Young?" an 18-year-old father drew a one-year sentence for slapping his bowling seven-month-old baby and his 17-year-old mother was away at a dance.

Arab-Style Coffee Break

Arab World

The whole world loves a good cup of coffee, and in the Arab world one drinks it all day long. One reason for this is that coffee in the Arab world is offered to every visitor and constitutes the most elementary expression of courtesy.

Arab coffee is not a bodyless concoction to be swallowed in haste. One sips it while leisurely, blissfully, and with respect. Drinking a cup of coffee in the Arab countries is almost a ceremony within itself.

The delicious, full bodied coffee has a heavily perfumed aroma. It is served in small cups to the taste. It is served in small quantities, slightly larger than a demi-tasse cup.

To prepare this exquisite coffee it is necessary to have the proper equipment. First of all, there must be fresh, high quality coffee. It must be so finely ground, as a matter of fact, that it is almost like powder. Throughout the Arab world, small, long handled pots are used to enable housewives to render regular coffee into the superb Arab coffee, and there is a different process in the preparation of the coffee nectar.

The coffee pot is specially designed to hold only one or two cups, is used to brew the coffee. Then, into each cup goes a little coffee and sugar and about one lump per cup, are put into the pot. The coffee is then boiled with the sugar and when it has been brought to a boil for the third time it is stirred a little and left on the fire. A delicate creamy substance forms on the surface of the rising coffee.

If small cups are to be served it is customary to pour a little coffee into each cup so that all the aromatic heritage, the core of a delicacy, may be shared equally by all. Care is also directed to gently turning the coffee pot while the coffee is being poured.

This exotic mixture is a masterpiece of the coffee brewer's art and a living tribute to Arab culinary skills.

20 YEARS AGO
April 25th, 1940.

Climaxing approximately a period of thirty years' direct association with the post office in the village of Foxboro, on April 30th the Prentice family will relinquish their duties in that capacity and turn the office over to a successor. Mrs. Wilbert Prentice was appointed postmaster at Foxboro in the autumn of 1910 and operated the office at its present location for the past 29 years.

Fifteen tons of dynamite will be set off at the Havelock quarry of the Ontario Rock Company, Limited, Since April 15, 18th a crew of twenty men have been employed loading the 1,700 feet of tunnel. This is not the largest blast set off in the Havelock quarry, as on April 8th, 1921, one was fired in which 39,250 pounds of explosive were used resulting in a break of 125,000 tons of rock.

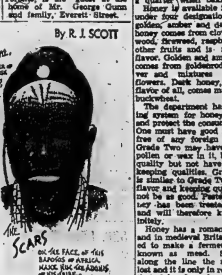
Honey Comes In 3 Grades

Sudbury Star



The Ontario Department of Agriculture is pushing up the grade standard of the solar-rate in the province who would like to see people eat more honey. Housewives are being told that honey is unprocessable and that pure sweetening power as sugar but it has a higher moisture content. Honey is not necessary to cut down the liquid by boiling, the department says.

Honey is available in Ontario under four designations—white, amber, buckwheat. White honey comes from clovers, basswood, fireweed, raspberries and other fruits and is mildest in flavor. Golden and amber honey comes from buckwheat, alsike clover and mixtures of other flowers. Buckwheat honey has a strong flavor of oil, comes mainly from buckwheat.

The department has a grading system for honey to guide and protect the consumer. Grade One must have good flavor and be free of foreign materials. Grade Two may have traces of pollen or wax in it, be of good quality but not have the same keeping qualities. Grade Three is similar to Grade Two in flavor and keeping qualities will not be as good. Honey should not be heat treated by heat and will therefore keep indefinitely.

Honey has a romantic history and in medieval Britain was used to make a fermented drink known as mead. Somewhere along the line the recipe was lost and it is only in recent years that clothes have been made on the discovery of the secret.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

GERMS MUST HAVE NUTRITION IN ORDER TO LIVE

"Dear Doctor:—My daughter has bought a 30-year-old house, so the bathtub has been out for a long time, and by lots of people. I am wondering about having her and her husband use it. Is there any way of disinfecting it to make it absolutely safe?—Mrs. G. K."

Madam, I am glad to have a few of people who have a healthy respect for germs. You do.

From this point on, it becomes a question of where to draw the line, at what point have you taken satisfactory precautions. If you will let me digress a moment, I have always been intrigued by the comparatively recent discovery of germs and what they mean.

A doctor of my acquaintance, quite some years older than I am, tells the story of the "open house" for physicians at the medical school from which I graduated.

The incident occurred shortly after 1900, which is only 60 years ago. In 1900 "advanced" thinking in the medical profession included the discovery and identification of germs, but the conquest of typhoid, diphtheria, smallpox, and the like, was still unknown. Pneumonia were still in the future.

Anyway, an old-fashioned doctor, then in almost middle stodgy years, went back to his school for the first time, and for the first time in his life looked through a microscope at a slide carrying a specimen. "Do you mean," he said in amazement, "that those little things are what cause venereal disease?"

We are only a few generations away from the days when the significance of germs was a new idea at all. Today we are all well aware of the part they play in our lives, and sometimes we become too alarmed.

The hard surface of a bathtub isn't a satisfactory place for germs to find nourishment. Not from their standpoint, that is. Remember that germs are living organisms, requiring nutrition as does any form of life.

To disease germs (there are more harmless or useful varieties than there are disease types) are essentially parasites.

Germs don't by choice live in bathtubs. Some doubtless get there, of course, but a good scrubbing with soap and water, and then a rinse, is the best way to get rid of them. The same is true of floors or other parts of the house.

If you would feel more assurance from the application of antiseptic odor, there are compounds with a chlorine or cresylic basis, but they aren't really necessary.

"Dear Dr. Molner:—Does angina pectoris show in a cardiogram?—Mrs. A. B."

No, not as such, because angina is a symptom, a pain. The cause may or may not show in an electrocardiogram. Some such patients who have had coronary (heart) attacks can expect the results to show up in the cardiograms. In other cases, a cardiogram taken after specified exercise may show changes which are identified, even though an ordinary cardiogram will not indicate the situation. This is a rather technical answer, but it's a rather technical question.

Mrs. C.C.C.H:—The disease you inquire about is evidently "cat scratch fever." It isn't common. In any event, teach children to be gentle with pets! Including cats.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, send for my booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Wheat is Not Only Product

Toronto Financial Post

So much is heard about our trouble in marketing wheat that it is easy to overlook the fact that wheat is about all our farmers produce. This is very far from the case.

Wheat contributes only part of the Canadian farmer's cash income and a relatively small part of that. Even in the Prairie Provinces where 95 percent of Canada's wheat is grown, livestock is much more important and so, in a slightly lesser degree, the whole country, special crops like tobacco and vegetables are not far behind wheat in annual income. Poultry raising alone brings in more cash than much cash as the wheat crop.

No one can accuse the Canadian farmer of having all his eggs in one basket. For his own welfare and for the country's stability it is a very good thing that he hasn't.

Why Do They Forget Items?

Cape Breton Post

The little mittens that children leave behind in school, in the public library, the tartan scarf left by a customer in a barber shop, the umbrella left in a restaurant and waiting long for the owner to come back for it.

One pictures these forgetful people trying to pick up memories over seeing them, pictures the mittens with cold hands and the man with the cough because his scarf is missing, the bereaved umbrella with its handle bare to the icy street. Why don't people return to pick up their objective things they left behind?

It's all a mystery, but one small thing is for certain—a fellow feeling for these absent-minded people. We, among the cohorts of the self-righteous. Who knows what dreams or memories become them as they move in our midst without mittens, scarf and hats?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

AUXILIARY FRIENDS

We ought to keep as close to our immediate friends as possible — friends whom we see occasionally but have not time for whom we rarely see, but who are always in our minds and hearts. I suggest that we call such friends our auxiliary friends for though we may not can contact them often, and lose some of their enchanting influence — something we all need to give us a smooth voyage through life, I have many auxiliary friends and I love them all! Of course every friend is from a different mould, and that is what makes them all so interesting and worthwhile. Each one is quite essential with the far-away friends, and the near-and, it is just a matter of love and arrangement. We can build and maintain the finest assortment of kindly friends, who remain friends for years.

Why not start to contact your auxiliary friends today, and fill them into your plans for the future? You can't have too many friends and kindly friends to give you courage and a boost of spirit when you need it most.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Compared with the old-fashioned horse operas of the past, the modern gangster film is guilty of several omissions, chief of which is the gun moll. Time was when every crook indeed practically every male character in a little bag of Bull Durham, spilt out some tobacco into a cigaret paper and then, with one hand, mind you, one hand! — flip up a cigaret, lick it and put it between his lips.

That more than any other single feature of the old western was the classic qualification of the cowboy. It was the keynote. And a whole generation of us, around 1920, in the days of Bill Hart, were busy practising the one-handed cigaret making.

The only cigarets allowed in modern westerns are those the star smokes at the end of the picture during the commercial. And they are these slary things made identical with filters, such as no cowboy ever saw in Dodge City.

There are two or three other omissions: no dogs, for example. And such trim and tidy towns. And such discreet and gentlemanly horses. But the tragedy is the absence of the cowman and a restive carpace calmly combining a one-handed cigaret.

MAINLAND CONNECTION — For about 50 years lobsters such as these seen in the background in this picture provided the only winter link between Prince Edward Island and the mainland. Passengers helped pull the boats across the icy patches. The boats were taken from land to the first open water by horse-drawn sleigh such as the one shown here. Even when ice-breaking ferries went into service in 1916 the iceboats remained for a time to fill in when the ferries were unable to break through the ice. (CP Photo).

Prince Edward Islanders Want Causeway Not Tunnel; Report Going to Federal Govt.

CHARLOTTETOWN, (CP) — Prince Edward Island, never happy with its dependence on ferry service as its major link with the mainland, has been plumping for some alternative since the 1880s.

For almost a quarter of a century the talk was mainly of building a tunnel under Northumberland Strait between Borden, P.E. I., and Cape Tormentine, N.B., a distance of 14 miles.

But since 1935 islanders have campaigned for a causeway between the spine two points.

They still don't know whether they'll ever get the causeway but they have the satisfaction of knowing that a serious study of the feasibility of the project has been under way since 1956.

REPORT TO CABINET

A report is expected to go to federal cabinet, in two or three months, it will give initial consideration to studies of engineering and economic problems conducted principally by the department of mines and technical surveys, the department of transport, the national research council and co-ordinated by the department of public works.

It has not yet been decided whether this report will be made public.

NRC may build a scale model of the channel to study hydraulic problems. Such questions as the causeway's effect on oyster beds, shipping and land damage along the coasts are involved.

A public works spokesman says the studies are just getting to the point where a firm estimate of the cost can be made. An estimate made a number of years ago set the cost at $80,000,000 without accommodation for railway trains and $90,000,000 with rail. But a causeway now would probably cost much more though Public Works Minister Walker said in the Commons in January estimates of $480,000,000 to $540,000,000 were "fantastic and much too high."

CONFEDERATION TERMS

Continuous and effective steamship service summer and winter was one of the terms under which Prince Edward Island entered Confederation in 1873. But it hasn't always been efficient and even today islanders occasionally have reason to complain when winter storms disrupt service.

The idea of building a tunnel was proposed in 1886 by Lord Granville, secretary of state for the colonies, who brought it up at a London conference.

Lord Granville's suggestion followed action by P.E.I. Premier W. W. Sullivan who had bypassed the federal government and complained directly to British of inadequate steamship service.

The late Island Senator George W. Howlan was a advocate of a tunnel and it was a lively issue until 1900 when a federal government inquiry branded it unfeasible.

About 1905 a priest named Father Bourque suggested the causeway. It was discussed off and on through the years and in the early 1940s the late Premier Walter Jones raised the question in the legislature. The federal government considered it but the project that might be undertaken to provide jobs if unemployment became serious. But it wasn't until two years ago that studies of its feasibility were actually undertaken.

ENCOURAGED BY CANSO

A campaign, backed by the premiers of the Maritime provinces, grew stronger after the Canso Causeway linking Cape Breton and the Nova Scotia mainland was completed in 1955 at a cost of $26,500,000. But it was conceded that building a P.E.I.-N.B. link, more than six times the length of the 7,000-foot Canso causeway, would be a much more complex undertaking.

The island has for years been served by year-round ferry services from Tormentine to Borden operated by the CNR. The trip normally takes 50 minutes, longer if there is ice in the strait. Since 1936 the ferries were equipped for ice-breaking, the voyage sometimes took as much as 18 hours.

Passengers travelling by train from Charlottetown remain aboard the train during the ferry crossing.

The CNR has three ferries on the route, usually using two at a time with the third in reserve. The Abegweit and the Prince Edward Island are the main vessels. The Scotia II was moved from Canso Strait on completion of the causeway there.

WOOD ISLANDS RUN

Two ferries—the Lord Selkirk and Charlie Dunning—are used on the privately-operated run between Wood Islands and Caribou, N.S., and the province runs vessels to St. John's, Nfld., and the Magdalen Islands. The island also has airline connections with New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Labrador.

Before the railway ferry service was started in 1916, small boats with runners for mooring over ice and equipped with oars to cross open water were used between Cape Traverse, P.E.I., and Cape Tormentine. Men crossing as second class passengers were required to help pull the boat across icy stretches and were equipped with shoulder harnesses which served a double purpose. Besides pulling the boat, the harness was used to rescue anyone who happened to fall in the water, a not uncommon occurrance.

Earliest route for ice-boat crossings was from Wood Islands to Pictou, N.S., a distance of about 23 miles. A regular service was established on that route in 1815 but the weather hazards frequently resulted in intervals of several weeks between trips.

About 1827 the ice-boats were put into operation between Traverse and Tormentine and regular service was started in 1853. Ice-boats were used for a period of about 50 years and were kept in readiness for trips up to 1916 on occasions when ice-breaking steamers were unable to cross during winter.

Mother of Four Facing Charge Of Murder

ANSONVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A 38-year-old mother of four, Mrs. Ethel McEwen, was charged with murder here Saturday night following the knife-slaying of her husband.

Police said Charles, 53, was stabbed once. The 4 3-4-inch blade glanced off a rib and pierced his heart.

Police, called to the house by a eldest child, 13-year-old Michael, found McEwen lying on the kitchen floor. He was still alive.

Mrs. McEwen was sitting on a chair in the kitchen crying, Police Chief Pat Bethune said, neighbors.

There was no sign of a fight or a struggle.

An ambulance took McEwen to hospital in this town 43 miles northeast of Timmins. He died after reaching hospital.

Mrs. McEwen suffering from shock, was also taken to hospital. She was transferred to a police cell Sunday and will appear in court today.

Neighbors said they heard no quarreling between the couple and did not notice any sign of strain.

The children, Michael Malcolm, 13, Joanne, 12, and David, 10, were being looked after by neighbors.

'White-Collar' Class Has Place In Labor Group

MONTREAL — (CP) — The workers of the era of automation — the so-called "white-collar" class — have a place in the labor movement, CLC President Claude Jodoin said today.

"We must develop new approaches if we are to reach them with an understanding of our common interest," said the leader of Canada's 1,150,000-member parent body, of labor in a speech at the opening of the week-long CLC convention here.

"Major changes are taking place in the labor force of this country through automation, technological change, the establishment of new industries and for other reasons," he said.

"This is resulting in a reduction in the number of manual workers and an increase in white collar workers, technicians and workers in the service industries."

Mr. Jodoin said moves to organize the automation-era workers can best be tackled by the co-operation of various unions working with the congress itself.

Text of his address was released to the press in advance of delivery.

KOREAN TROOPS

Democratic party told the National Assembly that "Rhee should apologize to the entire nation" for the wholesale police shooting of anti-government demonstrators last Tuesday.

The rioting stemmed from charges that the mid-March general elections were rigged to make Rhee's political heir, Lee Ki-poung, vice - president. Rhee was unopposed for the presidency after his Democratic party opponent died a month before the election. Both Rhee and Lee received landslide votes.

CUTTING TIES

Rhee announced Sunday that he was cutting all ties with his powerful—but now discredited—Liberal party and would "seek to serve the nation solely as the chief executive as head of the administration."

"In promising reforms "to correct the mistakes of the past," Rhee sidestepped any personal responsibility for last week's slaughter. He made no mention, either, of new elections.

He said nothing about reports that he would become a figurehead chief of state and turn the government over to a premier responsible to Parliament.

The official death toll of the Tuesday's rioting rose today to 130 dead as more of those injured died. A spokesman said 1,558 wounded and injured was scaled down to 883 from 777.

TENSION EASES

Tension continued to ease. Army censorship of newspapers, imposed after the rioting, was lifted.

Two of Rhee's aides said during the weekend that he was planning to set up a British-style cabinet form of government.

For 12 years Rhee has run South Korea pretty much as a one-man show. But the rioting has brought increasing pressure at home and abroad for more democracy.

Think de Gaulle, Eisenhower Plan to Stand Pat on Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and President de Gaulle wind up their summit strategy talks today, they are expected to agree on a stand-pat Berlin policy but hoping for a disarmament deal with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The two leaders scheduled a White House session with their foreign ministers for mid-morning and planned to issue in the afternoon a communique on the results of their discussions.

Immediately following the White House meeting de Gaulle arranged to address a joint session of Congress. He was expected to stress his view—shared by Eisenhower — that the best prospect for accomplishment at the Paris summit meeting next month lies in the field of disarmament.

De Gaulle sees no hope at the summit for settlement of the So-viet-Western dispute over the future of the divided city of Berlin. Eisenhower and he are agreed that the West therefore must stand firm on all their rights there in face of Khrushchev's demand that they withdraw their troops.

Since de Gaulle sees no way out of the deadlock he is believed to have urged Eisenhower that he would prefer to sidetrack Berlin negotiations at the summit. But Eisenhower feels that the West is committed to meet the problem with Khrushchev at the sessions opening May 16 in Paris.

What decisions they reached were not disclosed, but the two men announced through a spokesman Sunday that "we are in agreement . . . as to how we shall proceed at the summit meeting."

"We will continue these talks tomorrow," they added, "when we meet with our foreign ministers to inform them of our private conversations and to decide on the way of presenting our common ideas at the summit powers."

Orillia Police Placed Under Commission

ORILLIA (CP) — A by-law to place the Orillia municipal police department under the authority of a three-man police commission has been passed by the town council at a special weekend meeting. The commission will replace town council committees which have handled police affairs throughout the town's history.

It is expected the new commission will be in operation before the summer. It would be composed of a magistrate, judge and the mayor of Orillia.

"Should Orillia become a city the police commission would be compulsory, anyway," Alderman Frank Dolcetti said today. "Council was of the opinion that the step should be taken at once to put police matters in the hands of men best qualified to understand and deal with them."

Police Chief E. W. McIntyre today welcomed the formation of the commission. He also expressed admiration for the councillors who have served on police committees in the past.

One of its first problems would be settlement of the police request for increased salaries and improved working conditions.

SIX NEGROES

stepped into the water.

There was no official version of the fighting, but the four Negroes injured in the melee said their attackers hit them with chains, blackjacks and sticks.

Before the sun went down, a crowd of Negroes estimated by Mayor Lee Quave at 800 to 400 roamed up and down Biloxi streets.

Came nightfall. Gun violence broke out then. Bullets and shotgun pellets wounded eight Negroes and two whites.

WOUND IN BACK

Andrew Parker, 17, a white youth, said Negroes shouted for him to stop as he drove near a Negro residential area. He stopped from his car and someone shot him, he said. He received a minor back wound.

Police did not give a full list of the wounded.

But, they said, they arrested four Negroes driving in a car one block from where four Negroes and one white man were shot at 11:30 p.m.

An unidentified gunmen wounded two Negro men sitting inside a Negro club when shotgun pellets crashed through a window.

Three Negro women said they were wounded by bullets from a passing automobile.

None of the injured was reported seriously hurt.

Your family can't get far in part of a car

When a family loses father, it loses his salary too.

What part of their accustomed income would your family get? What part would your present insurance and other assets give them? How will they adjust?

They cannot suddenly develop partial appetites, live in part of a house, buy half a pair of shoes, pay a fraction of a doctor bill, a term of college.

Because they "can't get far in part of a car," what minimum income would your family need to live the way you feel they should?

Your Metropolitan Man can help you figure it out. Let him analyze your situation, tailor-make a plan to suit your family's needs, leave it with you to study.

You may be surprised to find how much protection you can have—and afford—with an expert plan. And today your Metropolitan Man can work out your special program from the widest selection of policies in Metropolitan's history, with the newest and most flexible provisions and benefits.

"Bobby Hull Night" has been scheduled for Saturday May 7, when Point Anne in particular, and the district in general will honor the Chicago Black Hawks' star.

Natural Waist In Spring Dress May Be Ignored

By PEGGY MASON

PARIS (Reuters) — Yves St. Laurent, designer at the House of Dior, may ignore the natural waist in spring dress silhouettes, but the Paris shoe designer, Roger Vivier, has made good the omission by launching "wasp-waist" heels. He calls them "pinchellis."

Persian-and Oriental - inspired shoes shown in the new Dior collection have this new hour-glass-shaped heel, an 8½-inch height. This white metal, yet practical, pinchellis heel has replaced the covering, thin, exclamation mark heel of recent season. And it is combined for the coming spring with the tips tilted up in Persian or Turkish style.

The designer explains: "In recent years my aim has been to adapt couture fashion to a larger clientele. In creating these models I have thought of women who work and travel. Styles must be simple and reflect ease."

PLATFORM SOLES

Vivier has been designing shoes since his late teens. He began on an international basis before the war, selling shoes to the manufacturers of popular-priced shoes.

Among his early trend-setting hirss was the platform sole, which evolved as the revolutionary shoe theme of the 1930s.

Vivier explains his philosophy: "True smartness consists in adapting current fashion to one's silhouette rather than in following trends blindly. When I design shoes, I think not as a dressmaker does and try to create a new line rather than fancy trimmings."

Many women, he says, seem to have a complex. If they don't possess "little feet."

"Nowadays, the long, fluid footline belongs to the fashion era, and the quality and character of a shoe has far more importance than its size."

NIGHT NOISES

SUNNYHILL, England (CP)—Because he lived next door to a home for cats and dogs a man in chilly Derbyshire village has had his rent reduced. He complained the noise of the animals kept his children awake at night.

Crises Jinxed Wedding Days

Everyone knows a woman's wedding day is one she never forgets, but few young married as some of the memories.

A poll of women during a total of 140 years of married life shows their strongest recollection of the big day is not so much of how they looked but of the funny the aggravating, the near disastrous incident.

A prematurely packed pair of stockings that sent the groom off on the wrong almost unclothed foot. Getting dressed for the ceremony, she combed her hair and powdered, couldn't find them. Finally she remembered — she'd already packed them.

LOST LICENSES

Last minute attacks of nerves account for many anxious moments. Some bridegroom couldn't furnish the wedding license at the rehearsal in a Connecticut town. He'd left it behind in his New York apartment. Worse, he couldn't remember exactly where.

He wife vividly remembers her father grumpily stamping back and forth, muttering. "One thing to do and he couldn't do that right." But the best man drove 50 miles into town and hers of the wedding party lining conducted an all - night search. He finally located the vital document — tucked in behind a wall mirror with a pack of road maps.

Another housewife recalls her distress at her hairdo. "It was stiff from lacquer and I hated the way it looked. Then at church, my husband was so nervous, he put his right hand instead of the left for the double ring ceremony."

TEARS AT THE ALTAR

"I kept pushing his hand away and reaching for the left, but he'd stick his right hand out. It made me so mad I started to cry right in front of the altar. Finally the minister whispered, 'Your left hand' and I finally got the ring on."

Her groom's nerves plagued another bride. The priest had to tell him to relax his finger-

so I could get the ring on."

A mother of two teen-agers is able to laugh now over a poor start on her marriage. "We were both late. I finally got to the church and found my husband wasn't there yet. So we had to drive around the block, waiting.

"He finally showed up — he'd had car trouble. Coming down the aisle, I was bawling him out and everyone was looking at me for being a nagging wife so soon."

THESE ARE HER PEOPLE

A glorious feeling of tone story while one woman: "I remember standing at the head of the steps outside the church and looking at everyone there and thinking, 'All these people came to my wedding!' It was a wonderful moment."

One bride came down with a serious strep infection the week before the wedding. "I was so afraid I wouldn't make it," she says. "I was in bed right up to the day before; my bridesmaid had to collect my clothes and do all the packing. But I made it to the church — and as soon as the ceremony got under way, I felt fine!"

Sixteen years of marriage and three children haven't dimmed the strongest regret of one woman, who says, "We were married by a justice of the peace in a small town during the war .It just didn't seem like a real wedding. I didn't want anything elaborate but I'd liked to have had more of a ceremony."

CRIES OF RAGE

Tears shed at weddings can stem from reasons other than joy. Take the experience of a Kingston, Ont., bridesmaid who had a tantrum as the wedding party was about to start at a noon ceremony.

"He roared and screamed," the aunt recalls. "Someone finally took him away into a locker room to get him out of sight. But he wasn't out of hearing — as I came down the stairs his roars echoed all over the house. And he kept it up. I got

WILLIAMSON — BAIN

St. James' United Church, in Peterborough was adorned with Easter Lillies on Saturday, April 16th, for the wedding of Margaret Elaine Bain, 434 Chamberlain Street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Bain, to Kenneth Gordon Williamson, 541 Brioux Ave., son of Mrs. Lena Williamson of Peterborough. Rev. J. B. Spencely of Peterborough officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Wedding music was played by the church organist, Mrs. Norma Renaud.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress which she made herself, of white peau de soie, with sequin-trimmed scalloped neckline which dipped to a "V" in the back, and featuring an overskirt of Chantilly lace over-vet. The long sleeves came to points over the hands. Her waist-length veil of nylon net, trimmed with sequins and beads, was held in place by a sequin and pearl tiara, and she carried a cascade bouquet of mauve gladioli and yellow roses.

She was attended by Miss Glenn Bain of Peterborough, as bridesmaid, who wore a dress of Nile green organza over taffeta, with matching accessories. Mrs. Margaret Bain, sister-in-law, and Miss June Williamson of Norwood, were bridesmaids who were similarly styling dresses of organza over taffeta in "sunshine," with matching accessories. All three attendants wore flowers in their hair in order to match their dresses and carried bouquets of mauve, mauve gladioli and yellow roses.

Miss Wendy Bain, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and wore a dress of white floor-length organza full skirt, and carrying a small nosegay of mauve, gladioli and roses.

Mr. Wm. Williamson of Brampton, Ontario, was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Dennis Bain of Belleville and Mr. Keith Clements, of Peterborough.

The reception followed in Union Hall which was decorated for the occasion with white and pink bells, streamers. Daffodils adorned the tables for the guests, while the bride's table was centred by the wedding cake flanked by yellow and green candles in silver candelabra, and bouquets of yellow daffodils.

The bride's mother received, wearing a two-piece dress of rose and black Arnel silk, with pink sweetheart rose, and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The bride-groom's mother assisted, wearing a dress of navy blue crepe, with matching accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

For a weekend wedding trip to Ottawa, Florida, the bride chose a beige walking suit, with pale green silk blouse and green shoes and purse and a green orchid corsage.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Williamson will reside in Peterborough, Ont.

Guests were present from Toronto, Ajax, Lindsay, Bloomfield, and Ivanhoe, Ontario.

200 Boys, Girls Attend Hi-Y Conference

From Monday April 18 to Thursday, April 21, seven members of Belleville Hi-Y were delegates at the Eastern Ontario and Quebec Regional Hi-Y conference held in Ottawa. Carolyn Worley, Alice Taylor, Jack McMahon, David Smith, Ian MacMillan and John Morgan along with their advisor, Mrs. Ken Summers went from Belleville.

Delegates also arrived from Cornwall, Ottawa, Kingston and Sherbrooke, Quebec to make up a total of 200 boys and girls.

The conference was titled "Across the Pole"; — the theme being a comparison between Russia and Canada. Speakers included the 2nd secretary of the Soviet Embassy, Mr. Nikolay Fofin; Mr. Akbar, a leading Ottawa lawyer, who toured Russia and Mr. Gord Hodge, the national secretary of Youth for Christ. Panel discussions, discussion groups and a trip to the parliament buildings helped to clear both Russian and Canadian systems.

The Ottawa Hi-Yers were perfect hosts who made everyone feel welcome.

Dances, house parties and sight-seeing tours gave all 200 delegates such a good time they are looking forward to next year's conference in Sherbrooke.

Pre-Teens Skip To Parties On Patents

Patent leather shoes, always a great favorite of pre-school little girls, this year are on a firm fashion footing throughout the day — and the social calendar.

This spring young girls delight their mothers by choosing shoes that reflect the influences of the same high fashion styles seen in Mother's prettiest leather shoes. Tapered toes and minute, scalloped-in curves that echo those of the spring, or dolling the centre of a patent bow.

Many straps are versatile — they can be worn on either side of the ankle or can be removed entirely, if desired. Some create a decorative mood that is carried out on the shoe itself. For example, perforations on a strap underlaid with white leather are matched to a corresponding design in piping effect around the throat of the shoe.

Patent leather pumps are set on lightweight, black-edged leather soles that carry through a youthful fashion line. Slim and flexible, the leather sole gives active feet firm but gentle support.

No matter what patent leather shoe takes a young girl's fancy, Mother is sure to be pleased with their practical, long-wearing qualities. Real patent leather shoes never lose their sheen — they are soil and stain resistant and glean bright as new when simply wiped with a damp, soapy sponge. When you buy your youngster her new spring shoes, be certain the whole shoe is real patent leather.

Versatility is the key to new vamp styling that is more "V"-cut than oval throated to give young feet a graceful look. Tiny jewelled brilliants may dot the front of the shoe and appear again sprinkled like stardust on slim

Surprise Banquet Honors Office Manager of Store

Popular staff member of Kresge's store in Sudbury, Mrs. Donald MacLean, office manager was honored Wednesday night on the occasion of her 20th anniversary with the firm.

More than 55 employees gathered at the Granite Club for a banquet and social evening. Keeping the event a surprise for Mrs. MacLean was no easy task, because Mrs. MacLean is always the main force in arranging staff parties and get-together.

Mrs. MacLean, transferred here from Montreal when the Sudbury store opened in 1937, started her career with Kresge's in her home town of Belleville. She met her husband in Sudbury, who originally came here in 1934 to play hockey with the Falconbridge Falcons. Last year he became a member of the Falconbridge Quarter Century Club. The couple live at 255 Edmund St., and have one son, Donald Jr.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation to Mrs. MacLean of a mink stole by Hal Wood, Kresge's store manager, who, during the presentation on behalf of the staff, Wood paid tribute to Mrs. MacLean's outstanding qualities personally and as office manager and as a supervisor.

Others who paid tribute to the guest of honor were R. Calder, associate manager of Ballantyne, Mrs. Thereas Oliver, Mrs. Mary Cowell, Mrs. Iris Wallace, Dora Dini, soda fountain superintendent; Mrs. Pera Thomson, bookkeeper, and Mrs. Betty Griffin, Mrs. MacLean's mother, Mrs. J. Byrne, also spoke briefly.

Mrs. Maclean thanked the gathering for the party. She looked lovely for the occasion, wearing a chic two-piece frock in light grey and blue. A corsage of white stephanotis and small red roses completed her ensemble.

The head table was decorated for the occasion with tall, red lighted candles, flanking an artistic centrepiece of deep red roses and white chrysanthemums.

Editor's Note: Mrs. MacLean is the former Helen Bryne of this city and an excellent pianist. While in the city she gave freely of her splendid talent at parties and social functions.

Standing committees: agriculture and Canadian industries, Mrs. Gordon Cunningham; historical research and current events, Mrs. Albert Martin; citizenship and education, Mrs. Gerald Campbell; home economics and health, Mrs. Lloyd Hunt; public relations, Mrs. Burton Coulter; resolutions, Mrs. Harry Coulter; flower and card convener, Mrs. Roy Hall; press reporter, Mrs. Doris Lawrenson; girls' club leaders, Mrs. Doris Lawrenson and Mrs. William Bootle.

The district delegates and the district director are to attend district annual at Bethel-Zion on May 18th.

The new president then took over the meeting and thanked all for their confidence in her and asked each one for help and co-operation.

The secretary read the communications, which were dealt with.

The Institute decided to cater to the Achievement Day for the 4-H girls' club on May 21, held in Tweed.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Coulter, and will consist of a "Mother's Day" program with Mrs. Stan Bateman as leader.

Mrs. Bennie was presented with an Institute pin by the president, Mrs. Kelly.

On Thursday night, April 21, the executive met at the home of the president, Mrs. T. Kelly, to plan programs for the coming year.

On March 10, ten members spent the afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Foster on the occasion of her birthday and presented her with an Institute pin.

On March 29, 11 members spent the afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Baker, it being their 58th wedding anniversary, and presented Mrs. Baker with an Institute pin. These two members have been shut in during the winter.

On Thursday, April 21, Chapman Chums 4-H Club met at the home of Mrs. Don Martin for a pot-luck dinner.

At 31 o'clock the president, Marjorie Palmateer, called the meeting to order. There were 14 members present.

There was a discussion on healthful clothing, care of the body, nutrition for good health and food for all the family.

After dinner, there was another meeting held, with discussion on public health services, national pantry shelf, general rules for meal planning and first aid.

The girls worked on meal menus, reasons and plans for Achievement Day.

COOK QUICKLY

Fish cooked quickly at a high temperature will retain its flavor and be moist and juicy.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagney Shaw

Question: What is the difference between "dinner à la carte" and "dinner table d'hote?"

Answer: "Dinner a la carte" means the dinner consists of special dishes from the menu, a separate charge being made for each selection. "Table d'hote" means that one charge is made for the entire dinner listed on the menu, one price being charged for each dinner.

Question: My brother is going to get married away from home. He married next month. It is to be a formal wedding at high noon. Should the bridegroom and ushers are wearing cutaways, Dad doesn't own one and I am wondering if it would be proper for him to wear a dark business suit, as he is only a part of the wedding for a few moments.

Answer: I would strongly advise that your father dress in the same manner as the bridegroom and ushers. Remember he not only gives you away at the altar but he walks you down the aisle. It would be rather disconcerting to see him stick up formally and the rest of the wedding party formally.

Question: My father died recently. Many friends of the family and business associates called at the house to leave cards and offer their sympathy. My question is, is it necessary that these callers leave flowers afterward?

Answer: Definitely not. When a family is in mourning they make a social visit, and it is absolutely incorrect in this instance to return such a call.

Mrs. W. Barber Heads W.I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mountain View Women's Institute held its first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. K. Werkhoven on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was opened in the usual manner with Mrs. W. Barber, president, in the chair.

After the usual business procedure, Mrs. W. Joyce, convener for health, was asked to take over. Mrs. Joyce introduced Miss Clough, health nurse of Picton Health Unit, who gave an interesting talk on "Communication." The conveners also gave the yearly reports.

The election of officers took place with Mrs. J. Hall presiding, and Mrs. A. Wallbridge acting as secretary.

The officers elected for 1960-61 are as follows:

President, Mrs. Willett Barber; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Frank Roblin; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Allen Wallbridge; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Wilfred Mosley; assistant secretary-treasurer, Mrs. William Higginale; district director, Mrs. Stanley Barber; assistant district director, Mrs. Clarke Young; Institute directors, Mrs. William Burkitt, Mrs. Ross Fairman, Mrs. Reg Barber and Mrs. Ross Anderson; cemetery committee, Mrs. Alfred Potts, Mr. Stanley Barber, Mr. Clarke Sprung and Mrs. Robert Barber; flower and visiting committee, Mrs. Fred Molley and Mrs. Charles Watering; press reporters, Mrs. G. Neal and Mrs. J. Foote; program committee, Mrs. Clifford Barber, Mrs. R. Anderson and Mrs. E. Hall; auditors, Mrs. Jay Sprague and Mrs. Melvin Burkholder; pianist, Mrs. R. Anderson.

Conveners of standing committees:

Home economics and health, Mrs. W. Joyce; agriculture, Mrs. L. Wallbridge; historical research, Mrs. C. Sprung; citizenship and education, Mrs. E. Hall; public relations, Mrs. Reg Barber.

After the installation the auditors' report was read and the secretary read the financial report.

Mrs. George Neal thanked the hostess for her kind hospitality.

Mrs. E. Hall invited the executive to her home to prepare the program for the coming year.

The hostess, assisted by the lunch committee, Miss L. Anderson and Mrs. R. Anderson, served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and associations.

Dear K. G. — She is involved with a good-for-nothing.

Pauline G. — Love is more important than money.

Mrs. K. G. — My husband and I are heartbroken about our 23-year-old daughter, Pauline. She married a boy, Peter, a fine young man who is going to be both a successful business man and a good husband.

Pauline has been going out with Bob since she was 16 and he doesn't seem any nearer to making something of himself than he was two years ago. He has started to read Peter, gas station attendant and a lot of other things, but he can't stick to anything and doesn't have ideas about developing himself.

Aside from that he is unsociable and makes a very poor appearance. What does a grown girl see in a man like that?

Pauline G. — I think my parents are horrible. All they think about is money, and money, I think love is a lot more important.

My parents did everything in their power to push me into marriage with Bob because of his money. But I could not stand him. After I came home from my dates with him I just cried. I did my best to force myself to get out with him for my parents' sake, but it was just no good.

My parents have hated Bob from the beginning, but they have never been able to break us up. We sometimes try to break away, but we came back together again. I think this proves we really love one another and that's the most important.

The Council: Young people like to believe that all strong attachments are based on love but, unfortunately, this is not always the case. Psychiatrists and marriage counsellors point out that many marriages fail and, even if the couples remaining there are strongly attached, yet unable to give any love to one another.

Pauline's parents are making a mistake by emphasizing money as the big issue in this problem. Perhaps they would not be a big issue if the young man in question was determined to marry. He would then be his level best to make a living and Pauline and he might be able to marry — even if they couldn't live in the highest style. The young man who is going to earn a successful business, she is in love with a good-for-nothing.

Pauline has been going out with Bob since she was 16 and he doesn't seem any nearer to making something of himself than he was two years ago. He has started to read Peter, gas station attendant and a lot of other things, but he can't stick to anything and doesn't have ideas about developing himself.

Aside from that he is unsociable and makes a very poor appearance. What does a grown girl see in a man like that?

We think the K. G.'s should keep up the pressure and Pauline should try to concentrate on expanding and advancing her horizons in the field of hobbies and society. She may suddenly find her problem has disappeared.

SHANNONVILLE W.I.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. of Shannonville United Church was held in the church hall on the afternoon of April 14th with an attendance of 15. Mrs. Ross Carscallen, Mrs. Gerald Juby welcomed all and the meeting opened with the theme song and theme prayer.

In the absence of Mrs. Gordon Alsop, Mrs. Juby took charge of the devotional theme for the month being, "Jesus' Holy Week Christ".

Mrs. Charles Keirl gave the Scripture reading from Romans 8 and Mrs. Sam Elliott read the lesson thoughts from the devotional leaflet.

"At this time of year, we are again thinking of the immortal story of Christ's suffering, and death and the glorious triumph of His resurrection". Mrs. Elliott closed the devotional with prayer.

Mrs. W. Ross gave a reading "An Easter Thanksgiving", followed by an Easter hymn.

Mrs. Juby thanked the group for the program and lunch and closed this part of the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Asa Cook is to purchase new blinds for the church hall; Mrs. Charles Wood is to buy a new minute book; plans were made for the tea on May 18 to be held in the church hall from 3 to 6 p.m.; home cooking; fancy work and aprons are to be sold at the tea. Date for the strawberry social to be set later.

Three ladies contributed to the birthday box.

Refreshments were served by the group in charge and a social time was enjoyed.

SO MANY different homemade products come in handy — convenient assistance! Use dry flour mix briefly and attractive sauce, and children love to see them. Cars would be taken, literally, to read directions thoroughly and follow them explicitly. When the ends are ample, throw them away where youngsters can't play with them.

Sweet Dessert Sauce

by Mary Moore

In my mind's eye I can clearly see young Pete, sitting across the table, pouring butterscotch Sauce over Cottage Pudding. He would pour and pour until I stopped him before he took it all. I always made double the recipe before, otherwise he would fuss: these brown eyes on me and mock-pathetically ask "Can't a poor undernourished child have all he wants?"

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Mixed Vegetable Salad; Baked Lamb Loaf; Caper Sauce; Pan Roasted Jacket Potatoes; Julienne Green Beans; Cornmeal Layer Cake; Tea.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE:

1 cup brown sugar firmly packed, 1-4 cup plain flour, 1 tablespoons corn syrup, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Heat to boiling point. Simmer and boil mixture 2 minutes. Serve boiling hot over Cottage Pudding or ice cream.

FAVORITE LEMON SAUCE:

1-2 cup sugar, 1-cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, shake of salt, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 1-2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg.

Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch, add water gradually stirring constantly; boil gently three minutes removing from heat, add butter, lemon juice and nutmeg. Good on Steamed Puddings; particularly suitable for an economical Steamed Carrot Pudding, and on plain Cottage Pudding too.

LEMON SAUCE:

Excellent for using up left-over syrup from canned fruit, especially if it is a red fruit such as cherries, raspberries or strawberries.

1 tablespoon cornstarch or 2 tablespoons flour, 1-4 cup sugar, grated rind of 1-2 lemon, 1 cup syrup from canned fruit juice of 1-2 lemon.

Mix cornstarch, sugar and lemon rind. Slowly add syrup, stirring. Cook, stirring, until sauce is thick and clear. Serve hot, adding lemon juice just before serving.

NUTS!

Delicious on an Upsidedown Cake in which the drained canned fruit has been used as the fruit base, and the syrup as the liquid for this sauce. Good on plain Blanc Mange too.

HARD SAUCE:

1-2 cup butter, 1 cup icing sugar or 2-4 cup fine brown sugar, 1-2 teaspoon lemon extract, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter and add sugar gradually, while beating constantly until very smooth. Then add flavoring. Chill thoroughly. Perfect on Apple Tapioca or any Steamed Pudding particularly rich Plum Pudding.

FULL GOSPEL C.A.'s

FRANKFORD — Frankford Full Gospel C.A.'s held their regular service April 22nd at 8 p.m. Miss Mary Ella Grant and Miss Gloria Reilly were in charge of the meeting.

Miss Carolyn Reichert read the Scripture, Psalm 118: 5-18.

Miss Lois Wright conducted a bible quiz with Miss Carolyn Reichert's team defeating Miss Sandra Purvis' team 8-5.

Choruses were sung and a Scripture shower led by Calvin Watson.

Richard Patrick conducted a spelling bee and the Rev. G. Pierce gave the announcements.

Mrs. G. Pierce brought the evening message from St. Luke Perfect on Apple Tapioca or any 21:23-38, speaking on "Prayer" and read a poem, "If Jesus Should Come Tonight."

Teachers Think They Should Set Standards

VINELAND (CP)—The Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation wound up its annual convention Friday by drawing a plan for a coming battle on who will decide teaching standards in Ontario schools.

The teachers think they should do it. The school boards of Ontario maintain that deciding professional standards is their prerogative.

The federation plan defines qualifications, then sets the salary they should be worth, and projects it upward according to the teacher's experience and the responsibility given to him.

For instance, a fledgling schoolteacher with Grade 13 graduation from high school and Teacher's "College standard course, would start at $3,600 a year—rising through nine years of experience to a top salary of $5,100. A prospective teacher with ultimate in qualifications—honor college degree, a master of arts or bachelor of pedagogy degree would start at $5,000 and go up over 12 years to $9,000.

Backbone of the teachers' proposal is a teaching license which only the Teachers' Federation would give. The teachers would also like to throw out the present cram-course teaching in which a student with only "years' high school, a summer prp course and normal school can go out and be a qualified teacher.

The men teachers will present their professional standards plan to the Women Teachers' Federation later this summer for a unified front in next year's contract negotiations with Ontario's local school boards.

Roslin

ROSLIN — Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Seals were the former's niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fettiman, of Boston, Mass.

On Good Friday there was a service in St. Paul's Anglican Church at 11 a.m., conducted by the rector, Captain George Willoughby, and on Easter Sunday a service of Holy Communion was held at 7.30 p.m. with the Rev. L. A. Page of Belleville as celebrant. Both these services were well attended.

Bomarc Useless For Defence Says Hellyer

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Hellyer, former Liberal associate defence minister, said Friday night Canada should immediately cancel participation in the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile system.

Speaking on the CBC's political radio broadcast The Nation's Business, Mr. Hellyer said the Bomarc is useless for defence because it could easily be knocked out by a missile attack and would offer no protection against a follow - up bomber attack.

Mr. Hellyer, MP for Toronto Trinity, said the government "tried to make us believe that the Bomarc was a cheaper and more effective substitute" for manned interceptors.

The government had done a "complete somersault." After cancelling the Canadian - built Arrow jet interceptor on the ground it was no longer required, it now said manned interceptors are still needed. The inference was that the government would buy a United States interceptor to re-equip Canadian squadrons.

The only decision it stuck to was to install Bomarc bases near North Bay and Mont Laurier, Que. But the U.S. had sharply cut its Bomarc program because the Bomarc is a sitting duck for enemy missiles.

The money in the U.S. was to be spent on projects of greater priority. The Liberals believed both Canada and the U.S. should divert the remaining money to more urgent projects.

Rescue Mission Skipper Shot And Castaways Flee to Cuban Waters in Dead Man's Boat

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)— Two shipwrecked Americans plundered their rescuers, shot a charter boat skipper to death and made off with the boat in a piratical exploit at a lonely Bahama Island Sunday.

The pair fled into Cuban waters while an unarmed U.S. Coast Guard plane hovered overhead, powerless to interfere.

Another coast guard plane rescued the wife of one of the fugitives as well as a crew member of the stolen cabin cruiser Muriel III and four Pennsylvania sports fishermen who told of being terrorized by the desperadoes' debate over whether to kill all witnesses to the slaying of Capt. Angus Boatwright, 35.

The woman gave her name as Barbara Table, 18, and said she was shipwrecked with her husband, Alvin, 22, and William Sees, also Johnson, 23, Tuesday in a boat the three took from Key West, Fla.

The Muriel III was off Elbow Cay, 100 miles south of Miami, when Boatwright spied mirror signals and saw the wreckage of a boat.

"The skipper was pretty leery of going in close," said Capt. Hokanson, 21, mate of the Muriel III. "We thought they might be gun smugglers or Cubans."

"Then this guy Sees swam out to us. We let him aboard and he wanted us to go in closer and pick up another man and a girl. There was an argument. He pulled a revolver from his hip pants.

"Capt. Boatwright got a shark rifle and shot Sees' hand off once between the eyes and once in the chest.

"The other—man, Table, swam out next. They threatened to kill us but didn't.

"Table said 'We can't let these guys stay around. They know us.'

"But the men in the fishing party talked them into letting us radio the coast guard that a man was injured and let us swim ashore.

"The four tourists had to give their identification papers and billfolds. One man lost $50 bucks."

The Monroe County, Fla., sheriff's office Sunday said Sees had been sought for a week since a yacht they had negotiated to buy disappeared from Key West.

Sees here with the woman and Hokanson were the four Pennsylvanians, identified as Stanton C. Fogue, East McKeesport; Chester Harcoop, Wilkinsburg; F. J. Sudnick, Monroeville and Edward McCredy, Pittsburgh.

Schuler gave this account of what happened:

"We arrived off Elbow Key about dawn. The attention of the skipper was attracted by a flashing light or mirror. The captain was suspicious on account of rumors of gunrunning, refused to come closer than shouting distance.

"Two men and one woman were ashore. The captain radioed the coast guard for help. Their boat was wrecked on the 19th, and the two men and the woman were on the Cay ever since.

"About 9 a.m. one of the men on the Cay swam to the Muriel III. He seemed about 30 years old. He came aboard and demanded that the captain take the Muriel close inshore, as the woman could not swim. Capt. Boatwright refused on account of dangerous rocks.

"The man next called himself Johnson, drew a revolver, Boatwright started to charge him, the sailor fired twice, wounding the skipper in the forehead and the chest.

"The shooter then permitted the mate to radio Miami that someone was hurt. He was then joined aboard by the other two castaways.

"Boatwright was floated ashore in a life raft by the mate in the water. The rest of us swam ashore, with the two men and the woman on board. The Muriel then left."

More Negroes Held by Police Following Raid

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Police arrested 110 Negroes during the weekend in a search on a Negro community in the heart of the Orange Free State goldfields, it was announced today.

The raid followed a pattern of "clean-up" drives by police on Negro communities around cities and industrial centres during the last month.

Some 1,500 persons have been arrested or detained under emergency law since the current wave of racial tension erupted March 21 with the slaying of 67 Negroes by police at Sharpeville, south of Johannesburg.

GOVERNMENT CRUMBLES?

Meanwhile, Sir de Villiers Graaff, leader of the opposition United party said Sunday the white supremacist Nationalist government is beginning to crumble.

He made the statement in appealing to South Africans not to let the current racial crisis frighten them into emigrating.

"The day cannot be far distant," he said, "when the nation will force this government out, either at the polls or through an expression of new thinking in Parliament.

Graaff gave his views in a front-page interview in the Johannesburg Sunday Times.

In London, Prime Minister Robert Menzies of Australia said Sunday he opposes formal discussion of South Africa's racial problems at the Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London next month.

"Nothing could persuade me that this ought to be listed for discussion in a formal session," Menzies said on arrival at London airport for a month-long stay in Britain.

"I see nothing but harm from it. There would inevitably be differences of opinion and these would become matters of notoriety and perhaps matters of resolution and feeling."

At the same time Menzies said he looked forward to informal discussions with South African representatives at the conference "in order to become better informed."

Earlier this month the British House of Commons unanimously called on the Macmillan government to express Britain's distaste for the South African color bar during the Commonwealth talks.

Triple Death Accidents Mar Weekend, Fatality Toll Is 29

By The Canadian Press

Triple-death accidents in Ontario and Quebec boosted carnage over the weekend fatality toll to 29.

Traffic accidents took 20 lives.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday showed 13 dead in Ontario. Quebec reported eight, Alberta three, New Brunswick and British Columbia two each and one died in a Newfoundland fire.

Clive McLaughlin, 11, his sister Christine, 6, and a neighbor, Ross Squires, 12, all of River Drive Park, died while tobogganing in a ravine near the western shore of Montreal Island.

Six other people were killed in Ontario traffic, two died in a Quebec fire and seven more died one smothered to death.

The Ontario dead:

Fred Andrews McCarthy, 81, and her daughter, Mrs. William Blair, 47, in a fire in their Lindsay home early Sunday.

Mrs. Mildred Profit, 53, of Zephier, and Donald Minnick, 20, of Petrolia, in a two-car collision on Highway 48, two miles north of Mount Albert.

Mrs. Catherine Bell, 53, of Fetherstonhaugh and Co., Toronto, was drowned in Hamilton Bay Saturday.

Cecil Tuck, 22, of London, Ont. killed when his motorcycle collided with a car in London Saturday.

Mrs. Ida Patterson, 69, Cobalt, when the car in which she was a passenger ran into a ditch on Highway 10 about 20 miles northwest of Toronto on Sunday.

Mrs. Katherine Bell, 53, of Brampton, in a two-car collision just west of Brampton early Sunday.

RESCUES 11

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — A 37-year-old woman pushed 11 children through a narrow window after fire got out to an unfinished house on Saturday night. Catherine Lucas, eldest of 14 children of laborer Clary Lucas, smashed open a window in the basement home and pushed her brothers and sisters through the window before escaping herself with a two-months-old infant in her arms.

Two Women Asphyxiated in Lindsay Home

LINDSAY (CP) — Mrs. Florence McCarthy, 81, and her daughter, Mrs. Armenia Blair, 47, died in their home early Sunday, asphyxiated by smoke from a living room fire.

Firemen found Mrs. McCarthy's body lying on the floor of a front downstairs bedroom and Mrs. Blair's body on an upstairs bedroom floor—near a telephone.

Fire Chief Arnold Watson said the fire probably was due to careless smoking. He said it spread from the living room to the kitchen. Firemen contained the flames to the rear part of the house.

Chief Watson said both women appeared to have been overcome by smoke. Mrs. McCarthy had apparently lost her way in the smoke after leaving her upstairs bedroom.

He believed Mrs. Blair, whose husband is Western Ontario Bursum, was trying to call firemen when she was overcome by smoke.

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—Ronald Segal, editor of Africa South who was jailed in Durban this month after the racial disturbances there arrived in Accra Saturday for a stay as guest of the Ghana government. Accompanying him was Dr. Yusuf Dadoo, former president of the Indian National Congress. Both flew in from London to join Oliver Tambo, acting president of the African National Congress who is also in Ghana after fleeing South Africa.

Recover Body Of Judge From Lake Michigan

CHICAGO (AP)—The finding of the body of missing Judge Wm. Lynn Parkinson has eliminated one of Chicago's most famous missing person cases. Still a mystery is exactly how the 57-year - old jurist met his death.

A passersby spotted the judge's decomposed body Sunday floating face-down in Lake Michigan near the north edge of the Loop. This was but several blocks from the Drake Hotel, where the federal judge vanished Oct. 28, apparently sick and dazed.

The body, identified by a cousin, fingerprints and identification cards, bore no apparent marks of violence. An autopsy report said everything was consistent with drowning, a theory held by many policemen since the judge's spectacles and umbrella were found along a route leading to a beach last fall.

An extensive search by skin divers then failed to turn up clues, giving rise to speculation the judge had met with foul play, a theory still not ruled out.

FAMILY VIEWS

Hi widow, Elsie Ruth, maintained until Sunday night that her husband was an amnesia victim.

Judge Parkinson's son, William Parkinson Jr., said Sunday night that his father was either "put in the lake or had an accidental end fell in".

He ruled out suicide, saying, "Dad wasn't the type to take his own life."

Coroner Walter McCarron said his office would investigate the possibility the judge was robbed. He said no money or jewelry was found on the body.

The judge, reported by his family to have suffered from low blood pressure, left his office about 4:30 p.m. Oct. 28 to go to his home a few blocks away. He never made it.

Says Teachers Don't Care How Money Obtained

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor W. Edward Hodgson of Scarborough said Sunday the Ontario Teachers' Federation is taking unfair advantages of its solid front in forcing individual school boards to pay higher wages.

In a radio address, he alleged that secondary school teachers have set their sights on a $10,000 maximum wage scale.

"It is pathetic to see the $,$$$ school boards in the province bickering and fighting with one another and deliberately refusing co-operation in controlling expenditures while they employ the best brains they have organized to present a solid front," he said.

"Federation officials pit school trustees against each other and vie with them like a cat playing with a mouse."

Mayor Hodgson also claimed the teachers "know little about how the money will be obtained and they care less."

Hope Emerson, Actress, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Hope Emerson, who played ed the television roles of mobster in the movie Caged and Sarge on the Dennis O'Keefe show, died Sunday night of a liver ailment.

The six-foot-two, 190-pound actress had been in ill health for some time but entered a hospital only three days ago.

A few years ago she was nominated for an academy award for her role as a women's prison matron in Caged, one of numerous movies she made after leaving the New York stage.

'Strong Support' for New Political Reform Party Asked By Labor Congress Head

MONTREAL (CP) — Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, today called for "astounding support" for a new left-wing political reform party from Canada's labor movement.

Launching a new long-term campaign to organize the CLC membership, Mr. Jodoin said the union movement cannot divorce itself from direct political action in public affairs.

While maintaining CLC independence from the proposed labor-CCF-farm alliance, individual unions across Canada "must face up to the realities and obligations of life in a political democracy."

Mr. Jodoin, 47-year-old former organizer for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, hit out at labor leaders who say that direct participation in political issues through a particular party is "something foreign" to the labor movement.

"Should it be further from the truth," he said.

"The big issues that make up this congress to associate themselves freely with the party of their choice in order to exercise the role that unions, as a social force created by free parliament, cut all mankind, have to play.

"Not only have we the right to exercise political activities but we are compelled by the responsibility to help provide the people with the opportunity and opportunity to exercise a meaningful choice as to their representatives in the legislatures and municipal councils."

In his wide-ranging address, Mr. Jodoin also discussed unemployment in Canada, anti-union legislation, Canada's defence policy and the current South African racial situation.

Part of his speech was devoted to the press in advance of debate.

Pointing to the wastefulness and needless suffering" involved in unemployment, he warned that labor must begin thinking about the "trend" that this year will be "seasonal unemployment" becoming year-round unemployment.

He renewed the CLC suggestion that the federal government, possibly in a conference of federal, provincial and municipal governments along with representatives of labor and management so that an "intensified attack" on unemployment may be launched.

"I again suggest to the government that such a conference would indicate a real desire to explore every possibility and could well lead to definite and long-overdue action."

Mr. Jodoin, who became CLC president at its founding convention in Toronto four years ago, said that in the last two years the labor movement has been made the target for "the most vicious type of attack."

"We reject these accusations and slanders," he said. "We have not come here in convention to apologize for our existence. We have come to assert our right to expand, to play our role in the community."

He spoke of a concentrated attack on labor's political activity in various provinces — particularly in Newfoundland and British Columbia — this year.

"Those who thought they would force workers to give up their rights must be mistaken.

"Another target for attack has been the CLC's defence policy, particularly its effects on workers' benefits from the defence budget' and a criticism of Canada's commitments to military commitments abroad. Canada should do everything in its power to bring about an agreement to stop nuclear tests and disarm.

"The suggestion that we accept the Soviet arms race and use nuclear weapons makes no help to the efforts for disarmament. We do not need atomic warheads in Canada and we cannot accept the use of them."

Turning to the international situation, Mr. Jodoin lashed South African racial policies as an example of "the blind obstinancy of a white minority trying to impose a system of slavery on the overwhelming majority of the non-white population."

Charges Toronto City Abattoir Loss Concealed

TORONTO (CP) — The city-owned Coors' abattoir has spent more thousands of dollars than it has taken in, Controller Ivan Jaspers has been the victims, J. L. Frankel said in a brief to city council today.

Officials have rejected Mr. Frankel's offer to buy the abattoir for $1,501,000 with a $101,000 down payment. His offer was highest in two calls for tenders, but the officials recommended rejection because it was too low.

In the brief he said civic officials had never given city council the facts and figures. Annual profit-and-loss statements failed to allow for depreciation, obsolescence, bad-den charges taxes and return on capital. Mr. Frankel estimated these at $258,466.

He said the abattoir had been losing $150,000 a year for 10 years or more.

He said the abattoir is prevented from being staffed on a 40-hour week because packers are members of the Toronto Municipal Employees Association.

STEAL CHEQUES

HAMILTON (CP) — Blank unemployment insurance cheques, worth a potential $20,000, were stolen from the Unemployment Insurance Commission office here during the weekend, police said Sunday night.

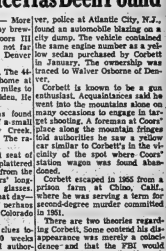
Ten Weeks Ago Wealthy Brewery Executive Vanished; And No Trace Has Been Found

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — More than 10 weeks ago wealthy brewery executive Adolph Coors III vanished near his home not far from this little mountain resort community.

It was Tuesday, Feb. 9. The 44-year-old Coors had left home at 7:55 a.m. to drive the 12 miles to the Coors brewery in Golden. He never arrived.

Coors' station wagon was found abandoned at the edge of a small bridge spanning Turkey Creek. His hat was found from the bridge were found long-visored cap and his eye glasses. Blood stains from the bridge were found long-visored cap and his eye glasses.

Thus began one of the strangest mysteries of Colorado history.



There are mostly the clues today — but there is a mystery, a body, a coroner's verdict and that the FBI would add Coors' name to the 10 most wanted criminal list for the California prison escape even if Coors didn't vanish.

The other theory is that the mystery of Coors' disappearance will be solved when authorities locate and question Corbett.

Corbett, of course, thinks about each theory and the answer's the same: "No comment."

OUTDOORS with John Alden Knight

Concerning Deer-Hunting Archers

A tout three or four years ago there was a new variety of sorts in this column having to do with archery and the proponents of this rapidly growing sport. Then it was that the archers of the nation were fighting an uphill battle to gain what they considered to be their rights with regard to deer hunting.

At that time there were comparatively few deer-hunting archers. We could meet these fellows now and then in the woodcock covers, trying to down that ever-elusive bird. Invariably they were pleasant people — affable, well-mannered and obviously good sportsmen.

So I made it my business to find out something about archery and archers. The information I received, from various reliable sources, was completely favorable. Their deer-hunting regulations were quite restricted; a short, early season limited to bucks only. So I went all-out for archery. Weren't Clapp, and Mr. Clapp.

Since then archery has grown apace. That is a modest statement. Actually, it has mushroomed and it still is growing. Meanwhile the powers-that-be have liberalized the deer-hunting regulations for archery to the point of overindulgence. Last season in my State, Pennsylvania, the Robin Hoods herebouts, some seventy-odd thousand of them, were granted legal shooting season from October 3rd to October 30th, both dates inclusive.

The gunners of our Commonwealth were given a buck season from November 30th to December 12th and an antlerless deer season of three days, December 14th, 15th and 16th. The archers were allowed to take deer of any sex and regardless of size throughout their entire season.

UNDESIRABLE ELEMENT

Admittingly, taking a deer with bow and arrow is doing it the hard way. Done properly, the archer deserves a great deal of credit, both as a woodsman and a marksman. The trouble is that the new liberal restrictions on the sport seem to have attracted and undesirable element. Today the sport of archery in Pennsylvania (and there is no reason why this should not be true elsewhere) is being greatly abused by many hunters.

This statement is not lightly made. Reports have been received, all of them verbal and confidential, from thirty-odd wardens and supervisors. Also, I talked to key men in the general outdoor field, unprejudiced fellows who regard the problem objectively and who know wherein restrictions seem to be backfiring in unexpected fashion.

Much has been written, pro and con, of the damage that is done by archers. The sport has been condemned because of cruelty and extra suffering on the part of defenseless animals. When all is said and done, any hunting is cruel to a greater or lesser degree. I have been a hunter for better than 30 years and I surely know that this is true. If a person chooses to depend upon hemorrhage instead of shocking power to kill his game for him, that, it seems to me, is entirely up to him.

But in view of the abuses of the archery regulations, something certainly should be done. You know perfectly well that you can't legislate sportsmanship into a non-sportsman or a game hog. All right — make the penalties severe enough so that this type of individual will think twice before he steps over the line. Another snake to strike when it is released and apprehension of the lawbreaker is not easy. But it has been and can be done.

ALL TOO EASY

Actually it is all too easy at present to obtain an archery license. The only qualifications needed are citizenship, a few dollars and the ability to read and write. Shouldn't there be an archery board to pass on qualifications and equipment, just as they have for driver's licenses? And isn't the present allocation of seasons, archery as compared to gunnery, somewhat lopsided?

Some time ago, a man with whom I talked (rather reminiscent in the archery field) actually warned me about writing on archery. "Don't talk fair to them 'long dee," he said, "unless you are a long tamper." Well, at this point I'm no lion tamer, but it's per possible that with enough application and instruction I could, conceivably, come to be one.

When you come right down to cases, the law breaker in the archery group is the exception rather than the rule. This is true in any form of outdoor sport. Just the same, the whole group actually suffers because of the misdemeanors of the few.

Unlike gunnery, archery is quite well controlled. There are archery clubs, a great many of them, all over the nation. You know perfectly well that the archers themselves know what among them is dragging over the line. It would be a wise thing for the officers of these clubs and associations to take matters into their own hands and wash their own dirty clothes. This has been done before — witness the skin divers and spear-fishermen. Undoubtedly, should this matter of law observance be handled internally, the sport as a whole should benefit considerably.

Hampstead Golf Course Sold, Will Be Made Housing Site

MONTREAL (CP)—For Montrealers, golfing used to be a sport. Now it's a safari.

More and more easy-to-get-to courses on Montreal Island are disappearing because of Montreal's urgent need for more living space.

The 40-year-old course at suburban Hampstead, one of the last nine still operating on the Island, gave up Sunday night. Its 2,500,000-square-foot property was sold for $4,500,000 to Harry Dulowsky, Montreal city councillor and lumber dealer.

It will be used as a golf course until at least November, 1951, and then turned into a housing site.

The mortality rate for golf courses has been high these past 10 years.

LaSalle course and Lachine, whittled down to nine holes from 18 and already completely surrounded by housing and industry, are to disappear within two or three years.

Islesmere Royal and Claranadal have been long dead.

SEES OUT, MOVE

Royal Montreal and Laval are packed up, sold their island properties, and moved off to reopen on Ile Bizard, off the northwest tip of Montreal Island.

Six new courses have opened, and two more are in the works, but they're all 25 to 40 miles from the centre of Montreal.

Summerlea course, sold for housing development, is still operating with part of its inner course opening this week.

By 1962, Summerlea will be a 36-hole course 30 miles west of Montreal.

But Beaconsfield, situated in Pointe Claire 12 miles from downtown Montreal, is considered one of the suburb's green park areas and isn't likely to be touched.

City-owned Municipal, in east-end Montreal, is a good source of revenue for the city and seems safe.

Canada Has Chance to Get Winter Games

TORONTO (CP) — A 38-athlete team will represent Canada at the Aug. 26-Sept. 11 Olympic Games in Rome this year, but more than $100,000 is needed to get the Canadian Olympic Association out of the red.

This was revealed Saturday at the annual meeting of the COA which heard also that Canada has "a very good chance of getting the 1956 winter games.

A bid already has been made by the Calgary Olympic Development Association on behalf of Banff, Alta., and another suggesting Garibaldi Park, B.C., as the site is believed to be in the works.

A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal, Canadian member of the International Olympic Committee, commented on reports earlier this year that the Winter Games may be held after 1964. He said these aren't true, that Canada's chances of getting the 1956 games are "very good" and that the prestige of the Winter Games never has been higher."

IN THE RED

Up to April 16 the COA collected $143,000 from the federal and provincial governments, municipalities, general public and sports governing bodies. The COA budgeted for $250,000 to cover expenses of sending teams to the 1950 Pan-American Games at Chicago, the 1952 Winter Olympics in California in February and the summer Games in Rome.

Hon. Farmer of Montreal, re-elected COA president, told the meeting the financial picture was "not as black" as the report showed although he "regretted" the poor response from municipalities.

Farmer said the Dominion government has contributed $60,000. "We asked for $80,000 and I think that we can go back at them for more if we get in trouble."

The report showed the dominion and provincial governments so far have contributed $85,750. The general public and cities have added $61,270 and the sports governing bodies $18,980.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Every once in a while a news despatch from Britain brings word that some lucky bloke has won a fortune in a soccer pool.

And the nice thing about it is that it is not a case of "them as has, gits."

And usually the cash investment of the winner is within the penny, tuppence, thruppeny or tanner range. Or does it go that high?

The winner's social status is generally within the lower-level range. It could be an 'Arry or 'Arriet from Ampstead 'Eath; a bloke from "Scorton, Lord"; a draper's clerk; a lodgeborneman from Liverpool; a Tynesider or a local laddy from Land's End.

Not too long ago a laborer who invested a penny or so won 200,000 quid or some $750,000. He called a pool-shot correctly, some eight ties. If memory is correct.

This figure will give you some idea of the immensity of the profits garnered by the pool-sponsoring organizations.

In most European countries where King Soccer reigns over the sports court, football pools are state-controlled. The bulk of the profits from penalties are turned back to support amiable sparring programs in whole, or in part, including soccer itself.

State-run or state-controlled soccer pools exist in Britain, Italy, Spain, Turkey and Czechoslovakia. France has none.

In Italy profits from the state-operated soccer pools paid for the 1956 Winter Olympics at Cortina d' Ampezzo. They also paid for the half-dozen new arenas constructed for the summer's Olympics at Rome, and will pay for the games themselves.

In all eight Italian stadia can seat crowds exceeding 50,000. France, with no pools, has only one that size.

A report from France says that pressure to start soccer pools is intense in the country but so far it has been resisted by Maurice Herzog, the high commissioner of Youth and Sports, and by his superiors.

They claim that sport is for youth, football pools for gamblers and gamblers are mostly crooks. They feel the country's youth must be protected from any taint of vice, including one-franc bets on the outcome of soccer matches.

But the French sports editors feel differently. They keep the pot boiling by printing long articles on the success of football pools abroad.

Czechoslovakia is another country which has benefitted immensely from soccer pools. Despite the high plane ice-hockey holds in the country and which is making rapid headway, soccer is still king.

During our recent sojourn in Czechoslovakia last year, we took three or four junkets into the fanceless flat country around Prague.

On one trip to the historic village of Lidice (the original community was destroyed and the ground plowed by the Nazis during World War II) and on another to Fozinde (we're not sure of that spelling), where we visited a glass-blowing plant, we passed through a number of new-order communities. Each and every one had a soccer field.

An English-speaking Czech connected with the Prague Chamber of Commerce (the officials were never averse to handing out free propaganda) told us that the state's soccer pools had earned profits amounting to millions of dollars.

All this profit has gone to support sports, subsidize teams, pay coaches, cover travel expenses and build stadia. Furthermore, the man said, the government was so happy with its share of the loot it has abolished all forms of taxation on sport.

There is no longer any tax on tickets and soccer clubs like the Prague Dynamo, which used to pay 10 per cent, now pays nothing, saving some $25,000.

Bash Braves for 5 in Row As Giants Lose to Chicago; Tribe Blanks K's, Yanks Win

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Early Wynn's second straight failure, the slugging of the Detroit Tigers and the performance of the New York Yankees' young pitchers cast a new light on the American League situation today after only one week of the season.

Wynn was slugged for six runs in the first inning Sunday as Detroit humbled the defending champion Chicago White Sox 12-4. The 40-year-old right hander who won 23 games for the 1959 pennant - winners had been knocked out on opening day by Kansas City.

Detroit's four big guns—Rocky Colavito, Harvey Kuenn, Al Kaline and Charlie Maxwell—didn't hit a homer but the Tigers got help from an unexpected source.

Casey Wise, who hit one homer in the last three years in the majors, hit two off White Sox pitching. Lou Berberet, a .256 hitter last year, hammered a grand slammer off Wynn, climaxing that big first inning.

THE RECORD

The Yankees tied an American League record by scoring eight runs in the first inning before Baltimore could get anybody out. Jim Coates needed relief but the issue never was in doubt in a 15-9 Yankee victory.

Cleveland finally got into the win column, shutting out Kansas City 7-0 on Gary Bell's six-hitter and Woody Held's two home runs. Washington had to call on Camilo Pascual in relief to hold an 11-10 decision over Boston.

The National League matched the American's total of 15 homers to make it 30 for the day in the majors, including four grand slammers. Three grand slammers in the American by Berberet and Mike Fannin and Billy Klaus of the Orioles tied the major league record.

On Saturday, Tigers, again powered by Colavito, gained a 6-2 victory over the White Sox.

New York Yankees won 2-1 over Baltimore. Boston Red Sox, beaten opening day by Washington's Camilo Pascual, turned the tables on both, whipping the Senators 5-2. Cleveland lost 6-5 to the Athletics.

RUMORS SQUELCHED

Detroit has smashed 11 home runs in its last four games. There have been rumors that Jimmy Dykes, the manager was on the way out. Now he is the only unbeaten manager in baseball. Paul Foytack survived a shaky start to match Frank Lary's nine-inning effort for Detroit Saturday.

Tony Kubek hit a pair of homers for the Yanks and Elston Howard slammed one. The Yanks are only a half game back of the Tigers. Young Jack Fisher was the victim in the big first inning.

Held drove in four runs for the Indians with his two homers. His first off Don Larsen climaxing a three-run first inning.

Boston collected 20 hits, including homers by Vic Wertz, Bobby Thomson and rookie Lou Clinton to save a victim for Jack Kralick over Al Worthington.

"They can't write us off. We were only three games out on the first of September.

Everybody smiled when Danny Murtaugh, Pittsburgh manager, boldly stated his case in March. Didn't he know he was in the same league with San Francisco, Los Angeles and Milwaukee?

Murtaugh's analysis appears solid at this early stage of the National League race. The season is only two weeks old but his Pirates sneaked into first place Sunday by downing ex-Pirate Lee Ta-3 while San Francisco Giants were losing 9-4 to Chicago Cubs. It was Pittsburgh's fifth straight victory, eighth in 10 starts.

Solly Hemus's St. Louis Cardinals won their fourth straight after losing their first five, hammering Los Angeles 7-3. Ken Boyer hit his fifth homer, all against Dodgers, and Stan Musial poled No. 2.

PENGUINS TAKE BEATING

Eight homers were hit in the Phillis - Cincinnati doubleheader, including a grand slammer by rookie Jim Coker in the Phils' opening 8-3 victory. But Roy McMillan hit his fifth and Frank Robinson and Eddie Kasko each added the second of the day in Cincinnati's 10-4 second - game triumph.

Pittsburgh edged the Braves 5-4 Saturday. In other Saturday encounters, San Francisco clobbered Chicago 18-2, Philadelphia zapped Cincinnati 4-3 and St. Louis downed Los Angeles 8-3.

Again Elroy Face walked from the bullpen to save the day when Pittsburgh starter Harvey Haddix, rolling along with a 3-0 shutout, tired in the ninth. Face struck out pinch-hitter Charley Lau and Eddie Kasko to end Schoendienst ground out.

Smoky Burgess and Bob Skinner hit for the Pirates in their sweep of the three - game series. Skinner's three-run homer and Del Mar-sewski drove in three runs as Bob Buhl suffered his first defeat.

The Giants had a 6-2 lead going in the eighth when Billy O'Dell was replaced by Billy Loes. When the inning was over, the Cubs had seven runs and the ball game. Don Elston won in relief after Stan Hille's three-run double and a two-run homer by Tony Taylor sent Loes to the showers.

Righthander Bob Miller, 21, was the Cardinals winner but needed help from Ron Kline and Lindy McDaniel. Johnny Podres was the Dodgers' loser.

Ted Wieand, Cincinnati relief man, was knocked back to the minors in the first game of a double with the Phils. He walked the first two men to face him in the first game and then gave up the grand - slammer to Coker. Later in the day he was shipped to the Havana farm.

Rookie Ken Short won the first for the Phils and Jim Owens lost the second. Bob Purkey was the Cincinnati loser in the opener. Don Newcombe won the second.

Smoke Eaters, Maroons Start Allan Cup Series Tonight

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—The West Kootenay city of Trail, which goes slightly whacky over hockey, was braced today for its biggest ice event in years—the Allan Cup final between the local Smoke Eaters and Chatham Maroons.

The best-of-seven series for the Canadian senior hockey crown gets under way tonight amid an atmosphere usually associated with national sports classics.

The city was decked out with large banners, stickers and pennants. The citizenry sported ribbons telling the Smoke Eaters to "Dig, dig, dig."

Maroons, seeking their first Allan Cup, arrived Sunday after a weather-stopped flight from the East and were treated to a typical Western-style reception.

The 22 - man contingent was met at the nearby village of Warfield by a fire truck, RCMP escort, 16 private cars and a sizeable block of Trail businessmen.

Horns blared and pennants fluttered as the motorcade hit the city. Fans swarmed on to the main street to catch a glimpse of the Ontario champions.

It is the first time Trail has been the site of the Allan Cup and folks here are making the most of it.

Maroons had a tiring transcontinental flight from Detroit to Spokane, Wash. From Spokane they took a bus into British Columbia and headed for Warfield.

Both teams held a workout Sunday. After watching Maroons get unlimbered, Trail playing coach Bobby Kromm predicted a lively series "period for period and game for game."

"They're a pretty fair passing club and they look well balanced," he said.

Coach Johnny Horeck of Maroons also predicted a tough series, which he figured would go the full seven games. He said it may take his boys a game to get untracked.

The second game will be held Wednesday, the third Friday and the fourth Saturday.

Horeck has no intention of resorting to oxygen to help his players. Port Arthur Bearcats, complaining of the high altitude, used oxygen in their recent western playoffs here against Trail. The Bearcats were ousted in four straight games and scored a total of only four goals against the Smoke Eaters.

Maroons eliminated Hull Legion 5-1 in the best-of-five semi-final, taking the windup game 10-0.

The Smoke Eaters were last in the Allan Cup in 1956. They won it and went on to win the world hockey tournament.

Dressing Room Door Locked by Beaten Habs

TORONTO (CP) — Amid shouting, of players and the handshaking of goodwishers, St. Catharines Teepees' coach Max Kaminsky found time to say thanks to his boys Sunday.

The Teepees had just defeated Brockville Junior Canadiens 6-3 in three hard-played periods of hockey to win the Eastern Canadian Memorial Cup final series 4-3 with one game tied.

"We played the best game of this series after that first period", Kaminsky said. "Every player who got on the ice today deserves a part of this victory.

"I guess it was just after Christmas that we found ourselves as a unit and we haven't stopped playing as a group since then.

"I can't single out any one boy for special praise at the moment but I would like to say that Bill Ives did a great job of shadowing Brockville's centre Bobby Rousseau. Rousseau played his best out but they played him too much and after the second period I thought he was too tired to be really effective".

The Brockville team, who played in a Montreal Metropolitan Junior B League, refused to open their dressing room door and Claude Ruel, their coach, could not be found for comment.

Columbus Bows To Leafs 7-3; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals may have been doing a bit the last couple of days but they definitely aren't asleep. Their 12 hits off three pitchers that helped produce an 8-3 victory over Richmond Virginians Sunday proved that.

The victory kept the Royals tied for third place in the International League with Toronto Maple Leafs, who beat Columbus Jets 7-3, Rochester Red-Wings a half-game behind Buffalo-Bisons and Miami Marlins were rained out of a doubleheader.

Buffalo and Havana Sugar Kings split a doubleheader, with the Bisons taking the seven-inning opener 3-1 and the Cubans coming back to win their first game of the year, 5-4 in 14 innings of the nightcap.

In Saturday games Richmond shut out Montreal 4-0, Buffalo beat Havana 8-5 and Columbus overpowered Toronto 7-1. Rochester at Miami was rained out.

Montreal had managed only five hits in two games prior to Sunday but broke into an extra-base barrage with a second-inning home run from Joe Altobelli and a two-run double by Curt Roberts in the fifth inning when the Royals scored six times against loser Bill Bethel and reliever Jack Monroe.

TWO-RUN SINGLE

Altobelli also contributed a two-run single while John Jacinto and Dermot Johnson of the Virginians homered against winner Rene Valdez.

Jim King and Clyde Parris homered for Toronto, which got only eight hits, half for extra bases, A double by winning pitcher Bob Chakales and Jack Waters' triple in a two-run sixth inning wrapped up things. Nino Escalera homered for Columbus Ron Blackburn was the loser.

Bob Morgan's two-run homer gave the Bisons their first-game victory. The Blue Jays' Jim Pendleton homered in the first game for Havana and singled home the winner in the nightcap.

Borrego Alvarez hit a two-run homer for the Cubans in the nightcap while Bill Taylor's inning, two-run pinch-hit homer forced the Cubans to score one in the bottom of the inning and send the game into extra innings.

SCHEDULE SET

BUFFALO (AP)—Buffalo Bills of the American Football League will clash with Denver Broncos here Sept. 18 in the opening game of the circuit's first season. The remainder of the Bills' home schedule: Oct. 2, Los Angeles Chargers; Oct. 16, New York Titans; Oct. 30, Oakland Raiders; Oct. 30, Houston Oilers; Nov. 6, Dallas Texans. All games are on Sunday afternoons.

TeePees Defeat Brockville, Enter Memorial Cup Finals

Ben BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees came roaring out of a slump Sunday to overpower Brockville Canadiens 6-3 and win admission to Canada's junior hockey classic, the Memorial Cup finals.

Teepees snapped a four-game winless streak to sideline the Canadiens in the eighth game of what had started out to be a best-of-seven set for the Eastern Canada junior title.

They open a best - of - seven national affair Wednesday night in St. Catharines against Edmonton Oil Kings, the western titlists. The second and third games are scheduled here Friday and Sunday.

COME FROM BEHIND

Teepees, who lost a 3-2 thriller to Canadiens Saturday night in Montreal, had to do it the hard way Sunday.

Canadiens got the jump on Teepees and were riding a 2-0 lead when the St. Catharines skaters suddenly found their stride and broke loose early in the second period. From that moment on the Teepees called the tune.

Murray Hall led the winners with two goals. John Brenneman, Duke Harris, Vic Hadfield and Chico Maki scored one apiece.

Germain Munger scored all three for Canadiens but he had to share star billing with goaler Serge Aubry who was tremendous in turning back the St. Catherines attackers in the last half of the game.

TURNS OUT BEST

The weekend's turn of events turned out best for Teepees. If they had won in Montreal they would have been faced with meeting Edmonton here Sunday and again in St. Catharines tonight. Tagged onto Friday night's 3-3 tie with Canadiens here, it would have meant playing on four successive nights in three different cities.

But Canadiens' come-from-behind win Saturday which tied up the series forced an eighth game and put the opening of the national finals off. Now Teepees get a three-day rest before heading into that one.

The situation also ruled out Edmonton's threat to boycott a Montreal series if Brockville had won. The Oil Kings said they would refuse to play more than one game in Montreal, where junior hockey playoffs get dismal crowd support.

About 1,200 turned out there Saturday night. The Toronto game Sunday drew 4,600 enthusiastic fans.

Canadiens took a 1-0 first-period lead on Munger's opener and in the second period, when Munger scored again, they were in full stride.

GOAL-A-MINUTE

But the Teepees reacted to Canadiens' second goal like a bull to a red flag. They exploded for three goals within three minutes.

Munger closed the gap to 4-3 but the Teepees slapped home two more in the late minutes of the third to clinch things. But for Aubry's fine work they would have had four or five more.

Saturday night's game was a reverse story. Teepees struck for a 3-1 lead in the first period on goals by Bill Speer and Pat Stapleton and seemed to have the situation well in hand.

Canadiens tied it up on second-period counters by Andre Drolet and Gilles Francoeur and then Drolet scored another in the third period which proved the winner.

The Saturday night game featured things all the way between the clubs at three wins one tie and 29 goals apiece.

Lacrosse Opens On May 20

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—The 24-game schedule of the Eastern Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series starts here May 20 with St. Catharines meeting Peterborough.

Brampton and Port Credit, other two teams in the loop, play at Port Credit May 20.

Former Peterborough player Bob Thorpe will coach St. Catharines. Nick Perry will handle the Brampton team and Elmer Lee has been named Port Credit coach.

American Runs Mile in 3:58.6

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Dyrol Burleson of Oregon summoned a final burst of speed and ran the mile in 3:58.6 Saturday, the fastest ever run by an American.

The slender 19-year-old trailed for three laps, then barried past Stanford's Ernie Cunliffe and won by 15 yards.

The world record is 3:54.5, set by Australia's Herb Elliot.

Burleson is the first American runner to meet the Olympic qualifying standard for the 1,500 metres at Rome. A runner must do the 1,500 in 3:46 or the mile in 4:02.0 this year to be able to compete in the 1960 Olympics. Besides that, he must finish 1-3-3 in the U.S. Olympics trials.

Saturday, in the Oregon-Stanford track meet Cunliffe finished in 4:06.4, also qualifying for the Olympics.

RECORD LEAF

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — John Thomas, 18-year-old Boston University sophomore, bettered the NCAA high jump record Sunday and equalled the American mark with a leap of seven feet, one-half inch.

Should Be a Few Rules About TV Mystery Dramas

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — There should be a few rules about the television mystery dramas. Some, of course, are well-known — the butler should never be the one who did it; it's too fair to keep off loveable characters—unpleasant people make better dramatic corpses.

And, even if you are John Dickson Carr, it is not fair to resolve a puzzle involving murder and 17th-century witchcraft into modern subtlety by having the villains a witch and a warlock. This isn't criticism, even if it's done tongue-in-cheek.

That is exactly what happened on NBC's Hour of Great Mysteries program Sunday night. The mystery was The Burning Court by Carr and adapted by William and Audrey Roos, who also knew its rules better than that.

Barbara Bel Geddes played Marie, the young suburban housewife, mother and pillar of the library fund drive who was really a vengeful French witch burned —unsuccessfully, obviously — at the stake in 1672.

George C. Scott, in a get-up that looked as if it had been left over from Shakespeare's Richard III, played her 1672 lover. They conspired to knock off a descendant of the judge who had sentenced them to the stake 350 years ago. The witchcraft angle was wonderful during the first half of the hour when they played it straight. Then all of a sudden everything went supernatural, and worse, cute.

NBC pulled together a lot of old newsreel clips and still photos of Princess Margaret, added a commentary to make it current, and called it Overture to a Royal Wedding. It didn't shed much new light on the subjects, but it was rather interesting to watch a little princess grow up in the spotlight.

CBS also dug into the film libraries to patch together a portrait of Florida's H. LaGuardia New York City's exciting and colorful mayor of the 1930s. But the result was hardly a penetrating portrait and was more a once-over-lightly of the more - familiar aspects of that busy, colorful man.

Tigers Look Best in Years, Say Veteran Baseball Heads

By DAVE DILES

DETROIT (AP) — Jimmie Dykes and Al Lopez, who have been in baseball business a long time, agree that Detroit Tigers' smashing start is real, but.

"It's never smart to get too enthusiastic this early," manager Dykes of the Tigers cautioned. "This is a game of heartbreaks."

Over in the Chicago White Sox dressing room, the Old Pro manager, looked a bit shell-shocked after taking a third straight game from the Tigers. The Tigers had just laced the Sox 12-4 for their fifth straight triumph.

"Just don't build them up too high," Lopez warned sports writers who asked him about the Tigers. "They still can fall down. Sure, they're off to a great start. But maybe we've been beat, too.

"It's just not fair to the club, or Jimmie Dykes, to get all keyed up. Don't forget—there are 149 games to play."

SEVEN YEARS

Veteran observers say the Tigers haven't looked this good in years.

They socked three more home runs Sunday and delighted a sell-out crowd of 25,680 that filled the three-game home stand to 104,069. It took the 1959 Tigers 11 home games to reach the 100,000 mark.

The muscular Tigers have hit 13 home runs in their last four games. Lightweight Casey Wise, a puny hitter who had only one previous big league roundtripper, led Detroit's 14-hit assault, two home runs, a triple and a single. He drove in five runs.

Catcher Lou Berberet drove in four runs with a first inning grand slam home run.

Dykes has been managing big league teams for 30 years and he couldn't recall a better start.

"I can remember 12 in a row at the start of the 1931 season when I was managing the old Philadelphia Athletics," Dykes said. "But they were all losers."

Kings' Coach Calls Tee Pees In Four Games

TORONTO (CP)—Leo Leclerc, manager of the Edmonton Eric Kings, does not give his team much of a chance against St. Catharines Teepees in the best-of-seven series for the Memorial Cup.

Leclerc, after watching the final game of the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup playoffs, said in an interview that the Teepees should edge out the Kings in four straight games.

"Sure I'm serious," Leclerc said. "We'd have had a chance against the Brockville Canadians but not against St. Catharines."

The Oil Kings are Western Canada junior champion.

Ebbets Field Mementos Go Under Gavel

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (AP)—The last mementos of Ebbets Field, the legend-packed home of the Dodgers baseball team for 45 years, went under the auctioneer's gavel Sunday.

From bats and bat racks to rod and bleacher seats, the corporation that took over when the Brooklyn club went to Los Angeles put up for sale what was left by the crews that have been pounding away at the world famous ballpark since demolition work began last summer.

From the proceeds, the corporation will build a little league stadium on a section of the site stadium on a section of the site that soon will be converted into a $22,500,000 housing project.

During the auction, Seymour Goldsmith, vice-president of the corporation, put up a sled home plate to Mickey McConnell of Williamsport, Pa., director of training for the little leagues. It will be installed as the home plate at the Ebbets Field Little League Park.

A crowd estimated at close to 1,000 attended the auction to buy pots of sod selling for 25 cents apiece, salvaged brick painted gold at $1 each, and bid on mementos ranging from home runs for "nights" presented to Gil Hodges and Pee-wee Reese, discarded bats, electrical fixtures, a few lockers, the pitcher's box, ushers' camps, and team photos and official schedules.

The original cornerstone, set on Jan. 5, 1912, was broken open with a sledge hammer. Inside a copper container were a picture of Charley Ebbets, president of the Dodgers when the park was built; letters from baseball greats congratulating the team on its new park, a copy of Admiral Peary's message to America that he had reached the north pole, a copy of the New York Morning Post of Jan. 5, 1912, five 1912 pennies and one 1911 penny, now worth about $7.50 in exchange value.

Scarboro Wins Pee Wee Hockey Grand Title

GODERICH (CP) — Scarborough Lions defeated Ste Hamburg 8-1 here Saturday night to capture the grand championship of the Young Canada Week pee wee hockey tournament.

Trenton Lions winning the AA series title Friday night, the well-drilled Lions had a relatively easy time in disposing of the Series C champions from New Hamburg.

Scarborough advanced to the grand championship match by defeating Oshawa, the A series champions, and Walkerton, the B series champions, by identical 3-0 scores. The Lions had previously captured both the Toronto Hockey League crown and the international pee wee championship in Quebec City.

New Hamburg, before bowing to the Lions, disposed of Lucan, winners of the D series, 10-4 behind the seven-goal scoring effort of captain Ron Ewing. Larry Lewis scored all four goals for Lucan who played the game with only nine players.

It was Stratford, not New Hamburg, that were the plaudits of Scarborough coach Bob Park as the tournament drew to a finish face in the nine-day tournament. "You're the finest team we've played all season anywhere," he told the A series champions in their dressing room following their 6-2 loss to Scarborough. Stratford received a little tougher than New Hamburg and Walkerton," Park added, "but they all were pretty troublesome."

Winnipeg defeated Goderich 8-4 in an exhibition game.

Bobby Locke Back in Action

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Golfer Bobby Locke, badly injured two months ago when his car was hit by a train as it crossing, is shooting in the low 70s again and confident he'll soon be as good as new.

"My left eye still is closed but it is coming around and can be opened with an effort now," Locke said Sunday. "It's just a matter of time for the muscles to heal and get workable again, then I should be as good as ever."

Locke, 43-year-old international veteran, resumed golfing two weeks ago and last week shot a 71.

Besides the eye, the only visible sign of the accident is a deep gash on his chin that still requires some treatment.

Jules Houot Gets Birdie, Hole-in-One

MONTREAL (CP) — Golf professional Jules Houot started off the 1960 season in charming style Saturday.

Playing his first game of the year on his home course at Beaconsfield, Que., Houot was pleased when he made a birdie 3 on the par five first hole, and almost overwhelmed when he shot a hole-in-one on the par three second hole.

It was the sixth hole-in-one of his 20-year career.

Houot turned the trick with a number seven iron. The distance was 145 yards, against a slight breeze.

Liston, Harris Meet Tonight

HOUSTON (AP)—Sonny Liston, the knockout king from Philadelphia, takes on Roy Harris tonight in a 10-round heavyweight match that also is the main event on live cards in 10 other cities.

The 11 p.m. San Houston Coliseum match will be carried by closed circuit television to eight arenas in six other states.

Liston, with 28 knockouts in his 28-1 record, is a 3-1 favorite. Harris is better known for ability to take punches than deliver.

The 30-1 record of the Cut and Shoot schoolteacher includes 22 decisions and only eight knockouts. Harris' lone loss was a twelfth round TKO from then champion Floyd Patterson in a title fight in 1958 in Los Angeles. Since then he has won seven straight.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Barr, Kenneth and Gary of Toronto, spent Good Friday with Mr. Barr's mother, Mrs. Lee Bradshaw, and Mr. Bradshaw. Other guests with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bradshaw for Easter and the weekend were Mrs. Geraldine Revelle, Buffalo, N.Y., and Constable and Mrs. Lorne Barr and son Robert, of Cornwall.

Mr. Vernon Crawford of Camp Borden, spent the week-end here with his wife and children.

Mrs. Dailey Cummings is on the sick list at here home. Mrs. Clifford Deforge is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. Their many friends wish them a speedy recovery to good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Henderson and son, Front Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cummings and son of Picton, spent Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Dailey Cummings'.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Moore of Madoc, spent the weekend with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cox.

Mrs. W. Akey, accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. Hollingsworth of Jason Staples of Belleville, spent Friday in Bloomfield.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. William Messer (nee Mary Akey) on the birth of a baby boy son, also to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cox on the arrival of their son. Both babies were born in Belleville General Hospital last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Akey and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dearborn and son of Belleville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey at Long Lake at their cottage.

Visitors for the Easter holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Payne, were Mr. and Mrs. George Lawrence and children of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Payne and daughter of Picton.

Pleased to report Mr. Daniel Sweeney has returned home from Belleville General Hospital improved.

Mrs. Reggie Cox and Mrs. Jones Akey are spending a few days in Toronto with relatives.

The many friends here of Mrs. Dorothy Hall were shocked suddenly on Tuesday in Belleville and extend sympathy to Mr. Barr and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cummings, Irma and Beverley spent the weekend at their cottage at the Maxinaw.

ALBURY — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stephen of Belleville spent a recent day with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson.

The girls of the T.P.U. sponsored a Miss Albury Bride-elect, at the school, on Wednesday evening. Twenty-eight ladies and girls were present. The bride-to-be was completely surprised and received many useful gifts. Delicious refreshments were served.

Congratulations to Norman Bradbury and Miss Jo Palmer who were married at Redcreek parsonage on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. I. Thompson is spending a short time in Toronto with her son, Gerald Thompson, and Mrs. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lovett, Peggy and Wendy, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck, for a few days.

Glad to report Mr. H. Hobbs returned home from Trenton Hospital after being ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Harry Peck returned to her home after spending the winter with Mrs. Bessie Weese.

Mr. Eric Peck left Albury on Friday after completing his term at Lengtville Agricultural School.

Miss Joan Onderdonk of Peterborough is visiting Albury and spending Easter holidays with her parents.

Mr. Neil Peck of Toronto spent the holiday weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Peck.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bradbury spent the weekend in Montreal with her parents.

Sorry to report Mr. Roy Williamson on the sick list. All wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Weese, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Onderdonk, Mr. and Mrs. B. Peck and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Peck were among the friends entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vanallet on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Petherick of Campbellford spent Easter with her sister, Mrs. Belle Onderdonk.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Brey and Mr. and Mrs. B. Peck and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson.

A good number attend the Easter service on Sunday afternoon at Albury United. Rev. Klippen delivered the sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weese and Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck and Pamela spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Eastler with Mr. and Mrs. Mac Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Crook.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Russell entertained friends on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Lancombe and family, London, spent the holiday weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Don Dempsey.

ESP "Tite-Lap" for straighter, tighter SIDING and ROOFING
"Tite-Lap"
In Galvanized and Aluminum

Continuous Roll Forming — Keeps ribs parallel throughout the length of each sheet — gives tight, even fit.
Cross Ribs — Prevents buckling, warping and syphoning at ends. Gives positive protection against wind lifting.
In Galvanized and Aluminum — 32 inches covering width. Stocked in lengths up to 12 feet. Available up to 20 feet. Aluminum sheets are cross-crimped before being ribbed.
ESP "Lad-Hed" Weather Seal Nails — Spiral screw shank cannot pull out or shake loose. Lead seal beneath nail head extends down shank — gives complete, positive seal.

Stock Promoter Given 6 Years For Wash-Trade

TORONTO (CP) — Stock promoter Albert Goold was sentenced Friday to six years in penitentiary on four counts of wash - trading and fraud. He pleaded guilty Wednesday.

Mr. Justice E. G. Thompson said Goold's sentence was "not vindictive but adequate." He said it was the first conviction for wash-trading in Canada.

Goold, 46, was sentenced to three years concurrent on each of three charges of wash-trading in Cabanga Development Limited shares and six years concurrent on a charge of defrauding a New York firm of $315,000. His sentences will run concurrent with a six-year term he now is serving for defrauding Cabanga of $458,000.

"You are obviously a man of experience, of standing in the community and of intelligence," Mr. Justice Thompson told Goold. "Although your crimes are not crimes of violence, they take on a particularly sinister aspect. They are hidden beneath a cloak of respectability and are most difficult to detect.

"Your actions must have been calculated to undermine one of the basic institutions of our economic life. Such conduct cannot be tolerated and must be dealt with seriously."

Evidence was that Goold, who became president of Cabanga in 1957, began wash - trading soon after gaining control of the firm.

Wash-trading involves the sale and purchase of stock by the same person, creating a false impression of market activity.

NIGHT-LONG RIOTS ROCK RHEE'S RULE

Six-Mile Limit One Vote Short Of Becoming Law

World Maritime Parley Fails to Reach Accord

GENEVA (CP) — The world maritime conference failed today by a single vote to set a new universal limit for territorial waters and exclusive fishing rights.

The proposal was voted 54 to 28 in favor of a Canadian-American proposal for a six-mile limit for territorial waters with countries to have exclusive fishing rights for six more miles beyond their territorial waters after 1970.

But the vote was one short of the necessary two-thirds majority. If only one of the 29 opposing delegations had voted in favor, the proposal would have been carried and would automatically have become international law.

It was the third failure in 30 years to reach universally recognized agreement on territorial waters and fishing rights.

FIVE COUNTRIES ABSTAIN

There were five abstentions in the vote and the 83 countries attending the conference — Lebanon could not attend today's final session.

The proposal, a compromise between Canada and the United States put before the conference by the two countries, would give countries with historic fishing rights within a six-mile limit the continued right to operate there for 10 years.

Before the final vote the conference adopted a simultaneous to the proposal put forward by Brazil, Cuba and Uruguay which would have granted further preferential fishing rights to coastal states. But this failed to swing support behind the plan to win its approval.

The conference resoundingly rejected an Canadian plan which would have given preferential fishing rights to countries whose economies depend on coastal fishing. The vote was 25 in favor, 37 against and 20 abstentions.

OPPOSED BY RUSSIA

Russia and the Soviet bloc opposed the American-Canadian plan and backed a proposal to have the whole issue of the territorial sea back to the United Nations for at least another year. The Soviet-backed proposal was voted down.

Bitter opposition to the proposal also came from many members of the Latin-American and African blocs. These countries held out for a flat extension of territorial waters from the traditional three miles to 12 miles.

The main Western seafaring powers vigorously objected to extending territorial waters to 12 miles, but offered the six-plus-six formula in an effort to compromise.

REVERSE SETBACK

Immediately after the vote, U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean appealed for reconsideration of the narrow decision to save the conference from collapse. But Ahmad Shukairi of Saudi Arabia, chief spokesman for the Israelite group, said the decision had been taken. He said it would be "contrary to rules opposed to the Canadian-American proposal would not receive 2/3 votes in a new vote" and reached a two-thirds majority in the proposal's favor.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Heavy snow was reported in southern Manitoba and northwestern Ontario overnight and this area of precipitation extends southeastward to central Ontario but changes to rain in the vicinity of northern Georgian Bay.

Overnight temperatures ranged from near 40 along the lower lakes to the mid-20s in northern areas. This storm centre is moving eastward south of the lakes and will carry the area of precipitation with it. Wednesday is expected to bring some let up in precipitation but cloudy cool weather will continue.

JUDGE QUESTIONS STATEMENTS IN REBRIN CASE

Minister's Authority Will Be Argued

VANCOUVER (CP)—Why has Irene Rebrin been branded a security risk by Immigration Minister Fairclough?

Has the minister acted within the authority of the Immigration Act?

Is there relevancy between Mrs. Fairclough's actions and the validity of the deportation order against the 33-year-old University of British Columbia lecturer?

These questions were raised Monday during the second day of hearings before Mr. Justice T. G. Norris on application to have Miss Rebrin released from custody and the order quashed.

The nine-a-m Court justice raised the first two questions and Harvey T. Grey, senior counsel for the Immigration department, the latter.

All were expected to be tools of further argument when the case resumes today.

Mr. Justice Norris questioned the reason for Mrs. Fairclough stating in the House of Commons April 7 that Miss Rebrin was being deported on security grounds based on classified information. He wondered whether the minister had authority to take the act for the action she took.

Mr. Grey said the deportation order should stand because it was valid when first issued on the basis of a special inquiry officer's decision on Miss Rebrin's application for permanent residence in Canada.

This decision had been based on the fact Miss Rebrin did not qualify under Resolution 20 of the act, which specifies the classifications of persons who may qualify to become immigrants to Canada. Previously, outside the court, it was reported Miss Rebrin does not qualify because she is stateless.

Mr. Grey said the minister was bound to uphold this original decision whatever or not she had additional information when she considered the case in appeal. She could exercise discretionary powers only after having dealt with the appeal.

He objected to submission in evidence of copies of Hansard in which Mrs. Fairclough's remarks concerning security are quoted.

Miss Rebrin's counsel, Hugh C. Shumiatcher of Regina, had suggested the closing his statement that not even God and His omnipotent power would seek to exercise it in the manner in which the immigration minister had sought to exercise her power in this case, God did not sentence Adam without first asking him for his side of the story.

Dr. Shumiatcher said the order should be quashed because:

Chou and Nehru Even Differ on Results of Talk

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru and Premier Chou En-lai today ended a week of talks on their border dispute without any visible progress toward an agreement.

In a joint communique they said their talks had led to "greater understanding" of each government's viewpoint "but did not resolve their differences."

Nehru rejected a proposal by Chou that India abandon her claim to 15,000 square miles in the Ladakh sector of Kashmir. Chou in return had offered to leave to India the 12,000 square miles of the northeast frontier which both India and China claim.

"There can be no question of bartering away this area; its ownership by India is a settled fact," Nehru told reporters at the airport immediately after seeing Chou off to Nepal.

IN EXCHANGE

Before winding up his week-long visit, Chou told a press conference he had offered to abandon Peking's claims to the northeast frontier territory in exchange for the Ladakh sector on India's northwest.

The Red Chinese premier said India was "not entirely agreed," but claimed the border dispute was "settled" as a result of his 21 hours of talks with Nehru.

Commenting on Chou's remarks, Nehru told reporters that the Chinese leader's facts "are so basically different from ours that naturally conclusions differ, too."

Nehru said the week-long negotiations brought "more leeway in the basic tensions" but added that feeling was not so bitter as during the border skirmishes last year in which 12 Indians were killed.

Child Drowned

WILKESPORT (CP) — Wayne Lake, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lake, drowned Monday in the rain-swollen waters of a drain on the parents' farm, about 3 miles southeast of here. Wilkesport is about 22 miles northwest of Chatham.

Fearing Witnesses May Be Jailed, Defence Lawyers Quit Treason Trial

PRETORIA (Reuters)—All defence lawyers today withdrew from the mass treason trial here on the instructions of the 30 accused.

The defendants told their counsel in a statement in protest after the court ruled that the trial must continue despite the resignations over the prospect that the freedom of those testifying for the defence might be threatened.

The 30 have been on trial since 1956. Originally 156 persons, both Negro and white, went on trial but charges were dismissed or dropped against the others. However, the government is preparing new indictments against many of these former defendants.

Today's hearing resumed after a week-long adjournment so the defence lawyers could withdraw from the case.

The government could give assurances that evidence given by witnesses would not result in their arrest under emergency regulations now in force.

Justice J. de Vos told the court today that the emergency regulations imposed on the country March 30 had been amended so that witnesses now cannot be affected by the evidence they may give.

Israel Maisels, one of the defence lawyers, said the new amendment to the emergency regulations did not change the situation. If a person drew attention to himself by appearing as a defence witness there was nothing to prevent a police officer from discovering other reasons to arrest him, aside from his evidence.

Exchange of Trade Missions With Russia May Be Result Of Pact Says Trade Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—The foundation has been laid for "closer and more fruitful" trade co-operation between Canada and Russia, Trade Minister Churchill told the Commons Monday.

As an outgrowth of the negotiations leading to the new three-year Canada-U.S.S.R. trade pact, he said, the two countries will try this year to arrange an exchange of trade missions.

Mr. Churchill said such missions would be in addition to the new agreement's requirement for annual government consultations. He added that the scope of the new pact has been widened to permit representations on all matters affecting Russian-Canadian commercial relations.

This would allow Canada — if necessary — to take up with Russia "any special problems which may be encountered in respect of the sale in world markets of Soviet products in which Canada is a substantial export interest."

Mr. Churchill did not elaborate on this point.

However, he did dwell at length on two Associated Press reports from Moscow, the first quoting Premier Khrushchev as saying there that Canada would be willing to sell uranium to Russia and that the Russians wanted it.

Questions in the Commons on April 14 and 16 "are false in their entirety," Mr. Churchill told the Commons.

The minister said his first meeting with AP reporter A. L. Goldberg was in a Moscow hotel corridor April 14 and lasted about 30 seconds. He said Mr. Goldberg asked whether, if Russia wanted to buy Canadian uranium, Canada would be willing to sell.

". . . The question was obviously hypothetical and I did not answer it. My only comment was: 'Canada has plenty of uranium.'"

The AP reporter then "proceeded to file his report and to invent an answer which I did not give and to accept a question which he did not ask—namely, about the Russians wanting Canadian uranium."

Mr. Churchill said that at an April 16 press conference Mr. Goldberg attended but asked no questions and instead interviewed him afterwards at a private meeting.

He had hoped that he would correct his first dispatch and that

2 Bancroft Area Secondary Highways Badly Flooded

By The Canadian Press

The prospect of several flood-threatened areas of Ontario grew worse today with a forecast of at least half an inch of rain over some southern sections of the province during the day.

Peterborough and Sault Ste. Marie districts and the area northwest of Ottawa-Kapuskasing flood threat from a combination of heavy rain and the spring thaw.

The weather office expected fairly heavy showers during the day to reach as far north as Muskoka and east to Peterborough, where the flood situation today was reported out of control. The weather disturbance was expected to touch on the Soo area.

Six highways in the Soo and Kawartha regions were reported closed by flooding or muddiness.

Average Monday backed up into 72 homes in the flat south end of Peterborough, where the Otonabee River rose above the city's sewer outlet.

Six families left their homes in the city. The Red Cross was standing by in case further evacuations were necessary. The rising waters were not expected to reach into the city proper.

Water levels in the Trent Canal system were approaching record levels. Low-lying cottages in the Burwood and Bewdley areas on the southernmost drinking water.

Shore of Rice Lake were flooded as the lake rose to its highest level in several years.

About 50 cottages were surrounded by water from the Otonabee River at Lakefield Bay, about 15 miles upriver from Peterborough. The spring runoff not reached its peak and the worst was yet to come.

At Brianaila Bay in west-end Ottawa the river level was nearing the 20-foot above the 19-year average mark and only 2.8 feet short of last year's peak of 183-9 feet at May 4.

Two inches of rain fell in the Sault Ste. Marie area. Residents were warned to stay off their lawns. No damage.

The Trans-Canada Highway was blocked Monday 25 miles north of the Soo, with a foot of water over the Goulais River. Also forced closure of Highway 129 south of Chapleau.

In the Bancroft area secondary Highway 515 was flooded from the east of Lochinvar Bridge, while the south branch of the Madawaska River spilled on several places to a depth of up to three feet.

Highway 127 was flooded in places but was still open Monday.

Highway 507 was blocked two miles north of Peterborough.

Two schools in Bicaard township near Sudbury were closed because of suspected pollution of flooded wells.

300 DIVORCE BILLS BOTTLED UP BY CCF FILIBUSTER

Not Likely to Get Through in Session

OTTAWA (CP) — Unless something unforeseen happens, some 300 divorce cases from Quebec and Newfoundland appear destined to remain bottled up in the Commons for the rest of the session.

The CCF party, determined to force the House out of the divorce - granting business, filibustered Monday for five hours and succeeded in blocking action on all but two of 325 cases pending.

Even the two did not finally escape the merry-go-round. They were given second reading when the CCF speakers, Frank Howard and Arnold Peters, ran out of debating points, but third and final reading will have to wait for a subsequent session.

In previous sessions, the Commons has passed divorce bills en bloc after they had received detailed consideration in Senate and Commons committees. Only cases from Quebec and Newfoundland, which have no divorce courts, are considered by Parliament.

Monday was the session's sixth and final full private members' day. Under the rules, no private bills have precedence. From now on, Ottawa announced his decision to resign "if the people want." It will be another visit from U.S. Ambassador Walter P. McConaughy. He was accompanied by U.S. Gen. Carter B. Magruder, the United Nations commander in South Korea, and the Korean Army chief of staff, Lt.-Gen. Song Yo-chan, who has been directing martial law.

News that Rhee had ordered the army to leave his post and declare new elections turned the demonstrations into a wild orgy of looting.

"This is the victory of the people of the young generation," cried a 21-year-old college student. "The dictatorship is over. I hope we have real democracy now."

RESIGNS RHEE'S HOME

Unopposing crowds besieged Rhee's hillside mansion. There a cordon around the broad avenue leading to the capitol.

A crowd pulled down statues of Rhee from their pedestals and dragged them through the streets.

Soldiers, in the city to enforce martial law, stood out of sight or mingled with the jubilant crowds.

But there still was some question about just where Rhee, a dictator for 12 years, stood cut down. Some said it might be Vice-President Lee Ki-poong. Rhee finally agreed it was what "the people want."

Nearly all observers agreed Rhee could not win re-election. He had already burnt out again st any moment.

But the future is uncertain. He could run again in new elections, to be held within 30 days of when his resignation became effective, and in fact he indicated to one group yesterday he would be a candidate.

He has said he agrees to constitutional amendments establishing a cabinet responsible to parliament and limiting powers to a premier. This would end the dictatorial powers of Rhee and his Liberal party.

Rhee's prospective resignation raised a question of who would take over the reins of government

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Tens of thousands of jubilant students celebrated widely today as protests generated by a week of violence pushed the 12-year rule of President Syngman Rhee toward collapse.

After all-night street demonstrations, the 85-year-old president offered to resign as head of the South Korean republic he founded. The National Assembly declared it at once.

At least 15 demonstrators were killed and 1,000 were wounded today in Seoul, bringing the official toll in the week-long uprising to 145 dead and more than 800 wounded.

Crowds of students smashed into the home of Vice-President-elect Lee Ki-poong and killed Lee, elected in the suspect March 15 election, has been the target of violent student anger. Today he disappeared to an unknown spot.

ATTACK POLICE STATION

Another crowd of students and street urchins attacked and burned a police station. Before they fled through a back door, they dragged the body six suspects and wounding 30.

Ambassador Walter P. Rhee announced his decision to resign "if the people wish." It was the other visit from U.S. Ambassador Walter P. McConaughy. He was accompanied by U.S. Gen. Carter B. Magruder, the United Nations commander in South Korea, and the Korean Army chief of staff, Lt.-Gen. Song Yo-chan, who has been directing martial law.

But there still was some question about just where Rhee, a dictator for 12 years, stood cut down. Some said it might be Vice-President Lee Ki-poong. Rhee finally agreed it was what "the people want."

Nearly all observers agreed Rhee could not win re-election. He had already burnt out again st any moment.

But the future is uncertain. He could run again in new elections, to be held within 30 days of when his resignation became effective, and in fact he indicated to one group yesterday he would be a candidate.

He has said he agrees to constitutional amendments establishing a cabinet responsible to parliament and limiting powers to a premier. This would end the dictatorial powers of Rhee and his Liberal party.

Rhee's prospective resignation raised a question of who would take over the reins of government

Assembly Turns on Him, Calls for New Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the 16 Allied nations which fought in the Korean War were called together today to confer on the situation in Korea.

The extraordinary session was set up as developments in the Korean crisis brought the regime of President Syngman Rhee tottering toward collapse.

The meeting was arranged by the United States. It is known that there are questions among some of the Allied representatives as to how much assistance the United States has issued in prodding the Korean government to take corrective action to satisfy grievances of the Korean electorate.

Some Allied Asian diplomats say privately they feel the U.S. has gone too far in backing the Rhee regime without providing for an adequate substitute.

In advance of the meeting, South Korean Ambassador Yoo Chan Yang said he is publishing his resignation because "I have made mistakes."

Labor Congress President Proposes Workers Boycott S. African Goods

MONTREAL (CP)—The executive council of the Canadian Labor Congress today proposed that Canadian workers join in a worldwide boycott of South African consumer goods starting next Sunday.

The proposal, introduced as an emergency resolution by CLC president Claude Jodoin, was turned over to the congress' international affairs committee for study.

It was expected to be returned to the convention floor later today for debate and a vote from 1,800 delegates at the week-long conference.

"Canadian workers, by joining this world-wide boycott of South African goods, will be giving expression to their deep-felt sympathy for the victims of this apartheid policy and their indignation at the inhuman policies of present government of South Africa," said the resolution.

The CLC proposal also called on the Canadian government to withdraw its High Commissioner and also at the forthcoming Commonwealth prime ministers' talks in London — "all measures in condemnation of the policies of the government of South Africa."

"Should such efforts fail the Canadian Labor Congress urges the exclusion of the government of South Africa from the councils of the Commonwealth of nations," said the proposed resolution.

STAMP COLLECTORS INVITE VISITORS

Stamp collectors and all those interested in this fascinating hobby are being extended an invitation to attend the 25th meeting of the Quinte Stamp Club.

The club members meet on the second and fourth Thursdays each month, at the Kinsmen Hall, Belleville. Time 7:30. Old and visitors are always welcome at any meeting of the club. However, they will miss all features at this Thursday's meeting which should be more than usual interest. There will be an informal array of pages of the members' stamps; also an interesting talk conducted by program chairman Gordon Ayre.

In addition, the exhibition of Northern Electric Stamp Club will be moved to Kiwanis Centennial Corby Public Library. These frames will be on display.

Collectors, particularly boys and Scouts working on the collector's badges, should see these displays to be very helpful.

Concert Band Will Make Debut At Collegiate

A new musical organization will come into being in the city. Its "forte" will be pop music and the lighter classics.

Consisting of some 34 pieces, the new organization is known as the Belleville Collegiate Concert Band. It is under the direction of Clifford Templer.

It makes its city debut in the high auditorium tomorrow evening starting at 8:30.

Assisting will be Patricia Downes, soprano, and Greg Bolger, well-known concert pianist of this city.

Forming the nucleus of the Concert Band is a group of professional musicians of the city. These have been augmented by some brilliant amateur instrumentalists.

Most of the members can "double", as other instruments giving the Concert Band a wide range of artistry.

The band is comprised of five trumpets, six clarinets, two saxophones, three trombones, French and English horns, two string basses, drums and bass drums.

Originally the band started as a "fun group" consisting of professional artists from the Concert Band, Dixieland Five orchestras, and some amateur musicians.

The results actually surprised those taking part. They decided to make the organization a permanent musical body.

Under the direction of Mr. Templer, the band has been rehearsing consistently since the middle of January.

Observers and others who have "listened" to rehearsals say the band is definitely an outstanding organization. It is one of the first, if not the first, of its kind to be organized in the city. Those who have heard it have a bright future for it.

Included in the personnel of the band are such well-known musicians as Larry Brown, Joe Barehill, Don Lockyer, Alan Mitchell, Stan Wiggins, Dave Brackenbury, Jim Hawley and others.

The band's debut at the Collegiate Institute tomorrow night is expected to attract a large crowd of city music lovers.

Plumbers Sign New Wage Pact

A contract signed yesterday evening marked the successful conclusion of wage negotiations between the members of the Belleville Master Plumbers' Association and the International Local 320 of the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry of the United States and Canada.

Negotiations have been going on for some time. It had expired and the new contract replaces the wishes signed on April 15th. The new agreement will be in effect for the two years and provides for two increases in the regular intervals during this period. Overall is the agreement for the master plumbers, said this morning that "it is not anticipated that the charge rate will be increased to the general public."

Representatives of the six firms involved met with representatives for the six shops together with Harold Blakeley, union business and building trades in this area, and Lorne Burrows, head of the local union. Mr. Blakeley was chairman of negotiations.

Children's Aid Goes in Red, Board Happy as This Means Fewer Children Need Help

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society, Mr. J. A. Hyde, the treasurer, reported that at the end of March the Society's expenditure was $4,000 greater than its income.

"This," said he, "of receiving in full to the fine job being done by the staff. At the beginning of 1959 there were 300 children in ward care. At the end of March we had 190. Contrary to usual business practice, the harder the staff works, the more children go out of care and the further we go in debt. We had high hopes of receiving our accumulated deficit of more than $13,000 this year. It now looks as though that will be increased rather than reduced. However, despite the fact that the Society loses, the general welfare of the children, which of course are the most important, stand to gain. Only a tremendous effort to find new and adoptable children into care in the next few months will keep us from again ending the year in the red."

BUDGET GRANT

Mr. C. B. Morgan, the president, who was in the chair, informed the meeting that a joint committee of board members and county council representatives had been appointed to discuss increased financial assistance to the Society in support of protection and prevention services in Hastings County.

The first joint meeting of this meeting was attended by Mr. W. J. Bowen, Minister of child welfare for the Province of Ontario. The Society plans to ask the county for a grant of $6,000 in 1960, an increase of $250 over the $5,750 requested last year. The county contributed $5,000 in 1959.

Mr. Earl Sager, Warden of the County, said that he was dissatisfied with the increase in the grant that he felt the County should have to pay. He said that the grant in view of the fact that accumulated many more children in the county than the city, then did either Belleville or Trenton. He also stated that the grant was made in support of protection services only and was not related to the maintenance of children in ward care. It was pointed out by the members that the Society had working in the Belleville, Trenton and the Society had three workers, one in Bancroft, one in Hastings County and the fourth to travel between the Town of Trenton and the Mohawk Indian Reserve. The grant is at present divided equally among the three municipalities.

Mr. Bruce Kerr, the local Director of Welfare, is also on the ward care of the Society at the end of March. The number of wards in care is down thanks to the untiring efforts of the staff to make a permanent plan for every child as speedily as possible following admission to the care of the Society. During the first three months of the year 16 children were admitted and 26 discharged. Seven were admitted during March, two as ward and five as non-wards at the request of Welfare Department of the Town of Trenton. In the latter case the mother was in hospital and the Society cared for the children until her return home.

FIFTEEN ADOPTED

"Fifteen children have been placed in adoption this year," Mr. Kerr continued. "In addition to this five children have been brought into the area for placement with families for whom we did not have children locally. This inter-agency placement service is working very successfully. It has been the means of us placing a great number of hard-to-place children in permanent homes. Naturally, if we are to have the assistance of other agencies in the placement of our children, we have to be willing to assist in the mis the placement of theirs".

The Society also made application for 60 cases of diseased pork luncheon meat which the Province of Ontario Welfare agencies and welfare departments of the government.

This will be used in Receiving Homes and summer camps for children in the counties as the need arises.

Mr. Kerr also said that the Ontario Hospitals Services Commission has advised that since the Province of Ontario no longer provides hospital coverage there will be only three months waiting period following the registration of a ward with the Commission.

"The first three months are very important in so far as the percentage of children are either admitted to hospital immediately on apprehension or placed afterwards. We will now be required to pay for all cases during this period. While last year's figure was a record one we think we might review the situation. In any case, the children are all covered".

VACANCIES FILLED

Mr. Kerr reported that while at the moment there is a full staff staffed, al vacancies, with the exception of the child prevention worker for the County of Hastings, had been filled. Interviews are being continued, "as new workers will be hired in September and till after university graduation or exercise after the first week in June. I am very pleased with the high calibre of the people we have been able to secure in this area. I expect them to make a real contribution to our work amongst children".

Mrs. Spence Wonnacott, Mrs. R. Chesney and Mrs. Ivan Fo Followil were appointed to attend the annual meeting and conference of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies at Toronto on May 4th, 5th and 6th.

Rev. Morry Worozby Presents Charter to C.S. Boys' Brigade

"The priceless treasure of boyhood is faith in unlikely things, his high store of idealism, his artless candor, his power to love and preserve these, we have made men. We have made citizens. We have made our country safe".

Herbert Hoover, and from watching the Church Parade of the Boys' Brigade held last evening at the Alliance Church, it may be added, "We have made God-fearing citizens of Canada".

The Canadian Service Brigade is a Christ-centered boys' Club organization which provides a well-rounded program for boys ranging from eight to 18 years. It becomes the local church's own boys' club, under the sponsorship of the church and the supervision of the church committee.

"It is a national organization and each local group needs a definite set of standards with the gang working together, and standing for the fundamentals of the Christian religion, truth and authority of the Scripture".

The 20 boys who assembled last evening in the lower auditorium of the church with their four Rangers paraded at the characteristic enthusiasm noted by ex-president Hoover, as they went through the manoeuvres of "hoisting the stockade', in all its precise manoeuvres.

CHARTER PRESENTED

The highlight of the meeting was the presentation of the Charter to the chief Ranger, Mr. Frank Allan, by the Reverend Morry Worozby, of Hamilton, who read the rules and explained the aims of the brigade. Membership cards were also presented, the collection of 'shares' made which are being used for the upkeep of the brigade in various activities. The commit-tee, includes; the Reverend Bachelor Elmore, pastor of the church; Frank Allan, Chief Ranger; Bill Redberg; Alf Rodgers; Gordon Churchill, Sr.

An interesting item of the evening was the showing of a colored film of "Who Say Camp for boys, near Haliburton with its several activities, and the daily routine beginning at 6.30 a.m. with prayers at 7.00 a.m. After the various exercises are given keeping the boys fit for the day and at 9.30 a time of Bible Study and Mr. Roland Beckett, director of camp, all boys seeking to enter, must have a medical examination as to health, and freedom from any disease such as mumps.

CRAFTS TAUGHT

Crafts are also taught and awards made; also the use of rifles, horsemanship and archery. The crafts include leather work, such as moccasins worn by the boys at camp, woodcraft, map reading, and outdoor life, including softball, canoe handling, swimming, and watermelon races in water.

A time of sing-song is also enjoyed around the campfire.

Following the explanation of various parts of the uniform the builders' sentinels, and block-house were outlined by the guest Ranger, Worozby, who concluded the evening with games, ending with a story of "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends" which portrayed how a father gave his life to save his son from the wolves which followed them home, comparing the love of a human father to that of the love of Jesus who died for all.

Mr. Palmer dismissed the assembly with prayer.

Presbyterian Student Choir To Sing Here

Twenty-four young women members of the choir of the Presbyterian Missionary and Deaconess Training School in Toronto are visiting Belleville this week.

The choir will sing, and members of the choir will speak, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on the corner of Church and Victoria Avenue, Wednesday at 8.00 p.m.

Each spring the Presbyterian Church in Canada invites some of its students preparing for full-time vocations in the church to join a part of the dominion. In addition to presenting some of the great music of the church, the purpose of such a tour is to interest other young people in full-time service in the church.

The Missionary and Deaconess Training School is the one educational institution of the Presbyterian Church in Canada for the training of young women for deaconess, Christian education and missionary work in Canada and overseas. Graduates of the choir come from all but two of the provinces of Canada, plus one from Bermuda and one from Jamaica of Hungary. Included in the membership are also the husband of Deaconess Mary Hazel and daughters of the school who will, following the tour, transfer across the dominion from Victoria and Halifax to begin their work. One of the graduates is now living in the year for work in Formosa.

The principal of the school, Miss Margaret Webster, is accompanying the tour. The choir is under the direction of Henry Hoover of Toronto, director and interpreter of church music.

IN MEMORIAM

FITZGIBBON. — In loving memory of Mrs. Lena Fitzgibbon, who passed away April 25th, 1959.

Her memory is as sacred today,
As in the hour she passed away.
—Ever remembered by Edward, Gordon, Goldie, Wilfrid, Martin and families.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Edward Hamilton wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbors for remembrances, cards, flowers, visits, calls and all acts of kindness during illness. It was a real comfort to receive so much attention.

The questions covered the entire gamut of hockey and a number of interesting points were discussed. One was the road to highline, national league hockey. It was at this point in the talk that the speaker entered the picture. Bobby Hull's hockey career was followed by a number of years away from home with a hockey club before he returned and back at home in Point Anne for the summer.

Mr. Hull thanked the people of "his village" for their interest and the Canada Council for their help during this period. He mentioned that he was especially grateful for the celebration held in his honor and the gifts of him and his wife on May 2.

Bob Hutchinson introduced Bobby Hull and the thanks of the club were expressed by Walter Elliott. A sing-song was conducted by Ernie Garnett with Ernie Burnham at the piano. The guests were entertained by George MacIlhern. Birthday good wishes were extended to Freeman Burrows and Lee Grills.

In the absence of club president Bill Hurst, the meeting was chaired by Harold Mott.

New City Manager Welcomed By Council at Session Which Saw Little Business Done

Belleville taxpayers will learn the 1960 mill rate on Wednesday when the current year's budget will be up for approval at a special meeting of city council.

This was decided Monday by city councillors following their regular meeting. The budget meeting will be called for 4:30 Wednesday afternoon.

Alderman William Jarvah noted that the year's budget was virtually completed and ready for presentation. Last minute discussions with the High School Board with the view of having this board irim its estimates, had complicated presentation of the year's budget.

There was little business of major importance at yesterday's meeting of the city fathers who officially welcomed the new city manager Mr. J. J. Reynolds. Mr. Reynolds assumed his new duties yesterday.

No action was taken with respect to the appointment of transportation commission members. A recommendation naming three men to the new commission was ready for presentation but at the last minute one of the three proposed names decided to step down and the recommendation was withdrawn.

Chairman of the special bus committee Alderman Ben Corke said it was hoped that a recommendation for appointment of the three man commission could be presented at Wednesday's meeting.

GIVE AUTHORITY

Council gave the city industrial commission authority to proceed with negotiations with the provincial government for secure lands south of Highway 401 as potential industrial land.

Alderman Jack Ireland said the Commission would not have the authority to purchase the land but approval of this year's council was being requested to allow the commission to proceed with negotiations. He said the cost of the property might run around $30,000 which possibly could be spread over several years.

Council approving the sale of 12 acres of land on the industrial site on Dundek Street to Nicholas Mika at $1,500 per acre. The property would be used to erect a building to carry on screening process.

The appointment of James Alexander as parking meter winder and enforcement officer for city parking commission was approved. Mr. Alexander will replace William T. Evans who has resigned.

By-laws for the erection of school additions at Prince Charles School and at King George School were approved.

Alderman Jack Ellis, chairman of public works, gave notice of motion to the effect that on the next meeting of council he would move for the city solicitor to prepare the necessary by-laws for the preparation of plans and the calling of tenders for the construction of a sewage disposal plant in the city.

Residents in the Stanley Park sub-division who are dissatisfied with road conditions should make their complaints to the sub-divider and not to the city, Alderman Ellis said in answer to a question had not yet been taken over by the city from the sub-divider as they had not been brought up to standard and they were still the responsibility of the subdivider.

And at least one Belleville resident is disturbed that high calibre council material could not be persuaded to continue to offer their services to the city with the small remuneration paid council members.

Deputy City Clerk Adam Stalker read a letter from K. T. Wheeler, 2 Second Street, who said that he had been following council activities through press and radio, noting that in general the current councillors were both capable and efficient.

He added, however, that it was a disturbing feature that with the present councillor remuneration of $400 the retiring councillor could not be expected to continue to attract such high calibre.

The letter met with good reception on the part of council and it was referred to the executive committee for possible future action.

Boys' Stamp Club Meets Weekly With 6 Members

TRENTON — Mr. Bert Copeland of 102 West St. started a stamp club for his son and his son John's friends. The six boys, John Copeland, Paul Degroot, Martin Degroot, Wayne Hayward, Blair Harvey and Harold Heyward, meet every Monday night at the Copeland home. There they display the stamps they have acquired during the week and carefully place them in albums. Of course, a great deal of trading goes on during the meetings. Each boy may spend 25c a week on stamps, and no more. This rule was passed to keep the club on a democratic basis.

Three cents a week are paid by each boy for "dues". Mr. Copeland, who along with Carl Weese is subsidizing the club for the moment, supplies pop and ice cream, but the boys expect to be able to pay for their own treats as soon as their ducs build up.

Mr. Copeland says that in every case the boys' marks at school have improved since joining the club. He think collecting and cataloguing stamps tends to make youngsters think in an orfashion.

He hopes that once the has got under way each will start another small cl his own home, thus spre the idea around the neig hood.

Boycotts and Expulsions

The April issue of "Foreign Trade," the official publication of the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce, carries an article on Canada's trade with South Africa.

It would be interesting to learn when this article was prepared. Is it just a co-incidence that it appears as demands are being made that Canada boycott all South African goods as a protest against the policy of apartheid? If not, what significance are we to place on it? Should it be regarded as an attempt to forestall a rising demand for a boycott, by showing increases in the trade South Africa of wheat, hops, leather, wood pulp, paper, sprint, cotton fabrics, rubber products, and other primary form, bookkeeping and calculating machines and replugs, drugs and chemicals and aircraft? Or is it aimed to correct the statement, which we are sure have been in one publications, that Canada exports to South Africa than it imports from that country when the reverse is true?

In any event, the only justification for any boycott of trade with South Africa would have to be a matter of principle and it would be a sorry nation which, in such circumstances, would base the issue on the basis of the repercussions of such a boycott on the home market, rather than on the benefit or harm it would cause of justice in South Africa.

The latest call for a trade boycott comes from the United Steelworkers of America, Canada's largest single union. The national policy convention of the union supported a now-familiar demand that South Africa should get out of the Commonwealth if its government is not prepared to revise its apartheid policies. Both the cost and the demand that the Commonwealth expel South Africa are complex questions, demanding the most careful study. Before any responsible trade union body, surely some study should be made of the possible effects on the various elements of the South African population.

As for the demand that South Africa be expelled from the Commonwealth, we have expressed before our belief that this might be more akin to abandoning the very South Africans in their time of need than to helping the white South Africans who support apartheid. It is true, of course, that if Commonwealth membership in another country to provide any benefits for the natives, the other Commonwealth countries must continue their past policies of regarding the treatment of the South African natives as the sole concern of the government of that country. There are, however, happy signs that this attitude may be changing. Hon. Howard Green, minister of external affairs for Canada, said the other night that the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in May will provide the best way to solve the South African crisis. Even those who feel that Mr. Green has been too optimistic ought at least to wait until the prime ministers have an opportunity to show whether they are prepared to endorse the measure that all citizens of the Commonwealth receive that justice which ought to their perogative. There will be time enough to call South Africa's expulsion from the Commonwealth if it proven that membership in it can in no way soften the hardships of the natives. In other words, it seems as though it may be for some countries with enlightened policies to find themselves associated with South Africa, they ought not to salve their consciences at the expense of the already oppressed natives.

Finally, there is one question which might very be studied by the nations outside the Commonwealth. This is the question of what, before the First World War, was German Southwest Africa. South Africa has a limited control of this area as a League of Nations mandate. It has since incorporated the region into the state and imposed in it the same laws and practices which apply in the remainder of the country. The United Nations is generally considered to be the heir of the League of Nations. The UN did not approve of this incorporation of the mandated territory into the Union. Could it now be followed that the UN has every legal right to demand that South Africa surrender its mandate territory. Moreover, if the UN member nations possess the necessary moral courage, the UN has the right to enforce what is right. Its responsibility in this case is at least as great as the responsibility of the Commonwealth countries to enforce a standard of conduct which, though implicit in the traditions for which Commonwealth stands, is nowhere spelled out, because the Commonwealth, like Topsy, was never born just growed" and has no written constitution.

RUNNING FOR THE CAVE

read in the nineteenth chapter of I Kings that Elijah fled in fear and terror from Mount Carmel from the anger of Ahab's wife Jezebel and sought refuge in the cave in Mount Horeb. There the word of the Lord came to him: "What doest thou here, Elijah?" He was hiding when he ought to have been fighting.

Elijah went on to explain that he had sought refuge in the cave in the only one, he said, and he is still loyal to Jehovah. He was the reply of Jehovah was, there 7,000 that have not bowed the knee to Baal." All run for that cave now!

Kids Separate The Fantastic And Realistic

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

When an educator or psychologist suggests that children are being brutalized and made violent by programs of violence and fantasy on television, someone is sure to bring up the old-fashioned fairy tale.

"Have you read the Grimm Brothers?" they will say. "That could be more sacrifying than these bloodthirsty fairy tales!" And yet children have been reading and enjoying them for many generations.

But it is a serious mistake to compare the two. I learned this while listening to the kiddies' children's theater on Saturdays. He was not a bit upset by the fierce giant in "Jack the Giant Killer," or by the evil witch in "Hansel and Gretel." But when he watched a gangster film on a late movie, he couldn't sleep all night.

A child maintains a firm distinction between fantasy and reality. He may pretend to be a monster, and he may scream at ghosts, but he never confuses the world of fairy tale with the world of reality, he feels, is safe and orderly and kind.

When, however, this world of reality is shown in a cruel and barbarous light, he becomes terrified. Not because this fear must be at all costs repressed, but because it is a hardboiled attitude toward nothing and beating and killing.

The old-fashioned fairy tale kept this distinction in hand and in mind. It separated from outside the human realm; from creatures that are non-human or half-human. Yet, nevertheless, in the end, humanity always triumphed. The more sadistic things might say, it represents a victory of the ego over the dark irrational forces of life.

In the modern TV tales, this difference between the specifically human and the inhuman is blurred. Good men and bad men are both driven by forces of feeling; and even though a shallow moral may be tacked on at the end of the program, the child is at the best confused and (at worst) excited by the fact that realistic behavior on the part of people is mixed with the fantastic.

I am not suggesting, by any means, that children should be shielded from the fact that good and evil within the human order; but such knowledge should be carefully directed by the parental and by the educational forces, and not left to the lurid exaggerations of "shocker" programs.

A child loves the thrill of pretending his father is a lion and mother a dog, for he knows his father is not and will not; but when "real" people lose their giants or witches, are shown as sadistic villains, then brutality becomes the only means of finding off fear.

Nye Retains His Asperity

Montreal Gazette

Mr. Aneurin Bevan has long retained firm possession of the title of enfant terrible of the Socialist party and provocative member of the British Labor Party. For wit, asperity, good humor, trenchant criticism, and brilliant flashes of invective he has without equal in the House of Commons.

It is good to learn that despite his recent serious illness the old fighting spirit has not been lost.

Some recent comments on world affairs and incorporative holiday show this clearly.

On the writing of memoirs: "I discovered people were always in active public life writing their memoirs. They do nothing but mischief. If they tell the truth they are sued, and usually they do not tell the truth."

On reading political biographies: "I understand that Mr. Macmillan reads political biographies. I have never been able to achieve that credulity. My experience of public life has taught me to know that most of them are entirely unreliable. I would rather take my fiction straight."

On newspapers: "I read the newspapers avidly. It is my one form of continuous fiction."

On television programs: "I am bored and disgusted by the low standards of most of the programs. There are one or two which appear to be excellent . . . Most of the rest I can only describe as nauseating. I convey the theatre to television is really too dreary for words. The general level is very poor indeed."

People of every political complexion will welcome the rapid return of Mr. Bevan to public life. They may distrust his judgment. They may fear his power. But his vigorous and solid comments would be sorely missed.

Nuclear War Is Mad Folly

Financial Post

To read the proceedings of the Commons estimates committee on defence is to voyage alone through a mad, surrealist world of horror where no one acknowledges that there is the slightest departure from normal.

There are, it appears, 23 rescue columns of the active army and 44 from the militia which would aid the civilian populations. If you concentrate on that, after this is enough to do a good job, you won't have to face the reality of the nightmare that they will be doing among the dead, the dismembered and the dying.

There is an elaborate warning system to tell the public, over selected radio stations, of an impending attack — and, after the attack, it will inform the public about radioactive fallout. The broadcast, which might well come at such peak listening time as 2:30 a.m., will be of special interest to those who survive. It will be reassuring to know that the protective fallout is going to be fatal.

Defence Minister Pearkes told the committee that in the days when the nation depended on the obvious melting of attack, wholesale evacuation of cities was a sound policy. But, he said, in the missile age, the period of warning is so short it is impossible to avoid bomb destruction that way.

Now we know.

What we know about civil defence, is centuel offices, regional offices and complex lines of communication. So does command?

We need no further confirmation that war in the nuclear age is madness, folly and suicide.

The Geneva talks on disarmament must make progress.

Whites Blind To Own Needs

The London Observer

The true nature of the "white supremacy" doctrine in South Africa is becoming apparent. They resemble the terrifying authoritarian cracies of, eighteenth and nineteenth-century Europe.

The self-blindness of the rulin caste to its own self-interest is the simultaneous which is the share power before their monopoly of it leads to revolution —is genuinely tragic. But the suffering of those hundreds whom they imprison in defence or kill in the process is also tragic.

What can we do to help? Merely to "drive South Africa out" of the Commonwealth would be to wash our hands of the whole situation; pointless but unhelpful.

What is needed is a patient, firm effort to press the Europeans towards concessions and reforms before Africans get to feel friendless and desperate. Perhaps the most effective action that Britain could take would be for the city of London formally declare that it make it plainly known that it will not consider to back a country in a revolutionary situation.

It would impress the European of thi Union that their situation is grave. The British and the United States formally raised the question whether Southwest Africa originally placed under the Union's mandatory could be brought before United Nations but since arbitrarily incorporated, should be subject without equal in the House of Commons.

It is good to learn that despite his recent serious illness the old fighting spirit has not been lost.

Some recent comments on world affairs and incorporative holiday show this clearly.

On the writing of memoirs: "I discovered people were always in active public life writing their memoirs. They do nothing but mischief. If they tell the truth they are sued, and usually they do not tell the truth."

20 YEARS AGO

April 26th, 1940

Crevieed in an ice-hummocked shore of the lake-bordered village of Wellington, Ont., is a wild-life sanctuary that is resounding to the cries of feathered occupants as counterparts to the cries of doom. Here in their key-shaped habitat, the proud Blue Geese rub beaks with the rare American Whistling Swan; Canada's own Gray Geese arch necks proudly with the Hutchings Geese of Pacific origin; Wild ducks of all varieties feel the urge of spring, but clipped wings prevent the natural inclination to "take off" on the annual trek to northern climes. Curator of the sanctuary and a miniature Jack Miner in his own rights says, "It is amusing at times to watch the tame geese trim their wings and each spring geese are flying overhead". Possibly a couple of concentrence, Murphy pointed out, was the fact that a captive wild American White Frost, placed in a special pen in the sanctuary, found her way out through a hole in the wire netting. "The intelligence is there," he said, "when I found her going back by the same route".

At the noon-day luncheon meeting yesterday, Mrs. Percy C. McGuire was selected as president to preside over the activities of Belleville Rotary Club as the club year starting July 1st. Cut Steak Off Live Bull

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Two residents of Campbellcroft, Ontario, have graduated into a beam nearby where a cave-lined, bull was tethered, stunned it in some crude way, then cut a thick slab of meat from its hindquarters. The animal was unable to stand up and had to be killed. The meat was found, charged with cruelty to animals and sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

This is one of the worst cases of cruelty we have ever read. We have commented on so many cases of cruelty to animals that we feel ashamed to write about this one except that it should serve as a warning to all kinds of people to make a world.

Farm Efficiency

Farmers are just as interested in speed and efficiency as any industry.

More and more wider plows are being used.

This no doubt is due to the fact that farmers now use tractors instead of horses. Tractors have much more power and are much faster.

ODOR CAN BE CAUSED BY THE ACTION OF BACTERIA

"Dear Dr. Molner: No use writing a lot of words. I keep clean but in a few hours my skin throws off an odor. What causes this?—J.C."

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes feet to have an odor? My husband has tried foot powders. He is in excellent health but is very nervous.—M. H."

Here are examples of very common letters to me; I know by experience that this number will increase sharply as we move from spring into summer. So let's learn what there is to know about this subject. There are some important things to keep in mind.

For one, believe it or not, good honest sweat is not unpleasant.

A tennis player, for instance, can be soaking wet on a hot day but there's no unpleasantness. There are various reasons. One is that he is lightly clothed. Air quickly evaporates the moisture, and he soon takes a shower and changes his clothes. Another one, which is the reason — plus the fact that fresh perspiration doesn't smell.

All right, then, what does cause the smell? (Besides insufficient bathing.) I remember that some people are congenital worriers.)

Anyway, there are two kinds of perspiration glands, the eccrine, or common ones which secrete mostly water with a little salt, which are in the armpits and so on; and the apocrine glands which do cause some odor. These glands are found mostly in the armpits, groin and feet. Considering that they do not function in babies and elderly people; they make their appearance in mid-childhood and continue active until old age.)

So these glands do produce a moderate odor, but there are a great many other factors. And there are variations among different people.

Various nationality groups differ in the food they eat, in toilet customs and basic bathing. Onions, garlic, foods containing sulphur, alcohol — all these have their cumulative effects.

But the big factor—which includes all of the above — is the action of bacteria, or germs. Certain germs, which arrive in an odorless state, can acquire an odor because of the fermentation which occurs in this warm, moist environment.

One thing certainly not to be overlooked is that disease conditions have an odor. Some skin problems have a distinctly musty odor. Any infection (since it is a result of germs) may or may not contribute. Common ones which do this include diseases from the common cold to head abscesses and intestinal ones.

And most assuredly (although I can only guess at the reasons involved) nervousness has a decided effect.

So the foregoing are some of the basic factors that are involved. Tomorrow I'll give a check-list of things you can do, the problem of unobjectionable.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DIVIDE

There is nothing truer in life than that there is glory enough for all. Selfishness is always disintegrating. Get — oh, yes! But Give. Divide and you get. Keep distributing it. Keep giving it away. It is the process that is important.

If you have a child, the very first lesson you should teach it should be to divide its gifts and possessions.

There can be no civilization without community of interest and helpfulness and enjoyment. All other building is upon the sand. The man who wants all the time for the granting of happiness to others will some day look into his hands to see them very empty indeed. Look at them a little! Look at them hard! Are they clenched tightly in fear?

"Also would you recommend a high-protein diet for one afflicted with nervous fatigue?—K. M."

No. Yes.

2. It may help if the fatigue is due to low blood sugar. Otherwise a rest and revision of your living pattern is in order.

Where Taxes Go Farthest

Financial Post

Typical of the thoughtless twaddle that too often passes for public discussion of public ills was the recent moan of an ambitious Toronto politico about the small rise in the city rate: "I'm just sick about it. I feel terrible."

This horror of higher urban tax rates is echoed constantly by municipal leaders in towns and cities across Canada.

But why? It's at the municipal level that the money goes farthest.

Our Toronto Daily Star reports that the average home owner in its city pays 70 cents a week for water, sewage treatment—two packs of cigarets. Also, the children are educated, his streets are maintained, his garbage collected and his fire protection assured. He gets parks, libraries and a host of other amenities.

Tax dollars spent at the municipal level seem to buy more of the useful things of life than tax dollars spent at the provincial or federal levels. They provide, in a tangible way at least, the mechanics for satisfactory living. They are not to be begrudged.

It's shocking, in a country with our standard of living, that our municipal services are so primitive and that our municipal appearance offers so little sense of pride.

It is in our towns and cities that more and more Canadians come into contact with their government in them; it should be pleasurable too.

Let's have money. Getting that money takes politicians and officials, organization and a flair for leadership.

There is no place for needless apprehension about what the electorate will say about rising taxes. Gripe they may, but they must. Life is for the living and citizens get more value out of their municipal tax dollars than from any other. They will be wise to

By GREGORY CLARK

Ten years ago, a friend of mine lost his wife; and rather than face the changed situation in familiar surroundings, he quit his job as an assistant manager in a large department store company and headed for the far north where the rebirth of activities were opening up and a new era for business of many kinds in those previously remote regions.

He has done very well; and in last week came out to what we call civilization for the first time in the decade. I was guiding him on a shopping trip downtown when the five o'clock crushed into place and everybody headed for home in the familiar swirling throng.

"Just look at them!" he exclaimed in horror. "Look at them hustle! Poor terrified slaves!"

I stared at him. I protested indignantly, for we were walking between the two most modern commercial architecture of our city, and I was conscious of civic pride.

"This world," said the escapist from the north, "is full of people who not only want to be told what to do and how to do it, but are terrified at the mere thought that there might not be somebody to tell them what to do! Look at them run!"

And indeed at the moment he planned, he is staying only two weeks down here. Copyright: Canada Wide

Club Bonspiel Concludes Fine Curling Season

PICTON — Prince Edward Curling Club concluded a successful season with a club bonspiel on Friday and Saturday. Many awards won during the season are to be presented at a banquet to be held Wednesday night at the Royal Hotel.

There were thirteen teams competing, members of teams being chosen by draw.

In the "A" event, a rink skipped by Bob Dale with Dr. E. D. Fyfe, J. Cuddihy and John Clarke won top honors, being undefeated in four games. They won in the finals over a rink skipped by Don Maher which included Dot Gravelle, Herb Colliver, J. Rabnett.

Losers of first games in the draw dropped by "B" event. In this section, Fred Earl skipped the winning rank, defeating Emerson Mason in an extra end. Members of Earl's team were, Flo Bolster, Wm Lee and Earl Gribble, who replaced George Reay for Saturday's play-off when he was out of town. Mason's rink included Bob McMullen, Marjorie Gerow and Mary Bird.

Dale's brilliant curling earned him top honors a second time this season. He skipped the championship in the invitational bonspiel held recently while Earl, who lost on the finals in the invitational, tha time came from behind to win.

GAME RESULTS

Ken Love defeated Len Allan.

Don Stanton defeated J. Harrington.

Bob Dale defeated Glen Jerome.

T. W. Bryant defeated Beath Morden.

Don Maher defeated G. E. Mason.

Fred Neeve defeated W. Lazaroglick.

Rev. F. Whiteley defeated Stan Blake.

Basil Foreman defeated Fred Earl.

In the second round of "A" event Stanton defeated Love. Dale defeated Bryant with an extra end necessary; Maher defeated Neeve while . Foreman defeated Whiteley.

In the third round, Dale eliminated Stanton while Maher won over Foreman, with Dale defeating Maher in the final 11-6.

In the final, Dale scored four points in the first end, added three in the third, one in the fourth, two in the seventh and one in the eighth. Maher scored two in the second, one in the fifth, three in the sixth.

B EVENT

In the "B" event, Mason defeated Allan, Harrigan defeated Lazarovich, Jerome defeated Blake, Earl defeated Morden.

Mason and Earl entered the semi-finals by defeating Harrigan and Jerome respectively. Earl won the final with an extra end.

Mason took an early lead, taking two points in the first, second and third ends but Earl got one in the fourth and four in the fifth to take the lead. Mason tied it with one in the sixth. Earl had a single in the seventh and led by one going into the eighth end, Earl's last rock went through the house with his team having shot rock. Through Mason's last shot was wide it truck another rock and deflected in for a counter in the game. In the extra end, there was one white (shot) rock and two black rocks (Mason) in the house when last rocks were played. Earl drew to back of house while Mason's shot went through to give Earl a counter. A take out end and play in would have given Mason a win.

There was some excellent curling and members of the team gave good support to the skips.

A large gallery of fans watched the games. Ice was slow Friday night but improved and finals were played on excellent ice.

SIX-MONTH LIMIT

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court Monday decided by a vote of 7 to 2 that an unfair labor practice charge may not be brought after a statutory six-month limit fixed by the National Labor Relations Act even when the asserted offence is a continuing one.

Appeal by Bicroft Mines On Assessment May Delay Setting County Mill Rate

An appeal by Bicroft Mines Ltd. of its municipal assessment in Haliburton county, may delay the setting of the 1960 mill rate by Hastings county council.

This was indicated today by Warden Earl Sager as county council members met for their spring session at which time the county mill rate is normally set.

Reeve Sager said it had been suggested by provincial authorities that county mill rates not be set until a ruling on the Bicroft appeal is made as the ruling would directly affect this county in that municipalities in the Marmora and Bancroft district also receiving mining grants.

Ruling on the appeal is expected to result in clarification of amendments to the assessment act as they apply to the payment of mining grants and assessment appeals.

Addressing council at the outset of the session, Warden Sager apologized to farmer members for calling the meeting on Monday normally would be a busy spring season. However, the meeting had been served to further delay spring work which would not conflict with the council session.

Warden Sager said that the meeting would consider many important business matters, which would take careful consideration by members and in order that the business may be completed asked that unnecessary debate be kept to a minimum.

However few matters of major importance came before the morning session which was taken up mostly with the reading of correspondence including a letter from District Forester J. M. Taylor of Tweed, pointing out that the Hastings county forest at Bird's Creek was not receiving fire protection.

The letter asked if the county would consider entering into an agreement with the Department of Lands and Forests regarding forest maintenance. Mr. Taylor will address the council later in the session.

An invitation was received for the county to send a representative to Ampriior in May to attend a Federal civil defence meeting and demonstration. Warden Sager was tentatively designated to attend the meeting.

The county agricultural committee will recommend to council that grants to clerg. C county fairs be increased by $25 and class B fairs by $50.

And county council will be asked by its finance committee to consider increasing members pay to $15 per day for each day council sessions sit.

If the motion is carried it will mean council will break with its long established policy of paying councillors for an extra day during council sessions.

County Clerk Treasurer Erie S. Denyes pointed out that this would not actually result in members receiving any more money for council attendance.

He said that the present remuneration with the additional $5 per day would amount to the same as the suggested increase rate for the days council was in session.

He said the policy of an extra day's pay had been established years ago when transportation was more of a problem than it was today.

The recommended pay increase will be discussed under by-laws later in the session although there were indications it would not receive unanimous approval.

Deputy Reeve Harry Pound of Thurlow suggested it might appear funny to rural ratepayers for county councillors to raise their own pay, while advocating a "hold the line" policy in answer to wage demands from municipal employees.

"I say leave it as it is," he said.

Dimensional Investments Formed to Handle Indian Land Deal, Hearing Is Told

TORONTO (CP)—Dimensional Investments Limited was formed to handle the purchase of 2,100 acres of the Sarnia Indian reserve, a royal commission hearing was told Monday.

Details of the formation of the company were outlined before the commission, which is inquiring into purchase by the Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission of some of the former Indian land.

Mr. Justice C. A. McGillivray, who heads the probe, established that minutes of business meetings of Dimensional Investments prior to the time Hydro acquired title to property purchased from the firm should be made available to the hearing.

Dimensional Investments bought the land from the Indians for $6,500,000 at an average price of about $2,100 an acre. Hydro later signed an agreement with Dimensional to buy 176 acres for an average of about $7,000 an acre.

HAS RIGHT TO PURCHASE

William G. Clark, a special representative of the Crown Trust Company who negotiated the deal for Dimensional, said the company was formed t handle the purchase which was obtained by provisional charter Aug. 18, 1958. The Indians agreed to sell the land on Dec. 19, 1958, and the transaction was approved by Citizenship Minister Fairclough, who is responsible for Indian affairs, on March 19, 1959. Hydro signed the purchase agreement with Dimensional March 11, 1959, and obtained title to the land last June.

Mr. Clark was asked by R. L. Kellock, counsel for the Liberal members of the Ontario legislature, whether he was told anything about the company when he learned that it was incorporated to buy the bulk of the reserve. The witness said he knew Sam Ray was president and Saul Sigler was vice-president. They put up the money to begin acquisition of the land, he added.

Mr. Justice McGillivray said that minutes of Dimensional Investments subsequent to the time Hydro acquired title to the land would not be called as evidence.

He said the later minutes could have no bearing on his investigation into whether Hydro had been negligent in its purchase of the land for a new Hamilton County transformer station.

The royal commission was established Feb. 23 by Premier Leslie Frost following opposition charges in the legislature that Hydro had bungled the deal.

Norman Borins, counsel for Dimensional, said his law firm had only the minutes of meetings for the time it had been employed by Dimensional. Previously the company's solicitor was Davis and Vasek of Toronto.

"I don't know whom to subpoena," said Joseph Sedgwick, counsel for the royal commission. "You tell me where it (the whole book) is and I'll issue a subpoena."

Said Mr. Vanek is to be called to give evidence today. Others scheduled to appear as witnesses at today's hearing are A. J. B. Gray, Metropolitan Toronto assessment commissioner, and Mr. Sigler.

Mr. Gray has been identified in evidence as a representative of the Crown Trust Company and as an adviser to a special representative of that company, Mr. Clark said last Friday he first consulted Mr. Gray, a long-time personal friend, about Dimensional in August, 1958, and continued to take him as a consultant in September and October.

NUCLEAR CLOCKS — Ordinary clocks are not accurate enough for University of British Columbia physicist Dr. Bruce White (right) and technician Dave Lindquaest. Two nuclear clocks, containing sized rods tipped with radioactive isotopes of iron and so accurate they won't gain or lose a second in 300,000,000 years, are shown in centre of photo. They are being used to test a premise of Einstein's theory of relativity—that atoms vibrate slower the closer they are to the centre of a gravitational field. (CP Photo).

Accurate Nuclear Clock Used To Test Einstein's Theory

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two nuclear clocks so accurate they won't gain or lose a second in 300,000,000 years are being used by University of British Columbia scientists to test a basic premise of Albert Einstein's general theory of relativity.

The clocks, employing cubic centimetre of iron, are an invention of a German scientist.

Before the nuclear timepieces could be developed, scientists had to take Einstein's word for his theory. Now, besides experiments here, she theory is being tested at Harwell in England, Harvard University and in the Soviet Union.

Harwell scientists were in such a rush to get their tests going that they made mistakes multiplying their results, said Dr. Bruce White who, with Dr. John Warren, is carrying out the UBC experiments.

The late Dr. Einstein concluded that in a gravitational field, such as the earth's, atoms vibrate more slowly the closer they are to the centre of the field.

This means the atoms in a person's body would vibrate more slowly, and seem to live and tick more slowly, the closer to the centre of the earth.

It also means a person living in a basement would theoretically live longer than a penthouse dweller although the difference probably would amount to more than a second.

The problem was how to measure the tiny difference in beats by University scientists.

The UBC physicists will set a wheel in the laboratory capable of spinning 3,600 times a second. One nuclear clock will be placed in the middle of the wheel while it will be unaffected by the spinning. The other will be on the edge, caught in a man-made gravitational field equal to 30 orgy. Now, besides experiments here, she theory is being tested at. Harwell in England, Harvard University and in the Soviet Union.

If the two clocks, which are to be accurate to a second in 300,000,000 years, are shown to be gaining or losing at different rates, it will also have to say at what altitude it happened because the clock which is a second are long than two seconds at 100,000 fe

Two Youths Sent for Trial On Theft Counts

David Michael Downes, 18, of Belleville, today was committed for trial in a higher court at the conclusion of preliminary hearings before Magistrate T. Y. Wills on charges of breaking and entering and theft.

Another Belleville youth, Bernard James Michael, was committed for trial in a higher court following a preliminary hearing on a charge of breaking and entering and theft.

Both youths, who elected trial by judge, were offered bail but said they could not raise it. They will remain in custody until their trials.

Downes was charged by Provincial police following a break-in April 5 at Mr. Hester Sales in Shannonville when 3 chain saws, a tool box and car radio aerial were taken. City police laid a theft charge against him April 11, one day after two radios were taken from cars on Doug Wellbank's used car lot on Dundas St., East.

O.P.P. Corporal Gordon Stout testified that entry to the garage was made by forcing a rear door. He later found the chain saws in a bush on South George Street in Belleville.

Mr. L. Cook, proprietor of the garage, identified three chain saws, which he valued at more than $300, as being those which were taken. He said the 75-pound tool box was found near an adjacent service station. The radio antenna has not been recovered.

Detective Harold Reig of the city police department testified that he found two car radios in a bush at the rear of Michael's home.

Mr. Wellbanks said he could not identify the radios entered as exhibits as being those which were taken from his lot.

Michael said he was satisfied with the evidence given during Downes' hearing and agreed with the magistrate that it was not necessary to repeat it.

Although neither youth could raise bail, Crown Attorney John Pringle said, "His Honor (Judge Anderson) will expedite the trials."

Housebuilders Assoc. Holds Fine Dance

Quinte Housebuilders' Association held a successful dance on Friday at the Shrine Club. A good time was enjoyed by the many expressed the hope that the dance would be a yearly affair.

Much credit goes to the dance committees, Maurice Rollins, Bill Beebler, Hank Hatfield and Bob Mott.

Prizes were presented by Pat Sullivan and grand prizes were by Ger Mathews (shower cabinet), Joe Solmes (electric broom), and the mirror by Bernie Beebler. Spot dances were by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cuninghham, Mr. and Mrs. Len Farrell, Mrs. Gerry Sine, Lou Cline and Earl DeMille.

A special prize of stainless steel flatware was won by Fred Shoop.

Dinner was served at midnight.

Army, Navy, Air Force LA. Plans Activities

Ladies' Auxiliary of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada held its monthly meeting on April 18th.

President E. Bobbish called the meeting to order with the usual two minutes' silence. Comrade M. Galbraith read the minutes of the previous meeting and Comrade S. Buckley, treasurer, gave the report of the last three months.

The books were audited by Comrades C. Clark and G. Edgecombe and found correct.

Comrade M. Galbraith, sports chairman, informed the members of the 46th Highlanders Club would be making its annual trip to Belleville on May 14. Male and female will enter darts and shuffle board competitions. The entertainment chairman, M. Dyson, reported a busy month for her, starting the bowling banquet season.

One member was initiated.

The meeting was adjourned till the third Monday in May, and a social hour was spent playing darts and cribbage.

270 Attend Easter Rally At Y.F.C.

The regular Youth for Christ rally was held in the Masonic Temple on the evening of April 16. There were about 270 in attendance; the special singing and the Easter message were enjoyed by all. Director Doug Stark opened the rally by leading the audience in the singing of some gospel choruses. After the singing, the first special number of the evening was presented by the YFC girls' trio. They sang "The Unveiling Christ." The YFC Chorialaires then sang their arrangement of "Come Ye Disconsolate." These two appropriate Easter numbers were much enjoyed.

The Bible quizzes were again presented and enjoyed by the teenagers. In the first set, Brighton High downed Quinte 130-90. Then Madoc went against Picton, losing by 130-10. Miriam Henry, of Picton, went down with correct answers and received bonus points. Quinte again quizzed, this set against Deseronto. The final score after an exciting quiz, was 180-40 for Deseronto High. Toni Thielman and Yvonne Bloom, of Deseronto, both had correct answers and received bonus points for the Deseronto team. Brighton again quizzed and this time won their set 100-10. The quizzing is a big highlight in the rally and to make it "more interesting. A dunce's cap is put on the head of any quizzer who has a wrong answer. All of the teens endevor not to get any errors.

SCHOOL OF WEEK

Club director Monty Parks introduced Trenton High School as the school-of-the-week, and had them enact a skit during "Club Time." The gospel skit portrayed the change which may take place in a person's heart when sin and the world leave and Christ is allowed to come in. Some of the young people from Trenton helped by playing the piano, singing and playing testimonies.

Mr. Stark concluded the rally by giving a message on the "Crucifixion." As hearts and minds were drawn back to Calvary, many young people realized exactly how much the Lord Jesus Christ suffered for each one. As the invitation was extended to anyone to come forward for prayer, five teenagers stepped out at "seeker" and to receive counselling.

The rally was enjoyed by all, and everyone is looking forward to the next rally when the Billy Graham film, "Caribbean Calls" will be shown. On the same program, the 30-voice male choir from Toronto, "The Ambassador Male Singers" will be the special guests.

Ex-Ald. Wm. and Mrs. Harvey Happily Wed for 50 Years

Former member of municipal life in Belleville for 33 years, ex-Alderman William (Bill) Harvey and Mrs. Harvey of 282 Foster Avenue, on Wednesday of this week will celebrate 50 years of married life.

They will observe the anniversary quietly at their home where Mr. Harvey is confined to a wheel chair as result of a stroke suffered two years ago.

The couple live alone with the exception of their grandson, Thomas Bell, who has made his home with them since the death of their daughter, Mrs. Madeline Warner, several years ago.

Their only son, William Harvey, lives in Tuscon, Arizona, where he moved with his wife and daughter four years ago for the sake of his daughter's health.

Residents of this city for the past 49 years, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey were married on April 27th, back in 1910, at Port Hope, the home town of the bride. Mrs. Harvey is the former Ella Merrifield, while Mr. Harvey came to Canada 60 years ago from the Isle of Wight in the English Channel.

A former painter with the CNR Mr. Harvey was with the railway for 45 years, and during that period worked in the Toronto area and in the west before being transferred to Belleville. They are members of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

A SOCCER FAN

Well known for his ready wit, Mr. Harvey is an enthusiastic football fan (soccer, that is) and at one time sparked the local CNR team to a championship.

He served for many years on the Belleville Board of Education and during his term of office in city council held a number of chairmanships. He is an ex-chairman of the Board of Education.

Now partially paralyzed as result of a stroke, Mr. Harvey has recovered his voice and partial use of his right leg, but still cannot leave his chair.

"We thank God for his partial recovery," Mrs. Harvey said.

Since his retirement from the railway Mr. Harvey has carried on an accident insurance business from his home, and still handles this type of insurance for Masonic members.

Lakeside OES Visited by D.D.G.M.

WELLINGTON — The April meeting of Lakeside Chapter 81, OES, is usually one of the most important of the year. Last Wednesday evening Mrs. Mary Wheeler, Scarborough, the D.D.G.M. made her official visit. All were so pleased she could come, as she recently suffered a heart attack. Mrs. Helen Cross, Quinte, PDDGM, was also given a hearty welcome.

There were visitors present from Picton, Quinte, Napanee, Belleville and Peterborough. Especially welcomed were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sargent, of Belleville.

Four new members were initiated into the order. The District Deputy warmly congratulated the worthy matron, Mrs. Olive Channell, the worthy patron, Mr. Frank Bellmley, all the officers in the proficient manner they carried out their work. She gave a short address on the chaplain.

Mrs. Alice Watt, the associate matron, presented Mrs. Wheeler with a gift from Lakeside to remind her of her visit. A basket of beautiful flowers, a gift from Mrs. Lockyer, was in the east.,

The April lunch committee, assisted by the officers and several members, served the refreshments. All enjoyed a social half hour.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Sponsors Delightful Easter Time Tea

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Easter tea was a gala event with canopy patrons and guests in attendance on Wednesday last. The school hall was prettily decorated in the Easter motif with colors of mauve and yellow with little mauve and yellow streamers and golden baby chicks adding a lovely springtime accent.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. H. Carr-Harris, convener of the tea, and Mrs. J. Baker, president of the C.W.L., while inviting to the tea-room was the hostess, Mrs. F. Dustin.

The long table was appointed with a beautiful lattice pottery bowl containing mauve and yellow tapers and flanked by silver tri-branched candelabra holding mauve and yellow candles on a damask cloth. The guest tables were covered with white cloths and centred by colorful nests, while little dishes containing tiny eggs in various colors.

Those presiding at the silver service were Mrs. Edward Sine, Mrs. J. Huck, Mrs. E. Labelle and Mrs. C. Murphy, while those who kindly included Misdames T. Jury, W. Reid, J. Driscoll, K. McCoy, E. Cooper, J. McGee, P. Mercier, M. Duminie and R. Kondelidis.

The delicious cups of tea were made by Mrs. E. Poirier.

The home-baking table, convened by Mrs. W. Meagher, assisted by Mrs. F. Maund, Mrs. E. Hurdy, Mrs. T. Kelly and Mrs. V. Muldoon, was filled with all manner of delectable confections, including pies of all kinds, loaf and layer cakes in white and dark, all prettily iced; tarts, cup cakes and breads of dates and nuts, and many other inviting samples of the cooking art.

Selling tickets on a special cake were Misses C. Maund and Meagher, which was won by Anne Baker. The floral centrepiece went to Mrs. K. McCoy and the decorative flowers to Mrs. Genereaux.

The winners of the grand draw, sponsored by Mrs. Anton, were Noreen Hilbig, Jeanne Briand, Gail Kelly, Mary Garvin and Mrs. Tom Raycroft. Mrs. V. Muldoon had charge of the hat draw.

A most successful tea, convened by Mrs. H. Carr-Harris, Mrs. R. Lynch and Mrs. H. Bone, to whom appreciative thanks are tendered.

Woman Reporter Covers Waterfront for B.C. Paper

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Simma Holt says she finds nothing unusual in moving about in a man's world.

"I've always been in it," she said, recalling that as Simma Milner in the rural community of Vegreville, Alta., she grew up under the wing of five protective brothers.

Today, as the wife of a school teacher, the 38-year - old reporter covers the waterfront for the Vancouver Sun, moving in a world populated almost entirely by men.

In a newspaper career that really began with the flip of a coin in 1944, Mrs. Holt has jostled with men for beats on many a major story of crime or disaster, corruption or derring-do, pathos or pathos.

She has reported the activities of most in death row in the penitentiary, in the luxury of a South American estate, in the heat of a general-alarm fire, in the excitement of a bank holdup and, more recently, on the bridge of an aircraft carrier at sea.

"I've covered every beat except city hall and the legislature," she said in an interview. "I'm the original girl Friday. I love digging up stories."

Mrs. Holt was born in Vegreville, about 30 miles east of Edmonton, and received her early education there. At the University of Manitoba she became the first woman managing editor of the school newspaper.

In summers she worked for The Canadian Press, national newsgathering co-operative, then set out in Calgary as a fulltime teletype operator with CP. Told that she was going on a permanent night shift, she quit, flipped a coin to decide whether to become a school teacher or accept reporting job with the Vancouver Sun, then came to Vancouver in November, 1944, when the coin came up heads.

"Men used to feel that the newspaper business was no place for a woman," Mrs. Holt recalled, "I always got the lear-jerking assignments. I hated being called the 'lady reporter.'

But that has changed, perhaps because Mrs. Holt has proved her ability in a wide range of subjects. Her reporting from death row helped win commutation for a convicted murderer. Her stories of fire department work won her honor as the first woman honorary chief in the Vancouver department, her reports of Vancouver's police corruption investigation won her national awards, as did her reports of a Doukhobor leader's early life in South America on funds from B.C.

"I don't expect men to apologize every time they swear," she said. "My language isn't delicate."

Nor is she delicate in appearance. A sturdy five-footwer, she has a round, pleasant face which readily breaks into a broad smile. Her blue eyes look out through rimmed glasses and her dark brown hair is often tousled.

On the waterfront she was greeted first with surprise, then genuine courtesy. "Having been at sea a long time the men honor me with their best wolf whistles."

The waterfront is almost entirely masculine, she said. "It is a man's world and the thing that surprises me is the few who resent my intrusion."

She is denied some privileges given male reporters but often is given more attention. For instance, she was asked to leave the bridge of the U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea during the tricky passage beneath the Lions Gate bridge at the entrance to Vancouver Harbor. Later the captain apologized, explaining that any accident would have been laid to the superstition that it's bad luck to have a woman on the bridge.

A MAN'S WORLD

Simma Holt is waterfront reporter for the Vancouver Sun, but she finds nothing unusual about her life in a man's world. Mrs. Holt, 38, started her newspaper career in 1944 and covered a wide range of stories. She is shown here wearing the hat of an honorary fire chief, first woman in Vancouver to receive the honor. MODERN MANNERS

QUESTION BOX FOR TEEN-AGERS

Question: What's the scoop about girls putting on make-up in public? I often makes you wonder what they really look like under all that stuff they plaster on. I think painting, powdering and hair-combing should be done in private. My girl does it in public all the time. Is there some way I can make her stop it without getting the old "heave-ho"?

Answer: I wonder why girls don't realize that they lose any glamour they may have when they don make-up in public! Any illusions a boy may have certainly disappear when he sees her pore-by-pore face. Actually, a young girl needs very little make-up. The less the better. And to continually comb and fiddle with her hair only indicates a lack of confidence in herself.

Why don't you try to get around this by tactfully saying that you think she is pretty enough without constantly worrying about how she looks. If this doesn't work, point out a girl sitting nearby in the snack bar who is busily engaged in making a dressing room out of the table, and make the comment that you heartily dislike it. If she doesn't take the hint, the only course is to be brutally frank. If she is a real person, she probably will mend her ways! I hope so.

Question: I have been going steady with a boy who has a wonderful new convertible. He has one bad habit that I think is all wrong. It makes my parents furious! When he calls for me to go on a date, he parks out front and then honks and honks until I go out. Isn't it wrong for him to do this?

Answer: It couldn't be more wrong! The young man who "honks and hollers" when calling for a girl is being extremely rude — and childish. Convertible or no convertible, act this young man straight in plain English. If he can't act like a gentleman — by parking, coming to the door, ringing the bell and asking for you — tell him to take someone else riding! No good can come of an association with a boy who thinks that, just because he has a fancy car, he can forego common, everyday courtesy. Actually his actions are an insult to you, as well as your parents.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by reputable agencies and counsellors.

Jim E. — She wants me to borrow from my parents to go back to school.

Sandra E. — He's full of false pride.

Jim E. — My wife and I were married five years ago and we are expecting our third baby.

We were both students when we married and we planned to go on studying for a number of years. I was aiming for a professional career and Sandra said she would work until I could establish myself. Anyway, our plans went haywire when our first baby was born and I left school to take a job.

I have been doing pretty well with an aggressive company and I feel I have a future. I like the work pretty much too. But Sandra is terribly disappointed that I don't have professional status. She wants me to borrow from my parents and go back to school. I just can't do that.

Sandra E. — Jim's parents are heartbroken that he gave up his professional career. They think it would mean a lot to them for him to resume his work. They hold me responsible for spoiling his plans and I want them to know I'm willing to live on practically nothing just to have Jim back in school.

It really wouldn't mean much to Jim's parents to help us. They are very well off and I'm sure he would be happy to see that they have helped us from the start if Jim hadn't got so nasty with them about our marriage. They wanted us to wait, but we eloped and Jim got into a row with them over the way they treated me.

But I think they're now ready to forgive and forget. Jim is just full of false pride.

The Council: It sounds to us as though Sandra has been doing a bit too much mulling and has come up with a solution that concretizes a daydream of hers, but not of her husband's.

Jim seems to be well adjusted to his work. He enjoys it and feels he has a future. He doesn't seem to regret having forsaken a professional career for family life.

But Sandra evidently feels considerable guilt about having been instrumental in destroying Jim's plans. She now daydreams about his eventual rescue, living on next to nothing, being a heroine while Jim studies again.

Of course, there are advantages to a professional career, but there are sacrifices as well, and the man who doesn't want a particular career very keenly would be foolish to make the sacrifices merely because others want it for him.

We see no great harm in parents giving a boost to a married son or daughter who has a vital ambition, but we see a lot wrong with a child accepting support to do something merely to satisfy the ambition of parent or spouse.

Although Jim and Sandra have made a fairly good adjustment to their situation they are suffering from one of the discomforts and dislocations of premature marriage. Educators are becoming increasingly concerned about the fact that much of the nation's valuable brain-power is being swallowed up in the lull of early marriage. The intellectual development calls for a good deal of concentrated denial and those who wish to attain it should prepare to make some sacrifices.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Roast Stuffed Beef Heart; Curry Brown Gravy; Fluffy Mashed Turnip; Buttered Celery and Pear Salad Greens with Pimiento Dressing; Plum Upsidedown Cake with Fruit Sauce (see Monday); Coffee.

My next-door-neighbor, Ivy, entertains quite a bit, and whenever she makes something that pleases her mightily, she calls me over to taste it.

She entertained four guests for dinner and made two dishes the day before to cut down the confusion in the kitchen.

She wanted to serve a buffet meal, and half the fun of a buffet is the beauty of the food.

Because Ivy knows I need and welcome help, she called me in to see if I would like to pass on her ideas to you folks. I tasted some of each of the two dishes for my lunch. One of them is simply a moulded Waldorf salad, but the way in which it is done is eye-catching.

The other is a Jelly Roll Torte. The method I am giving you is the smooth [illegible] but it will serve 8. If you want it for a big party for 16, simply mould the whole [illegible] in your standard size 10" angel cake pan.

WALDORF SALAD MOULD:

Select the biggest, reddest Spy or McIntosh apple you can find. Cut it into as many thin wedges, with skin on, as your scalloped 4-quart mould has ridges (like a melon mould has — or like a fluted tart tin). Dip the apple pieces in lemon juice to prevent discoloring. Dissolve 1 package lemon jelly powder in 1 3-4 cups boiling water. Pour enough in your mould to fill to 1" depth. Chill until nearly set. Keep remainder warm enough to prevent congealing. Insert apple wedges around sides of mould evenly, with lower tips embedded in jelly. Return to refrigator until firmly set. Fill mould with mixture of 1 cup chopped unpeeled apple, 1 cup broken choice walnuts, 1 cup finely chopped inner celery hearts. (If desired, add 1-2 cup each miniature marshmallows and raisins.) Pour remaining jelly liquid over fruit in mould and fill to brim, shaking it a little to make sure it flows around apple wedges. Chill until set. To turn out, dip mould in hot water (not boiling) and count 10. Turn out on fancy salad plate. Serve with mayonnaise.

JELLY ROLL PARTY TORTE:

These amounts serve 8 generously. If you are having a party for 16 or 18 double the amounts and mould this dessert in a large sized food cake tin. One standard size raspberry jelly roll (from the bakery is fine), 1 package lemon pie filling, 1 1-2 teaspoons gelatine, 1-4 cup cold water, 1 cup whipped cream, maraschino cherries or drained Mandarin oranges. Soak gelatine in cold water and dissolve in hot lemon filling. Line sides and bottom of mould with thin jelly roll slices. Add alternately fillings and jelly roll slices to fill mould. Chill overnight. When unmoulded, serve with whipped cream and decorate with cherries or drained canned orange wedges.

Queen's Own Rifles Observe 100th Birthday Today, Members Have Won 5 VCs

TORONTO (CP)—The Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, a regiment whose first battle casualties came in the Fenian Raids of 1866 and whose men have won five Victoria Crosses, observes its 100th anniversary today.

Senior line regiment in Canada's reserve army, the Queen's Own came into being April 26, 1860, when six companies of volunteer riflemen at Toronto, Barrie and Whitby in Ontario were incorporated into a battalion of infantry as the 2nd Battalion Volunteer Militia Rifles of Canada.

Their name was changed to Queen's Own Rifles of Toronto five years later and to Queen's Own Rifles of Canada in 1883.

Ceremonies in Toronto, Calgary, Germany and England will mark the anniversary this week. Highlight will be a Fenician dinner here next Saturday night, April 30, at which Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery will be guest of honor.

TWO UNIT

In Germany the anniversary will be observed by the regiment's 2nd Battalion, stationed at Detmold near Iserlohn and soon to be replaced in the fall by the 1st Battalion from Calgary. Both of the units of the Queen's Own Brigade in the NATO force.

A band and a regimental drum emblazoned with the regiment's battle honors will be hung in the garrison's Chapel in Canterbury Cathedral.

Through its first century the regiment, which still looks upon Toronto as home although its official headquarters has been Currie Barracks in Calgary since 1936, has served with distinction in many war theatres.

Its first engagement, in which nine men died, was on June 2, 1866, at Lime Ridge, or Ridgeway, in the Niagara Peninsula, during the Fenian Raids when Canada, from the United States, "Jest a Second" se part of the 3rd Division and fighting to final victory in Germany, its dead numbered 29 officers and 430 other ranks.

VC WINNER

Among the dead was Sgt. Aubrey Cosens, killed by a sniper's bullet in the Rhineland fighting in February, 1945, after clearing three buildings of Germans and killing at least 20 himself. Sgt. Cosens was awarded the VC.

The Queen's Own contributed men to Canada's United Nations force in the Korean war, although not as a unit, and has had men in Germany since the first Canadians joined the NATO force there in 1951.

Commanding officers of the three battalions today are: Lt.-Col. C. F. Lilbgrow, 1st Battalion, Calgary; Lt.-Col. R. J. Wilkinson, 2nd Battalion, Germany, and Lt.-Col. R. L. Bickford, 3rd Battalion, Toronto. Maj. D. M. Creighton commands the depot at Calgary.

Colonel-in-chief is Princess Alexandra whose grandmother, Queen Mary, held the appointment from 1928 until her death in 1953.

THE FENIAN RAIDS

The Queen's Own saw action also during the Northwest Rebellion of 1885—the second Riel rebellion. One of the famous exploits of that campaign—117 miles from Swift Current, Sask. to the relief of Battleford—will be re-enacted in July by four officers and 144 men from the 1st Battalion at Calgary as part of the centennial program.

The 1885 fighting ended with the capture of Louis Riel, one of whose descendants, Sgt. Ignace Riel, today wears the Queen's own uniform although at present serving at the Royal Canadian School of Infantry, Camp Borden, Ont.

The QOR contributed officers and men to Canadian contingents in the Boer War in South Africa at the beginning of the century, the First World War six battalions were mobilized for service overseas and 47 officers and 1,000 other ranks lost their lives. Four VCs were among 374 decorations awarded to QOR men. The regiment added to its honors in the Second World War, fighting in Normandy on D-Day

ALGONQUIN PARK, Ont. (CP)—Wilderness canoe trips along age-old Indian hunting trails are expected to draw nearly 50,000 persons to the vast Algonquin Park game preserve this year.

If current estimates pan out, the 2,700 square miles of forestlands between the Ottawa River and Georgian Bay will be more crowded next summer than they were when Ontario Indian bands used this region as a giant food larder before the white man's arrival.

The trend—latest development in "let's get away from it all" vacationing—has amazed the Ontario department of lands and forests.

Until five years ago a few hundred canoe parties travelled the provincial park each summer. Most of them used the routes mapped by the department and distributed in handy guide booklets.

SUDDEN INCREASE

The big rush hit in 1955 when travel permits were issued to 2,893 canoe parties involving 10,533 people. Last year the figures rose to 8,827 permits and 31,000 people.

Judging from this year's mail demand for advance information, the summer's total is expected to nudge the 50,000 mark, forestry officials say.

Some of the more adventuresome voyageurs travel more than 100 miles along the chains of lakes and rivers but the average is 30 to 40 miles, a leisurely pace with frequent camping stopovers at portage points.

Chief attraction of the park forrest is the seclusion. Vehicle travel is closely restricted to a half-dozen roads and a canoeist can travel from one end of the park to the other without seeing a car, cottage or tourist camp.

HUNTING GROUND

The park lies inside a circle of major highways with its south border about 150 miles northeast of Toronto. Two hundred years ago it was the major autumn hunting ground for Indians living along the Georgian Bay and Ottawa River trade routes.

Although its hidden lakes have some of the best trout fishing available in the province, surprisingly large number of canoeists set off without fishing gear, forestry office records show.

The park's wildlife, protected by laws which prohibit firearms within the park boundaries, is the greatest attraction. Canoeists frequently report deer browsing beside their camps and moose are seen in the northerly marshes.

Forest rangers keep a patrol to maintain clearly-marked portage trails and check lagoing parties to make sure they are properly equipped for living in the wilderness. Lost travellers are rare.

LOVED HIS PETS

EAST RUDHAM, England (AP)—William Matsell, 70, kept 30 pigeons, 14 cats and five chickens. He had an income of only £1a week. Most for the cats alone cost him 30s. Matsell died Saturday in his hut surrounded only by his companions. "It is perfectly clear," said the coroner, "that he died from starvation."

Legion Marks Battle of Vimy Ridge

FRANKFORD — The anniversary of the battle of Vimy Ridge was recently observed by the Frankford branch of the Canadian Legion.

A bountiful and delicious turkey supper was served by the ladies of the Auxiliary and presided over by the president, Delbert Hall.

The guest speaker, Deputy Zone Commander, Jerry Simpson, of Brighton, was introduced by Comrade W. Reynolds.

Appreciation was expressed on behalf of the audience by Comrade O. E. Farrar.

A most enjoyable dance followed the banquet with music supplied through the courtesy of Mr. J. Williamson, Trenton.

MARK JUBILEE — The Royal Canadian Navy, started in 1910 amid political controversy, marks its 50th anniversary this year. Upper photo shows the 11,000-ton cruiser Niobe, first RCN ship to take up duties on Canada's east coast. She was obtained from the Royal Navy and was scrapped in 1922.

Lower photo shows HMCS Gatineau, one of seven modern Restigouche-class destroyers attached to the RCN's Atlantic fleet. From the controversial beginning the RCN has grown into a force of about 20,000 men and 63 commissioned ships, including the aircraft carrier Bonaventure. (CP from National Defence).

Senior Service Came Into Being in 1910 But Twice Bill Almost Died in Infancy

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian defence debates today hardly rank as debates at all compared with the controversy that convulsed the nation half a century ago and gave birth to the Royal Canadian Navy.

The senior service came into being May 6, 1910, with the signing of the Naval Service Act. But twice it almost died in infancy—first by political torpedoing and then of neglect.

The great naval debate before the First World War exactly mirrored the growth of Canada from colony to nation and the sometimes violent struggle between the imperialists and the nationalists.

It provides a better example of the conflict between Canada's two main races than the conscription troubles of the two world wars.

DEEPER SIGNIFICANCE

The debate, in the end, did not so much concern seapower as the emergence of Canada from under the protective wing of Britain.

Until the Second World War, Canada relied on the British navy for seaward protection.

In 1817, by the Rush-Bagot agreement, Canada and the United States eliminated naval forces in the Great Lakes.

In 1867, or 20 years after Confederation, the Canadian delegation to a London conference on colonial and Dominion contributions to imperial defence insisted that Canada, as a new nation, was in no position to undertake expenditures for naval defence.

CANADIAN DEFENCE

During the Boer War of 1899 to 1902, the imperialists in Canada, mainly English-speaking Conservatives, pressed for Canadian participation in Canadian defence. The nationalists, chiefly French-speaking Canadians led by Henri Bourassa, wanted nothing to do with England's wars.

Canadian history is made up of compromises. Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1902 proposed one such: a Canadian naval force which in times of emergency could be placed under control of the British admiralty. The admiralty didn't like this scheme and nothing was done about it for the time being.

To Britain, Canada then was a colony. She wanted a single imperial fleet toward which each part of the Empire would contribute money and manpower.

In 1909, another Canadian compromise: organization of a Canadian naval service and a cash contribution to the Royal Navy.

OPPOSED BY PUBLIC

This plan was approved by the Commons—but not by the public.

A bitter debate erupted. The nationalists accused Sir Wilfrid of betrayal; the imperialists belittled any idea of a national navy. Laurier was caught in the middle of this cross-fire.

Later that year, the Canadian delegation to the imperial defence conference worked out still another compromise with the British: creation of a Canadian fleet unit for the Royal Navy.

On Jan. 12, 1910, Laurier introduced the naval service bill in the Commons. It provided for a Canadian naval force which, subject to Parliament's approval, could be put under British control in event of war. Capital cost: $13,000,000 for five cruisers and six destroyers; annual cost: $3,000,000.

The bill was passed April 20, 1910, by a vote of 111 to 70 and given royal assent May 6, 1910. But this was far from the end of the matter.

Those strange bedfellows, the nationalists and imperialists, continued their public attack on the concept of a Canadian navy, the nationalists because they feared Canada would automatically be drawn into British wars, the imperialists because it was Canadian and not British.

In Quebec, formation of the navy was the burning issue in the 1911 general election—in the rest of Canada, it was reciprocity with the United States.

Somewhat plaintively, Laurier said: "I am branded in Quebec as a traitor to the French and in Ontario as a traitor to the English." But, he concluded stoutly, "I am neither. I am a Canadian."

GOVERNMENT DEFEATED

On Sept. 11, 1911, Laurier's government fell and Sir Robert Borden formed a Conservative ministry.

Borden cancelled the contracts for the Canadian warships but made no move to repeal the Naval Service Act. The navy continued its shaky existence with the two cruisers, Niobe and Rainbow, obtained from Britain in 1910, and the new naval college in Halifax.

In 1912, Winston Churchill, then first lord of the admiralty, apparently convinced Borden that the growing strength of the German navy made necessary a Canadian cash contribution of $35,000,000 for three Royal Navy battleships which would carry Canadian names.

The naval aid bill was introduced in the Commons Dec. 5, 1912. The great debate broke out all over again. It didn't help Borden when Churchill was quoted as saying he doubted that Canada could build and operate her own navy.

STIFLED DEBATE

The government invoked closure to cut off debate and forced passage of the bill through the Commons. But the Senate had a Liberal majority and threw out the measure May 29, 1913. The Senate had rescued the navy.

The Canadian navy was a separate entity during the First World War. The Niobe and Rainbow patrolled the Canadian east and west coasts and converted yachts, motor launches, tugs and fishing craft were pressed into service. British Columbia bought two submarines which were manned largely by naval reserve personnel.

Strength of the RCN and reserve reached nearly 9,000, most of them attached to the Royal Navy.

After the First World War, the RCN was allowed to keep only two destroyers. By 1922 its strength had fallen to a total of 366. The naval college was closed. Many cadets joined the merchant service against the day when they could return to the navy.

NEW WARSHIPS

In 1931, the Saguenay and Skeena were commissioned. They were the first warships, other than auxiliary vessels, built specifically for the RCN.

When war came in 1939, the navy had a strength of 1,770, six and two training ships. By war's end, it was the third largest Allied fleet with 95,105 personnel and nearly 400 ships. Under Canadian escort, more than 25,000 merchant ship voyages carried 181,843,180 tons of cargo from North America to the United Kingdom. The Canadian navy had a hand in the sinking of 27 U-boats and the destruction or capture of 42 enemy surface ships. At least 1,797 personnel killed and 21 ships.

In its jubilee year, 1960, the Navy has about 20,000 personnel and 62 ships in commission, including the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, 25 destroyers, 18 frigates, 10 minesweepers, two mobile repair ships and six smaller craft.

ARGUMENTS DEAD

Nobody argues very vociferously today that the RCN should be scrapped and the money given to the Royal Navy, or that the RCN be made a fleet unit of the RN.

This is a signpost of how far along the road to nationhood Canada has travelled.

At the same time, the RCN is part of a NATO fleet.

Neither the imperialists nor nationalists of 50 years ago were right.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Bill (Red) Hay, 24-year-old centre of the Chicago Black Hawks, is the 1959-60 winner of the Calder Memorial Trophy. Hay polled 139 points out of a possible 180 in winning the trophy which is presented annually to "the player selected as the most proficient in his first year of competition in the National Hockey League." He is also the recipient of $1,000 from the National Hockey League.

Murray Oliver of the Detroit Red Wings, who like Hay is also a centre, finished second in the voting with 101 points, Ken Schinkel, right winger of the New York Rangers, finished third with 30 points. Hay and Oliver were neck and neck in the voting at the half-way mark but Hay pulled away in the second half.

Hay polled 57 points to 54 for Oliver in the first half. In the second half Hay was almost a unanimous choice, polling 82 points out of a possible 90. Oliver picked up 47 points in second-half balloting. Schinkel had 22 points in the first half and eight in the second.

Other players besides Hay, Oliver and Schinkel to poll points were: Stan Mikita, Chicago, 25; Murray Balfour, Chicago, 22; Bill Hicke, Canadiens, 7; Bob Nevin, Rangers, 2; Ted Hampson, Toronto, 1; Gary Edmundson, Toronto, 1, and Irv Spencer, Rangers, 1.

The 24-year-old, 6 foot, 3 inch, 190-pound Hay had never played a single game in the National Hockey League until the start of the 1958-59 season. The year before he had starred for the Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League where he scored 24 goals and had 30 assists for 54 points. Prior to that time he had played college hockey in the United States. He was one of the top members of the Colorado College Tigers and he is one of the very few players who played United States collegiate hockey and then went on to play in the National Hockey League.

The rangy redhead was born in Lumsden, Sask., and is the son of Charlie Hay, an outstanding goalkeeper in Western Canada during the 1920's. Bill is a graduate geologist and works at his profession in Western Canada during the summer months.

Chicago bought Bill Hay from Montreal Canadiens for $20,000 last summer. They paid the same amount to Canadiens for Murray Balfour. The Chicago management then placed these two players on a line with the sensational Bobby Hull to form Chicago's No. One unit and one of the outstanding forward lines in the NHL during 1959-60. Hull won the NHL scoring championship with 39 goals and 42 assists for 81 points. Hay scored 15 goals and assisted on 37 others for 52 points and Balfour had 18 goals and 14 assists for 32 points. Hay took part in all 70 Black Hawk games during the regular schedule.

Last Chicago player to win the Calder Memorial Trophy was Pierre Pilote during the 1954-55 season. Back-strom of Canadiens was the winner in 1958-59. A defenceman has never won this trophy.

The voting was conducted by a panel of hockey writers, broadcasters and telecasters from the six NHL cities. Points were awarded on the basis of five for a first place vote, three for a second and one for a third. The voting was divided into two halves. First half consisted of games up to and including those of December 31, 1959. A unanimous selection would poll 90 points for each half for a grand total of 180.

MINOR HOCKEY SUCCESS!

It's getting to be more or less of a habit, but the Ontario Minor Hockey Association can take the biggest bow this spring of any of the years of its long and honorable existence.

It established a new record for registration of teams and players. Some 658 teams took part in the playoffs, including 116 peewee teams who played OMHA zone championships for the first time. Team registration last year was 633.

Registrations in local leagues increased from 1422 teams last year to 1673 this year. Total player registration last year was 33,396. This year it jumped to 44,738. These figures do not include the Toronto Hockey League registrations.

While hockey was generally clean, the association clamped down hard on rules-breakers. Some 36 players drew suspensions which ran from one to four games. Four players are under indefinite suspension as of now.

Zone play for the peewees was a tremendous success in its inaugural year. It is hoped next year the peewees will be classified the same way as the other age groups. Zone winners in this district included Trenton, Napanee, Havelock and Wellington. Championship crests will be forwarded to these teams shortly.

McCovey Homers in Eighth To Give Cards 9-8 Victory; Score Loses 1960 Opener

By ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Add yet another disappointment for Herb Score.

The tough luck guy, making his 1960 debut in his first game with the Chicago White Sox, ran into Hank Bauer's home-run bat, four unearned runs and a dandy three-bit pitching job by Bud Daley for a 9-5 setback at Kansas City Monday night.

It was Score's seventh straight loss since last July. And it was the fourth in a row for the White Sox, in sixth place, 1½ games behind idle, unbeaten Detroit, while Kansas City climbed into a three-place tie with Washington. The Senators lost 3-2 to Baltimore Orioles, who had dropped five straight, in the only other AL game schedule.

HAS MISSED 19

Score, 26, who has won only 11 since being felled by a line drive in 1957, now has missed 19 starts since pulling away his last victory—an 8-4 decision at Kansas City last July 3. He showed five, but struck out three and had allowed only two hits through three innings. One was Bauer's third-inning home run that tied it 3-3.

Then came the fourth, and five Kansas City runs.

Bob Johnson singled and rookie Ken Hamlin followed with what looked like a doubleplay ball. But shortstop Luis Aparicio threw it away, Johnson scored the lead run and the A's were on their way. Four more singles got Score out of the game and reliever Mike Garcia gave up the other.

Turk Lown and Gerry Staley blanked the As on two hits the rest of the way, but the chamos were down with their fourth defeat in six games, and their strong point—defence—had given up a total of eight unearned runs in two games.

ALLOWS THREE

Daley, hit for five unearned runs when he was chased in last week's opener at Chicago, allowed two singles and a double in his first decision. He gave up just one walk, to Jerry Sievers, who scored on Minnie Minoso's single and Sherm Lollar's sacrifice fly in the second inning. A double by Jim Landis and a single by Gene Freese were the only other hits off the lefthander who struck out five in his first major league three-hitter.

Two walks and Jim Gentile's two-out home run in the first inning AL beat righthander Russ Kemmerer (0-1) and the Senators in the first inning at Washington. Milt Pappas (1-0) allowed five hits, one Don Mincher's first major league home run, and struck out seven for his sixth in a row over the Nats since Aug. 16, 1958.

Henry Hank Wants Champ; KO's Calhoun

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bring on the champ, middleweight Henry Hank hollered today after knocking out Rory Calhoun in the second round of a scheduled 10.

"If Gene Fullmer will fight me, I'll have the championship," said Hank, a cocky, 25-year-old Detroit battler.

But he acknowledged he'll fight anybody good for a fat payday. Matchmaker Bennie Ford said he'd try to get either Spider Webb or Dick Tiger to meet Hank here.

Hank, winning his seventh straight and 42nd fight, dropped Calhoun in the first round Monday night with a left hook to the head. Calhoun took the punishment right count, the last five on his feet.

They slugged it out in the second and for a while Rory, from White Plains, N.Y., was getting the better of it. But Hank unleashed a barrage climaxed by a devastating left hook. Then a left-right combination to the head put Calhoun on the deck for the count.

He got up, but was too wobbly to stay up. Referee Wes Bybee gave him a helping hand and called a halt at 2:36.

The fight was officially scored a knockout.

In a preliminary fight, Leroy Sayles, a Berkeley, Calif., welterweight in only his second professional fight, was seriously injured when foe was knocked out in the second round by Floyd Ryan of Richmond, Calif.

Sayles, 22, was taken unconscious to a hospital. Dr. Robert Duran, ringside physician for the state athletic commission, said Sayles may have suffered a severe concussion.

Lift Champ No Match For Boxer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)— The Olympic heavyweight weightlifting champion of the United States—Paul Anderson—is by no means a boxer, despite his first professional boxing match last night.

Antillio Tondo, a 190-pounder from Suffern, N.Y., inflicted lasting punishment on the almost defenceless Anderson, who turned to referee Ralph Atkins and asked the fight be stopped at 2:32 of the third round on the shredded spectacle.

"I only trained one week for this fight," said the 290-pound Anderson, a good - natured product of Toccoa, Ga., who likes wrestling professionally. "I quit training last Thursday because I thought I was ready.

"I was beat and I'm not giving any alibis. But I drank only two glasses of water since Thursday."

"Why was that?" a reporter asked.

"Somebody told me a fighter needs to dry out, so I quit drinking water."

Such advice is for boxers attempting to meet weight limitations, Anderson shook his head. "I know that now."

"Weight means nothing," said Tondo, "I advise Anderson to stick to wrestling."

Names Son After Allan Cup; So Did Ike!

CHATHAM (CP)—The wife of Ted Power, captain of Chatham Maroons, gave birth to a son Monday. She said confidently that the baby, who weighed eight pounds, seven ounces, will have a name connected with Chatham winning the Allan Cup.

Mrs. Power said that as an indication of her optimism her son will be named Allan Kevin Michael, after the Allan Cup.

Mrs. Powers gave birth to her first baby, Kimberly Ann, four years ago the same night the Maroons left Chatham to meet Sudbury for the all-Ontario Senior A championship. Chatham won the series in seven games.

The Powers have another child, Karen, 2½.

Maroons Take Allan Cup Opener 4-1

Three Third-Period Goals, Two Scored in Final Minute, Stun Smoke Eaters and Fans

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — A rock-hard defence and relentless skating was the formula Thatham Maroons used Monday night in recording a 4-1 victory over Trail Smoke Eaters in the opening game of the Allan Cup hockey final.

Three third - period Chatham goals, two in the final minute, stunned the Smoke Eaters and 4,000 fans watching the first Allan Cup game ever played in this southeastern British Columbia smelting centre.

Right winger Bill Forhan came up with two goals, including the winner, to pace the Eastern Canada senior champions. Al Cleary and Jim Connelly scored singles. Right winger Norm Lenardon scored for Smoke Eaters in the second period.

Second game of the best-of-seven series is set for Wednesday night. The third engagement will be Friday.

The husky Maroons, slight underdogs in the series, held a wide territorial margin and forced netminder Seth Martin of Trail to make 33 stops.

MANIAGO SHARP

The game marked the successful return home by Cesare Maniago, Maroon's netminder. Maniago, who helped Chatham at the beginning of the eastern playoffs, made 24 stops. He was especially sharp during the opening minutes of the game.

"It was a big win for us," said Maroon manager - coach Johnny Hewek, former National Hockey League star. "Of course, it's always a big win when you take the first game of a playoff series but this away from home.

"I would rate Trail almost level with Rouyn-Noranda Alouettes, a good team but not the best we've seen this year. But I think this series is a long way from over."

Coach Bobby Kromm of Trail said Maroons deserved to win. "We left too many chances around the net go by the board. We'll be in there yet and I don't think there is any cause of alarm."

Smoke Eaters had been idle since winning the western championship in four straight games against Port Arthur Bearcats two weeks ago.

HAS HIGH PRAISE

Hewek had high praise for Martin and Trail defenceman Harry Smith, both Western International League all-stars. Smith several times came to Martin's rescue by slapping loose pucks from the goalmouth and led the Trail attack. It was his work that put Lenardon in position to score.

Forhan, a 22-goal scorer during the regular Ontario Hockey Association season, opened the scoring at 11:11 of the second period as he fooled Martin with a long backhand drive from just inside the blueline. He caught Martin napping and lucked the puck into the corner as he skated out from behind the net at 2:31 of the third period.

Cleary was also handed a gift goal in the final minute of the game when Trail defenceman Don Fletcher accidentally passed him the puck just outside the goalcrease. Martin had no chance on the play.

Connelly, a member of the Canadian Olympic team at Squaw Valley, Calif., and Maroon's third highest scorer in the regular season, capped the night's scoring with 30 seconds left, slapping in Gary Smart's short pass.

NO LINEUP CHANGES

Horeck, who has ace defenceman Jack Douglas out with a broken leg, said he did not plan any lineup changes for Wednesday night.

"The more rest Douglas can get the better. As long as we can keep winning like we will do so. Our defence was pretty strong and our forwards and Seth Martin's saves too much time to get set."

Pilsoke, McIntyre, scoring champion of the Western International League who was picked up by Trail after the playoffs missed five good chances around the Chatham net.

Kromm said many of his forwards hurried their shots. "It was a bad game for us, I don't think Chatham is as strong as they are rated and things will be different when we regain our timing."

"Don't Bet on Us"

Oil Kings' Manager Gloomy Over Memorial Cup Outcome

TORONTO (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings will be David meeting Goliath when they face St. Catharines Teepees in the Memorial Cup hockey final series at St. Catharines Wednesday night.

This is the considered opinion of Edmonton manager Leo Leclerc. But he brightened for a moment when he watched his team work out here Monday.

"We have some pretty good kids out there, don't forget that. They'll be going out there to win. But if you want my advice, don't bet on us."

Meanwhile, in St. Catharines the Teepees, toughened by 72 games since they started hockey wars this season, were taking a day off, but they scheduled a workout today in their 4,000-seat Garden City Arena.

Team officials were optimistic about the best-of-seven series for the Canadian junior crown.

REPLACEMENT HELD

"The rest should do the boys more good than practice," said coach Roger Jenkins.

"The club appears to thrive on heavy work," said manager Rudy Pilous. "I thought Bill played their best game of the playoffs Sunday in Toronto and that was their fourth trip to Montreal in a dozen days."

Reserve eliminated Brockville Canadiens here Sunday in the eighth game of the scheduled best-of-seven eastern final.

History is against the Oil Kings. Edmonton has never won the cup and the last entry from the Alberta Junior Group has dropped by Teepees, who have never lost a cup final. A western entry hasn't won in the last 17 years.

Observers suggested LeClerc might be using a little mouthwash to lull the powerful Teepees. He denied this.

SUSPENDING CLUB

The Oil Kings were underrated all season. Few folks had any good predictions for them but they dominated with the highly-rated Flin Flon Bombers and Brandon Wheat Kings to win the western title.

Teepees topped the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A 48-game schedule and went on to eliminate Guelph 9-5 Bytowners, Peterborough Peips, Toronto St. Michael's Majors and Brockville in the eastern playoffs.

With the exception of centre Don Grosso, skating with difficulty because of cracked bone in his left leg, Teepees are in top condition. Grosso is expected to dress for the opener.

Edmonton goes into the series with 22 players, including forward Ed Ehrenvarth and defenceman Dun McCollum of Brandon and forward Cliff Pennington from Flin Flon.

Second and third games will be played here Friday night and Sunday.

Go-Kart Racing Makes Debut In Kingston

KINGSTON (Special)— Go-Kart racing, the latest racing sport to catch the fancy of the spectator public, makes its debut in Kingston's Community Centre Thursday night.

And among drivers who test the 200 x 90 foot floor surface of the 3,400 seat arena are likely to be a handful of Belleville enthusiasts.

The sport got off the floor last Thursday night when a drivers' meeting in Kingston attracted 35 interested people, about a dozen of whom already had the racing models.

The program will be run off in the usual stock car fashion with qualifying races leading up to semi-finals, consolation events and the feature race.

In attendance will be Bud Carlisle promoter of the Kingston Raceway and many of his drivers. Five Kingston drivers have the extra track Friday afternoon and gave it their real workout.

Races will start at 8.30. A guaranteed purse is offered for the first night's program but what is expected will be a weekly affair throughout the summer.

Big Racing Names Hit News As British Classics Open

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain's first flat-racing classic of the year will be run Wednesday at Newmarket and some familiar names are in the news as a result.

First there is the Aly Khan, diplomat and sire-maker whose success on British and French tracks last year indicate he may dominate the turf as did his father, the late Aga Khan.

In the first of the classics, the Two Thousand Guineas, Aly will start favorite Venture VII. He won the same race a year ago with Tehsoun.

Then there's Harry J. Joel—the initial also stands for Joel—who holds a strong hand in three-year-old events with Red Gauntlet, Avebury and Ancient Lights. In the Guineas, the black Joel silks will be borne by Red Gauntlet, an enigmatic sort who goes like the wind in workouts but disappointed in his only racecourse outing so far this season.

Another well-known owner Sir Victor Sassoon, 79, who in the last six years has produced the most incredible feat of winning the Epsom Derby three times. His Gulstonia hope is St. Paddy, a colt by Aureole — perhaps the greatest horse Queen Elizabeth owned—out of a cheap mare named Nide Kelly.

St. Paddy, also eligible for the Derby June 8, won over a mile at a two-year-old and has been working smartly.

Other challengers include Filipio, runaway winner of his first race this term, and Sir Winston Churchill's promising High Hat, fourth in a recent race at Kempton.

The second classic, the One Thousand Guineas, will be run Friday over the same one-mile course at Newmarket but is reserved exclusively for fillies, which can run in the Two Thousand. Here again Sassoon has a live contender in Plump now quoted as 5-to-1 favorite.

With the Derby more than a month away, betting on the third classic is still light. Apart from St. Paddy, warmest orders are the French horse Angers and the Irish colt, Die Hard.

Spahn Wants More Work

CINCINNATI (AP) — Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves is probably the highest paid pitcher in the National League, wants to earn his salary.

"I need more work," the 36-year-old veteran southpaw said Monday as he awaited the start of a two-game series between the Braves and Cincinnati Reds tonight. "I can't stand these long layoffs. I'm not getting the ball regularly but I've become convinced I've got to work more."

Spahn is to start on the mound for the Braves tonight, facing Jim O'Toole. It will be his first appearance since last Wednesday when he failed for the second time this year to go the distance. His only other start was in the opening game at Milwaukee when he went seven innings before being lifted.

Quinte Trap, Gun Club

The Quinte Trap and Gun Club's first shoot of the season was held on Sunday with three participants tying with the day's high score.

Cy Gardner, John Walsh and Doug Gannon turned in scores of 23 (out of a possible 25) to head the list.

Three others, Harry Ronalds, Don Parker and Dick Rosatte, followed with 22, while Wally Waldorf fired an even 20.

The club will be holding regular shoots from now on and new members are welcome to join. The general public is also invited to attend.

Toronto Tied For Second; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gene Green really burst Rochester's bubble with a couple of hefty wallops that sent the Red Wings into the middle of the International League pack and raised his own Miami Marlins out of the cellar.

Green smacked home runs in both ends of a doubleheader Monday night to lead Miami to 4-1 and 5-3 victories over the Red Wings, who had won their first two games. The double defeat tossed them into fourth place, a game and a half behind leaguetrailing Buffalo, which was also as was Havana. Miami now is in fifth place.

Montreal defeated Richmond 3-1 and Toronto won over Columbus 9-7 to tie for second place.

Home runs by Curt Roberts and George Risley paced a 10 - 4 win Montreal attack. Robert's two-run shot against loser Jim Brosnstad in the fourth inning put the Royals in front for good. Risley added the five-run clincher in the eighth. Connie Grob won his second for Montreal.

Sparky Anderson's triple set up a two-run ninth inning for Toronto to undo a four-run last-inning splurge by Columbus in the night. Jim King's sacrifice fly scored Anderson and the Leafs quickly added an insurance tally. Ross Herman won his second for Toronto.

Riders Sign Halfback Kelly

OTTAWA (CP)—Halfback Joe Kelly, a late cut from Los Angeles Rams, has joined Ottawa Rough Riders in mid-season last year, has signed a 1960 Riders contract, the Big Four football club announced today.

Also announced was the signing of two Canadian boldoversbackie Gilles Archambault and defensive back Don Purser.

In their search for new talent for the 1961 season coach Frank Clair and assistant coach Bill Smyth now are visiting spring training camps in the United States, each hoping to visit 15 or 20 top collegers. General manager George Terlep also is visiting several spring camps.

On the Track

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

FORT ERIE (CP) — Dynamic Drum, a horse would tily making the first start of her career, scored a 5-length victory Monday in the modern history of the Fort Erie Jockey Club when she captured the third race Monday.

Cookiegorum paid $156.90 for $56.10 to place and $22.20 to show.

Three of the Kentucky Derby's top contenders are out of the running due to injury.

Noble Noor, owned by Dr. and Mrs. John A. Clark, injured a foreleg in winning the California Derby at Bay Meadows April 16.

All Hands, Cain Hoy Stable, and Weatherwise, Greentree Stable, were declared scratches due to leg injuries.

Ismael Velenzuela, scheduled to ride Noble Noor, was shifted to Llangollen Farm's Eagle Admiral and to Avila competes against his brother, Angel, slated to ride Sherlaw. Henrijus finished second to Noble Noor at Bay Meadows.

Earlier this spring, Warfare, the top two-year-old of 1959 and Derby favorite, was eliminated by a bone chip in his right knee.

Tompion remains the advance choice at 2-to-1.

Well-Known Pacer Dies After Accident

MONTREAL (CP)—Star Volo, 11-year-old pacer, is dead as the harness-racing man his death probably ends an era in the sport in Quebec province.

The son of High Volo, brown gelding rail, died from a cerebral hemorrhage shortly after the start of the eighth race Saturday at Blue Bonnets track.

Star Volo more than $56,000 in purses and held a world record. In 1951 at Indianapolis he paced two heats of a race in times of 2:04 and 2:04.3.

In the famous miracle mile race in 1955 at Vernon Downs he was clocked in 1:57.3. The winner of that race was Adios Harry in 1:55, and all horses in the race were under two minutes.

Danny Thomas Not Quitting TV Show Says Producer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Earlier this season, just before Pat Harrington Jr. was introduced as a member of the family on Danny Thomas Show, word got around that the plan was for Thomas to be graduated from part in the popular series and that Harrington would ultimately take over the show.

Sheldon Leonard, producer and star, thinks it's time he says that is not so at all, even if Danny himself started the rumor.

"I think Danny is seven years old, going on eight," says Leonard. "He took me a long time to learn that when Danny screams he hates a script and wants to throw the whole thing out, he really wants a comma changed in a line."

Leonard says he tries to give his cast a one week layoff after it makes four shows, says that Danny made his retirement remarks at a time when he was working for 13 consecutive weeks so he could take time off for a publicity tour.

Barbara Stanwyck's anthology series, which has been talked about for years, finally premieres will finally materialize — next season. It has found a sponsor and will go on the first half-hour Steve Allen's soon-to-be-vacated Monday night spot on CBS.

Durward Kirby, Carry Moore's Tuesday night sidekick, will join Moore's Wednesday night TV Got a Secret panel next month while Bill Cullen takes a vacation.

Recommended tonight:

Soldiers in Greasepaint, NBC, 8:30-9:30 EST—musical show on the 20th anniversary of the USO, with Jane Morgan, Jack Crosby and film clips of wartime entertainers.

Alcoa Presents, NBC 10-11 —With Cliff Arquette, Shelley Berman, Keely Smith, Mike Nichols and Elaine May.

International Soccer League Will Operate

GUELPH (CP)—The International Soccer League said Monday that the league will operate this season, contrary to earlier rumors.

The statement was released by league secretary Harold Small after directors met in Hamilton during the weekend.

The league will operate with eight teams: Hamilton Imperials; in Hamilton, Germania, Trinacria, and Hungarian Elevator; Stratford Fishers, St. Catharines Club Heidelberg, Guelph Selbi Bello and Kitchener-Waterloo Concordia. The season will open in May.

The league was thrown into an uproar recently when Steve Olavo of Toronto resigned as president after all the Toronto clubs in the league, except his own Toronto city team, withdrew because of financial difficulties. Peter Paton of Hamilton is the new president of the league.

SUSPEND OWNERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Two owners, Ray V. Foster and Wayne W. Gaskill, were handed a 15-day suspension at Roosevelt Raceway Monday for ungentlemanly conduct. The owners objected when their horse, Senator Frost, was disqualified for interference Saturday night.

At the Belle

Edmond O'Brien, Julie London in "The 3rd Voice"

One of the year's most intriguing films for 20th Century-Fox, is another CinemaScope production that pioneers new concepts of movie making.

The suspense thriller highlights unusual closeups, and a telephone booth becomes the instrument of a diabolical murder plot by a stranger known only as "The Thing Voice" and the discarded girl friend of the victim. The film plays tonight, and Wednesday, at the Belle Theatre, matinee daily, moves along with groundwork for an alibi and send the murder victim to his death. Suspense is in the movement of one character whose every action shows the inner workings of his mind and the unwinding of his scheme. He employs the use of the telephone to impart the suspense, fear and cunning that is his makeup.

One of the top major values of "The 3rd Voice" is its cast. Dexter and Cornfield, scored a hit with the inspiring Edmond O'Brien, Julie London and Larraine Day. The three work together to charge the film with a current of tingling action.

"Unknown Terror"

John Howard, Mala Powers and Paul Richards are starred in Regal Films' "The Unknown Terror," Twentieth Century-Fox thriller, the second action feature offering, now at the Belle. Set in the mountains of Northern California, a group of explorers expect to locate the Yeti or Death, the science-fiction drama was produced by Charles Marquis Warren. "The Yeti or Evil One, The Unknown Terror" are playing tonight and Wednesday at the Belle Theatre. Matinee daily.

Movie Strike Settlement Increases Production Costs

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What hath the movie strike wrought? Now that production has resumed, it is possible to make a sounder survey of the long-range effects of the settlement of the month - long strike of actors against the major studios.

Here's what actors' boss, head of Paramount Productions, has to say:

"The major effect of the settlement terms is to increase the cost of production. In most we got increases in industry, the cost is passed along to the consumer.

CAN'T CHARGE $5

"But we can't start charging $5 for movies or people would stop coming to the theaters. Increased costs have to be absorbed, adding to the risk of production. But we'll survive. We'll just have to learn to cut the cloth to fit the pattern."

On the other side, Screen Actors Guild president Ronald Reagan comments:

"Production costs will increase, but not materially. If all actors worked free, it would only lower admission costs two cents. Actors comprise only 10-12 per cent of the average movie's cost.

"The producers will have to contribute to the health and welfare fund, but the increase in minimums will have little effect. Only 10 per cent of our actors work at minimums."

SENSE OF STABILITY

Reagan's estimate of the settlement's benefit:

"The producers have always had the use of a great pool of acting talent for which they took no responsibility. Most film actors had to scramble to make a living by also working in other fields of show business—summer theatres, vaudeville, radio and now TV. The pension program now gives actors a sense of stability that should add strength to the whole industry."

Meanwhile, the sometimes striped wrist watch is still coming in its fourth month. The Writers Guild of America claims it is really hurting the studios now, since they are running out of scripts. Negotiations resumed last week for the first time since the strike's start and there is cautious optimism that some agreement may be reached soon.

General Tendencies: This is a day when your own ingenuity and resourcefulness can be used to work out whatever has to do with commissions, repairs, sales and purchases, a new and fresh approach at any writing, statements, reports which face you. Things come easily and you are able to handle all routine matters with real dispatch. Don't force new matters, however.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — An ideal day to correspond, have conferences, meetings with vital persons who can be instrumental in furthering your career. Impress associates with your true efficiency. Be sure that all mechanical apparatus is in good order.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Go over whatever real estate or holdings you may have and make the necessary improvements. Then set up a wise budget for yourself. P.M. take the treatments that will improve your health and general appearance.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A day for getting all your affairs, whether business or personal, in the order and condition that most suits own taste and desires. Get your health improved and hobbies nicely organized. Look at everything objectively.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — Make it a point to please those you love today through small but important services and kindly thought. Also, discard whatever is debris in your estimation. P.M. be particularly devoted to mate or attachment. Be romantic.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Take time to help comrades to get ahead today, and you will then be happily rewarded by getting their full cooperation in achieving own aims. P.M. branch out to make new contacts. They will help you to succeed in the future.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Civic affairs will prove likely keep you very busy this day. Every opportunity is yours to achieve great efficiency and be admired by higher-ups, especially one who is in authority. Be dynamic.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Your paper, radio, TV, other media all add to your current knowledge now, if you seriously study them. Be methodical. P.M. go out to dinner with a hitherup and come to real understanding.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — There are many new methods and systems through which you can acquire greater efficiency and increase income considerably. Confer with those at the top in your field, since they are feeling magnanimous and will assist you.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Excellent results can be brought about now if you have long discussions with associates and talk over the pros and cons. Hear them out patiently and go along with best ideas. Cement for better relations.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Get an early start with your labors today since aspects are favorable and much can be accomplished. Use the most modern systems for best results, however. This can be in the realm of home, business or out-of-doors.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — This can be a most happy and productive day, provided you first see to any health problems. Then complete important tasks and off to the amusements that most please. Make a good impression on them through efficiency and charm.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Make certain that all is in ideal order at abode. Later you can begin an upturn in all of your affairs through serious application. Think positively and start the ball rolling quickly. P.M. take it easy at own fireside.

If your child is born today— ... The marvellous child born today will have both a nimble wit and equally nimble fingers. Besides, there is a great penchant for order and inventive work. Your home will be a place of charm with this youngster around. Give good spiritual training early along with manual and classical education. Success can come in almost any field, but especially in building, designing, engineering.

SURVIVES OPERATIONS

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)— Timmy Fuller was born five months ago with entrances blinding both eyes and a loud, scratchy heart murmur. He weighed only three pounds, two ounces. Timmy went home from hospital Saturday, possibly one of the youngest children ever to survive two major operations for heart defects. Now doctors hope they can give him sight.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

If one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 30 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute of research. Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.. Ask for Individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

PRINT PAMPHLET

TORONTO (CP)—A labor department pamphlet acquainting Italian laborers with their rights regarding discrimination, hours of work, overtime and the province's compensation will be produced shortly, Labor Minister Daley of Ontario announced Monday. The circular will be printed in Italian and possibly in other languages. The action follows disclosures of exploitation of Italian immigrant labor and the recent Hogg's Hollow tunnel accident here in which five Italian workmen lost their lives.

Weary Rescuers Dig for Victims Of Quake at Lar

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Weary rescue teams pressed on today digging dead and injured from the ruins of the quake-shattered Iranian city of Lar, but death estimates dropped sharply as more complete reports reached the capital.

"The total is not expected to exceed 500 dead," said Dr. Hussein Khatib, director of the Red Cross, after conferring with officials who visited the disaster scene 550 miles south of Tehran.

The local military command said some 400 bodies already have been recovered and buried, and 1,000 more believed still in the ruins. About 30 of the thousands of injured were in serious condition.

Officials at the scene have said 2,000 perished in the two shocks which hit on Sunday morning. Lar, situated 14,000, and Gerash, a complex of villages 15 miles southeast, were hit.

Ethard Ridger (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) said his group "regrets very much" the 50-per-cent reduction in Canada's purchase of Canadian wheat under the new pact.

He also viewed the new agreement as the first reciprocal trade agreement Canada has ever signed. He hoped the government's efforts in promoting imports from Russia would "extend beyond the expression of pious hopes and platitudes to Canadian enterprise."

300 DIVORCE BILLS

stance" where a private investigator was present as an unreliable witness.

QUESTIONS RELEVANCY

Mr. Peters had questioned the reliability of some investigators. The Halifax member accused him of smear tactics.

Mr. Peters replied that he could not keep all the cases in his head.

Mr. Peters accused Mr. Hamilton of uttering "misconception, nonsense," and charged him with incompetence in running the post office department.

Mr. Peters, Mr. Hamilton and other members of the Opposition sides of the House who joined in the noisy exchange were called to order by Deputy Speaker Jacques Flynn.

At one point Monday, both Mr. Howard and Mr. Peters drew mild reprimands from Commons committee chairman Charles E. Rae PC-Toronto Spadina when they made some on the work of the Senate divorce committee.

Mr. Peters said some of the bills from the Senate contain unsubstantiated and undocumented evidence and Mr. Howard said "I don't care how lazy, drunk or incompetent the Senate committee is . . . We're not going to rubberstamp their incompetence."

Mr. Howard said the Senate committee was taking evidence from private detectives who "just don't care whether their evidence is accurate or not" and he suggested that some of the cases should be "more badly carefully looked into."

EXCHANGE OF

was why I saw him privately. It was a vain hope. Instead of correcting his first false story he repeated it and added to it.

The minister said Mr. Goldwyn wrote that he was merely reminded him of his statement two years earlier and that he had replied "Well, it was made in a joking way."

"As I did not make the statement in the first place . . . Mr. Goldberg is clearly falsifying the record again. There was never any joking on my part about anything I said or wrote to me that I had been joking."

He said he had told Mr. Goldberg "of making a farce and a joke of a serious matter with careless disregard for the consequences."

AIRPOWER

The AP dispatch by Mr. Goldberg on April 16 quoted Mr. Churchill as having "always been a "misunderstanding" about a statement he made about the arrival in Moscow that Canada would sell uranium to the Russians if they want it.

"The statement was made to the reporter and two other American correspondents after a brief discussion about changes in the Canadian law to allow sale for uranium from Blind River, Ont.

"This reporter asked Churchill on Thursday (April 14) whether in pursuing exports of uranium Canada might sell its Blind River product to Russia. Churchill said regarding Russia followed and Jack Warren, assistant deputy trade minister, added: 'It's the same thing.'

"Today Churchill said: 'There was a misunderstanding. I am not free to sell any uranium, and selling uranium to the Russians would be the last thing we would do.'

"Reminded of his Thursday statement Mr. Churchill said: 'I which he made it, Churchill said: 'I was not free to make a joking way. Of course we have agreements of uranium to sell for peaceful purposes but no sale would be contingent on agreements with the International Atomic Energy Agency and our own atoms for peace plan.'"

IN 19-MINUTE SPEECH

Mr. Churchill's denial was in the form of a 19-minute speech to the House.

He told the Commons he was surprised that "in the midst of the turmoil that appears to have upset many Canadians" that Canada no contact was made with me." There had been no interviews, cablegrams or telephone calls by representatives of the press in Canada.

It was "regrettable" that the Moscow dispatch had been accepted in Canada without any attempt whatsoever at verification.

Mr. Churchill then turned to details, previously mentioned, in the agreement itself. In the main the pact provided that Russia will buy 32 worth of Canadian goods for every $1 worth bought by Canada.

Opposition feception of Mr. Churchill's statement was cool. The new agreement was something of a disappointment.

LIBERAL CRITICIZES

George McIlraith (L — Ottawa West) criticized the government statement as containing "debatable material" that would be raised by the Liberals when the treaty comes before the Commons soon for parliamentary ratification.

Ethard Ridger (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) said his group "regrets very much" the 50-per-cent reduction in Canada's purchase of Canadian wheat under the new pact.

JUDGE QUESTIONS

was injustice either in that the original hearing was a sham or that the minister acted on new evidence in dismissing the appeal. Miss Rebrin had not been informed of new evidence.

Miss Rebrin, an attractive blonde who is well sailing and attentive beside an immigration officer during the hearing, came to Canada in 1956 on a visitor's visa. She sought permanent residence, was rejected and ordered deported Jan. 22, 1959. Her appeal was rejected last January.

Mr. Grey said Miss Rebrin can be admitted to Canada as an immigrant only if the minister waives provisions of the Immigration Act.

Mr. Justice Norris said this implied there is no appeal and that "if the minister shall person under these actions, then the minister is not hearing an appeal but considering a waiver and I can find no provision in the act for the minister to hear a waiver."

Mr. Grey said he knew of no such provision in the act but there had been cases where the law was waived by cabinet council. Mr. Justice Norris asked on what authority this action was based and Mr. Grey replied: "The government can do almost anything it wants."

Mr. Justice Norris also asked why Mrs. Fairclough should have made statements to the department concerning security risks if the deportation order was based simply on technical grounds that she was not the inquiry officer.

"I don't think the minister did need to say anything," Mr. Grey said.

"Why all this talk about security?" asked Mr. Justice Norris.

"I rather wonder that myself," replied Mr. Grey.

Mr. Justice Norris said if the statement was unnecessary it had "a most unfortunate effect" on Miss Rebrin's application.

Marriage of Princess Will Be Simple Affair Compared To Other Royal Weddings

By R.H. MacLURKIN

LONDON (Reuters)—The marriage of Princess Margaret to Antony Armstrong-Jones at Westminster Abbey May 6 will be a simple affair compared with some of Britain's royal weddings in the past.

Even used to publicity as she is, the ceremony is bound to be an ordeal for the princess, but at any rate she will be spared the distress experienced by Princess Sophia Charlotte, sister of King George I, when she married Prince Frederick of Prussia.

Her wedding dress of silver weighed more than 100 pounds. The train of golden point was so heavy that two soldiers had to hold it up before the bride could move even slowly. On top of all this she wore a huge crown of gold, pearl and diamonds which, as a chronicler recounted, "almost broke her neck." And she was tightly corseted.

The wedding involved six ceremonies, lasting 16 hours without a break. After the third of these, Sophia Charlotte was in such a state of exhaustion that she had to be revived by big sniffs of strong snuff.

DRESSING GOWN

Eventually she gasped: "Breathe freely I must—or die at the altar." She insisted on being escorted to a changing room where she got rid of the wedding dress and corsets. Then she slipped on a richly embroidered dressing gown and carried out the remainder of the ceremonies comfortably.

(The snuff must have become a lasting habit, for Sophia Charlotte also horrified the Prussian court at Frederick's subsequent coronation by taking a mighty pinch in the middle of that ceremony, too.)

Modern planning of royal occasions is so efficient that Princess Margaret's wedding is likely to go without a hitch. But exact timing was not as set when her grandfather, who became King George V, was married to Princess Mary of Teck (later Queen Mary) in 1893. Protocol is that the sovereign should always arrive last at a royal wedding. But Queen Victoria was there first, before any of the guests, with only one gentleman usher in readiness to receive her. It was suggested that she wait in a side-room, but she firmly rejected this and advanced down the aisle to her place.

Officials responsible for the mismanagement feared her anger, but at the end of the ceremony, she said she was glad the mistake had occurred. "It was very amusing to see everyone come in," she said.

The most efficient planning cannot guarantee the good behavior of the guests. The offender at the wedding in 1863 of Queen Victoria's son and heir, Edward, Prince of Wales, to Princess Alexandra of Denmark was the boy who later was to become Kaiser of Germany, Prince William of Prussia, as he was then, was four years old.

HIT KNEE

The solemnity of the ceremony in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, was just a bore to him. While everyone else was listening entranced to the singing of the "Swedish Nightingale," Jenny Lind, Prince William, dressed in a kilt, managed to pick a large, semi-precious stone out of the handle of the Scottish dirk he carried in his stocking. He threw it with vigor right across the chapel. One of his uncles, also in a kilt, rebuked him, so he promptly bent down and bit his uncle's knee.

The was much worse behavior at the wedding in 1795 of the Prince of Wales, who later became King George IV. The bride-groom was so drunk he had to be supported by two dukes during the state to where his bride, Princess Caroline of Brunswick, awaited him.

The embarrassed Archbishop of Canterbury, conducting the ceremony, had to repeat his questions to the bridegroom twice before he could draw the appropriate responses, and at one point George burst into maudlin tears.

In the days when royal matches were a matter of arrangement and not love, weddings were apt to be rushed affairs. In 1761, 17-year-old Princess Charlotte Sophia of Mecklenburg - Strelitz, a minor German state, was brought to England to marry King George III. After a long and difficult journey she reached London at 2:15 in the afternoon and was told the wedding was that night. It took place at the royal chapel in St. James's Palace at 10 p.m.

But Charlotte was a self-possessed young woman. Despite the hectic hours she had passed through she saved the situation when it was discovered that he wedding supper was badly delayed, by sitting down to a harpsichord and entertaining the guests with her songs.

DOUBLE WEDDING

The same Charlotte, as an elderly queen, played her part in one of the most unusual of British royal ceremonial occasions —the double wedding of two or her sons. They were the Duke of Clarence (who later became King William IV) and Edward, Duke of Kent.

William, 53, and said to be the "most father" of 10 illegitimate children, married Princess Adelaide of Saxe-Meiningen. Edward already had been married in Germany according to Lutheran rites to his bride, Princess Victoria of Saxe - Coburg - Saalfeld, but they wanted an English marriage ceremony.

The double wedding took place in 1818 in a drawing room at Kew, London, fitted up with an altar. The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London conducted the service. At the end of it, both couples knelt before the old queen and received her blessing.

From one of the unions—that of the Duke of Kent and his bride—emerged the child who became Queen Victoria.

British royalty in those days always went abroad for its brides and bridegrooms. The first person to break this tradition was Princess Louise, fourth daughter of Queen Victoria. She told her mother she preferred to marry a Briton—her choice was the Marquis of Lorne, heir to the Duke of Argyll—and the Queen agreed, though at that time it was a startling proposition that the daughter of a reigning monarch should marry a subject of the realm.

Such a match is no longer unusual. But what is unusual is that a royal princess should marry a commoner—a plain "mister"—as Princess Margaret is doing.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG—Sister Dorothy Fisher, Tweed, District Deputy President of Belleville district No. 4, made her official visit to Thomasburg Rebekah Lodge, on the evening of April 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fisher, of Toronto, and Mrs. W. A. Morton are visiting Miss Emma Porter at present.

The funeral of Mrs. Charles Hamilton, of Tweed, who passed away in Belleville hospital, on April 11, took place at the W. M. Bush Funeral Home on Thursday, April 14, with interment in Thomasburg Cemetery.

Mr. Richard Harvey is spending the Easter holidays in Toronto.

The condition of Mrs. George Dyson, who underwent surgery in Belleville Hospital, on April 19, is considered satisfactory.

Mrs. A. W. Brough is also a patient in Belleville hospital.

Their many friends wish them a speedy return to good health.

Capt. and Mrs. Ted Boldte and daughters of Montreal, Quebec, spent the holiday weekend with Mrs. Boldte's father, Mr. George Dyson at the parsonage here.

Special services were held in both churches on Good Friday morning, the Moira United Church congregation joining with Thomasburg.

The Sacrament of Holy Communion was celebrated by the pastor, Mr. George Dyson, in the United Church at 7.30 p.m. on Easter Sunday, April 17.

No service was held in Christ Church at Easter, but the congregation joined with Roslin Anglican Church for a special Easter service at 7.30 p.m. at which the Rev. A. L. Page, of St. Margarets - on - the - Hill, Belleville, was the guest minister.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne H. Thompson, of Trenton, were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Thompson.

The Rev. R. and Mrs. Chapman of Elmvale, Ontario, called on Mr. and Mrs. H. Vance on Tuesday, April 19.

Retired Deputy Minister Helped Quebec Grow Into One of Great Producers

By JOHN YORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — In nearly 46 years with the provincial mines department Alphonse Olivier Dufresne saw—and helped—Quebec grow into one of the world's great mineral producers.

He retired April 1 as deputy minister of the department after having an advisory hand in almost every mineral development during those years. He had been deputy minister since 1946.

"But I intend to keep at least a general interest in mining in the province," says Mr. Dufresne, a blue-eyed, ruddy-complexioned man of 76.

There were seven members in the department when Mr. Dufresne joined in 1914 as an assistant inspector. Now there are 500 employees.

FORESAW GROWTH

"I joined the department because I could see the province was on the verge of a great expansion. I wanted in on it and when I got the chance, I took it. It's been a great experience."

Mr. Dufresne graduated with a master's degree in science from McGill in 1912 early. Montreal Both McGill and the University of Montreal have conferred honorary degrees on him for his services to the mining industry.

"Things have changed considerably since 1914," he says in a voice tinged with a French-Canadian accent. "At that time all mining in Quebec was in the Eastern Townships, mostly asbestos, with a few small metal mines.

"The first big change was after the First World War when prospecting boomed in western Quebec. This led to the discovery of Noranda and other mines.

"After the First World War everybody was interested in gold, now all eyes are on iron ore."

MAJOR DEVELOPMENTS

In more recent years, Mr. Dufresne, through the department, has had a hand in such gigantic developments as the Chibougamau district, Schefferville and the newest, the Cartier Mining Company development in the Gulf of St. Lawrence area. One of his sons is an engineer at Schefferville, another is an accountant at Port Cartier, the harbor being built to ship Cartier's ore.

When he joined the department, total mineral production was valued at $11,732,783. In 1959 it was $461,979,700.

But Mr. Dufresne feels there is room for more mineral expansion in Quebec.

"In such a large province only certain sections have been investigated up to now and even in these sections new discoveries are being made. Even close to settlements there is still the possibility of discovering deposits that may in time become productive."

MINING LEADER—Alphonse Dufresne retired April 1 as deputy mines minister for better after nearly 46 years with the department. Mr. Dufresne, 76, was named deputy minister in 1946. He joined the department in 1914 when it consisted of seven members — now there are 500. (CP Photo)

Mallard Duck Takes Over Same Window Box

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A wild — but not very — mallard duck apparently likes the accommodations of the Milton Katz home in suburban Ladue.

Last year, the duck took over a window box at the Katz residence in the spring and raised 10-duckling brood.

This year what appears to be the same duck is back again, in the same window box. So far she's laid five eggs.

RHEE, PRESIDENT OF S. KOREA, RESIGNS

RHEE OVERTURNED — South Korea youths crowd around the fallen statue of President Syngman Rhee in Seoul after it was toppled from its pedestal by student demonstrators. Jubilant crowds roamed the streets after the 85-year-old Rhee's offer to resign the presidency and hold new elections. Rhee has since resigned.

Rhee Thought That He Alone Could Ward off Communism

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syngman Rhee, a descendant of Korean kings, spent 50 years fighting for independence and 12 years stamping his increasingly dictatorial rule on the country.

He was toppled from his pedestal by an explosion among Korea's students, who believed he was cheating them of democracy.

The 85-year-old Rhee firmly believed that he alone could defend South Korea from the dangers of communism.

Barely six weeks ago, despite the cries of his opposition in the Democratic party, Rhee was still the great liberator and hero to millions of Koreans. He could have been elected president for a fourth four-year term in a free and honest election.

NO OPPOSITION

But Rhee took no chances. After his Democratic opponent died a month before the March 15 vote, he refused to postpone the election so that another Democrat could be nominated. Rhee's Liberal party concentrated on a vice-presidential victory for Lee Kiu-peung, Rhee's choice successor if he himself did not live out his term.

The election results announced by the government gave Rhee the biggest vote of his career—about 90 per cent of the ballots. And Lee swamped vice-president John M. Chang, the Democratic party, who four years ago soundly trounced Lee.

On election night charges of widespread ballot-stuffing, trickery and strong - arm tactics sparked rioting in the port city of Masan, and 14 persons were killed. The rioting spread to Seoul and other cities and grew to nearrevolt proportions. Before it ended, some 130 persons were dead and more than 800 wounded.

Rhee finally announced he would resign and hold new elections.

SEVERE TORTURE

Rhee is descended from the Ri dynasty that ruled Korea from the 13th century until 1910, when Japan occupied the country. But in 1894, when he was only 19, he joined an independence club. He suffered until his fingers were nearly torn from their joints. But his iron will would not allow him to surrender even under torture.

Rhee got his freedom, along with other political prisoners, in 1905, when Japan and Russia went to war. For the next six years he studied in the U.S., returning to Korea in 1910 as the YMCA worker. That year the Japanese occupation he soon was forced to flee with a price on his head.

For the next 33 years he was a lone, shabby exile in Hawaii, Shanghai, Washington and Geneva, stubbornly fighting for Korean independence as the "provisional president of the Korean government-in-exile."

COMING QUEBEC ELECTION MAKES COPY IN HOUSE

Provincial Rights Debate Subject

OTTAWA (CP)—Obviously with an eye to an early provincial election, Quebec MPs on both sides of the Commons skirmished Tuesday around that reliable vote-getter—provincial rights.

But if the rules of Quebec Liberals and Progressive Conservatives were reversed from those of former years, the result weren't much different.

This time it was the Liberals who cried out against federal encroachment of Quebec's autonomy, the Quebec Conservatives did double duty—defending the government's new plan to get federal grants into the hands of Quebec universities while standing by the argument of opposition days that the Liberals' method of getting the grants was unconstitutional.

Debate became the device to preserve the day of members from Quebec where the Union Nationale party is in a fix expected to call an election in June. And the word provincial autonomy—long a hallmark of Quebec election campaigns — never the hardest-worked of the day.

TO PAY GRANTS

The "universities' bill enables Quebec, or any other province desiring, to pay grants now provided by the federal government. To raise the funds, Quebec, which rejected the grants from 1852 until this year, boosted corporation income taxes by two percentage points and the federal government is allowing an equivalent deduction from the federal corporation income tax.

Prolongation in the coming debate was Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier), who was a member of the Liberal ministry that established the grants on an unconditional basis in 1951, and Solicitor-General Balcer, whose consistent opposition to the Liberals' grants policy was brought up to him.

"A fantastic piece of legislation," said Mr. Chevrier of the government's plan.

"The most worst intrusion ever attempted by a federal government into the affairs of the provinces," he charged.

Retorted Mr. Balcer: The government is making unconstitutional the illegal method employed by Mr. Chevrier. "He proposes to argue that the new plan is conformed to the provincial rights of the late Premier Duplessis of Quebec.

De Gaulle Tells Americans New France Has Appeared

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles de Gaulle, basking in the warmth of New York City's magnificent welcome, has hailed the establishment of a new France in the community of nations.

The man who pledged himself to restore grandeur to his fatherland sounded told compatriots and Americans gathered in his honor Tuesday night:

"A new France—which is the true France of always—has made her appearance on the world scene. She has again made order in her own home and she has resumed the performance of her traditional international responsibilities."

The French president's appearance at the Waldorf-Astoria dinner capped a day of emotional and heartfelt reunion with New York, which welcomed him back after an absence of 15 years.

He leaves here today for San Francisco to continue his North American tour.

In a toast to the man who rallied France in her darkest moment of defeat, New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller raised his glass before 2,000 guests at the dinner and said:

"At a sombre moment in history, standing nearly alone, you represented the legitimacy of your people because you embodied its deepest values. After victory was won, you represented for over a decade the conscience of mankind. And you returned to office in an hour of crisis to inspire purpose and dignity."

It is in this role—that of a first president of the Fifth Republic that de Gaulle, 69 now and greyer and heavier with the years, came back to New York.

An estimated million persons lined the canyon of lower Broadway to hail the austere old warrior with applause and cries of "Vive de Gaulle" and Hiya Charlie" Tuesday.

After the parade he hoited his police escort when the car cavalcade arrived at Times Square, and marched at his side—the four dignity to spectators massed behind police barricades.

"Good luck to all of you," he said in English as he embraced some of the children in his arms. "Lots of luck to all Americans."

'No True Unity in West' Says Monty at Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—The West is not the true France of always—and there is no one in sight who would be acceptable to "lead us to better days," Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery said Tuesday.

"There is no unity in the West. The West, he said in an address to members of the Kingston Branch Institute of the Royal Military College.

Any leader has to be a political leader," he said, "and the percentage politician at the moment is General de Gaulle (president of France). However, he is getting on in years and no one shows any signs of being a leader. He is getting away from know from experience."

Field Marshal Montgomery praised Russian Premier Khrushchev's statesmanship.

"Khrushchev could twist most of the West's politicians around little finger," he said.

Lord Montgomery, who talked recently with Khrushchev, said the Russian leader views with alarm the ring of Western bases around his country.

He also said that, because of the Russians' fear of encirclement, apprehension of Germany, the placing of unification of German military officers.

REBRIN RELEASED ON $200 BOND DECISION TUES.

Judge Signs Paper Sitting in Car

VANCOUVER (CP) — Irene Rebrin was removed from immigration department custody Tuesday night and freed on bond of $200 for at least a week.

She will testify in court Tuesday whether Mr. Justice T. G. Norris will grant her continued freedom or return her to immigration authorities for deportation.

Mr. Justice is expected at that time to deliver his decision on Miss Rebrin's applications for a writ which would bring her out-right release and a writ of habeas corpus, which would limit immigration hearings under court review.

The 33 - year - old blonde, who has been lecturing in Slavonic studies at the University of B.C. since last September, was released Tuesday night in extraordinary proceedings that saw Mr. Justice Norris sign the papers authorizing the release while he sat in his car in front of the courthouse.

RESERVES DECISION

The justice reserve decision after hearing the arguments of counsel and met counsel in private chambers for nearly two hours hearing submissions.

Bail is not issued in civil cases but Mr. Justice Norris said the justice issued a writ of habeas corpus—he did not grant it—because Miss Rebrin under his jurisdiction and this permits him to release her on bond.

The outdoor ceremony resulted when the justice left the court while counsel prepared and typed the writ for his signature.

Miss Rebrin's counsel, Dr. M. C. Shumiatcher, had argued her client was entitled to a hearing before a board of inquiry and appeal review of her application for permanent residence here, and had her application rejected on grounds she was a prostitute. On July 22, 1959, she was ordered deported from Canada by immigration Minister Fairclough rejected her appeal.

Later, in the House of Commons, Mrs. Fairclough stated Miss Rebrin was "ordered out of the country on security grounds based on classified information. Mr. Harvey (Don Mills) protested the immigration department, argued that all the proceedings had been carried out properly.

Foreign Minister, H. Chung, Takes Over Power With Two Others Will Form Caretaker Govt.

SEOUL, (AP)—Foreign Minister Huh Chung today took over Syngman Rhee's powers as head of the South Korean government following Rhee's resignation from the presidency.

Huh, a one-time acting premier called back to office by Rhee earlier this week, said he assumed power at the moment Rhee resigned today, although the National Assembly will not meet until Thursday to accept the resignation.

Huh and his cabinet—which so far has only two other members—are to serve as a caretaker regime until a new president and vice-president are elected. The constitution says elections must be held within three months, and Huh said he hoped this could be accomplished.

12-YEAR RULE ENDS

Fulfilling a promise to resign he made Tuesday, Rhee bowed to a nationwide uprising that his 12-year rule over the republic he founded.

His resignation left Huh the senior member of the government. The vice-president, Lee Chang-having resigned last week. And the vice-speaker-elect, Cho Pyung-ok, is hiding in case demonstrators who sacked his home, but Rhee said Tuesday he had ordered Lee to quit all his political posts because of the demonstrators' charges that Lee's election to the vice-presidency was fraudulent.

A United States Army spokesman denied a report that Lee was under protective custody in the big U.S. base at Inchon, 20 miles west of Seoul.

Huh told a press conference he hopes President Eisenhower will go ahead with his plan to visit Seoul in June, on his way home from Moscow, despite Rhee's resignation. He also said he would accept resignation of South Korea's ambassador to the United States, Dr. Chang-yun, announced Tuesday by the ambassador in Washington.

WANT ELECTION

Some newspapers called for election of a new assembly also. They charged that the 1958 election of the present legislature, in which the Liberal party won a dominant majority, was as crooked as the Saturday presidential election which touched off the revolt.

Other papers favored the present assembly remaining during the transition to the more parliamentary system of government, with the president a figurehead as in France. Such a change was promised by Rhee before he was forced out of office.

Editorial objections also were voiced against Huh Chung, whom Rhee had named this week to lead a new party to unite the Liberal party government remade, Huh and Rhee's former independent but office served as acting premier under Rhee. Critics said Huh had worked too closely with the president.

Rhee, in a pre-sentence announcement of his resignation, said he hoped "to live out the rest of my life to be nation and people as a citizen." But there is speculation that he may leave the country.

Armstrong-Jones Invites Maid To Attend His Wedding to Princess

LONDON (Reuters) — A jolly Cockney woman who did Antony Armstrong-Jones' cleaning for him when he was a photographer has been invited to his wedding to Princess Margaret, it was reported today.

Mrs. Ruby Peabody, who lives with her railway engineer husband Ted in a tiny house in the working class Battersea district of London, kept her invitation secret for two weeks, the London Daily Mail reported.

Every day for three years Mrs. Peabody, 50, caught a bus to Armstrong-Jones' photographic studio and bachelor pad-in-the-London's Pimlico area.

She prepared his morning tea and orange juice, did the dusting and polishing, brushed his suit and cleaned his shoes.

The Daily Mail described Mrs. Peabody as the jolly sort of Cockney who is the envy of women who play outside her door.

Asked why she didn't tell the neighbors of her invitation, she said: "Well, dear, it only makes people jealous."

Mrs. Peabody, a grandmother, said of her former employer: "I was very happy with him. He is a really lovely person."

She plans to wear the beige suit she bought for her own daughter's wedding last month when she attends the royal ceremony in Westminister Abbey.

Election Date In Nova Scotia Set for June 7

HALIFAX (CP)—Tuesday, June 7 will be election day in Nova Scotia.

Premier Robert Stanfield, 46, whose Progressive Conservative government has been in office six years, announced the date Tuesday.

The election will be the first for the Stanfield government since taking office after the Oct. 30, 1956, ruling. It will come 42 days after announcement — the minimum advance notice required by provincial law.

The government holds 24 seats in the legislature. The Liberal opposition 18 and the CCF one. There was a by-election last October in Lunenburg East, won by CCF candidate Maurice Zinck.

Nomination day will be held May 24, two weeks before voting.

Three Youths Drowned in Lake Nipissing

SUDBURY (CP)—Two brothers and a third fishing companion were drowned late Tuesday night when their boat sank in Lake Nipissing, about 35 miles southeast of here.

Two others were rescued clinging to an overturned boat only 100 feet from shore.

The dead are Ovila Quenneville, 25, his brother Rene, 23, and Lionel Lapensee, 15, all from St. Charles, 45 miles southeast of here.

Rescued were Ronald Quenneville, 17-year-old brother of the two drowned youths, and Phillis Lapensee, 30, cousins of Lionel. The four were on their way to fish for suckers when their small boat capsized and dumped them into the freezing water.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:— Sunny skies and seasonable temperatures are forecast for most of southern Ontario today and Thursday. The temperature will drop down to the 30s tonight and range from 55 to 60 Thursday afternoon. Weak disturbances passing eastward across Northern Ontario will cause considerable cloudiness north of the Great Lakes with scattered showerflurries and below normal temperatures today and Thursday.

Prairie Snowstorm Travels East But Only North Will Get Flurries

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fairly settled weather was forecast for most of Central Canada today after conditions ranging from floods in Ontario to snow and near-freezing temperatures on the Prairies.

A storm that dropped a foot of snow on southern Alberta and eight inches on southern Manitoba was expected to move eastward out of the Prairies and snowflurries were forecast for Northern Ontario.

Elsewhere in Ontario dry conditions were expected to bring relief to flood-harassed communities. But there was a possibility of thunderstorms and residents in Ontario's three wounded flood areas were keeping their fingers crossed.

The Peterborough area is experiencing the worst floods in its history. Although the Otonabee River has not reached the record height of 1947 the present floods have caused greater inconvenience by affecting urban areas.

David Bennett, superintending engineer of the Trent canal system, estimated at least 60 pumps were working in cellars Tuesday. Several cottages, mostly unoccupied, along the river and Rice Lake have been flooded.

Mr. Bennett said the situation is the area had reached the point "where everything depends on the weather."

The floods appeared to have reached their peak, however, with no rise in the level of reservoir lakes in the area.

Several highways in the Sault Ste. Marie and Kawartha districts were closed Tuesday because of flooding and mud.

The Trans-Canada Highway blocked Monday at Kirby's Corners, 18 miles north of the Soo, was reopened Tuesday despite 18-inch flooding from the Goulais River. Gravel approaches to a new bridge across the river were washed out Monday night.

Despite a slight drop in the level of the Ottawa River, flooding in the capital area is still above normal, posing a possible threat to Hull, Ont., and cottages along its shores.

The river level remained unchanged at Constance Bay, upriver from Ottawa. About 50 summer cottages in the area have been surrounded by water.

Floodwaters surrounding cottages near Buckingham, Que., downriver from Ottawa, drained off following a drop in the level of two tributaries of the main stream.

County Council Accepts Offer Of Department on Madoc Rd.

Hastings county council today formally accepted the offer of the Department of Highways to rebuild the Madoc road as a development road project.

Acceptance of the offer made by Hillcrest Centre, Belleville, by council at the Wednesday morning session followed a recommendation from the county roads and bridges committee. Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. for Hastings East, briefly addressed council on the advantages of the acceptance vote.

Under terms of the agreement the only cost to the county would be provision of right-of-way, estimated at $10,000, in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

The province would do the surveying, call for tenders and do the paving.

Speaking briefly to council urging acceptance of the highways department offer, Mr. Rollins declared: "Considering a general opinion, the Madoc road will not have to be rebuilt again over as a development road project when two sections were rebuilt several years ago. "Only the sections actually rebuilt had been taken over as development projects," he said.

SEVERE WINTER YEAR

However, as result of continued effort on his part and on the part of W. E. Sandercock, MLA, for Hastings West, the Highways department had now agreed to take over the remainder of the road from Madoc to Foxboro, the proposal being that the remaining sections be rebuilt in three parts, the first — to be done next year — extending south to Ivanhoe.

"I hope that this meets with your approval," said Mr. Rollins.

The motion to accept the highways department offer was moved by Councillor Charles Long and Alfred Wickett.

Thanks to the East Hastings Highway Improvement Assn. for its tiring effort toward having the Madoc road included in the development project was expressed by Warden Sager, roads committee chairman Harry Hamilton and by Reeve Wilmott Rose of Madoc.

In reply Mr. Rollins said he was happy to work in the interest of the county.

LONG A PROBLEM

"The Madoc Road has long been a problem in this county, but I have been given every co-operation in this development," he said.

Although the Madoc Road has now been accepted by the county as a development project, Mr. Rollins said the county would still continue to work with the highways dept. on the provincial highway as an extension to Highway 7 at Marmora.

Turning to other matters Mr. Rollins urged the county to take every advantage of registering indigent persons for hospital insurance coverage.

COUNCILLOR DIES

Irish-Trained Horse Wins in Photo Finish

NEWMARKET, England (AP) Irish-trained Martial today defeated Lord Rosebery's Crepello in a photo finish to the 2,000 Guineas, the first classic of the English flat racing season.

Martial was an 18-to-1 betting choice. Venture Hill, May 15, third favorite, came over a tiring course. Seventeen thoroughbreds took part.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

INQUEST INTO BOYS' DEATHS POSTPONED

An inquest originally scheduled for Tuesday afternoon was postponed "probably until May 10", said County Attorney John Pringle.

He said Toronto police had not yet subpoenaed some witnesses.

The inquest was ordered in the death April 10 of 10-year-old Robert Drummond, 129 Foster Avenue, who collided with a motorcycle on Dundas Street East.

Raymond Boydreau of Toronto was charged with careless driving. He is scheduled to appear for trial May 10 before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Gordon Poitras Honored for 48 Years With CNR

Gordon Poitras, who was employed for the past 32 years with the CNR in Belleville as a telegraph lineman, was guest of honor last Thursday night at a party honoring him on his retirement after 48 years with the company.

W. J. McQuinn of Toronto, CNR outside plant supervisor, read a congratulatory address and J. A. Montcalm, district plant inspector, presented Mr. Poitras with an initialled leather wallet containing money given by his fellow employees.

Earlier, a dozen roses were given to Mrs. Poitras.

Speaks on Trip

WES McVICAR

Wes McVicar, secretary for physical education of the National Council of YMCA's of Canada, spoke to the physical education committee of the local YMCA yesterday evening at a meeting at the Quinte Hotel. Mr. McVicar spoke on his coming trip to the world conference for health and physical education being held in Japan, honoring him on his retirement after 48 years with the company.

Mr. McVicar also spoke on the Canada Fitness Test, the government's effort to assess the physical fitness of Ontario citizens and noted that week legs seemed to be predominate trait amongst Ontario adults and children.

The speaker noted that in his visits to Japan Canada there was a rising popularity and participation in the sports of gymnastics, judo, and SCUBA diving.

County Home Now Filled To Capacity but Costs Kept At Minimum Council Told

Hastings county councillors were completed the first day of their spring session but still had the serious business of their annual March meeting ahead of them.

Tuesday's session was taken up mainly with the reading of correspondence and the tabling of the resolutions which, collectively, covering a wide range of subjects.

Tuesday's session was also taken mainly with the reading of, correspondence and the tabling of resolutions covering a wide range of subject matter. No action was taken on many of the resolutions and they were officially filed.

Only one of the year end reports was heard, that by Reeve C. R. Whittemore of Deloro, chairman of the County Home committee, and the county home superintendent, Yorke, home superintendent, told council, the home was now filled to capacity with 90 patients and there were six waiting list. Of the total patients in the home it was noted that 53 were from the city.

LOW PAY COST

The per patient day cost at the home last year was $2.11 but this will be increased for 1960 with the implementation of the recommendation being a rate of $2.42 per day. The suggested rate however would still be the lowest in the province it was stated.

Dr. J. Russell Scott, Warrenton was also a speaker. Mr. Whittemore said expenditures for the year at the home totalled $178,178 with a revenue of $110,758.

Net cost to the county was $82,420 which was 46.2 per cent. Assessment grant of $46,341 had been received which left a net cost to the county of $16,177.

The county home, he has shown a profit of approximately $600; down considerably from other years. He said the reason accounting for the drop in revenue was that the central laundry factory crop was not grown last year, resulting in a drop of revenue from that source. The canning factory crop which produce was partially grown did not operate last year.

Council concurred in an outside resolution asking that compensation to re-imburse local municipalities for maintenance on roads leading to government camp sites.

ASSISTANCE ASKED

The resolution pointed out that such government camping sites were a benefit to the municipal roads which service them and an increase in road maintenance was being asked.

Council concurred in a Simcoe county resolution asking that interest chargeable on tax arrears be raised from one half of one per cent per month or six per cent per annum, to three quarters of one per cent per month or nine per cent per annum.

The resolution set the trend businessmen were taking advantage of the fact that the penalty rate for tax arrears is now lower than the rate at which money could be borrowed from the banks, causing municipal money to help in business financing.

Reeve Moorcroft of Madoc noted that this was the case in his village where many big industry were finding it cheaper to borrow money in this way from the municipality.

PLAN COUNTY MATCH

Dr. J. Russell Scott, chairman of the Hastings county ploughing match committee, said that a county plowing match was being planned for 1961 and that active interest in placing of local plowing matches to determine the plowing match to be held north of Belleville next year.

Dr. Scott said more out classes were being planned, 1, for secondary plowmen, 2, Junior and 3, Senior members with a total prize list of $2000; 3 a junior competition, also with a total of $1,000 and 3. an open class.

Dr. Scott told the Dr. Scott asked council members to be on the lookout for persons who are historical interest from an agricultural background which might be used in the display to exhibit being planned by the match committee for the Inter national Plowing Match.

County Reeve Harry Pound of Thurlow spoke briefly on the plans for the big match were being made by the club and that a plowing match representative from each township in the area to make seeding arrangements at the match site.

Prior in the afternoon council heard W. R. Fleman, representative of the Ontario Municipal Department at Tweed, address council regarding the possibility of the county entering into a forest agreement with the department for the purpose of providing fire protection for the county forest at Gilmour's Corners in North Hastings.

BIG INVESTMENT

He noted that in its 100-acre block county maintenance and trees planted, representing a sizeable investment well worthy of proper fire protection. He assured that marginal lands in the county that is to withdraw use in tree production.

Later in the session it is expected council will decide whether to enter into an agreement with the Department of Lands and Forests, or whether they will make some other arrangements for protecting the county forest from fire.

This week is being observed across the province as Chamber of Commerce Week. In Belleville there is active one of the oldest Chambers in Canada. The local Chamber having been organized in 1884 and incorporated in 1884. The local Chamber, as is the case with most Chambers, is always up against many people, but it has the basic objective of making the community a better place for its citizens.

A look at what the local Chamber, headed by Enos Davis, does is perhaps best accomplished by observing the various committees and divisions within it and examining their activities, aims and accomplishments.

There is an educational committee, headed by Dr. D. H. Brain. Currently this committee is working on the acquisition of prizes and awards for annual presentation to the graduating students of the technical department at Moira Secondary School. The committee hopes to obtain these awards from local industries and businesses. A dual function should be thus accomplished. Not only should the awards give many students an incentive to strive for better grades, but these awards will give local business and industrial interests a greater interest in the improvement of Belleville community.

There is also a tourist committee under the chairmanship of Hugh Murray. This committee is currently investigating the possibility of providing paper "key to the city" markers which would be placed on out-of-province cars and entitle them to free parking. In effect this will encourage them to stay in the city for a while. Through this it is hoped to benefit the community by having more "free money" coming in to the city shops, motels and restaurants.

Under the chairmanship of Al Ravill there is a very excellent program now underway by the manufacturer's section. This program is designed to acquaint and familiarize citizens with the products of this area so that they may talk intelligently about these and highly effective medium.

'Golden Rule of Industry' Must Be Applied for Happy Staff Foremen's Club Told

Members of the Quinte District Foremen's Club were advised to apply the "golden rule of industry" in their relationship with employees in order to maintain a happy and efficient staff by Brian Fines, director of personnel of the Bata Shoe Company, yesterday evening. Mr. Fines was speaking on the occasion of the annual visit of the Foremen's Club to Batawa.

The principal speaker suggested that the foreman should handle his workers in the same fashion that he expected to be treated himself in order to feel that he was an important asset to his firm and its operation. Commenting on the success of an employee Mr. Fines said that the average employee is an investment of approximately $10,000 to his firm based on an anticipated period of 25 years. He suggested that no person would go out and buy a machine worth a thousand dollars without carefully ascertaining its performance potential.

This led to a very informative explanation of the fine points of handling staff and that employees was the type of person best suited to the job for which the firm had to offer. The University of Toronto graduate pointed out that there was a high annual turnover of personnel within a large industry, and that the cost that firm $9,000 of its annual profit. Basing this amount on a national average for about three per cent. Mr. Fines went on to explain that while this turnover could be cut to two percent staff turnover it would result in a saving of $3,000 per $1,000,000 of sales employing around 1,600 employees.

MUST BE SUITABLE

The speaker stated that it was the responsibility of the foreman to ensure that new personnel were suitable for the jobs or needs. He is in a position to know what is required and also to what the job requires in skills, ability, training and temperament. Once the personnel department has recruited and interviewed the prospective staff people with these qualities, the foreman is in a position to determine which one of the men available will best fit into the job available. The duties of the new employee is then the responsibility of the foreman who must see to his training and impressions on the job. In the art of an employment program the foreman plays a key part in determining the success of the staff, he said Mr. Fine.

The chairmanship of the meeting was given by Father Dunn who spoke on the responsibility of foremanship. He emphasized the necessity of developing qualities of leadership and responsibility in younger men and he urged those who will be following one's footsteps. The limits of human frailty must be observed, he cautioned, and consideration of human factors and a sense of understanding should be employed in dealing with one's workers.

FOREMAN'S CREDO

The election of officers for the forthcoming year took place with Ken Hutchinson, foreman of the Mead Johnson Company being elected president. Vice-president, George Norval of American Optical and Bill Gander of Northern Electric were elected as vice-presidents. John Berkhout of the Bata Shoe Products was re-elected secretary and Robert Hall of Bata Lumber was elected treasurer. Handling the club's public relations for the next year will be Harold Knapp of Nichols Chemicals Ltd., Frank Grandadam, former Belleville alderman and Northern Electric employee was re-elected as Canadian Legion representative.

The meeting was chaired by Doug McLean, out-going president who expressed the thanks of the club to the Bata people for their generous hospitality. A number of door prizes were then taken on a tour of the shoe factory during the afternoon. Mr. Frank Vozsbule, production manager of Bata, welcomed the members to Batawa.

The annual conference of the Eastern District of the Ontario Provincial Y's Men's Club (International) was held in Cornwall last weekend with delegates from clubs in Belleville, Cornwall, Kingston, Oshawa, Ottawa, Peterborough and Belleville.

Problems and topics common to the clubs were considered and discussed, including training schools for club officers and for committee chairmen, workshops on publicity and public relations, leadership training, and a forum on "club problems" in general.

Speakers at Saturday's banquet and Sunday's luncheon again reiterated adoption of concepts of the objects of the Y's Men's International and their relationship to the Young Men's Christian and Hamilton Y's. Christian and Hamilton Y's. The Y's Men's Club is the senior service club.

Attending from the Belleville club were the past district governor, Willis Hutchinson; regional service co-ordinator Robbie Clarke; regional director of public relations, Hugh Watson; club president John Lucombe and Harold Barker, Merle Massey, Art Newman and Jack Fritcher.

Of local interest was the election of Hugh Watson to the office of lieutenant governor of the Eastern District.

Mr. Watson is an active member and past president of the local Y's Men's Club. He is a well-known figure in Belleville and his election was a well-earned recognition of his devotion to the ideals and principles of the movement.

For the second successive year the Belleville club brought home Dr. Jo Conway Memorial Trophy which is awarded to the club with the greatest number of directors attending meetings during the previous term.

IN MEMORIAM

CHOINARD. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Milton Choinard, who was killed April 27th, 1959.

We little knew when we woke that day
The sorrow the day would bring;
We little thought how many years
We'd have to sing and pray.
To part with one we loved so dear,
To watch him suffer and linger here,
Why some things have to be
Is more than we can understand.
To God we called her home, to suffer
no more,
And bade our loved one rest;
But memory keeps her image dear
And sacred in our breast.
—Sadly missed by daughter Bessie, Leslie and boys.

KING. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Albert King, who died April 27th, 1956.

Just the road of yesterday that
We cannot change, but it's sad
My memory of those days together
Can never fade.
And always every evening and morning
Dear, I remember you.
Resting face to meet you, dear,
When the Lord shall call me home.
We'll be reunited together, shared our joys, happiness, sorrows.
What a wonderful memory you left behind.
As it ends two years today.
—Sadly missed by wife and family.

VANALLEN. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Arnold VanAllen, who passed away April 28th, 1958.

Sweet memories will linger forever,
They cannot change, dear, it's sad
Years the, may come cannot sever,
Our loving memories of you.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by wife, daughter, son-in-law, grandchildren Jerry, Tommy and Ricky Reid.

CARDS OF THANKS

House of Concord New Venture by Salvation Army

A most important phase of Salvation Army service here in Belleville, and in fact everywhere the Salvation Army operates, is its work among those in present assistance given to those appearing in police court. This department of the Salvation Army now operates under the title of Correctional Service, however this particular branch of work dates back to the year 1894.

A new venture in the field of Correctional Services has been installed by penal authorities. A large institution, surrounded by 23 acres of land has been secured to house 200 young women who, having been placed on probation, by the courts without a suitable environment in which to regain a useful place in society. Known as the House of Concord, this new institution opened last month in the city of Toronto, has already been found useful by lads from this district.

In Belleville, the Correctional Services are handled by Capt. Bram Humphreys. During last year he spent 1,000 hours in this work, made 383 visits to prison and 117 to police court. A large number of personal interviews, and some assisted to secure paroles, were also a time of discharge and temporary accommodation and employment found.

Every Sunday morning a service is held in the county jail by Envoy Humphreys and not a few decisions for Christ have been made. Truly it can be said, "I was in prison and ye came unto me."

SERIOUS PROBLEM

EDMONTON (CP) — Jack R. Soules of Credit, Ont., president of the Canadian Construction Association, said Tuesday night the assimilation of 100,000 immigrants a year into the Canadian labor force is shaping as one of the most serious employment problems of the next decade. Speaking to a construction meeting, he said that in recent years the number of 20-secretaries in the 15-19 age group has increased rapidly.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock markets put on a more cheerful look today as investors regained some of their lost confidence.

On index, trading went ahead in all sections: Industrials up .18 at 498.56; golds up .06 at 82.24; base metals up .25 at 137.65; western oils up .30 at 91.08.

Watertown Visitors Help Local Kiwanis Mark Good-Will Week

Members from the Watertown, N.Y., Kiwanis Club, were guests of the Belleville Kiwanis Club Tuesday at the regular weekly dinner meeting at the Kiwanis Centre, to help the local club observe Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week.

In honor of the U.S. guests, both the Canadian and American national anthems were sung and toasts were proposed to Queen Elizabeth and President Eisenhower.

The U.S. Kiwanians were presented with a "souvenir" of their visit, with Belleville cheese, by vice-president Dr. Bob Brake.

Guest speaker was Gerald Pierce, head of the History Department of Moira Secondary School, who gave an interesting and informative address on Canada-American relations, between the years 1775 and 1875, with particular reference to the Belleville area.

He divided his topic into five periods, starting with the American revolution which resulted in the emigration of United Empire Loyalists to Canada, bringing with them a distrust of all things American. He noted the landing in 1789 of 50 U.S.L. families at what is now Belleville.

Period two dealt with the causes of the war of 1812-1814, and the formation of the Hastings Militia, which was stationed at Kingston.

Mr. Boyce said the period between 1815 and 1850 was a period of "improved relations" between Canada and the U.S., as evidenced by increased trade and travel between the two countries. The Belleville area was particularly prospered as a result of export of timber, whiskey, wool and oxen, to the United States.

He disclosed the American Civil War brought the threat of American invasion during the 1860's, and this resulted in the formation in 1863 of the 15th Battalion of the Argyll Light Infantry to repulse an American attack which never occurred.

The fifth period dealt with the Fenian raids on Canada, and the activities of the Belleville Militia which was sent to guard the Windsor area in 1863, and the Fenian raids of Prescott area the following year. The Militia saw no action, however, he said. The speaker also noted that two companies of the Grand Trunk Railway Brigade which were to guard the Grand Trunk Railway against Fenian sabotage, were stationed in Belleville.

Mr. Boyce concluded that although the Canada-U.S. relations during the first 100 years of the United States' existence were anything but friendly, they have tended to improve considerably since then.

"If the only distrust we have of things American now is their coinage, we should be in a fairly happy state", he said.

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Boyce displayed a copy of The Intelligencer which was an "extra" brought out at the time of the Fenian Raids.

Mr. Boyce was introduced by Jim Musgrove, Moira Secondary School principal, and thanked by Ron Keel. He was presented with a token of the club's appreciation by president George Tripp.

President Tripp introduced new members Ron Keel, John Wettlaufer and Al Hall, who will be officially inducted into the club at their next meeting.

Ralph Graham outlined final plans for the Peanut Blitz which will be held tonight. Club members assisted by several Key Clubbers have been divided into 20 two-man teams, and will cover all sections of the city from 6 p.m.on. All funds will go to help local underprivileged children.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 3¾ per cent in terms of Canadian funds near noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 96%. Pound sterling 82.70 $2.66, down 2¾.

Frank Huson New President Kinsmen Club

Local Kinsmen elected Frank Huson their president for the forthcoming year at their Monday night meeting. Also on the new executive will be Don Brown as vice-president and the following directors: Roland Bellanger, William Wilson, Bill Yeates, Ivan Hilburn, Harry Fry and Bob Wood.

Plans were also discussed for the construction operation of the swimming pool on Dundas St. East during the coming summer and for the maintenance of the club's eye clinic activities. The latter program allows for the supplying of eye glasses to needy children.

There was a 100 percent turnout of members to the meeting held at the new Club, which proved to be one of the most active meetings of the year.

Cow Becomes Entangled in Phone Lines

I've never seen a flying cow,
I don't exact to see one.
But one thing I can tell you now
I'd rather not be.

To paraphrase a bit of poetry one might be forgiven upon hearing that Bell Telephone service people were called out yesterday to a county situation north of Picton to answer a complaint that a cow getting caught in their telephone lines.

It turned out that it was not the cow which was flying high but rather it was a case of the telephone lines flying low. The lines in question had fallen victim to the ice storms of the past winter and were lying low in a ravine along a stretch of road prior to being repaired up by a work crew.

Unfortunately the cow got there first and became entangled in the wires whilst grazing. The rupture concluded with the cow, which belonged to a Mr. Clifford Reed of Prince Edward County, being extracted and the lines being cleared away.

World Refugee Fund Response Poor to Date

Residents of Belleville have contributed little towards the World Refugee Year Central Fund.

The fund was devised by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities to help speed the refugee camps of Europe, provide recreational centres and training for refugees in the Middle East, help the million Chinese refugees from communism in Hong Kong and provide transportation for 8,000 refugees still on the Chinese mainland.

A spokesman in the city clerk's office, where donations may be left, said that although contributors may call anytime, "Christmas seals even come in after Refugee Austerity Week ends Saturday and we will be glad to forward their donations to the Central Fund," said the spokesman.

Tweed District Group Plans For New Arena

A recently organized Tweed and district recreational committee with hopes of constructing a new arena in Tweed will shortly be asking Hastings county council for a grant, it was learned with their project.

Two Tweed residents, Ted Courneyea and Berton Thompson, yesterday outlined plans of the committee which they said would invite participation from the district area. A hockey arena with possible facilities for curling and other activities is being considered although plans are still in the preliminary stage. Also being considered is use of the building by the Tweed Agricultural Society in connection with its fair.

Mr. Courneyea told council that as many as 150 young boys played minor hockey at Tweed last winter on an outdoor rink and it was hoped that better facilities could be provided.

No cost figures for the proposed new building or the amount of grant which might be expected from the county were put forward by the delegation.

Thieves Raid Parks, Steal 51 Sprinkler Heads

TRENTON — The Board of Parks Management reported Tuesday night that 51 sprinkler heads were stolen recently when thieves raided the sprinkler system in the Park Farm-Library Bayshore Extension area.

The sprinkler systems, installed by the board at a cost of about $4,000, was used for one season.

Reporting on his detailed inspection of the area, town gardener Bart Boers told the board that in some spots it appeared that a shovel had been used to make the brass pop-up sprinkler heads more easily accessible.

While search for the missing heads was being carried out by the police, the board has contacted the contractor who installed the system, and asked for instructions regarding the clearing of dirt from the line where the thieves pushed dirt into exposed connections. Proper clearing of dirt from the line would be cause of the timing device connected to the system which operates through fine bleeder holes. A number of sprinklers in dirt could put the entire system out of commission, said Mr. Boers.

The cost of replacing the sprinkler heads will be $102, he determined, but information should be available at the next meeting.

GET SIDEWALK

It appears that the long talked of sidewalk on the Bayshore extension will at last become a reality. Trustee Ira Hamilton got some 480 feet of concrete in the area were available and the contract was let to Mingo Lansing, who submitted the lowest tender.

Installation of the sidewalk and curbing will not only improve the park area but will also open up a fairly long strip of land for additional parking. In the city and this spring in particular, a number of people have asked to have the sodded area behind the Legion building, cutting deep ruts in the soft turf. The board hopes construction of a sidewalk will stop destruction of park property.

It was brought to the attention of the board that a complimentary letter had been received from the Department of Travel and Publicity by the Trenton Chamber of Commerce regarding the historical markers which are now in use in Champlain with the Bay of Quinte area, by-laws.

Information was supplied as a result of interest of the Parks Board in the possibility of obtaining some object for erection in a memorial in one of Trenton's parks commemorating one of Champlain's expeditions.

Word is now awaited and is waiting for the report on the historic sites research regarding the investigation of available data on the subject. Any monument erected in this regard must be passed by the Historic Sites Board of Ontario.

PLANT TREES

Tree planting in Trenton parks has been arranged by the planting committee. This year new trees will be protected by an expanded metal guard, five feet high, which should protect the newly planted saplings until they become well established.

Work on the new playground will start as soon as the ground dries enough to permit workmen and machinery in that area. Piles of clean beach sand are already in Dianna and Victoria parks for the children.

Arrangements are being made for the summer wildlife exhibit in Hanna Park where an attendant will be on duty during July and August. Benches are being made by the planting committee in the various parks and with shrub planting already started, Mr. Boers expects a busy spring.

Mr. Courneyea told council that as many as 150 young boys played minor hockey at Tweed last winter on an outdoor rink and it was hoped that better facilities could be provided.

No cost figures for the proposed new building or the amount of grant which might be expected from the county were put forward by the delegation.

Ketcheson Wants Harmony In Selecting New Teachers

TRENTON — The Board of Education met Tuesday night in a special session to consider the problem of staffing the high school for the fall session.

Present at the meeting, as he will be at all meetings from now until December when all elected members of the board will resign, was W. Stewart, assistant superintendent of secondary education for Ontario. Mr. Stewart was appointed by the Department of Education as a consultant to the board.

T. R. Ketcheson, chairman of the board, said he hoped any differences of opinion would be forgotten and that all board members would work together to assist in staffing the school with the best teachers available. He then set the agenda with a reply to questions submitted by the health officer, Dr. E. W. Down, as spokesman for a delegation of citizens who attended the April 11 meeting of the board. Dr. Dow had asked the board to make public the reason for the March 28 vote of non-confidence in high school principal Mr. Sidney Hall, and why the board had reversed its February 8 decision not to interfere with the principal and staff.

Board member Paul Tripp asked it it was the opinion of the board that the public still seeking answers to his questions now that the issue had been forgotten.

F. J. Ash said he had understood that the matter was issued by the minister of education was supposed to be the final word on the subject.

Mr. Ketcheson said he agreed with the motion that "sleeping dogs should be let lie," and he thought would be unwise. F. P. Carswell should write Dr. Dow a letter to this effect.

Mr. McIlwain was asked to comment on the expected high school enrolment next September. He said that in January he had estimated 812 students would attend in the fall but after a rough estimate four additional classrooms would be needed to supplement the present staff of 30, including the principal.

NOT CURRENT

Mr. McIlwain said, however, that Dr. Donald Rendall, education minister, Sidney Township and the senior trustee at the Trenton high school to gain a reliable estimate of the expected fall enrolment.

Mr. Carswell said he understood Hastings County Council, Dr. Rendall and Inspector Ash to consider the possibility of sending students to Belleville or Stirling rather than build a new school.

"Where will that leave us?" asked F. A. Filion.

Robert Barlow said he thought it premature to expect Trenton to supply accommodation for all students for the fall when they take them away in January. The chairman said the 30 or 40 students coming from Sidney Township would entail hiring one or two more teachers and that he felt an agreement should be reached with Sidney that students would spend the whole year in the school or not come at all.

Mr. Stewart said he thought an agreement should be sought with the Sidney board that any students coming to Trenton would continue until June, 1961, so that their work would not be interrupted.

Mr. McIlwain asked for authority to send out papers for pupils to apply for the fall and Gordon would be attending the Ontario Educational Ass'n. Alvin Cmdr. C. H. A. Thomson, pointee to the board from the RCAF, said he would have a similar survey carried out at the Trenton station.

Mr. McIlwain said the board would need to advertise for a principal, head of the English department, head of the foreign language department, a specialist in boys' physical education, a girls' physical education instructor, an instructor of geography for lower school, a commercial instructor, a part-time librarian and English teacher, a home economics instructor, a lower-school history instructor, a middle school English instructor, a lower school English instructor, a middle and lower school mathematics instructor, and two to four additional teachers.

It was learned that J. A. Woods, who has taught middle school English at the school, had resigned on April 18, bringing to thirteen the resignations received during the last two months.

It was learned that Mr. McIlwain would draw up an advertisement which will appear in one Toronto newspaper, two Ottawa papers and one Halifax paper, three days next week and part of next week.

Mr. Aziz said he had made a tentative arrangement with four teachers from a list of applicants which he had received.

Mr. McIlwain and the management committee of the board will interview applicants. Mr. McIlwain pointed out that the incoming principal should be present at the interviews. He said he would agree to making an outline of the organization of the school and suggested procedures for the coming term for the benefit of the new principal and staff.

There was some discussion about the addition of high school facilities which will be needed by 1962.

Mr. Stewart suggested that the board send in a building proposal to the department and that members meet with Dr. S. D. Rendall, director of secondary education for Ontario, to discuss the various alternatives involved in the proposals.

Mr. Stewart said that $00 was considered a good place to stop in the population of any one school.

Mr. Ketcheson said there had been some pressure to build another high school in the east side of the river to accommodate students from that area.

It was decided that a date would be arranged when all members of the board would meet with Dr. Rendall to discuss the situation.

It was agreed by all members that 10 to 14 students wishing to be in the high commercial course be sent to Belleville, rather than go on a split course for them in Trenton school. It was felt this procedure would be cheaper in the long run.

Youth Who Fled Police Returns, Gives Self Up

TRENTON — Carl Buck, 19 years old Trenton youth, who fled as he was being escorted to the police station for questioning, walked into the police station shortly after noon today and gave himself up. He was accompanied to the station by his father.

Police said Buck had been arrested on a warrant from another police department charging him with breaking and entering.

As he was being taken to the police station he shoved a constable aside and fled afoot up King Street.

Dead Pigeon Only Good One

Moose Jaw Times-Journal

The pigeon has had its ticker-tape parade. Appeals have resounded. "Coocoo" is being monotonously meandering. It has been established beyond all cause the shapely bird was accepted as symbolic peace.

Recently, F. W. Taylor, of the Canadian National Railways medical division, in an address to the Canadian Institute of Sanitation, indicated the pigeon is a carrier of such formidable diseases as meningitis, encephalitis and psittacosis, besides various pus infections, toxoplasmosis and food poisoning.

Mr. Taylor urged that this health officer's nightmare be eliminated by an extermination of the pigeons, or at the very least by banishing it from town and cities as a public health measure.

There is no doubt that his suggestion will encounter some bitter opposition. The pigeon apparently possesses many friends and remarkably few outright enemies.

In many towns and cities, however, the pigeon is a tourist nuisance. It defaces monuments and buildings, and it is easy to understand that some citizens, in the case cooing of one pigeon, when multiplied by thousands, might bring about a mild case of insanity.

If in addition, pigeons are a menace to human health, there seems to be little reason for tolerating their presence in any community.

Presumably Mr. Taylor's report will be circulated among health departments throughout the country which in turn will undertake their own surveys based on his findings. It is possible that this may lead to the passing of by-laws similar to those necessary to spread so mysteriously throughout a community.

The housefly has long borne the brunt of the disease transmission blame, and no doubt justly so. Rats have also been singled out as bearers of bubonic plague and other dire diseases. Now, it appears, the lowly, unpretentious pigeon may be added to the list. It should be remembered, however, Mr. Taylor's claim, then no effort must be spared to see that the pigeon is banished under penalty wherever it flourishes, so that it does no longer menace human life.

Such a move may encounter opposition and a few may argue for a long that the lives of pigeons are important but that those of human beings.

Why American Kids Are Soft

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Perhaps it was the stones we lifted, or the bushels of wet leaves, but I was pretty well pooped today all the way from the Impedimenta down to the flexor digitorum longus. There is a lightness in the biceps femoris and triceps surae in the gluteus maximus when we sit down.

We were prepared to admit that after a winter of inactivity we are soft, but this isn't nearly as important as the fact that a lot of American youngsters are soft. Our guess is willing to bet that a lot of them couldn't even lift a bushel of wet sand. There are so many of our children without the developing muscles they ought to have.

One reason so many of them have no body worthy of the name is that they have such strong thumbs — exercised in television dials. Another is that they have no jobs to do; no jobs that require a hoe or the lawn and shovel the snow while Sonny Boy sits in front of the fireplace and eats candy.

Years ago 15,000 American school teachers were given the same physical tests Europeans had been subjected through. The results were alarming.

Recently President Eisenhower expressed his concern over the softness of American youth. On the same day the New York City Board of Education made public a short course for junior and senior high school pupils next year—a course intended to help the kids achieve a happy home life.

But did the course include studies in How to Mow a Lawn, How to Walk Two Miles Without Fainting, How to Swing a Shovel Without Fear, How to Hold Up Your End of a Two Man Saw, How to Carry a Heavy Ladder? It did not. The course covered Dating, Dating, Dating, Single Dating, Steady Dating."

We don't wonder our kids are soft! It's a miracle they can walk at all!

Country Lad's Cycle

Ohio State Journal

Country boys spend the first 18 or 20 years of their lives dreaming of going to the city where they will spend the next 25 years working their heads off so they can afford to retire to a place in the country.

Strictly Personal

An Artist's Personality Is Paramount

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"I have met a number of writers and other artists," observes a college student, "and they are generally not as pleasant or as pleased with themselves as other people. Can you explain the reason for this?"

The explanation, it seems to me, lies in the nature of the work itself, and of the type of person who is attracted to it. A writer being a taxpayer and who can objectify himself in his work; in popular terms, what he can "lose himself" in what he is doing.

It is in the nature of art — and especially literary art — that the more you make it, the more you are highly subjective task. He draws the material out of himself, as it were, and is perpetually involved in excavating material from the depth of his own personality.

This is terribly relevant, not a happy project; it is rarely an essential one for the human race — for great art endures the deepest and most lasting values known for that.

But the artist himself cannot find an objective contentment in his product; he is never finished; self to something outside himself; for the very nature of his craft, he is unable to lose himself in the task itself; his own personality is always paramount.

In a crude way, one might say that the writer is always trying to lose himself to find where he lives — and the more he succeeds, the better the artist. Art is produced in this introspective, but it does not end as a human pleasant to be with or serve within himself. The so-called "artistic temperament" (which is not a pose) comes from this aggravated conflict.

Genuine contentment is found in performing tasks that take us out of ourselves, for a purpose greater than ourselves. Only when the personality is not frustrated to a higher goal do we attain the serenity we seek — and this is why the beatitude of the saint, whose whole life is directed toward a goal beyond the goal, is unattainable by the rest of us.

It is the burden of the artist that he cannot escape this sense of self and achieve the large goal and profound happiness of the anonymous craftsman or collective operation, the researcher at the microscope, the sea captain navigating his star craft through the silent waters. All of them, like the Zen archer, become the bow, the arrow and the target.

The artist has other satisfactions that compensate for this — after all, he provides the future with its greatest joy and excitement. But he himself is no happier than a patient with a constant itch.

Apiarists the world over are hoping they will reap from Moscow that the Soviet's Agriculture Ministry has come up with an affable, long-nose breed known as the Grey Mountain Bee. It comes from the mountains of Republic of Georgia.

The Russian news agency, describes it as a bee with an unusually long proboscis, enabling its insects to collect nectar from much deeper inside flowers than the ordinary worker bee. Its friendly characteristics enable it to be handled without the necessity of protective veils.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 27th, 1940

The first of the copies of a letter written to the Canadian troops of the First Division in England, by His Majesty the King, and presented to the family of every member of the Division, was received recently by Mrs. D. W. Wilson, Pinnacle Street, whose two sons are serving with the Canadian Army. The letter reads: "On behalf of the people of this country, I extend the warmest welcome to the First Contingent of the Canadian Forces to reach these shores. The British Army will be proud to have such comrades-in-arms, and successors of those who came from Canada in the Great War, and fought with a gallantry which has never been forgotten." (signed) George R.I.

"In accordance with the decision of the Post Office Department that all postmasters be guided by the action of the local municipalities in the matter of Daylight Saving Time, the Belleville Post Office will operate under DST from April 29th to September 29th, 1940, inclusive, it was announced today.

Navigation in the Bay of Quinte was officially opened with the arrival of the first boat of the season, at the Belleville harbor at 8.30 this morning. The oil steamer "Intermate" owned by the British American Oil Company arrived from Toronto and late this morning was discharging her cargo of approximately 90,000 gallons of gasoline. The Glenora Ferry is again in operation starting April 22nd. At present the ferry will operate from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. standard time until the first of the month, when a new schedule will be put into use.

Miss Helen Davidson of Wellington is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bowell St.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Robbin and Stewart, Mrs. Robbin and Miss Pulles, have returned home after spending a vacation in Toronto.

To run the five public schools and the Collegiate and Vocational School for the year will require the sum of $186,066.72, the finance committee of the Board of Education reported last night at the regular monthly meeting. The sum of $73,377 will be used for the public schools and the balance of $60,291.72 will be for the Collegiate and Vocational School.

Mr. Charles Jeffery went to Toronto today on business.

Mrs. Ernest Rankin and daughter Beulah of Point Anne are the guests of Mrs. E. J. Reid, Oshawa.

40 YEARS AGO

The Argyll Light Infantry will parade tomorrow night.

The plans submitted to the Board of Education for the new school in Coleman Ward show a very handsome building and it is the last word in modern school construction. There will be eleven rooms and a spacious assembly room with stage and dressing rooms.

A great improvement has been made to the entrance to the City Hall. The iron gates which have done service since the building was erected have been removed and oak doors have been substituted. The city coat of arms appears on the glass panels above the entrance.

At the G.T.R. station here yesterday a flag pole eighty feet in height was erected, and the flag which will fly there it measures 18 feet by 9 feet.

50 YEARS AGO

April 27th, 1910

The population of Belleville is now over the 10,000 mark. There are sixteen births in this city.

Arrangements have been made by the Y.M.C.A. to conduct various sports at the Agricultural Park this afternoon.

The Rev. J. A. Ford, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church in this city has received a call to a church in Winnipeg, Man., at a stipend exactly double that which he is receiving here. He is considering the offer.

Mr. Ernest Vanner has left for the Canadian northwest where he has accepted a good position.

Mr. E. T. Thompson went to Toronto today on business.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

SAULT STE. MARIE, ONT.

A river connecting Lake Superior and Lake Huron, also the name of a great city in the south of a rich mining district. The city takes its name from the canals on the river, so called by the Jesuit missionaries. Ste. Marie is French for Mary, the mother of Christ. Sault is old French for "sault," modern French, meaning "a leap."

Castro Hires Brown Bomber

London Free Press

Cuba's Premier Castro has hired Joe Louis to do some publicity work for him. He probably hopes someone with prestige might induce Americans to take a chance on returning to Havana.

At least Joe Louis has registered with Washington as being a foreign agent for Castro's government. The ex-champion's international tourist commission has engaged the space-saving fighter with public relations firm, Louis, Rowe, Fisher, Lockhart Enterprises at a fee of $25,000 a week for them.

Just how Louis could induce to go travelling in Cuba is problematical, particularly while Castro continues to blast Yankee imperialists. A very lucrative business in tourist hotels and casinos has been dissipated.

The Cuban commission is to spend $267,000 through Louis' firm to better conditions. Some American sugar subsidy, no doubt!

To Your Good Health

THINGS YOU CAN DO TO PROMOTE CLEANLINESS

We're picking up many of the yesterday's column — the letters from "JC," who is worried about odor, and "Mrs. H. H." whose husband's feet cause a similar problem.

Here's a checklist of things to do.

1. — You can't beat bathing, of course, although most people tend to do it more than they should. 2 or 3 times a week is enough for most persons. Daily baths are necessary if you perspire a lot. The bacteria-laden moisture doesn't just stay on the skin, it penetrates the clothes. So, change! Let garments (if not washable ones) hang and dry and air for a day or two between wearings.

2. — Feet can cause trouble because of the aforesaid glands. Change socks daily. (I know of people who find it helpful to change socks twice a day!) Alternate with shoes, having a pair one day and another the next. Let the shoes dry and air. Dust them with an antiseptic powder, perhaps one containing formalin.

4. — Avoid dressing too heavily. Allow air circulation.

5. —Understand shaving is helpful. Again, the aprocrine gland secretions are concentrated in the hair follicles. Shaving affords less "cover", to use a sportsman's term, for the bacteria to thrive.

6. — Particular care should be taken in the armpits and groin.

7. — Infections or abnormal conditions of the sweat glands or organs should be corrected. It's a sound health measure; it also helps to keep odors down by the skin surfaces.

8. — Use of various thought to lessening or correcting nervous conditions, because for whatever reasons, nervous people are more likely to develop stronger odors.

And I might add the following miscellaneous but often very useful suggestions: (a) Use a good commercial deodorants are good. They may help more by their antiseptic action (reducing bacteria) than by reducing perspiration which, after all, is a natural and useful process.

A dusting of baking powder, for the same reason, is sometimes helpful in the underarms. This may help absorb moisture, but it does scented cosmetics, but it does valiant service.

For the feet, soak them in a weak solution of formalin (one-half tablespoon to a pint of water) or wash them with a 25 per cent solution of aluminum chloride.

Don't expect any single thing to be the whole answer if you are troubled by excessive odor. But attacking the problem from the various directions I've discussed yesterday and today, you are pretty sure to make real progress.

Fights Back At Starers

BBC London Letter

"I recall my first encounter with a Red Starer over a certain amount of uneasiness, even now!" writes Frank Richards in the new BBC talk. "I entered a bus one day, took my seat downstairs, and sat back to contemplate the dream. But as I gazed out of the window I became aware of those nasty, uncomfortable feelings that I was being watched. I turned my head and there, only six inches from my nose, was a small, round face. Its owner could not have been more than two or three, but there it was, just staring. It was a complicated and completely implacable and as inscrutable as a Chinese Buddha. I would have performed the Splits, only at least dear people, what this face didn't. It merely fixed me with an unflinching, unwinking stare.

Mr. Richards fell into the common mistake of making friendly noises. He soon found that his attempt to make the serious little Red Starer smile succeeded only in bringing a look of mild wonder into the unflinching stare and made him feel extremely silly and foolish. It was with relief that he remembered that little creatures like this about — and he succeeded in getting on a bus awakens some secret fear which makes them compelled them to stare backward over their mothers' shoulder, and terrified the occupant of the seat behind".

After years of nerve-wracking encounters with bus-starers, Mr. Richards has become wary of such a danger. And if there is anyone under the age of four in the seat in front of him, he has found one way to combat the menace — to travel with his head turned down and pulling faces, and devotes a great deal of attention to it. Let's just say, he said, "that one night he emulated a shrill cry of pain as he caught his thumb in the door. The execution of a new creation, if you will forgive me, of how he works on them". His son's repertoire of grimaces has proved an effective if revolting answer to drop below the level of the bus roof, but on one occasion a really virtuous performance for a particularly obstinate subject produced such a howl of terror from the latter that both Mr. Richards and his wife decided it best a hasty retreat.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KNOWLEDGE

Knowledge is one of the essentials for an interesting, happy life. You can't have too much of it, but many imagine they have a lot more than they do. You have to be genuine when you add knowledge to wisdom and experience. Knowledge, they say, "is power." It is when used in the right place at the right time. I look at a complicated machine, but it takes an experienced and skilled mechanic to put that engine in good order, and keep it so.

Readers ask me how they can write a book or article, but the writing is the product of knowledge, gathered over many years. It is the part of one having that and knowledge in the first place. Then you must have something to say. If you have nothing to say you will never be a writer of books. You have a message, and that from the heart. It can't be faked. It is the occasion and the warmth of heart are ready. There are writers who write words, and there are the ones whom we read again and again.

Knowledge is the art of knowing. You will find it all through the Bible, not hidden away in every person's consciousness.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The various pre-summit conferences and numerous televised interviews with the statesmen of the world have the interesting fact that nearly all outstanding political leaders have one thing in common. Middle East can speak English. And it is fairly obvious that few, if any, British, American or Canadian leaders understand any language but their own.

Apart from the fact that English, due to the widespread colonial empire of Britain in the nineteenth century, was a pretty handy language to have as a spare, what does this imply? For one thing, it implies that the men who rise to political eminence with either than the English speaking countries have had to learn it as a second.

But it is possible to speculate a little further than this. When if you listen to Willy Brandt of Germany or Jacques Soustelle of France employing English with the greatest subtlety in the choice of words and achieving with lucidity and imagination the maximum of communication, it raises an interesting question?

Do our public men speak English? Canada's Wide

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

YES, BE GLAD

Have you ever looked upon the apparently sinful life of an animal and wished you might have that peacefulness of heart which the animal appears to have?

Well, if we only knew what we are about, we should shrink from the idea of even comparing ourselves with the lower animals. To be sure, they do have a kind of irresponsibility and very often an apparent peace of mind which we lack. The trouble with us is that we live in two worlds. We are creatures of this earth, but we are also spiritual beings related to God — made in His image and after His likeness. This two-fold nature of ours gives rise to many hard, but it is also the source of every satisfaction worth having.

The animals live a little while and then pass on. The glory — and the horror — of our lives is the fact that we will ever die. We must go on living forever. If we have chosen the right path, it leads to happiness here on earth and glory beyond. If we have chosen the wrong path, it means some kind of constriction and frustration, even while we live our eyes in fear.

When the going gets hard, thank God. He himself came down to earth, accepted its disciplines and constrictions, allowed the crown of thorns to be pulled down upon His brow, mounted the cross murmuring "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

Be glad you are a child of God, not just a creature of God.

E.G. Gurnett, Manager East Central Region of Hydro, Retires, 44 Years of Service

Mr. E. G. Gurnett, manager of the East Central Region of the Ontario Hydro for the past 11 years, will retire on Saturday, following 44 years of service with that organization, it was announced last night.

Mr. Gurnett was guest of honor at a retirement dinner at the Club Canara last night sponsored by the East Central Region.

Recalling his long career with Ontario Hydro, Mr. Gurnett in an interview Tuesday, said he joined the Hydro and Electric Power Commission of Ontario in 1916, shortly after graduation from the University of Toronto, where he obtained an honor Bachelor of Applied Science degree.

His first position was with the sales department at the Commission's head office in Toronto. He remained in that department for a short time, then joined the municipal engineering department in the Toronto head office where he remained until 1920. His work in this department was connected with the Georgian Bay and Thunder Bay regions although he also gained experience in the Niagara district and other parts of Ontario region.

When the present nine regions were established in December of 1947, Mr. Gurnett was appointed as consumer service engineer for the Eastern Region, the headquarters of which was in Ottawa.

CAME TO CITY IN 1949

He came to Belleville in 1949 when he was appointed manager for the Eastern Region. This position he has held ever since. Belleville is the headquarters for the East Central Region.

Mr. Gurnett, a native of Owen Sound, Ont., is a member of the Professional Engineering Society of Ontario, and a past president of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Active in local service club work, he has been a member of the Belleville Rotary Club for the past 11 years, and its president in 1956.

In addition he has been active in the Belleville United Appeal. He was secretary of this organization when it was first formed in 1956, campaign chairman in 1959, and is presently vice-president of public relations.

He is also a member of the Golf and Country Club, and states golf is one of his varied hobbies. Other hobbies include "dabbling" in photography and ceramics. In addition he has spent many leisure hours making violins (as an amateur basis) and has constructed 20 to date; and engaging in the lapidary art — the art of cutting and polishing precious and semi-precious stones. He became interested in the lapidary art about five years ago, and now has a large collection of stones from various parts of the world. Last year he exhibited his collection at the National Museum in Ottawa in an exhibit sponsored by the Ottawa Valley Mineral Rocks.

Mr. Gurnett said he has no plans for spending his retirement, other than pursuing his hobbies, and "enjoying the luxury of leisure hours."

HYDRO EXPERIENCE

Commenting on his 44 years of employment with Ontario Hydro, he stated he has "enjoyed his experiences in Hydro" and feels the Commission has done a great deal to improve living conditions in the province.

"I am proud to have had a part in helping to raise the living standards of the people of Ontario," he stated.

He noted he joined Hydro only six years after the first power was delivered to the municipalities, and therefore had the privilege of knowing many of the men who have been instrumental in building Hydro, including the first Commission chairman, Sir Adam Beck.

He noted the major change in Hydro service over the years is the "phenomenal increase" in the uses of electric service throughout the province, from some 29,000 kilowatts in 1916 to over 5½ million kilowatts at the end of 1959.

To provide for this increased demand for electricity, many major power developments have been constructed at Niagara Falls, Ont., on the Ottawa River, at Cornwall, Toronto and Windsor, he said.

One of the greatest developments in recent years is the distribution of power in rural areas. In addition electric service has been extended to rural residents and users of power of all types and to summer cottage customers, Mr. Gurnett noted.

Commenting on the appointment of Mr. Thomas H. Gibbon as his successor, Mr. Gurnett said he and the staff are happy with this appointment. He said he is confident Mr. Gibbon will get the same co-operation from the staff that he has always received.

Mr. and Mrs. Gurnett have two children, Allan, who is taking a general arts course at Queen's University, Kingston, and Elizabeth, who is a grade 12 student at Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School.

CONGRATULATIONS — Mutual congratulations are seen being offered by Thomas H. Gibbon (left) new manager of the East Central Region of Ontario Hydro, and Ernest G. Gurnett, who retires as regional manager on April 30. Retirement party was held last night at Club Canara in honor of Mr. Gurnett.

Thos. H. Gibbon New Manager Of Hydro Region

Thomas H. Gibbon of this city has been appointed manager of Ontario Hydro's East Central Region. Mr. Gibbon, now operations engineer at the region's headquarters here, will succeed E. G. Gurnett, who retires April 30 after 44 years of service with Hydro.

Born and educated in Durham, England, Mr. Gibbon attended an apprenticeship in electrical engineering and construction firm in that city. He served for five years as an officer in France with the Royal Engineers and for a short period with the Royal Air Force.

Mr. Gibbon came to Canada and joined Ontario Hydro in 1921. During his 38 years with Hydro he has served in a number of engineering positions with the Operations Division. He was appointed operations engineer for the East Central Region in 1947.

He is a member of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario and the Belleville Club.

Hydro's 10,000 square-mile East Central Region extends along Lake Ontario from slightly west of Port Hope to Gananoque, and north to the southern boundary of Algonquin Park. The region contains 31 municipal electrical utilities and 13 rural operating areas, serving approximately 140,000 customers.

DELAYED DEATH

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)— Authorities said a 32-year-old Negro apparently died from an ice pick embedded in his brain for seven years. An autopsy revealed a 4½-inch ice pick in the brain of Eddie Powell, 32, who died Monday. Powell's family said they thought the ice pick might have been there since a 1953 fight. Powell had complained of severe headaches for three weeks and entered a hospital after suffering convulsions Sunday.

CANCELLED TRIP

LONDON (Reuters) — The Soviet War Veterans Committee announced today that a delegation due to visit the United States this month cancelled the trip because of "discriminatory actions" by U.S. authorities. The delegation had been scheduled to arrive in New York last week to mark the 15th anniversary of the allied victory over Germany and of the Soviet-American linkup on the river Elbe, Tass news agency said.

Business Associates Present Ernie Gurnett With Beautiful Tea Service on Retirement

Approximately 190 friends and business associates of Ernest G. Gurnett, manager of the East Central Region of Ontario Hydro, gathered at the Club Canara last night to honor him with a retirement dinner and presentation.

Mr. Gurnett, who has chalked up 44 years of service with the Hydro and Electric Power Commission of Ontario, 11 of them as East Central Region manager, retires on Saturday.

Chairman for the festive event was Thomas H. Gibbon, recently appointed to succeed Mr. Gurnett as manager of the East Central Region.

Among the guests on hand for this memorable occasion were J. M. Hambley of Toronto, general manager of the Ontario Hydro Commission; W. Ross Strike of Bowmanville, 1st vice-chairman of the Commission, and two commissioners, and Chairmen from all nine Hydro Commission regions.

Mr. Gibbon welcomed the head table guests and, in a brief address, paid tribute to Mr. Gurnett, noting he is "regarded highly . . . as a leader and a public spirited citizen by his associates of the Commission, as well." He also welcomed Mrs. Gurnett and their two children, Elizabeth and Allan.

He read several telegrams of congratulations and best wishes for a happy and healthy retirement from friends and associates who were unable to be present.

"Alf W. Murdock entertained with reminiscences over the 40 years he has known Mr. Gurnett, outlining his many and varied hobbies.

Musical entertainment was provided by The Escorts, a barbershop quartet from Toronto, who delighted the audience with several old-time tunes.

J. M. Hambley, general manager of Ontario Hydro, brought greetings from management.

CHARMING EXTENSIONS

"On behalf of management I extend our heartfelt thanks to Ernie for his contribution over the 44 years he has been with Hydro, particularly the past 11 years as manager of the East Central Region", he stated. "Ernie guided it wisely and carefully through this great period of expansion".

Greetings from the Commission were given by W. Ross Strike, Q.C., 1st vice chairman, who stated, "I bring the appreciation and gratitude of the Commission Chairmen from all nine Hydro Commission regions".

Mr. Gurnett expressed his appreciation for the lovely dinner in his honor, and the kind words said about him by his associates and friends.

He stated he had enjoyed his 44 years of employment with Hydro.

"I have the satisfaction of knowing I had a small part in helping to build up Ontario (industrially), and to raising the province's standard of living", he said.

He recalled his early experiences at Hydro when he began his career in the sales department, and his many former and present business associates.

In closing Mr. Gurnett paid tribute to his secretary, Edith Sone and to his successor, F. H. Gibbon, for their assistance and loyal support over the past 11 years.

Mrs. Gurnett was then presented with a beautiful bouquet of red roses by Mr. Gibbon on behalf of Mr. Gurnett's associates.

A social hour was enjoyed to conclude the evening.

Two Young Men Will Be Ordained To Priesthood

BON VOYAGE

On Monday afternoon 25th April at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. C. Scott, Madoc Road, a number of Bridge Street Church ladies gathered to wish Mrs. Ralph W. T. Middleton and Miss Doreen Middleton "Bon Voyage" on their visit home to England and Scotland.

The house was beautifully decorated with gold and white 'mums in silver vases and silver candelabra with candles to match the flowers.

Mrs. Scott, with a gracious little speech, presented Mrs. Middleton and Doreen with silver and brilliant maple leaf brooches and gifts also from June, Heather, Ian and Alistair Scott.

The ladies of Bridge Street then followed one another with beautiful individual gifts of jewellery and other useful things for the trip home.

Mrs. Middleton replied suitably.

Delicious refreshments were served followed by Highland dancing, tastefully executed by Alistair Scott.

University W.C. Hears Talk on Refugee Task

Miss Daphne Marshall, secretary of the Ridgeton YWCA, was the speaker at the April meeting of the University Women's Club, held last Thursday evening in St. Thomas' parish hall. Miss Marshall spent two years as director of a camp for young refugees in Europe, and gave a graphic account of her experiences there under the title, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?"

Miss Marshall is an antidote for any complacency about the refugee problem. She pointed out that in this country one finds it hard to believe that there are still, so many years after the war, thousands of young people roaming Europe without a name, a home, a religion or a family. "We have a comfortable belief that some organization will look after them and relieve us of individual responsibility. The fact is", she said, "that no one has cared about these children".

"Sparing no expense, American army personnel built the camp Miss Marshall directed. Then they rounded up 850 young people at a time from garbage dumps and gutters and from under bridges. These youngsters had never slept in a bed, taken a bath nor eaten at a table. Hunger and violence were all they had ever known.

"Experience had taught them to fear and mistrust everyone, and the camp counsellors found this an almost insurmountable obstacle".

Miss Marshall estimated that 1100 of the 1700 she supervised were salvaged to the extent that they could be placed in established refugee camps. Others, who went back to their old life, provide records for the Mafia and the new Nazi organizations.

Mrs. G. E. Ward introduced Miss Marshall.

Miss Muriel Gibson expressed the thanks of the members for a talk that was timely to Refugee Year.

C.C. Sees Rug Making, Floral Arrangements

The regular meeting of the Contact Club of Christ Church was held on Monday evening, preceding the meeting, a successful rummage sale was held. The evening's entertainment was under the direction of Greta Moult's group.

Catherine Roulet gave an interesting demonstration of the making of hooked rugs. Catherine's rugs are expert pieces of handicraft and she explained how to obtain the equipment required as well as the simplicity of the actual weaving. The art of weaving sea grass was also shown by Catherine as well as intriguing lamp shades made of "raffine" (synthetic raffia).

FLORAL ARRANGEMENTS

Florence Lennox took over the latter portion of the meeting choosing floral arrangements and the beauty of flowers as her topic for discussion. Florence showed how just a few flowers, artistically arranged, can add beauty to a room or enhance a table centrepiece. The use of gourds, milkweed pods and pine cones and cat-tails created an inexpensive yet attractive arrangement. Marion Connor, Betty Yates and Nadine Thorne brought forth interesting floral arrangements after working with identical vases and sprays of flowers but working in separate rooms.

President Doris Stewart expressed thanks to the group for an entertaining evening and announced that Sunday morning there would be a Corporate Communion.

Next Monday will be the annual husband and wife bowling party directed by Edith Pringle and her group.

Refreshments, served by hostesses June Woodley, Greta Moult and Marg Niles, brought the evening of good fellowship to a close.

HER KNEES CAUSE A STRIKE — Mary Chester, 18, shows the knees that caused 400 women to go on strike in a Guisborough, England, textile plant last week. The management complained that the short skirt distracted the 30 men working in the plant. Mary complained to her union and said other girls were having the same skirt trouble. Plant manager Harry Silvermans promised to listen to the girls' complaint if they go back to work. (CP Wirephoto).

IMPROMPTU PARTIES

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Gatecrashing tea parties have become the fashion at nearby Camden East. Members of the Camden East United Church women's association hold impromptu tea parties by picking up fellow members in their cars—and each must attend the party in the garb she is wearing when the answers the door.

AUTHENTIC REPLICA

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Jeanne Minkiewich has been employed by Ontario Planning Minister W. C. Nickle on her work as a research assistant at the Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg. "Through her devotion to detail an authentic picture of life in Upper Canada comes to focus," the minister said.

BUY TV SERIES

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian filmed television series, RCMP, has been bought for showing in the U.S., it was announced Tuesday. The price, reported highest ever for a Canadian film series, was not disclosed. The series has been taken by Britain's BBC and also has been taken up by Australia's Broadcasting Corporation.

"MAKE ME WEEP"

WINNIPEG (CP)—The wife of the Governor-General was so impressed by the children of St. Boniface Tuesday that she said in French, "Mr. Mayor, you make me weep with your children." Governor - General and Mme. Georges P. Vanier were greeted by school children lining both sides of the street for five blocks, despite a snowstorm.

DON'T BE A "MEANIE"

I'm afraid "meanies" will always be with us. Suppose we take a look today at a few people who bring under that category, and ask ourselves if the shoe ever fits us.

Everything in your world is going along fine, when along comes a Meanie who delights in taking the joy out of life. You're feeling tip-top, when you meet the person who greets you with a doleful look and the comment, "My, how thin and drawn you look! Nothing seriously wrong, I hope?" After she gets through, you're ready to go home and go to bed, suffering from all kinds of ailments!

There's the gloomy Meanie who discourages any show of enthusiasm with predictions of unhappy things to come. Then, there is the "operation fanatic" who feels that no conversation is complete without detailed reference to this or that operation, interspersed with "No one ever suffered like I did!"

There's the sensitive Meanie who is forever "getting her feelings hurt," demanding apologies right and left to soothe her bruised heart. And there's the Meanie who deluges you with flattery and sugary comments, only to make biting and uncomplimentary remarks the minute your back is turned. Under this same heading is the person who delights in spreading gossip, caring not one whit whose reputation she blackens in the process. Neither does she care whether or not the gossip is true.

Almost at the top of the list of "Meanies" is the one who is always sulky and always on the lookout for a chance to pick a fight. The person who carries a chip on his shoulder, waiting for someone to knock it off, can cause more unhappiness and disturbance, in the office or at home, than any other variety of Meanie. How to handle such a person? Silence. Remember, it takes two to make an argument!

There's the Meanie who has a grudge against the world, inflicting a martyr-like attitude upon all and sundry. Everyone else is luckier, happier, better looking and more popular, said he, poor soul has the woes of the world inflicted on him. This Meanie makes no effort to keep his woes to himself!

The varieties of "Meanies" number in the hundreds. By their actions, they defeat the goal they are trying to attain: basically, to be popular and to be admired. Failing to do so, the Meanie fights back by going to almost any length to attract attention. After reaching a certain point, whether the attention attracted is good or bad doesn't seem to make any difference. The obsession to be the cynosure of all eyes in any group has to be satisfied, even if making a nuisance of himself is the only way to accomplish this end.

Mean traits are not born in you. You cultivate them as you go along. So take heed and make sure that you do not make of yourself a person cordially avoided by those with whom you come in contact.

Mother's Helper

WHAT CAN you do to help a small boy stay still when you take his temperature? One idea: let him watch the sand run through your egg timer. He can hold it himself, since you're right there. Or, use a ticking kitchen timer with a bell that sounds when the minutes are up.

Mrs. S. Tripp Heads W.I.

WELLINGTON — The Wellington Women's Institute met in the town hall on the evening of April 12th. The president Mrs. Tripp, opened the meeting. Two minutes silence was observed in respect for the member, Mrs. Way, who passed away on April 16th.

One new member joined.

Thank you notes were received from Mrs. L. Bysant, Mrs. D. Post, Mrs. R. Ellis, Mrs. Irene Smith, the Wellington Library and Mr. Wilson Ainsworth.

The standing committees gave their reports, Mrs. Ken Wood, on agriculture and Canadian Industry; Mrs. W. Callow, citizenship and education; Mrs. Sam Yourt, public relations; Mrs. P. Spencer, home economics and health; Mrs. F. Harris, historical research was unable to attend. Mrs. Dick reported that the annual will take place in Cherry Valley on May 31st.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

An election of officers was held with Mrs. Wm. Jackson installing the officers for 1960-1961 — Mrs. Sam Tripp, President; 1st vice-president — Mrs. Cecil Whitney; sec.-treasurer—Mrs. James Callow; ass't. sec.-treas. — Mrs. Charles Broadbridge; district representative — Mrs. W. Jackson; corr-sec. — Mrs. Laura Wight; press reporter — Mrs. A. Ogilvy; pianist — Mrs. N. Foster; convenors of standing committees, agricultural and industry — Mrs. R. Wood; citizenship and education — Mrs. W. Callow; public relations — Mrs. Sam Yourt, historical Research — Mrs. Frank Harris; home economics and health — Mrs. P. Spencer; resolutions — Mrs. H. Dick.

A discussion on the "Short Course" took place the results were to have catering to crowds as first choice and something to wear as second choice.

It was decided to cater to the Picwell bowling club banquet on May 12th; 45 was voted out to the corr-sec. Mrs. Wight and $10 to the flower committee. Mrs. Ogilvy and Mrs. Bovay.

It was also decided to hold an executive meeting to plan for the banquet and to make up the program for the new year on Friday night.

Mrs. Callow and Mrs. Bovay replenished the birthday box for April.

The meeting was turned over to the hostesses for the evening. Mrs. Ogilvy and Mrs. Bovay, who presented the following program: A fine current event paper was read by Mrs. L. Wight; Mrs. Wilkes gave a splendid little skit, "A Stylish Lady Buying a Hat". This was amusing and everyone had a real good laugh at all the shapes and sizes of hats the lady tried on.

Poem of the month was read by Mrs. Wood.

The ladies of the sewing classes that were held in the last several weeks had their articles on show which they had made. They also showed their little skit that they had written for Summary day, and sang their song which they had composed while sewing. This was enjoyed by all present. Good Night Ladies was sung ending the program.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served and a social time ended a pleasant evening.

St. Andrew's Church Holds Easter Service

WELLINGTON — St. Andrew's Church, Wellington, was beautifully decorated for the Easter services. Easter lilies adorned the high altar and four vases of mums were placed on the chapel altar. In addition, Easter lilies and mums were placed by the pulpit, lectern and organ console.

The special children's service at 10.30 was well attended both by the children of the Sunday School and parents. The children's offering was received by Garry Blower, and Ken Herring of ton. Following this the children came in order to the altar rail, to receive the Easter Blessing. Members of the J.A. paraded with their leader Mrs. Blower.

CHORAL EUCHARIST

The church was filled for the 11 o'clock choral Eucharist. The choir and servers, led by the crucifer, Nigel Sivel, proceeded up the aisle to the hymn, "He is Risen, He is Risen"; anthems, by the choir included the gradual "Christ is Risen, Christ is Risen" communion anthem, "Ye Choirs of New Jerusalem" and the post communion anthem, "At the Name of Jesus". Assisting the rector as acolytes were: Gerry Brown and Ronald Sivel. The beautiful white memorial eucharistic vestments of the parish priest were worn by the rector for this festive celebration. The black and white vestments of the choir and the red and white of the server's guild added additional co to the chancel.

The flowers in St. Andrew's Easter Day were given to glory of God and in loving me ory of Robert Upton and Wil Burd, by Mr. and Mrs. Godf choir and servers, led by the cru- Upton, Gertrude and Albert Si ern, by Mr. and Mrs. W. D ern; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sc and Billy Hirst by Mr. and M Hirst; Mr. and Mrs. Alf Orli and Mr. and Mrs. George Bu ley; Mr. and Mrs. David Kew by Mr. and Mrs. B. A. This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Isn't it really weird and wonderful what you read about things to come nowadays? What else will they be putting in push-button cans? We just read that you can spray yourself a cup of coffee, apply a bandage, glaze your shoes, paint a table, or starch a collar simply by pushing a button.

There are soaps and body cleansers that require no water, perfumes and colognes, nail polish dryers and removers, hand creams and sprays, shampoos and even toothpaste. Of course, everyone knows of paint sprays and all kinds of cleaners, waxes and polishes. For food we can spray whipped cream, salad dressing, meat tenderizer and corn flakes ready-crumbed; we are promised new high nutrition, low-cost and low calorie ready dishes for quick serving. A rust arrester has been put in steel-wool pads; more screw tops are replacing pry-off lids and there are more cans with plastic no-rust tops and bottoms.

Early in the year, starting in March some time, we used to save seed-eyes from the potato peelings — an aunt of ours told us to do this, said they started quicker than chunks of seed potatoes which we could use later on. Sure enough, they did seem to come along earlier. Now they are supplied by approved seed firms whose chief business is selling seed. Many may use potato eyes for the first time and a surprise in favorable results is in store for them.

Potatoes fresh from one's own soil always seem to taste better. Then, too, fresh early potatoes are relatively high in ascorbic acid.

Until recent years, when controlled atmosphere storages apples began to be used, the quality deteriorated rapidly at this season. Now apples from this new type of storage are placed on the market in the spring in the same excellent condition in which they were harvested. Apples from controlled atmosphere storage are at their peak movement now and are mostly McIntosh and Spies. Controlled atmosphere apples, which are graded at the packing sheds before being placed on the market are superior to cold storage apples at this time of year. Actually these apples remain anesthetized and therefore do not deteriorate as rapidly in the store or at home. They have no core flush such as ordinary cold storage apples are subject to in the spring.

Consumers should handle apples from controlled atmosphere storage in the same way they would any apples or other fresh fruit. Store them in the coolest place possible — the refrigerator or other really cool places. Urban dwellers should not expect to hold controlled atmosphere apples long under the warm conditions of the average home, any more than they would apples from other types of storage.

We had some advice from a good amateur gardener about sowing annuals indoors. Some, like petunias and verbenas, must be started inside in order to provide the required length of growing season for bloom production. However, it is a mistake to sow most annuals indoors too early as they tend to produce plants that are too tall and spindly. These are best suited for setting out than short, sturdy specimens.

RUN NEWSPAPER — Residents of Middlechurch Home for aged persons in Winnipeg have been putting out a monthly newspaper since 1955 with a circulation of between 300 and 500. The newspaper sells for five cents and the editorial staff — all residents of the home — average 84 years of age. Looking over mimeographed copies of the Middlechurch Home News are, from left: Mrs. Alice Smart; Mrs. Nellie Croft; Mrs. Alice Barnes, 85-year-old editor. (CP Photo)

Women's Editorial Staff Averages 81 Years of Age

WINNIPEG (CP) — A monthly newspaper published here has an editorial staff averaging 84 years of age.

It's the Middlechurch Home News, put out by residents of the Middlechurch Home for the aged since 1955.

William Smith, executive director of the home, said in an interview that several other senior citizens' homes have news sheets prepared by the staff and board members.

On the Middlechurch Home News, except for cutting stencils and mimeographing, all the work is done by the home's residents, he said, and officials "believe it is the only publication of its kind in Canada."

The newspaper consists of several mimeographed pages filled with wit, wisdom and anecdotes—contributed by residents. Its function is to provide a stimulating, thought-provoking activity in the home and to give residents a chance to keep friends in distant places informed of their activities.

Under its 85-year-old editor, Mrs. Alice Barnes, the staff turns out between 300 and 500 copies of the paper a month. They sell for five cents a copy.

Everyone in the home is encouraged to contribute. Some write accounts of trips or experiences, others turn in clippings of their favorite stories, poems and jokes. Several are assigned to report-on specific subjects, such as entertainment provided by outside clubs or individuals, church services and new residents.

ST. MARGARET'S EVENING GUILD

St. Margaret's Evening Guild held on Monday night took the form of an auction sale to which the president Mrs. A. Paradis welcomed the members and guests.

The auctioneers were Mrs. R. Nurse and Mrs. B. Bishop, who did an excellent job of selling the various items on display.

The treasurer, Mrs. A. Platt was kept busy and the evening proved to be a most delightful and profit-making venture.

It was decided that the next meeting would be the last until the fall.

Refreshments and coffee were served by Mrs. R. Nurse and her group.

Teen-Age S.S. Classes Visit Toronto

FRANKFORD — The teen-age Sunday School Girls' Classes of Sunday School, accompanied by Mrs. C. Judd and Mrs. Sid Martin, journeyed to Toronto for the weekend. They took up residence at "Adam's House". The tour began Saturday morning when they all visited the Jewish synagogue. They proceeded to the Royal York Hotel, and then enjoyed a shopping spree. Saturday evening all attended the showing of "Ben Hur".

Sunday morning, they attended the worship service in Rosedale United Church. In the afternoon they toured the United Church Training School where the Dean of the School gave an interesting and helpful address, ending an enjoyable weekend.

Mr., Mrs. Wilbert Hammett Of City Wed Fifty Years

Congratulatory messages from a wide circle of friends are being received by Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Hammett, 323 Foster Ave., who on April 28th will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

Owing to the ill health of Mr. Hammett, the couple will observe the anniversary quietly.

Residents of the city since they were married here 50 years ago by Presbyterian minister Rev. A. S. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Hammett for the past 40 years have lived in the house which they built on Foster Ave. Mrs. Hammett is the former Anna Marshall of Trenton, while Mr. Hammett was born at Sharbot Lake.

They were the first couple married by Mr. Kerr after he came to Belleville as minister.

A former railroader Mr. Hammett retired a number of years ago as CNR engineer. He had been classed engineer in 1912.

But the Hammett name is being perpetuated in local railway annals with their son Bill, also being a CNR engineer. Two daughters, Helen (Mrs. Percy Hinch) and Hazel (Mrs. Harold Webb) married railroaders. Mrs. Hinch lives at Tichborne where her husband is a signal maintainer, while Mrs. Webb lives in Belleville. Her husband is a fireman. There are four grandaughters and one grandson.

Mr. Hammett is a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, while Mrs. Hammett is a past president of the Grand International Auxiliary.

Prior to Mr. Hammett's illness, the family greatly enjoyed their summer cottage on Paudash Lake, 11 miles west of Bancroft. They have now sold their summer home.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Isabel E. — Jane has changed — for the worse.

Jane D. — They are all jealous of me.

Isabel E. — My friend Jane and I met when we started working for a large company just after we got out of high school.

Jane is smart and ambitious and took courses to advance herself. She has now been promoted to an executive position. Since she has taken over this job she has changed a lot and in my opinion it's all for the worse.

She has taken on a bolty-toity manner and she acts as if none of us is good enough for her. She used to go out to lunch with us, but she doesn't any more. She is friendly with me, but only away from the office. She has also taken on very masculine mannerisms. The girls resent her. I don't think men will like her either if she goes on like this. She's only 25, but acts older.

Jane D. — I feel that Isabel and some of the other girls are a bit jealous of me. We all started on the same level, but I am now earning a lot more money. I don't think it's a crime to be ambitious and I've worked for everything I've earned.

I know the girls feel hurt that I no longer have lunch with them and join them in their gab fests, but I have been advised by a superior that it would be better if I weren't too chummy with the girls. If they look on me as a pal, they won't take orders as readily.

I consider Isabel a good friend, but I can't show her any special attention. The other girls would certainly resent that.

As for mannerisms, well, I don't think they're masculine.

The Council: Shakespeare compared the world to a stage and pointed out that we are all actors on it. We behave in accordance with the roles we choose, changing our behavior for new parts. It won't do for a mother to act like a giggly teenager or for a general to act like a buck private.

Those who wish us well admire us for having grown into a new more important role. Those who are envious may be highly critical or derisive of the way we play our parts — especially at the beginning when we may tend to overact.

Overacting is, however, one way in which we grow accustomed to our new roles at a time when we feel insecure about them. The individual who overacts a part he has held a long time has assumed a role that is in some way wrong for him.

Isabel's criticism of her friend smacks of envy in that she refuses to recognize a change in Jane's behavior was required. Jane can't act like "one of the girls" and wield authority at the same time.

On the other hand, Jane should try to be objective about herself. When a woman takes on an executive role the change in her manner may become extreme and she may lose her feminine warmth, softness and sensitivity. The firmer, emotionless executive mask may take over her personality — even in private life.

If this were to happen it would be a shame because a woman can never play a man successfully. She can only cheat herself out of a role she might perform

"WHERE PARKING IS NO PROBLEM"

Notes From Caberley

by Mary Moore

Yesterday Marianne invited for lunch two of her Canadian army friends, Enid Campbell and Jo (sephine) McLaughlin.

Since we are so near Dover I was determined we would make the most of it and serve Dover Sole Florentine. For her part Marianne was determined she would bake, not buy Parker-house Rolls. Her gas oven is steady at low temperatures so I decided to make Salzburger Nockerel because it is so popular and because I wanted her to know about its possibilities.

When we surveyed this miscellaneous collection of purchases I had to have a good think, so like Ferdinand I turned to the flowers and arranged them.

As you may remember dishes named "Florentine" often are associated with spinach and those that are named "Divan" often call for broccoli. I forget why, but it has something to do with where they were originated or who originated them.

So since we had no choice and the guests were arriving at one P.M. a decision had to be made fast. Between us we made

LEMON SOLE DIVAN:

(These amounts will serve 3 or 4.)

Three lbs. of lemon sole when filleted and skinned weighed 1-3 lbs. and cost fourteen shillings; 1 1-3 lbs. of young broccoli greens cost one shilling. (You will never persuade even one farmer in Canada — unless he is English — to cut off his young broccoli shoots. But you can us ordinary bunch broccoli or frozen frozen instead.) While Marianne made cheese sauce I washed well and boiled the broccoli in a big pot, covered, until I could cut through it easily with a sharp knife. I cut it up rather coarsely and divided it into two medium-sized casseroles. Over each Marianne poured this Cheese Sauce: Blend 4 tablespoons butter and 3 tablespoons flour and when melted and smooth add 1 1-2 cups hot milk and stir until thick. Add 1 cup grated cheese. We used Sulton simply because it was such fun to be where it was made and sold. Our old Canadian Cheddar would be fine — or of course, Parmesan. Add also 1 teaspoon salt. Pour some of sauce over broccoli. Now arrange sole fillets, side by side, overlapping on top of sauce and spread over them the remaining sauce. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 375 deg. F. for about 20 minutes. Actually Marianne put these in the oven 15 minutes apart. When the first one was ready so were her first pan of buns so lunch was served. Then 15 minutes later, "seconds" were coming hot from the oven.

NOTE:

If you prefer to use spinach you can, of course. But it does not have to be cooked until tender beforehand. Just cook it down enough to wilt it, then chop coarsely.

Watch for more travel tales from Britain about this time next week.

WEDNESDAY

(Guests)

Broiled Pork Chops with Mustard Sauce; Banana Fritters; Mixed Wafer-Thin-Sliced Carrots and Cut Butter Beans; Waldorf Salad Mould (see Tuesday); Jelly Roll Party Torte (see Tuesday); Coffee.

First thing in the morning we hurried in and out of the shining shops on London Road in Camberley, hunting for Dover sole, spinach Parmesan cheese, apricot puree and tulips. What we landed home with was lemon sole from Aberdeen, locally grown greens (young broccoli shoots), Stilton cheese and apricot puree with rice, and four dozen orange-cupped daffodils. This massive bunch of freshly cut flowers cost us only eight shillings.

Health Hints

(by Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa)

Good walking posture will help to avert tiredness and fatigue. If the body is well balanced and if shoes are well fitted, with heels of a height suitable to the occasion for which they are worn, standing or walking will be less fatiguing.

Temporary deafness, a clogged feeling in the ears or an aching or discharging ear are symptoms of ear trouble that should have prompt medical attention, to avert permanent impairment of the hearing.

It is a good idea to get all window screens and doors repaired and ready for installation in early spring. Housefies will be coming to life in garbage heaps, dumps and other filthy places. If they can enter the house, they will contaminate food and tableware, spreading disease germs and dirt.

Low blood pressure usually causes less trouble than high blood pressure. It is often a symptom of some other disease and, when this is treated, the low blood pressure may be remedied.

Opening the cottage for summer should include spraying the place thoroughly against insects, clearing all bits of brokenglass or metal from the garden and yard, and attending to repairs and fitting of screen doors and windows.

Under Program 4,000 Miles Of Roads Are to Be Built at Cost of About $145,000,000

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The roads-to-resources program now in high gear involves more than 4,000 miles of road, to be built at a cost of about $145,000,000.

The projects range from access routes linking up with the northern territories to improvements of tourist trails.

Their prime object is to open up areas rich in resources and, with that idea in mind, the roads are no better than they have to be. Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton, in charge of the federal-provincial project, put it this way:

"Roads to resources is simply an offer to help provinces build roads that otherwise wouldn't be built. We aren't building superhighways."

NINE PROVINCES

Nine of the 10 provinces are involved in the program which originated in 1958. The federal government still hopes Quebec will join.

Saskatchewan is the only participant that has not signed a formal agreement yet.

The federal government undertook to match provincial expenditures dollar for dollar to a maximum of $7,500,000 for each province. Seven provincial governments are spending more than that.

This is the estimated cost of program in each province with road mileage bracketed:

British Columbia $20,000,000 (253); Alberta $20,000,000 (430); Saskatchewan $20,000,000 (834); Manitoba $10,370,000 (685); Ontario $7,500,000 (335); New Brunswick $18,000,000 (432); Nova Scotia $17,100,000 (465); Prince Edward Island $15,435,000 (438); Newfoundland $7,787,000 (304).

DOOR STILL OPEN

Both Ontario and Newfoundland will have the option of adding extra projects later to which the federal government will contribute.

In Ontario and the four western provinces the roads are intended to open up mineral or timber areas. In New Brunswick and Newfoundland, the project are split about 50-50 between development of minerals on the one hand and timber and commercial fishing on the other. Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island plan to spend all their money on tourist-boosting routes.

British Columbia was the first province to start building and the first to sign an agreement. It will similarly put all its money into a road through an asbestos-mining area from Stewart on the Pacific coast north of Prince Rupert to Dease Lake in the northern interior, connecting with an existing route leading to the Alaska Highway at Watson Lake in the Yukon.

Because of the high cost of road construction, a special agreement provides that ordinary standards may be ignored in certain terrain such as solid rock where the road width would be curtailed.

NORTHERN ALBERTA

Alberta's program, aimed at improving access to oil, gas and base metals in the north, will include improving the 300-mile highway from Grimshaw, in the Peace River country, to the Northwest Territories, and also building and improving another 70-mile stretch from High Level to the far north, to the limits of Wood Buffalo National Park which straddles the Alberta-N.W.T. border.

Saskatchewan plans to link Uranium City in the northwest corner of the province with La Ronge, north of Prince Albert. Uranium and base metals are the chief resources involved.

Agreement on the 600-mile route, plus two shorter roads toward Flin Flon and The Pas in Manitoba, apparently is hung up on a dispute about whether a Prince Albert bridge should be considered part of the Saskatchewan program.

The $2,500,000 bridge in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's home town is regarded by the Saskatchewan government as having no part in the federal allocation for the roads-to-resources program but Ottawa contends it should be included.

NICKEL AREA

Manitoba's program includes a road linking the mining towns of Flin Flon and Thompson in an area where nickel and other base metals are involved. A north-south road will run through the heart of the province from Thompson to Gypsumville on Lake Manitoba, 140 miles north-west of Winnipeg.

The main Ontario road-availing final survey to determine the best route—would slant northwest from a point north of Lake Superior to the Manitoba border. It is intended to open up a base-metal and timber area. Its terminus will be near Manitoba's Island Lake where another Manitoba road is to be constructed.

The New Brunswick roads are generally in the northern part of the province with one to run from Boiestown, north of Fredericton, to the Bathurst area on Chaleur Bay.

Newfoundland will construct a north-south road through the heart of the province's timber area from Bishop's Falls to Millertown on the south coast and another on the west shore of the northern peninsula.

Prince Edward Island plans to use its money for perimeter roads to help its tourist industry, and Nova Scotia has allotted funds for several roads in the Annapolis Valley, Antigonish, Halifax, Cape Breton and Parrsboro areas.

RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT — All provinces except Quebec are involved in a federal-provincial program aimed chiefly at opening areas of Canada known to be rich in resources.

Map details some of the major proposed routes (broken lines) in the $145,000,000 program which started in 1958. About 4,000 miles of roads will be built.

Roads in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island will be tourist-boosting ventures. In New Brunswick and Newfoundland they will be aimed at development of timber and mineral resources and commercial fishing.

Development in Ontario will be concentrated in the northwest timber and base metal regions.

Manitoba's program includes roads linking the mining towns of Thompson and Flin Flon. Saskatchewan plans a 600-mile route to Uranium City for uranium and base metal development. Alberta's roads will open up oil, natural gas and base metals in the north. A road from Stewart, B.C., is aimed at the asbestos region around Dease Lake. (CP Newsmap.)

BRAIN STUDY — Tiny electrodes, planted in the brain of this rhesus monkey to produce electrical stimulations, help Dr. Louis Poirier of the University of Montreal's neurophysiology department learn more about the functions of cells in different parts of the brain. Dr. Poirier's job is to study how injury to brain tissues produces the tremors and rigidity of Parkinson's disease. His research also traces the nerve routes that pain follows through the body.

Montreal Said Unrivalled In Canada as Medical Centre By Dean of McGill University

...Such world-renowned doctors as Wilder, Penfield and Hans-Selye have contributed to Montreal's reputation as a leader in certain fields of medical research. This story tells of some of the men and hospitals and how they are fighting the battle against disease.

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal is carrying on a feat with richness that began when the French nurse Jeanne Mance opened the first hospital on the island in 1642.

The crude log cabin that housed her clinic, near the heart of what today is the financial district, served the first settlers both as a place of treatment and a fort for repelling Indian raids.

Frontier medicine is out of style, but the Jeanne Mance tradition lives.

Montreal's modern doctors are familiar with the casualties of the latter-day struggles raging over old battlegrounds—business men with burned-out hearts, debilitated family heads with shattered nerves, broken victims of traffic accidents.

FAMOUS DOCTORS

Jeanne Mance's successors are dedicated, doctors, some, like Hans Selye, famous for their discoveries, or, like surgeon Wilder Penfield, for their skills.

Most minister quietly to the sick in a score of major and minor hospitals, and some pursue basic knowledge in obscure laboratories, forcing the body to reveal its secrets.

Sometimes they work team-fashion in the manner of Dr. Louis Poirier, 41, director of the neuro-anatomical laboratory at the University of Montreal, and Dr. Claude Bertrand, 42, surgeon at Notre Dame Hospital.

Basically, Dr. Poirier's job is to study the manner in which lesions in brain tissue produce the tremors and rigidity of Parkinson's disease, and to trace the nerve routes pain follows through the body.

DELICATE OPERATIONS

Dr. Bertrand translates new knowledge in neuro-anatomy into deft scalpel cuts into the brain or spinal cord that mean peace instead of agony for cancer victims in their last days, and normal use of limbs for Parkinsonians.

"Dr. Bertrand developed special techniques of his own for Parkinson's and allied diseases," Dr. Poirier says. This technique is used elsewhere in Canada and the U.S. He has used it on about 150 patients with very good results. But it can only be used on younger patients in good physical condition—one out of seven or eight patients."

Brain cells keep one another in check, Dr. Poirier explains. In Parkinson's disease lesions destroy the functions of some cells and their counterparts run wild. A nick in the counterpart may restore normal balance.

In his laboratory, he says, "we're studying which function releases the other."

LONG-RANGE FIGHT

The body of knowledge to which Dr. Poirier contributes is today's panacea, a cure-all that may in time be nurtured to the point where all disease is conquered or controlled.

It is sought in test tubes and under microscopes, in individual body and brain cells, in minute chemical changes and reactions, in the myriad small mysteries of living tissue.

Laboratory animals by the hundreds—rats, dogs, monkeys, cats—must be "sacrificed," a medical euphemism which conjures up visions of ancient rites and streaming altars. But medical scientists dismiss suggestions of occult dabblings: it is inevitable to them that animals must die to yield knowledge to save human lives.

Spectacular cures for specific diseases are rare—often they occur as they invariably owe something to the patient work of other men in other laboratories—but in the meantime every experiment adds a particle to the growing quantum of knowledge that is steadily adding hours and years to the span of everyone now living.

RESEARCH LEADER

This body of knowledge is fed from research centres across the world, and Montreal ranks high among them.

"My personal opinion," says Dean L. G. Stevenson of McGill University's faculty of medicine, "is that Montreal is unrivalled in Canada as a medical centre."

Compared with the United States, "we have outstanding facilities in some fields and have had outstanding research in others. We are well up with the van in most respects.

"We are especially fortunate to have large teaching hospitals with their own research departments."

MEDICAL FACILITIES

McGill's more than 700 medical students—nearly half post-graduates—train at the Royal Victoria, Montreal General and Montreal Children's hospitals as well as at special teaching hospitals: the Montreal Neurological Institute, Royal Edward Laurentian Hospital for heart disease, the Montreal Centre for infectious diseases and Verdun Protestant for mental illness.

Research goes ahead constantly at all seven and in 20 departments of the McGill medical faculty. And the physical plant of the McGill teaching - treatment-research complex is constantly expanding.

A new hospital wing makes the Royal Victoria rank with the world's top research hospitals. A new block of laboratories is to open this spring at Montreal General. McGill plans a new medical building that will include space for a new research department—aviation medicine.

At the University of Montreal the flank of Notre Dame, $750,000 worth of research is in progress under 40 different grants.

11 HOSPITALS

Dr. Wilfrid Bonin, U. of M. medical dean, has charge of more than 300 graduate and post-graduate students. They train at such hospitals as Notre Dame, Hotel Dieu, Ste. Justine for children, Maisonneuve, St. Luc, Verdun, Sacred Heart, Ste. Jeanne d'Arc, Misericorde, Louis Pasteur and Institut Albert Prevost, a medical hospital.

Montreal's Rehabilitation Institute is independent of the U. of M. but its director, Dr. Gustave Gingras, is professor of physical medicine and rehabilitation and director of the School of Rehabilitation at the U. of M.

Dr. Gingras, 43-year-old globe-trotter, during the winter led a mission to help some of 10,000 Moroccans paralyzed from using an aviation oil for cooking.

Dr. Gingras did his post-graduate work in England, travelled and studied in Europe, spent a summer in Israel at the request of the Israeli health ministry, and worked for five years with the World Health Organization in South America, mainly Venezuela. A rehabilitation school named in his honor opened last fall at Caracas.

$11-BED ADDITION

His Institute in Montreal is putting up a 111-bed addition expected to increase to 2,000 from 1,000 the number of in-patients and out-patients treated annually.

The U. of M. has immediate plans to build its own 400-bed teaching hospital and to move the Institute of Cardiology from its present location in Maisonneuve Hospital into a 200-bed unit on the campus. The Institute of Microbiology under Dr. Armand Frappier, now in the university's medical wing, might also move into its own building.

Much of Montreal's medical work is particular areas of study is done in institutes which enjoy a degree of autonomy from their parent universities and hospitals. Among the most famous is Dr. Hans Selye's Institute of Experimental Medicine at the University of Montreal.

Dr. Selye has been called the "Einstein of Medicine," and his theory of stress is considered as fundamental to an understanding of human ailments as Einstein's theory of relativity is to understanding the universe.

UNDERLYING CAUSE

To Dr. Selye and his followers, stress is a basic cause of death that may masquerade as heart disease, tuberculosis or cancer. Stress is a common denominator, a non-specific disease that underlies the specific cause of death.

The effect of stress upon the body is measured in terms of hormone production. Failure to model certain hormones—such as adrenalin—to spurt into the bloodstream in emergencies. Under stress, the body is always in a state of emergency.

Dr. Selye, 53-year-old scion of four generations of Viennese doctors, published "The Stress of Life," a book for doctors and informed laymen, in 1950 and then set out to trace the ramifications of the concept.

Turning to heart disease, which kills 50,000 persons annually in Canada and 500,000 in the United States, Dr. Selye found that hormones produced by stress combine with simple chemicals in the diet—such as common salt—to destroy heart tissue in experimental rats with rats.

This process was halted by feeding the rats salts of magnesium and potassium. If the same holds true for humans, as Dr. Selye and his collaborators hope to show, a simple salt pill will offer protection against a common—and deadly—heart ailment.

"Even if you just bring the death rate down one per cent," Dr. Selye says, "it is a tremendous thing."

Commission Wants to See Books of Company but Does Not Know Where to Look

TORONTO (CP) — The royal commission investigating the $52,000 purchase by the Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission of Dimensional Industries property land at Sarnia wants to inspect the account books of Dimensional Investments Limited, the company that made the sale, but does not know where to look.

At hearings at Queen's Park Tuesday, evidence revealed that Saul Sigler, former major shareholder in the company, is no longer associated with Dimensional Investments, and Sam Ray, the president, is critically ill and not able to appear as a witness.

There are no other known persons connected with the company, incorporated Aug. 18, 1958, for the sole purpose of purchasing 2,100 acres of reserve land from the Chippewa Indians.

"I find it difficult to believe that either Mr. Ray or Mr. Sigler would not have the account books in their home" unless they were burned," said Mr. Justice George Argo McGillivray of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

MUST BE SOMEWHERE

"I don't know how to serve the subpoena on," said Joseph Sedgwick, counsel for the royal commission. "The account books must be somewhere unless the whole company has disappeared."

John Arnup, solicitor for Hydro, said the power commission had submitted all available evidence of Hydro's part in the transaction and the same cooperation should be given by the other parties concerned.

Norman Borins, solicitor for Dimensional Investments, said he was certain the only available documents relating to the land purchase and sale would be in the files law firms employed during the transactions.

The company's authorized capital was $40,000, with an additional $300,000 acquired through loans. Another $1,250,000 was borrowed from the Imperial Bank, the same amount Hydro placed in the bank in escrow until Dimensional Investments gave Hydro title to the land — on the security of the agreement to purchase by Hydro.

SOLD OUT

Mr. Sigler also testified that he sold out his interests in Dimensional Investments to his partner, Mr. Ray, on Aug. 15, 1959 because adverse publicity about the land purchase had affected the resale value of the property.

Mr. Ray took all records of the company out of their joint office in downtown Toronto soon after their partnership was dissolved, Mr. Sigler said.

The royal commission was established Feb. 23, following repeated opposition charges in the legislature that Hydro had acted illegally in its acquisition of 1?5 acres of the Indian reserve.

Dimensional Investments purchased the property for $6,521,946 or about $3,200 an acre, while Hydro paid the company about $7,000 an acre. Hydro required the land for a new transformer station and increased power facilities to the Sarnia area.

MENTION GRAY

Earlier, a wrangle developed over the role played in the land deal by A. J. R. Gray, Metropolitan Toronto assessment commissioner.

Mr. Sigler said Mr. Gray had a contract with Dimensional Investments providing remuneration to him for services rendered when the company sold the last 1,200 acres.

He said Mr. Gray — a former deputy minister of the department of municipal affairs — had acted in an advisory capacity on land values.

R. L. Kellock, counsel for the federal members of the legislature, wanted to know the terms of the agreement.

Mr. Justice McGillivray ruled the question out of order on the grounds the royal commission's terms of reference only included matter relating to Hydro's purchase of the land.

"My difficulty is finding what Mr. Gray's position is," said Mr. Justice McGillivray.

Mr. Gray testified he became involved in the Sarnia transaction because of an old friend and the urgent needs of hydro.

ASKED ADVICE

He said a Toronto real estate promoter and a friend for 30 years, William G. Clark, came to his office and asked for advice on how to deal with Indians with the view to buying their land. Mr. Clark opened negotiations for the land sale.

He said he flew to Sarnia several times in a chartered plane to offer advice, based on his wide experience in municipal affairs. At no time had he used office time for his visits to Sarnia and at no time had he accepted remuneration from any of the parties involved, he said.

The hearings move to Sarnia today and Thursday, during which time members of the Indian band will be called to give evidence.

Defective Brakes Caused Mishap Jury Is Told

TORONTO (CP)—An Ontario Supreme Court hearing was told Tuesday that defective brakes of a new car caused the highway death last year of Dr.R eginald K.S. Selley, former provost of Trinity College.

Mrs. Seeley and Michael MacKenzie, administrator of Dr. Seeley's estate, launched a damage suit for $351,800 against General Motors of Canada Limited, General Motors Services (Canada) Limited, General Motors Products of Canada Limited, Marshall Motors Limited and Peter Rudo Limited.

Mrs. Seeley and the brakes of Dr. Seeley's small car seized on the highway and forced him to swerve into the path of an oncoming vehicle, she said the accident occurred the day after the car's 500-mile inspection.

The estate is seeking $250,000 general damages and unstated special damages. Mrs. Seeley, seriously hurt in the crash, is suing for $100,000 plus $5,000 car damage.

The car was sold to Dr. Seeley by Phil Balch, a Toronto automobile agency, for $2,200.

The non-jury civil action, being heard by Mr. Justice Leo Landreville, continues.

Mom Whyte Says BC Govt. Cannot Discourage Her

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte says the British Columbia government will never discourage her in the work she wishes to do in the province.

She says her letters to the provincial government concerning her mission home in the Okanagan Valley community of Summerland near here had gone unanswered.

Mrs. Whyte's remarks came in an open letter to Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, published Tuesday in the Penticton Herald.

The provincial government has said it will not grant her a licence to operate her mission.

In contemplating the relinquishment of his duties, the Conservative chieftain may be guided partly by personal considerations and partly by the feeling that his almost certain successor, Richard Alston Bell, should be allowed a "running in" period as one of the government benches the next election takes place, probably in 1964.

Macmillan is 66, Butler is 57. The younger man has hinted that he may lay down the party chairmanship, one of his several jobs, within two years. Some feel that might be the time for him to succeed Macmillan.

A personal factor involved in the prime minister's future plans is probably is the wish of his wife, month.

Prime Minister Macmillan May Retire Within 3 Years

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan is likely to retire within the next two or three years.

Though such a long-range forecast is subject to change in the light of circumstances, it is widely agreed that Macmillan is already thinking of the time when he can begin to enjoy a less strenuous life.

The prime minister's term of office runs to 1964. It is rare for a British premier to accept retirement voluntarily. Power has an irresistible attraction for most politicians, but Macmillan has shown himself an unorthodox one and of 10 Downing Street, and reliving of his volition at a moment of his own choosing would be a characteristic gesture.

In contemplating the relinquishment of his duties, the Conservative chieftain may be guided partly by personal considerations and partly by the feeling that his almost certain successor, Richard Alston Butler, should be allowed a "running in" period as one of the government benches the next election takes place, probably in 1964.

Macmillan is 66, Butler is 57. The younger man has hinted that he may lay down the party chairmanship, one of his several jobs, within two years. Some feel that might be the time for him to succeed Macmillan.

A personal factor involved in the prime minister's future plans is probably is the wish of his wife, month.

Lady Dorothy. Although seemingly as unflappable socially as her husband is politically, she has little use for formal entertaining and would probably prefer to spend her leisure time in the garden of the Macmillan's country home at Hayward's Heath, Sussex.

Macmillan succeeded Sir Anthony Eden as prime minister Jan. 10, 1957. In 1992, he will have completed five years in office.

His thinking about retirement is in line with his detached attitude toward Britain's highest political office. When critics were hot after him in the early months of his premiership, Macmillan told a friend:

"I am what I am. I have held all the great offices of state, and the prime minister is not going to change me."

TRIAL POSTPONED

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) Trial of actor William Talman and six others in misdemeanor morals charges was postponed Monday until June 13. Talman, 45, was arrested during the course of a party in the Hollywood apartment of Richard Rebold, 31. Officers said the group —four men and four women— were cavorting in the nude. Talman was fired as district attorney on the Perry Mason television show after his arrest last

Accused Guilty Of Possessing Stolen Bonds

MONTREAL (CP) — Guiseppe (Pepe) Cotroni, 49, municipal taxcollector, was convicted Tuesday of illegal possession of $9,700 worth of bonds stolen in the Brockville Trust and Savings Company robbery in May 1958.

The jury deliberated only 25 minutes.

Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure said he will pass sentence May 6.

Cotroni, already serving a 10-year term for involvement in an $8,000,000 drug case, grimaced and said nothing when the jury foreman announced the verdict.

Defence lawyer Antonio Lamer said he will study the possibility of an appeal.

Cotroni went on trial here Monday, charged specifically with possession of bonds stolen in the $5,300,000 Brockville robbery.

Principal witness was a 62-year-old Italian immigrant engineer hired by Cotroni in the summer of 1958 to build a two-storey building.

The witness told the court he was in fear for his life and his fame was withheld.

Cotroni paid him with bonds later found to be part of the Brockville loot.

In his remarks to the jury, Mr. Justice Lazure said he found it surprising that a man in business and in good faith would employee bonds to convert them.

Raising Pay of Jodoin, Other CLC Officers Causes Hot Debate on Convention Floor

MONTREAL (CP) — Political and jurisdictional struggles within the labor movement came to the fore during the second day of the Canadian Labor Congress convention Tuesday.

In a move which might have serious consequences on CLC solidarity, I. M. (Casey) Dodds, Canadian director of the Teamsters' Union, said he would take to a union's jurisdictional squabble with the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks to the convention floor if necessary.

The Teamsters have already been found guilty of raiding the 21,000-member clerks union in British Columbia and Mr. Dodds Tuesday offered the executive council of the CLC a compromise plan for settling the issue.

The council's decision on his plan—expected to be unfavorable—was not looked for before today at the earliest. Observers here the council fears putting the issue before the 1,000 delegates might split labor ranks.

The second union found guilty of raiding a rival—the Seafarers International Union—failed to appear before the council at the scheduled time Tuesday to appeal against it's suspension from the CLC.

The convention is expected to decide to endorse the SIU's expulsion later this week. The 13,000-member union was found guilty of raiding the National Association of Marine Engineers.

Mr. Dodds said Tuesday he plans talks with Hal C. Banks, SIU president.

The delegates also voted an additional $600,000 in union dues for the congress.

Most of the money is to go towards broadening the activities of the 1,150,000-member congress, to a public relations campaign and more labor education but some is for higher salaries for congress officers.

It was the latter—including a boost in President Claude Jodoin's pay to $18,000 annually from $14,000—which sparked hot debate on the floor before the issue was settled.

Other pay increases — lought bullied, out on the convention floor—were granted for Executive Vice - Presidents Stanley Knowles and William Dodge whose salaries were raised $1,000 to $13,000 a year and Secretary-Treasurer Donald MacDonald whose pay went up $2,000 to $14,000 a year.

"If we are going to have competent officers of the CLC then we should be big enough to pay them adequate salaries commensurate with their abilities in the jobs they have to perform," said Delegate James, Kenney president of the Manitoba Federation of Labor.

Guns That Killed Africans At Sharpeville Said Loaded More Than Century Ago

EDITORS: For the last three years, Lynn Heinzerling Olde-born AP foreign correspondent for more than 20 years, has been based in South Africa. In this series of four articles, for release in AMS Wednesday through Saturday, he explores the conflict between white supremacy and African nationalism in the union. The first article surveys some of South Africa's history.

BY LYNN HEINZERLING

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The guns that killed 67 Africans and wounded 186 more at Sharpeville last March were built a century ago.

The awakening of the numerically-superior Negroes in South Africa and their violent reaction to the doctrine of white supremacy have been inevitable since white first met black in the bush country in the 17th century.

Not since the hardy, courageous Dutch settlers of the Cape of Good Hope set out on their great trek to found their own nation in the early 19th century have whites in South Africa regarded Africans as anything but a threat to survival.

Apartheid, under different names, always has been the watchword.

PIONEERING EPIC

The great trek was a pioneering epic comparable with the opening up of the West in North America.

Small bands of pioneers, disenchanted by the British occupation of the cape, headed into the hot and perilous country to the north and east.

They were descendants of a small group dropped at the cape by the Dutch East India Company to provide fresh food and water for ships in the East Indies trade. They were mostly Dutch or German, French and other European parents.

These pioneers had a fierce, burning passion to overcome the dangers before them and set up their own republics.

The black man had no place in these dreams, except as a worker. The master-servant relationship that still persists began in those days.

FILLED WITH HEROES

The story of the trek is filled with the names of heroes some of whose descendants still live in South Africa — Pritalou, Retief, Potgieter and Kruger. They were mostly farmers (Boers in Dutch).

These were deeply religious men. They felt they had a divine mission to spread Christianity and the white man's culture and domination.

They had matched arms with marauding bands so often that most of them even doubted it was wrong to kill a Negro.

In 1838, Piet Retief, one of the Boer leaders, walked into a trap set by a Zulu chief, Dingaan, in Natal. Dingaan enticed Retief and 70 men into his kraal in the rolling hills to discuss ceding land rights. He murdered them all.

BIT KILLED

Dingaan then sent his warriors to the camps and killed 351 more Boers and some 300 colored servants they had brought with them from the cape.

Andries Pretorius, another Boer leader, gathered new forces and in the three-hour Battle of Blood River killed 3,000 Zulus. Only three Boers were wounded. Dingaan's work and the Battle of Blood River have become the centerpiece of Afrikaner nationalism.

While the Zulus and other tribes have been at peace with the white man for nearly a century, the Battle of Blood River is still celebrated annually as Heiderdag (Heroes Day). But leaders of the African National Congress call Dingaan one of the first defenders of African freedoms.

STRONG REPUBLIC

As a memorial to deliverance from Dingaan, the Boers erected a church at Pietermaritzburg. Around this church the Boers tried to set up a strong republic to encompass all the lands occupied by the trekkers.

But it crumbled in the end. Natal was annexed by the British administration in the cape and the Boers finally founded their most enduring republics in Orange Free State and the Transvaal.

Wherever they settled, the Boers enforced strict segregation of the races. The pass system, so despised today, was used to regulate the movement of Negroes to these farms.

When thousands of Africans gathered outside Sharpeville police station March 21 they were facing more than grievance. They were protesting against a deeply ingrained way of life.

Medicine Hat Mayor to Pay $7,500 Damages

MEDICINE HAT, Alta (CP) — Mayor Harry Veiner Tuesday was found guilty of defamation of character and ordered to pay damages of $7,500 to Calgary lawyer Melvin Shannon.

A counter-charge instituted by Mayor Veiner against Mr. Shannon was dismissed.

Mr. Shannon's suit followed remarks made by Mayor Veiner at a city council meeting Dec. 7, 1959.

Mr. Justice J. V. Milvain said: "I am completely satisfied that (Mayor) Veiner called Mr. Shannon a liar, a damn liar and a goddam liar and those remarks are damaging to the character of the defendant."

Vote Annexation

WELLAND (CP)—Residents of a 3,311 - acre area of Thorold Township bordering Welland's north boundary Tuesday voted in favor of annexation by the city.

Welland will put its application to annex selections of Thorold, Pelham, Crowland and Humberstone Townships before an Ontario Municipal Board hearing here May 10.

WANTS RECOGNITION

TORONTO (CP) — The Civil Servants' Association of Ontario Tuesday criticized the provincial government for not treating the association as the collective bargaining agent for provincial employees. A resolution passed unanimously by the directors cited the government's policy of making unilateral decisions concerning civil servants without reference to the association.

RHEE THOUGHT

After Japan's surrender in 1945 he returned to Korea, ads was elected South Korea's first president in 1948.

FIGHT AGAINST NORTH

He gained his greatest world stature in 1950 by his courage and tenacity when Communist North Korea invaded South Korea.

But in 1953, in the midst of the war, he precipitated the first of the crises that brought on charges of dictatorial rule. He declared martial law and arrested a dozen assemblymen who resisted his proposals to change the constitution for election of the president by popular vote instead of by the assembly.

One of Rhee's most spectacular acts was his order freeing 27,000 anti-Communist Korean war prisoners. The return of war prisoners was an issue in armistice negotiations and the freeing of the prisoners, allowing them to go free in South Korea, prolonged the war.

He refused to sign the 1953 armistice agreement when it finally was concluded, declaring it a "shameful surrender," and repeatedly declared that Korea must be reunited by a "drive north."

PLAN MOON CRASH

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civilian Space Agency Tuesday unveiled plans to crash a 500-pound spacecraft on the moon at more than 5,000 miles an hour, its television cameras taking pictures to its end. The event is scheduled within the next two years.

FOREIGN MINISTER

by to make a comeback by running for the presidency again. The largest opposition newspaper, Dongs Ibo, said in an editorial just before the resignation was announced that the public uprising would have to revive if he tried to cling to power.

DEMONSTRATIONS END

Rhee's resignation came as an anti-climax and set off no public demonstrations such as his promises Tuesday to resign sparked. The rioting and celebrating in Seoul ended with the curfew at midnight Tuesday night. Today the capital was quiet.

The health ministry announced that 20 persons were killed and 258 injured in the rioting Monday night and Tuesday which preceded Rhee's promise to resign and the frenzied excitement that followed his announcement. This brought the official death toll to 160 since the Bloody Tuesday riots April 19 that started Rhee's downfall.

Rhee was secluded in the presidential mansion and gave no word on his future plans.

His chosen political heir, Vice-President-elect Lee Ki-poong, was reported to have taken refuge with two other Liberal party leaders and their families in the big U.S. army base at Inchon, 20 miles west of Seoul.

Rhee's resignation came as a relief to the U.S. government, which had brought great pressure on him to meet the demands for democratic reforms and nullification of the March 15 election.

Diplomatic representatives of the U.S., Canada and other countries which fought under the United Nations banner in the Korean War met in Washington Tuesday to discuss the Korean situation.

Afterward the U.S. state department said they joined in expressing hope for an "early resolution of the situation in a manner which would permit the orderly functioning of democratic government in the republic of Korea."

Tourist Assoc. Wants Handling Charge Removed

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Tourist Association Monday asked chartered banks to either remove or postpone for the summer tourist season the two-per-cent handling charge on United States coins.

The association warned that Canada's $300,000,000 tourist revenue is threatened by the additional charges levied by banks to cover the cost of packing and shipping the coins across the border.

Association President J. M. McAvity said today the handling charge has only irritated a few American visitors to date because the season has not started. He urged Canadians to tell visitors that the adverse rate of exchange is not set by Canada but by the law of supply and demand in the international money market and the cost to banks to pack and ship the coins.

Mr. McAvity said the word discount should be avoided because it is grooyomus with "cut rate" to most Americans.

How would you like to receive a cheque for $20.00 cash, to do with as you want?

You'd like it? Of course you would. Some ladies have already received their $20.00 cheques. Here's how.

Inglis are celebrating the 10th Anniversary of their pioneering the manufacture of home laundry equipment in Canada with a $20.00 CASH BONUS. Everyone purchasing an Inglis automatic washer and Inglis dryer from the John Lewis Co., receives a cheque for $20.00 cash, direct from Inglis. And you need not necessarily buy a matching pair. Just think of it. You can own the finest home laundry equipment made, and . . . you get twenty dollars to do with as you want!

We are assisting Inglis with their wonderful Anniversary Cash Bonus Offer. So, come in and see an actual demonstration of Inglis automatic washers and dryers. You'll be amazed at the features Inglis offers you, and you'll really be amazed at the price. Imagine an Inglis Washer and Dryer for as little as 399.00 and your old washer.

Please note: This Anniversary Cash Bonus Offer is for a limited time only, so we suggest you call in soon. When you do, ask to see one and I'll show you all the outstanding features on all the Inglis automatics.

Looking Forward to seeing you,
Yours Sincerely,

The Macs Won the First, Too, Remember What Happened?

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Johnny Herard, manager-coach of Chatham Maroons, rolled his eastern champions through a carefree bathtub 60-minute workout Tuesday in preparation for the second game of the 1960 Allan Cup final here tonight.

The husky Maroons, displaying obvious confidence following their 4-1 triumph Monday in the best-of-seven series opener, scrimmaged through most of their workout with brief sessions used to sharpen their passing and shooting.

Meanwhile Trail Smoke Eaters, the western champions, toiled through almost two hours of practice with all but the final 30 minutes taken up by passing and shooting practice.

NEEDLED BY COACH

Playing coach Bobby Kromm continually pressed his forwards to sharpen their passing and put more zip into their shots. Kromm, a needler and pepperpot on the ice, was unhappy with the passing and shooting of his club in Monday's loss.

"We let too many good chances around the net go by the boards," he said.

"I don't think we will be outshot in the next game, at least not by the margin we were in the last one. Our defenceman especially will be doing more firing from the point during power plays."

In the opener Chatham outshot Smoke Eaters 42-25.

Monday's loss by Smoke Eaters —who boast 10 native-born members on their team—was the first in eight playoff starts and the first in 10 playoff games at home.

FANS THWARTED

It didn't sit well with the players or fans of this hockey-mad smelting city in southeastern B.C.

Horeck, former AHL player with Buffalo, plans to stand pat with the lineup that won the opener. Kromm expected to make one change, inserting veteran George Robertson in place of Ernie Secco on defence. Another capacity crowd is expected for tonight's game.

Tuesday the Maroons were driven through the downtown business section here aboard a fire engine in a short but lively parade complete with pretty girls and bands.

Third game of the series will be played here Friday and the fourth Saturday.

On the Track

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky Derby threats Tompion and Victoria Park, one-two finishers in a stat-studded prep last week, may lock horns again in today's $25,000-added Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland.

The pair will have all the track room they need for the race, too. The probable field for the 1 1/16 and an eighth race includes only four with two others as likely starters.

C. V. Whitney's Tompion, Derby winter book favorite, and Victoria Park, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, finished at length and a half a part last Friday in the Forerunner Purse here.

FORT ERIE (CP) — Canada's leading three-year-olds will have their first major test of the year at Oughbred season here Saturday in the $7,500 Queenston Stakes at the Fort Erie Jockey Club.

The 40 nominees for the six-furlong sprint include eight of the candidates for the Queen's Plate.

A notable absentee will be Victoria Park, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto. Canada's best juvenile of last season, he now is being groomed for next week's Kentucky Derby.

Among probable runners Saturday are Doc Shaul, Kennecott, Windy Ship, Prerogative, Hammerhead, Sleepy Dutchman, Toronto the Great, Jerrubel, Mile Master, Hail's My Man, Mr. Play, Windsor, Field and Bagpipes.

Attendance and betting records are being set here.

For the first 14 days of the meet, attendance has been 101,-783 compared with 79,778 in the same period last year. Wagering this year has totaled $5,362,638 compared with $4,200,483 last year.

Royal Win, a Queen's Plate candidate owned by Conn Smythe, won the feature race Tuesday, defeating Admiral Armbro by slightly more than two lengths. Pink Vat was third.

TORONTO (CP)—Nominations for eight stakes races to be run during next month's 36-day spring meeting at Old Woodbine will close at midnight tonight. Completion of a new $1,200,000 clubhouse is being rushed for the opening of Old Woodbine May 9.

Seven stakes will carry purses of $7,500 each and the eighth and final will have a purse of $10,-000.

In other racing news here, it was announced that Mister Jive, owned by Jack Appelbaum, has been retired from racing and will stand at stud at Ken Kelman's Double K Farm at Agincourt.

Winner of more than $175,000 and holder of the Canadian track record of 1:22 for seven furlongs, Mister Jive has had outstanding stake victories on Ontario and United States tracks.

Lakers May Go to L.A.

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association was to expand to the west coast after the formality of a league vote today.

The last big barrier to the transfer of the Minneapolis franchise was hurdled Tuesday night when the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission agreed to lease the 14,000-seat sports arena to the NBA team.

That means owner Robert Short of the financially-insolvent Minneapolis Lakers will take his club west if the rest of the league agrees.

LONDON GETS KATO

LONDON (AP)—Brian London, former British heavyweight champion, Tuesday night floored Pete Rademacher twice in the sixth round and then knocked out the American with a left hook to the body after 15 seconds of the seventh round. The bout was scheduled for 10 rounds.

Lions Lighten Manes, Hides In Spring Training Workouts

VANCOUVER (CP) — He who thrusts lightest travels farthest. Also, say British Columbia Lions, he travels fastest.

And this year, claims general manager Herb Capozzi, the Western Interprovincial Football Union's Lions should go whoosh!

He said Lions plan to reduce the equipment and uniform load of each player by as much as five pounds.

"Not only that, but we've got plans to make that five pounds feel 15 pounds lighter."

During training at Kelowna, B.C., players will wear the heaviest of equipment.

"Then, when they put on the new, light game equipment they'll be flying. If you thought Willie Fleming was fast last year, wait until this season. Whoosh."

Willie may whoosh at Empire Stadium, but at Kelowna he'll be joining other Lions in leg strengthening exercises to get used to the heavy equipment.

They will wear special practice boots with soles twice as thick—and heavy—as those on game boots, and cowhide uppers that may reach the knees of some of the smaller players.

Capozzi and coach Wayne Robinson have their way, the players will also have strings of lead weights around their ankles.

But when game-time comes around it will be a different story.

The backs will wear a new-type, low-cut boot five to six ounces lighter than the usual low-cut. It is called a slipper and is little more than a track shoe with cleats in place of spikes.

They are so light halfbacks are expected to wear out at least two or three pairs a season.

Pants also will be about five ounces lighter, some pads two pounds lighter, and helmets will have lighter, plastic face guards.

While all this doesn't quite add up to five pounds, Capozzi says razor-sharp crew-cuts and close pre - game shaves will bridge the gap.

Phillies Bench Robin Roberts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Manager Gene Mauch of Philadelphia Phillies announced today veteran right-hander Robin Roberts will not pitch during his regular rotation this week. He is being benched until next Monday when he is scheduled to start against Chicago.

Mauch did not state specifically why he was benching Roberts, the winningest pitcher in Phillies' history with 222 victories, but it obviously was because he has been hit hard in his first three starts.

Light Heavyweight Battle Chocked Full of Oddities

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—A scrap for the Canadian light-heavyweight crown vacated by the fallen Yvon Durelle pits Toronto's Gordie Baldwin against hometown hero Emery Patterson this weekend in a match chocked full of oddities.

Promoter Warren (Pee Wee) Berwick passed up the usual eight-time card to set the 12-round go for Sunday afternoon at the 3,000-seat arena in this eastern township community.

The reason:

Ronda in the area are normally top-bound at night this time of the year—restricting traffic—and Berwick is counting on farm people for a good part of the gate.

Baldwin, 24, a Hamilton-born Negro, is a slimmed - down heavyweight making his debut in the light - heavyweight division. He has only six pro bouts under his belt—three wins and three losers.

Emery, a year older, carries a 26-7 record that has fought only once in the last year because of his state of pessimism.

He was stricken while on a British tour.

Both fighters are little known outside their hometowns.

The Canadian Boxing Federation ranks Emery the No. 1 contender with Baldwin second but most observers pick the Toronto-nian to win.

Baldwin was listed as the No. 2 contending heavyweight. The CBF moved him into the No. 2 light-heavyweight spot after his manager Earl (Bully) Sullivan said the fighter had sweated down to 171 pounds, four below the division limit.

Welterweight-Title Fight Develops Half-Dozen Scraps

BALTIMORE (AP) — An announced tune-up fight for Don Jordan 15 days before he defends his world welterweight title may produce more scrapping outside the ring than in it.

It could also get Jordan in trouble with the National Boxing Association if he goes through it. It's rare for a fighter to risk injury in a tune-up so close to a title match.

An announcement Tuesday that Jordan will meet Candy McFarland of Philadelphia in a 10-rounder here May 14 brought these developments:

Anthony Macaroni, president of the National Boxing Association, promised "drastic action" against Jordan if he fights the tune-up. Macaroni said such action could include a withdrawal of NBA recognition.

Jack Doyle, promoter of the title bout, said Jordan's manager had agreed not to have any fights six weeks prior to the championship defence against Cuba's Benny (Kid) Paret May 27 at Las Vegas, Nev.

And Al Flora, Baltimore promoter of the Jordan-McFarland fight, threatened to sue for $1,000,000 if outside "meddling" knocks out his bout.

SUGAR TO FIGHT TOO

Charles Rosenbaum, chairman of the Maryland State Athletic Commission, announced the fight and said Sugar Ray Robinson, former middleweight champion, will appear on the same program in a 10-round bout with Jay Anderson, of Patterson, N.J.

The latter fight is billed as a second tune-up for Robinson's rematch with Paul Pender in Boston June 10 for the New York-Massachusetts version of the world's middleweight title.

Macaroni expressed amazement at the Jordan fight.

"I don't see why in the world anyone would sign a champion for a tune-up so close to a title bout," he said. "We definitely frown on such a bout and don't want it to take place. We won't stand for it."

Promoter Doyle said he doesn't want a "cut-up fighter" defending his title. In his last non-title fight, Jordan was knocked out in the fourth round by Argentina's Frederico Thomson Dec. 12 at Buenos Aires.

The Jordan-Paret fight is set for Friday night television.

Injury Jinx Still Hot on "Sliver" Trail

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Williams was angry. He pounded a fist on the locker door and followed it up with a vicious kick after Tuesday's Boston-New York game.

"Can you beat this for luck?" he growled. "I was feeling great. Best in years. I was just getting in the groove. No aches and pains. I was getting set for a helluva year. I felt it in my bones."

"Then this had to happen."

He pulled a calf muscle just below the back of the knee.

"I should be ready in about three or four days. But that will add up to about 10 games that I'll miss."

It didn't take Ted long to get over his anger. Especially when those two home runs he hit in his fist two games were mentioned.

"If I can only get in there for about two weeks without getting hurt again, I'll really explode. But don't quote me. Let 'em (the pitchers) sleep."

Williams is considering retiring but won't say so definitely. He would have quit last year but his pride refused to let him bow out after he batted only .254.

"When I wake up in the morning and see the sun shining," he said, "I curse up and down. Why can't it rain? I don't want to miss any games. I want to get in there."

Leafs, Royals Win Over Miami, Havana

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League, which has led all the minor leagues in total attendance for the last four years, opens also at Buffalo—its biggest gold mine—today when the 1959 pennant-winning Buffalo Bisons play Richmond.

The Bisons already have won five of their first six games to lead the IL and a crowd of 14,000 is expected to watch the game at Offerman Stadium. However, they could see the Bisons slip into second or third place with a loss because the Montreal Royals and Toronto Maple Leafs are only a half a game away.

Montreal defeated Havana 4 and Toronto won over Miami 8-2 in Tuesday night's only games. The IL drew 1,178,078 last year and Buffalo led all minor league clubs with 413,115.

Babe Birrer gave Havana only four hits Tuesday night, with the Cubans' Leo Cardenas and Borrego Alvarez getting the runs with homers. Joe Altobelli hit his second home run to highlight a three - run third for Montreal, while Chico Carrasquel homered in the fourth.

Jim King hit Toronto's first home run in Miami Stadium since July 24, 1958 to pace the Leafs 14-hit attack against loser Ron Moeller and Harry Byrd. Ron Negray was the winner, with Allen Jones driving in two Toronto runs with a single and Ran Jankowski doubling home two more.

Bosox Manager Bill Jurges Takes Club Popularity Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston manager Billy Jurges, "shocked" by reports of dissension on the club, called his players into the visiting clubhouse at Yankee Stadium Tuesday, before the game with New York.

Jurges said he "asked them to state their gripes. Nobody did. I feel that is the only way to get this thing straightened out.

"I want any player to come to me at any time with a problem. That's how it should be."

A Boston newspaper had said Red Sox players were critical of Jurges' managing in Washington last weekend.

One player, unidentified, predicted Jurges would be out as manager before July 1.

I TAKE POLL

A canvass of the players Tuesday produced mostly denials that anything was wrong. There were several "no comment" replies.

Obe, who asked that his name not be used, said Jurges had become unpopular with the players by his hasty moves, constant juggling of players, and "unsound tactics" on the field.

Others, like Ted Williams, scoffed at the dissension reports.

"It's all a lot of horsefeathers," snapped Williams.

"It's those damn Boston writers again. They're always starting trouble. . . .

"I'll tell you this. In all my years I've been with the club, I've never seen a manager work as hard as this fellow. He's all right in my book."

SAY NEW AGREEMENT

NEWTON, N.C. (AP) — A source within the Western Carolina League said Tuesday the new Continental League has agreed to support the class D WCL this season. The source said the Continental advised Western Carolina's president, John Moss, that directors agreed to support the WCL on a team-to-team basis, rather than the league-to-league agreement which baseball commissioner Ford Frick would not approve.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Arnold Heeney, Canada's ambassador to the United States, has been actively associated with sports—skiing, rowing, football, tennis and golf—in his time.

If it isn't too late, maybe he should have gone in hockey.

The ambassador watched Canada's Ribeboer-Watertos Dutchmen in the Winter Olympic Games in California a couple of months ago and his interest in partisan fans concerning the hassle and the play of the Canadians, differ from those of officials and newspaper men who were there.

They suggest the ambassador missed the point. He thought fans with enthusiastic words in Canada, regarded as the country to beat. But they were doing what comes naturally to most spectators—rooting for the underdog team.

Mr. Heeney says he suffered "curious and unpleasant reactions" when the predominantly American crowd showed signs of hostility toward the Dutchmen who finished behind the U.S. in the round-robin tournament. Canada lost one game, a 2-1 decision to the Americans.

APPEARED UNPOPULAR

"The fact certainly remained when the hockey was over that the Canadian team was by long odds the least popular in the competition," he told I. Norman Smith of The Journal on a recent visit to Ottawa. And he noted there was "a marked contrast between the way the Canadians played and behaved on the ice and that of the teams representing other countries."

The ambassador didn't mean to suggest the players were hatchetmen or bullies or weren't good sports, but he noticed they "played the rough, tough game to which we are accustomed in Canada."

"As a consequence, they collected more penalties than anyone else. They did not refrain from arguing with the officials and expressing their displeasure when dissatisfied with rulings during play.

"In general, I'm sorry to say, they managed to make themselves pretty unpopular with the spectators who, in turn, made little secret of their views . . ."

STAY AT HOME

And he wondered what could be done about Olympic hockey. "If we can't play our national game well by the international rules which apply in the Olympics, I am almost tempted to conclude that we should not enter it at all."

But, Mr. Ambassador, you won't get any possibility of licking hockey mat with timid intentions.

"I'm blindsided," commented Edmonton Coach Bobby Bauer.

"I don't know how much hockey the ambassador has seen. But I don't think he was very observant because I watched games that were far rougher than those we played. And we shouldn't have to apologize for playing our game. I couldn't ask my men to play any less hard than they did and I don't think Canadian public would want us to play any differently.

"As for rigging—well, I didn't approve of some penalty calls and I don't recall any guys making as many of them. I do remember one player asking why he got a minor penalty, saw it a couple way, and he had a disconduct slapped on him.

"We were unpopular? Certainly the crowd cheered for the other clubs, because they are underdogs and we were the big threat to the U.S. That doesn't mean the people in the stands were against us."

CANADA CAN'T HIDE

As for Olympics: "Canada can't go around avoiding the issue. We've got to take part in these games."

Dutchmen Manager Ernie Collins and Georges Dudley of Midland, Ont., secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, agreed with Bauer.

"I don't know where Mr. Heeney has been all these years," said Dudley who was in charge of hockey at the Games. "Despite what he may think of our popularity, it is a fact that European countries are clamoring to get Canadian teams over there each winter."

Wren Blair, who coached Whitby to the world amateur title in 1958 and who was co-ordinator of Dutchmen personnel, was more outspoken: "I'll bet Canadian teams create more goodwill than ambassadors can do."

He added: "If Mr. Heeney had introduced himself to us at Squaw Valley, we would have explained everything to him personally. Where was he? I didn't meet him."

"TOO SENSITIVE"

Scott (Toronto Globe and Mail) Young thought Mr. Heeney was "far too sensitive—more so than he would be if, for instance, we displeased the world in some other aspect of life simply by doing things in our own way . . .

"Quit international hockey? Did England quit international cricket? said Dudley who was in charge of hockey at the Games. "Despite what he may think of our popularity, it is a fact that European countries are clamoring to

"It's Day in Sports"

Mills (Toronto Star) Dunnell had this to say: "The U.S. hockey—as yahtish as a Montreal Forum turnout any Saturday night—cheered against the Canadians because it wanted its Cousins humped off by anybody who could hold them. That was the best assurance of a U.S. victory.

"Canadians—outside the diplomatic power, at least—pulled for a Russian or a Czech win over the U.S.A., so Canada would get back in the running.

DISHEARTENED FANS

Jack (Ottawa Citizen) Rimstis found the ambassador's remarks yesterday interesting, but "unfortunately, I don't concur with his opinion, nor could I care less what impressions the spectators—most of whom didn't know a hockey stick from a shillelagh—took from Canada's so-called defriendly in the circles of international goodwill. . . ."

Len (Kitchener-Waterloo Record) Taylor said Mr. Heeney's comments "make me wonder how much hockey he has seen in recent years."

"He should remember that Canada was the favorite in every game and that it is nothing new for fans to root for the underdog."

Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick agreed that Canada's hockey audiences is probably at the root of any antipathy but he conceded that Mr. Heeney had a point in his criticism of the Canadian style of play.

Canadian teams, he said, are merely playing in the style required of them under the uniform code shared by the CAHA and National Hockey League.

"If the CAHA laid down its own rules it might be quite different and teams might not be at such a disadvantage in having to switch to Olympic rules so suddenly after playing under a different code all season. I have nothing against NHL rules for the NHL but they won't be accepted in international hockey and that's what is under discussion."

"That 'comic, amiable, misfit, moo' stuff may work at the track, but have you'd better ask a driver!"

Racial Troubles Not Likely to Reach Agenda

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON CP)—South Africa's racial troubles will never reach the agenda of the Commonwealth prime ministers conference, a well-informed source said Monday. But he predicted that South African External Affairs Minister Eric Louw will return home "pretty well versed" on the feelings of other Commonwealth countries.

The reason South Africa apartheid won't be discussed openly, said the source, is because every one of the 10 Commonwealth countries must agree on the subjects—and it just won't happen in this case.

"But it's certain to come up in informal chats," he said. "Every prime minister will no doubt tell Mr. Louw how he feels about events in South Africa."

PLENTY TO TALK ABOUT

Apart from South Africa, sources say there will be no scarcity of subjects for the prime ministers to thrash out in the plenary sessions.

British Prime Minister Macmillan is expected to give his fellow prime ministers a complete rundown on events leading to the Paris summit talks—while gathering opinions from his audience. Disarmament and the proposed nuclear test ban also will be considered.

Prime Minister Nash of New Zealand will report on his recent talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Prime Minister Nehru of India, probably will discuss his border dispute with Red China.

Economic problems also are expected to get a thorough going over. One source described this as a "high-powered follow-up to the Montreal economic conference."

Indians Win 2-1 in Overtime As Boston Beats Yankees 7-5; Cards Trump Sad Sam Jones

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

St. Louis Cardinals have at last caught up with old pal Sam Jones. They flattened the big righthander for the first time in six decisions when he tried to dust them off-for real.

Sad Sam, retaliating after teammate Jim Davenport had been plunked by the Cards' Larry Jackson, fired his first pitch behind Joe Cunningham. But after umpire Shag Crawford served a lecture on dusters, Cunningham singled and the Cards were off on a four-run first inning for a 4-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants Tuesday night.

That tripped the Giants out a tie for the National League lead with the Pittsburgh Pirates, idled by rain at Philadelphia in the first postponement of the major league season. Los Angeles Dodgers retained third place, beating Chicago Cubs 8-1 as Don Drysdale cast away his fourth straight complete game and fourth victory with a four-hitter. Milwaukee defeated Cincinnati 4-3 in 11 innings on Del Crandall's home run and a four-hitter by Warren Spahn, who won his first.

BLASTED OUT

Jones (2-1) was rapped for six hits and lasted just two-thirds of an inning. He had been 5-0 against the Red Birds since they traded him to the Giants a year ago.

Bill White, who came to the Cards in that swap, started the scoring with a two-run triple. Then Stan Musial singled across the clincher, Rookie George Maranda. Bud Byerly and Billy O'Dell blanked St. Louis, homeless for the first time this season, on six hits over the final 7-1-3 innings. Jackson (1-2) scattered seven hits for the first complete game by the Cardinal staff.

Davenport was struck on the right collarbone by Jackson in the first inning and probably will miss a couple of games.

DRYSDALE SHARP

Drysdale (3-1) walked just one and had a no-hitter until the fifth inning, when doubles by George Altman and Del Rice gave the Cubs their run. The side-arming righthander struck out 10 for a league-leading total of 33—almost exactly one pace with last season's top total of 242.

Drysdale and Wally Moon, who cracked a two-run double, each had three hits.

Spahn collected his 283d victory with his win over the Reds. A two-out double by Vada Pinson and Gus Bell's first homer gave the Reds two runs in the third inning against loser Jim O'Toole (1-2).

It was a long time coming, but the American League champion Chicago White Sox finally broke loose. They jumbled their slump just one game shy of the cellar behind a pair of overdue guys—Bob Shaw and Al Smith.

Smith, batting a scrawny .138, hit a home run and was 3-5 in a 15-hit outburst while Shaw, battered in a previous start, blanked Kansas City on five hits for an 8-0 victory Tuesday night.

That ended the White Sox' losing string at four. Cleveland Indians, winning their second in a row after dropping their first four, dealt the first-place Detroit Tigers their first defeat, 2-1 in 12 innings. Boston beat New York Yankees 7-5, and Baltimore outslugged Washington 11-8.

The Sox had Ned Garver (1-0) with three in the first, starting with a leadoff home run by Smith, who had only three hits in his first 22 at bats. He's now at .296, adding a double and three singles while driving in two runs and scoring two.

The As kicked in with five errors, giving the White Sox four unearned runs.

BEAT TIGERS

Wynn Hawkins, 24, a right-handed rookie, and Jim Perry combined for a five-hitter against the Tigers, whose run was scored in the seventh inning. Vic Power singled and scored the Indians' first run in the 12th on a single by Johnny Temple, then bought in the winner on a two-out single in the 12th after a walk and Don Dillard's pinch single.

Ex-Indian Rocky Colavito was 0-for-4 for the Tigers, who had won their first five.

The Yankees stayed within a half-game of the Tigers while losing their second—both to Boston's Jerry Casale (2-0). Casale ceded Tom Brewer's relief help for this one, after giving up a two-run, sixth-inning homer by Yogi Berra, who had four RBI.

DRIVES IN THREE

Vic Wertz drove in three for the Red Sox, bringing in two with a single as Boston scored five runs in the third, and then counting the clincher with a sacrifice fly for a 6-4 lead in the seventh.

Jim Gentile slugged the Senators for the second straight day with a three-run homer for the Orioles.

Jim Lemon, rookie Dan Dobbek and Harmon Killebrew, who pulled a leg muscle and will be out from three days to a week, also homered for the Nats.

Canadiens Hog Spots on All-Star Team

OTTAWA (CP)—The first Eastern Professional Hockey League all-star team was announced today from league headquarters here.

Two players from Montreal Royals and Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, plus a player each from Sudbury Wolves and Kingston Frontenacs, were chosen.

There were no unanimous choices on the first all-star team but Jean - Claude Tremblay of Hull - Ottawa came closest to unanimous recognition. He picked up 28 of a possible 30 points. The voting was conducted by the sportswriters and sportscasters in the six league cities. The votes then were combined to produce one team.

Here is the first all-star team, with the number of points accumulated by each player:

All teams but Montreal were represented on the second team announced of:

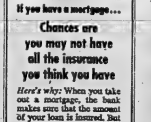
Hurl Fighter Is Improving

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Middleweight Leroy Sayles of Berkeley, Calif., knocked unconscious in his second professional fight, showed rapid improvement Tuesday.

Sayles, 22, formerly of Chicago, was knocked out Monday night in the second round of a preliminary to the Henry Hank-Roy Calhoun middleweight bout.



"Sayles is doing better and he will be all right in a few days," said Dr. Don Lastrello, a California Athletic Commission doctor.

"He is sort of semi-conscious but he responds when you talk to him."

Dr. Lastrello said the Negro suffered a concussion but apparently will not require surgery. He will recommend Sayles' fighter's license be revoked as a precaution.

SIGN COACH

EDMONTON (CP)—CLA WIFU Edmonton Eskimos announced Tuesday signing of as assistant-coach to replace Paul Davis, who resigned three weeks ago. He is Bob Kellogg, 45, a former teammate of Frank (Pop) Ivy, former Esks coach. They also signed veteran end Jim Letcavits.

Rougher Teeps Are Favored to Take Memorial Cup Series

TORONTO (CP)—The underdog Edmonton Oil Kings began packing their bags today for the 75-mile trip to St. Catharines and the opener of the Memorial Cup finals tonight.

Both the Oil Kings and the Teepees are Cinderella teams, but the power-laden Teepees with their rougher style of hockey are favored to take the series.

Leo LeClerc, Edmonton manager, expects the silver coach that took his team to victory over Lethbridge, Flin Flon and Brandon in the western finals is due to turn into a pumpkin.

He would make no predictions except to say "it would be a good series." In a more pessimistic mood Monday he advised hockey writers: "Don't bet on us."

ONE-HOUR WORKOUT

At St. Catharines the Teepees went through a one-hour scrimmage and coach Sam Kaminsky was pleased.

"The team seems to have lost none of its discipline playing 73 games already this season," he said.

He said he had scheduled a players meeting this morning to discuss what strategy his team will use against Edmonton. One of the problems facing Teepees is Cliff Pennington, a former ward who joined Oil Kings after Flin Flon's defeat and played with Kitchener-Waterloo in the Olympics.

Edmonton coach Harry Allen who saw Teepees play twice, was impressed, especially with the high-scoring line of Chico Maki, Vic Hatfield and Ray Cullen.

"I can say of my three lines against them," he said. "And I won't have to worry about my boys checking as much as they will have to worry about us scoring."

SURPRIZE WINNERS

St. Catharines was in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A cellar at Christmas but climbed to a third-place playoff berth. The Oil Kings played all season 12 as Edmonton intermediate loop "before going into the playoffs and also sweeping everybody."

One of Allen's problems will be deciding which of his 21 players to dress. He may be without forward Harry Lund who has torn knee ligaments and veteran Bob Goebel, hampered by a groin injury.

Dug Groom is a doubtful for Teepees with an ankle fracture. He tore off the cast to play in the last game against Brockville and with a sound leg could be a deciding factor in St. Catharines' chances.

Cricket Club Holds Meeting

The Belleville Cricket Club held another meeting at the Recreation Centre last night and announced this morning that plans for the 1960 season are progressing nicely.

The club is entered in the St. Lawrence Cricket League with teams from Royal Military College, Brockville, Kingston and several other entries. Belleville will be represented at a league meeting in Kingston tonight.

At the present time the locals are waiting allotment of a playing field by the recreation committee and will commence practice as soon as it is made available.

Belleville's first league game has been scheduled for May 7.

Arctic Char Wins Special Fishing Award

NEW YORK (CP) — E. T. Asselin's record arctic char won him a special award in Field and Stream magazine's 1959 fishing contest and established Quebec's Finger Lake as the undisputed haven for this big cousin of the brook trout.

Asselin's beauty of 19 lbs., 15 ozs., easily surpassed the previous mark of 17 lbs., 12 oz., set by R. Douglas Perry in 1957, also at Finger Lake in the Ungava district of Northeastern Quebec.

Asselin took his prize on spinning tackle and a smorgasbord lure.

In the magazine's May issue, two other fish from Canadian waters show in the splashing list —a pike of 22 lb., 8 oz., caught by Fred E. Marriott of Merriam, Kan., on a daredevil in Manitoba's Red Lake and a 9¼-pound brook trout taken by Thomas McCormick of North Bay at Blue Lake in the Chapleau district of Northern Ontario.

McCormick's fish, which went third in the brook trout open division announced earlier.

No muskie was included in the spinning awards.

Major B Bowlers Close Season With Banquet

The Major "B" Bowling League wound up a highly successful season last night with a presentation banquet at the Canadian Legion clubhouse.

A delectable dinner was served by the ladies of the Legion Auxiliary and prizes and awards made to champion teams and individual bowlers.

Gord Stewart was elected president for the coming year succeeding past president Dave Batchelor. Also on the new executive are secretary Art Peever and treasurer Charlie Baker.

Ellis Printers, the 1959-60 league champions were presented with the Richard Ellis Trophy, emblematic of the title. The team includes Jim Semark (captain), Bill Rawson, Jim Campbell, Doug Hull, Mickey Moreau, Wilbert Lalhangue and Leo Lucolois.

Dovers Men's Wear team won the Recreation Alleys Trophy donated by the late Tom Pappas. Included in the team are Joe Allen, Johnny Dennis, Cam McKenna, Ron Bunnett, Harry Du Ruahle, "Zit" Kiez and Mark Storms.

Individual awards were presented by outgoing president Dave Batchelor. To Jim Semark went the sweater and Dream magazine's 1959 fishing contest and established Quebec's Finger Lake as the undisputed haven for this big cousin of the brook trout.

GOOD RECORD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Compulsory wearing of mouth guards and helmets in contact sports has taken 720 district high school boys through a whole season without a tooth injury or brain concussion, a Concord, Calif., dentist reported Tuesday. The protective requirement probably has prevented 15 to 20 mouth or tooth injuries and one or more concussions, Dr. Lee Roy C. Winters told the Dental Association.

MINIATURE RACER — Brothers Bruce and Ken Bowler of Red Lake, Ont., have built a miniature racing car that reaches speeds up to 35 mile an hour. The car, powered by a four-horsepower motor, is a conglomeration of odds and ends costing $150. Police refused to license the car because it lacked lights and the wheel base measurements and brakes fell short of the legal requirements. Sixteen-year-old Ken is shown at the controls. (CP Photo).

Plumber's Fantasy' Turned nto Miniature Racing Car

RED LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Broth-ers Bruce and Ken Gowler of Red Lake have turned a "plumb-r's nightmare" into a miniature racing car capable of speeds up to 35 miles an hour.

The boys, sons of a former mechanic in this mining community 80 miles north of Kenora in northwestern Ontario, assembled the vehicle from odds and ends found in the garage, aided by neighbors in a mechanical magic.

The racer consists of old car parts, the steering gear from a model T Ford, a four-horsepower motor formerly used to start diesel engines, wheelbarrow wheels for tires, and scraps of sheet steel and lumber. They figure the total cost at $150.

While the machine has been completed, it has not yet provided the boys with a few difficulties.

NO LICENCE

When Bruce, 19, tried to have the "car" licensed for public travel down Main St. it lacks lights and the wheel base measurements and brakes fell short of the legal requirements.

Because of this, the brothers were restricted to operating the vehicle on a private road near their home on an unused gravel siding weisk.

Their racing is confined to family affairs, with Ken riding as rocker bills and Bruce making the racer.

"I always win," says the 16-year-old Ken, "mainly because it's bike's wheels are bigger."

Their fun has not been without mishap. Ken suffered a broken arm when he got tangled in a pulley while trying to replace a fan belt. A friend was injured in the midget for half an hour aft.r the steering failed as he was driving it down a hill and it hit an obstacle.

The owners' younger brother, Jimmy, also was shaken up when he lost control of the car on their yard and it struck a truck.

REJECT DEMAND

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The racing commission of the International Automobile Federation rejected Tuesday a British demand for the removal of all weight restrictions on racing cars. As a compromise, the commission established a new "intermediate" class of heavy cars, and offered to reduce the minimum weight for formula one cars from 500 to 450 kilograms (1100 to 990 pounds). British automobile manufacturers were given till the end of next month to accept the compromise offer.

Billy Hay Wants to Make Namesake

CALGARY (CP) — Billy Hay was happy to learn that he had been selected for the National Hockey League rookie of the year, but it didn't stop his job-hunting plans on Tuesday.

It was "wonderful" that a poll of sportswriters had given him 138 of a possible 180 points for rookie honors, he said.

The 24- year - old centre with the Chicago Black Hawks is a graduate geologist, so far unemployed for the summer months. Winning the Calder Memorial Trophy and accompanying $1,000 cash, likely to be matched by another $1,000 from the Hawks, won't going to put off his search for a position with some firm until the fall.

Hay was asked what he expected when he reported last year to Hawks from Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football League.

"I figured it would be tough," he said, "but I knew the biggest problem would be to get confidence. We weren't going too well early on and when a club isn't going too well, rookies don't get a chance."

When the chance came, Hay scored 16 goals and 27 assists centering the big line of Murray Balfour and Bobby Hull.

Rate Canadian As Favorite Horse Jumper

NEW YORK (CP)—W. Robert Ballard, former captain of the Canadian national equestrian team, is being raised by horse show professionals as the open jumper rider to beat during the 1960 spring season.

Ballard, 45, who made a fortune through his dog foods business in Canada, paid "more than $40,000" last year for Windsor Castle and has spent the winter training with the bay gelding.

His aim is to win more open jumper championships than any other horseman, and to that end Ballard hired veteran horseman Joe Green as his buyer, trainer and coach.

Married with three children, Ballard lives on a 200-acre farm at Newmarket, Ont., when he isn't following the shows. He captained the national equestrian team from 1951-58.

Professionals first thought Ballard's purchase of Windsor Castle was a mistake, declaring that the "best - jumper ever" was too much horse for an amateur—no matter how good a rider.

The new famedan millionaire won the title at the season's opening horse show at Glen Head, N.Y., with Gift of God and captured one event with Windsor Castle. At the Boulder Brook Show in Scarsdale, N.Y. Windsor Castle took the jumper championship.

Argos Start Spring Training Next Week

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts' rookie head coach Leo Ager will start training camp in mid-May with a return of The Wicked Scheme of Jehal Deeks. But then, just about every other show now is on the brink or dipping into the winter flies, in response to public demand, of course. . . . NBC's World Wide 60 Saturday will be a study of baseball's changes and include an old film of Shakespearean actor Dewolfe Hopper reciting Casey at the Bat. His son is CBS' William Hopper of Perry Mason.

Jack Paar Proves Again He is Excellent Showman

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It's hard to say what Jack Paar is really like, but he has proved again that he's a fine showman when given his head, Tuesday night, for instance, he starred in an hour special—about an hour earlier than his usual late-night show—and it was a smart, bright, and highly entertaining program. The whole show was as personal as a toothbrush. It started with Jack telling pointless tales of his childhood: "We were so poor we didn't have meat—every time I went past the butcher shop I thought there had been a terrible accident." And it concluded with reruns of tape showing his February walkout on his show, and his return.

In between there was a fine comedy sketch by Shelley Berman, Elaine May and Mike Nichols, and some interesting singing by Keely Smith.

All in all, it was a good hour of entertainment.

Speaking of complaints, NBC's Startime temporarily will slip into warm weather garb in mid-May with a rerun of The Wicked Scheme of Jehal Deeks. But then, just about every other show now is on the brink or dipping into the winter flies, in response to public demand, of course. . . . NBC's World Wide 60 Saturday will be a study of baseball's changes and include an old film of Shakespearean actor Dewolfe Hopper reciting Casey at the Bat. Neither Walt Nor Nikita Think Much of Disneyland

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It seems that everybody can enjoy Disneyland except Nikita Khrushchev and Walt Disney.

This was uncovered in my annual survey of the new members that await vacationers there. Although Disney has created the world's biggest toy—costing $32,700,000—he can't get to play with it as much as he'd like.

"Too many people," he sighed. "Naturally, I like to have a place filled with people. But it makes it hard for me to get around."

So he does most of his work for the park at the Burbank studio, where the wonders of nature could be seen in the shops and planning rooms — a mechanical zoo as believable as the real thing. There was a monstrous rattler getting ready to strike; an antler-locked elk in combat over unconcerned cows . . . a coyote that emits a chilling howl and three pigs . . . all busily preparing musical numbers, mallow meadowlarks, etc.

FEATURE ATTRACTION

All these are formed in plastic, stuffed with mechanical innards, to make them move and talk and covered with real skins treated for weather. They will be placed in a $1,800,000 attraction that will recreate scenes in Disney's two-life adventure films.

"We've come a long way in making our animals move," he said. "Now we have ways of recording impulses on tape and running the tape to move the animals electronically. I want to make more use of the area. I found a place where I can have a tiger walk menacingly along the bank as the boats go by."

Disney warned at the start of Disneyland that it would never be finished; his future plans bear that out. Next year he plans a Fair of the Seasons, complete full of 200 dancing figures and a mountaintop of trees shaped like animals.

TO FORM TEAM

LONDON (AP) — John Illingworth, 35-year-old retired naval captain, left London for New York Tuesday to sort out a British-Australian tangle over the next America's Cup yachting challenge. The United States holds the antique trophy, first raced for in 1851. Australia recently challenged the United States to a race in 1962. So did Britain. Only two countries can compete for the trophy.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, April 28, 1949

General Tendencies: This is a very important day to utilize a surprise opportunity that brings you all kinds of unusual opportunities to forge ahead with speed and alacrity by putting into motion the most unique and unusual talents and capabilities with which you are endowed. But you have to accept and do something swiftly or this fine chance may pass you by. Action.

Aries (March 21 to April 19): There is a good opportunity now to take a regular partner to some new place where there is good atmosphere and there discuss pertinent affairs very pleasantly. See that you are dressed tastefully. P.M. have fun at sports.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20): A close tie who thinks along broader lines than you will be able to give fine help that will speed you to advance more quickly and have greater income. Work on them energetically and almost at once. Be broad minded.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Be sure to be in the world of activity early so that you can apprise associates of your ideas for operating more efficiently in the future and deriving greater profits. P.M. correspondence or go out for relaxation and fun.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21): Listen carefully and use that fine, though novel, idea given you by an expert secretly so that you have greater income. Any hurried planning over such an opportunity will cause you regrets in the future. Be smart.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): You have only to express yourself clearly and specifically with the right people to be able to get the backing you so want at this time for constructive ideas and plans. P.M. be a stimulation — intrigue and fascinate others.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Pay particular attention to the advice given you by higher ups in regard to career interests as well as increasing fame. Put into motion quickly, but be very wise in so doing. Think.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): That new information you have garnered can now be utilized very wisely if you will but accept the new methods outlined by a tried and progressive friend. True logic brings great success.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): New methods used in any civic, business or personal activities will bring added benefits and end efficiently today. Stop being lackadaisical — work ambitiously, and increase potential.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Long talks with associates now will reveal new methods or mechanism that can be used so you can mutually have greater success. Later, get out in new places where more can be learned, and seen. Be more receptive.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Much can be accomplished this fine day, but it is best to get pointers and ideas from one of greater experience first. P.M. be kind and courteous to those you love and see the excellent results.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): It is wise to contact early those whom you appreciate the most and plan a wonderful day of activity, whether along creative lines or just to have fun and frolic. This can be one of your happiest days in a long time.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20): Efforts should be concentrated now almost exclusively in the direction of home and family, for therein is the best possibility of happiness and added success. Give more of yourself than you have in the past.

If your child is born today ... The able child born today will have no difficulty turning from one task into another successfully if you early give the right training in spiritual and material matters. Your progress is both ingenious and very down-to-earth, a rare combination, indeed. And while there is great desire to have fun in this nature, appreciation for the finer things of life, literature, etc. is very marked also.

CRASHES BORDER

BAD NEUSTADT (AP) — An East German farmer fled with his wife and two children to West Germany last weekend on a tractor. A Communist border patrol, in a truck, reached Holzsaaten as the vehicle and trailer crashed through the barbed-wire border fence.

TALLEST TOWER?

LONDON (AP) — Soviet engineers have completed a needle-like steel tower in Moscow which they claim is the tallest building in Europe. Moscow radio reported it is more than 1,000 feet high. Paris' Eiffel Tower is 985 feet high. The Russian tower weighs only 300 tons and rests on a steel support three feet in diameter. An elevator takes scientists to a laboratory at the top to make geophysical studies.

Arab Boycott Of U.S. Ships Near Reality

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—All over the Arab world fellow-travelling agitators in labor unions are working full steam for an Arab boycott of United States ships because seamen and longshoremen in New York are picketing an Egyptian freighter.

The boycott, if it develops, could drive a new wedge between the U.S. and Arab countries and give the Communists a new lease on life in the Middle East.

President Nasser, it is reported, does not welcome a new crisis with the U.S., and it is possible Arab picketing would take a merely symbolic form.

As a protest against Arab blacklisting of American ships which deal with Israel, seamen and dockers in New York have prevented the Egyptian freighter Cleopatra from unloading for 11 days. They claim the Arab boycott has cost them jobs.

The Arab Labor Federation says it will start counter-action against all American ships unless picketing of the Cleopatra stops by next Saturday. Workers in some Egyptian ports already have started reprisals.

The Cleopatra incident is not likely to cause the Arabs to drop the boycott of ships that carry goods to and from Israel. But it could have severe consequences.

For instance, Suez Canal workers have threatened to join the Arab boycott if it comes off. Some labor leaders are agitating for a total boycott of all American products and airlines, as well as shipping companies.

If workers refuse to load and unload American ships in Egyptian and Syrian ports it could mean a virtual end to American economic aid to the United Arab Republic. Most American surplus commodities and equipment come here on American ships.

A boycott in other Arab ports might have a similar effect on the aid program in other countries.

Since the beginning of 1959 U.S. aid to the U.A.R. has been at the rate of $130,000,000 annually.

Nasser needs outside help from some source, however, and if American aid stops he may grow increasingly dependent on Moscow.

The union boycott movement in Egypt had Syria's received moral and political support Monday from Iraqi foreign ministry. A spokesman in Baghdad described the picketing of the Cleopatra as "Zionist-inspired sabotage" and "the Arab peoples will stand together in one rank to oppose this aggression."

TO HEAR SUNDAY CASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to look into validity of Sunday blue laws in the United States. For years the court has been rejecting legal cases on the ground they raised no substantial federal question. Monday, however, it agreed to hear appeals next fall from Maryland, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

Rhee's Chief Aide And Family Suicide

Vice-President's Son Kills Self, Parents, Brother

Atonement for Revolt Made in Oriental Style

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Lee Ki-poong, his wife and second son committed suicide today in Oriental atonement for the revolt Lee's election on South Korea's vice-president touched off.

The hours after Lee and his family died in a coffee shop on the grounds of the presidential mansion, the chief casualty of the revolt, ex-president Syngman Rhee, left the president's house in Seoul under guards easy and driven with his Austrian-born wife to a mountainside villa where they took up life as private citizens.

Sentimental, friendly crowds lined the streets to smile applauded him and women wept, in sharp contrast to the bloody rioting which forced the 85 - year - old father of modern Korea to end his 12-year reign.

—Long live Dr. Syngman Rhee —grandfather. Be a friend of the people forever," said a placard hanging from a pole up outside Rhee's new home.

SMILES AT CROWDS

The old man waved and smiled occasionally at the crowds.

Rhee's successor, Acting President Huh Chung, meanwhile named the independents to his cabinet, bringing the new government to nine members. All political parties previously included in the council, charging they were involved in rigging the March 15 elections which named Rhee to a fourth term and Lee Ki-poong to the vice-presidency.

ISSUED WARRANTS

Police Chief Hsia Kyeng-kun issued warrants for the arrest of former home minister Choi Inkyu and 10 others charged with responsibility for the voting frauds.

Huh was expected to announce his cabinet later today and to be sworn in with them. Rhee had named him foreign minister and premier designate and he assumed the acting presidency as the constitutional successor to the president after the old man's resignation.

MONTREAL (CP)—The City of Montreal Wednesday authorized the finance department to make a preliminary steps to float a $28,000,000 loan on the United States market by calling public tenders.

Turkish Student Riots Result In Martial Law

ISTANBUL (AP)—The Turkish government proclaimed martial law today following an outbreak of student rioting against Premier Adnan Menderes.

At least four persons were reported killed as thousands of students broke through police lines around the University of Istanbul and swarmed through the city demanding Menderes' resignation.

The demonstrations were sparked when the Menderes government ordered a three-month ban on all political activities.

About 5,000 students rushed through police cordons around the university and headed for the centre of the city. Forty students and police were injured in fierce fights.

Witnesses said they saw three students and one policeman killed in the crush of the mob at the university. Police said they could not confirm these reports.

CANCELLED TRIP TO IRAN

In view of the developing situation Menderes earlier had called off a flight to Iran to attend a meeting of the Central Treaty Organization.

About 800 refused to go to classes at Istanbul University when they marched down the streets singing the Turkish independence anthem and waving slogans praising the Korean youth who brought down the government of Syngman Rhee this week.

Police reinforcements fired shots into the air, and several policemen were injured by stones. Police managed to shield the students into the university grounds, where they continued singing.

POWERS BROADENED

The outbreak here followed passage of a law broadening the powers of a parliamentary committee that has been investigating the opposition Republican party of ex-president Ismet Inonu.

Established by parliament April 18, the committee is controlled by Menderes' Democrat party.

All political activity has been suspended during the investigation. Under Turkey's strict press laws that have already resulted in the imprisonment of scores of journalists, publication of anything about the investigation is banned.

Ont. Minister Fined $200

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Mackinnon Phillips, Ontario provincial secretary, today was fined $200 with the option of 30 days in jail on a plea of guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

The plea was entered before Magistrate L. L. Pennachetti by Dr. Phillips' lobbyist in the absence of Dr. Phillips, holidaying in Europe with his family.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Sunny weather is expected today over most of southern Ontario while increasing cloudiness is expected in Northern Ontario due to the approach of a weak disturbance from the north.

Ontario's 1960 trout season opens Saturday but many of the province's inland fishing spots will probably still be ice-covered, conservation officers predicted.

brown, Kamloops, rainbow and speckled trout on which the fishing season's biggest opening weekend of the fishing year.

The Ontario ministry of lands and forests says most Southern Ontario lakes can expect open water conditions although many rivers and streams still will be high with the spring runoff.

North of North Bay lakes are generally ice-covered although patches are dim. Only warm temperatures and rain will open them up in time for opening-day fishing. Near Chapleau, centre of a prime trout area 150 miles northwest of Sudbury, lake ice is 18 inches thick.

Lakes in Algonquin Park are either clear of ice or will be by Saturday.

The Owen Sound and Peterborough districts usually rank among the best on opening day's and the region along the east shore of Georgian Bay draws big numbers.

This season the province has developed its seven-inch minimum on speckled trout and any size under 12 inches must be released. It has been changed to 15 fish or 10 pounds, whichever is the lesser.

Rainbow trout on their spawning run out of Georgian Bay are a main attraction. These run to 10 and 12 pounds.

One of the hottest rainbow spots this year should be the Nottawasaga River near Allisson, 40 miles north of Toronto. The fish, averaging two to three pounds, should bite readily.

Defence Dept. Will Sponsor Program

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department intends to set up a training establishment at Elliot Lake to help the model Northern Ontario town survive the reduction in uranium demand, it is learned from an informed source.

The establishment will support 50 families on a permanent basis and draw several hundred trainees.

The source said an announcement can be expected soon, although actual establishment may be some months away.

It also said the government has received at least two proposals from the private industry to locate new or enlarged works in the town or nearby. He declined to reveal the names of the firms involved, since their proposals to government are negotiations with the federal government.

PROMISED STATEMENT

Prime Minister Churchill, cabinet minister responsible for the uranium industry on which the town of Elliot Lake was built, has promised a statement in Parliament soon on the government's plans for the community of 23,000. He and Labor Minister Starr visited there early this month.

The government source said that a chemical firm is considering building a new plant on the shore of Lake Huron, about 20 miles from Elliot Lake, which could serve as a dormitory for the workers.

UN Has Doubled Forces Guarding Korean Border

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress was told Wednesday that United Nations forces guarding the 38th Parallel in Korea have been doubled and that any invasion attempt on South Korea from Communist North Korea would be repelled.

Rep. John J. Zablocki (Dem., Wis.), chairman of the House of Representatives foreign affairs subcommittee on the Far East, reported this after the committee had been briefed privately by J. Graham Parsons, assistant secretary of state for security of the Far East.

Zablocki said the committee were assured that tre Republic of Korea (Rok) army is in excellent condition with no lay respect as the result of political turmoil.

CITY HALL BRAWL — Police were summoned when a board of control session in Toronto erupted into a furore Wednesday. J. E. Frankel, who describes himself as a retired millionaire, touched off the bedlam after the board refused to let him speak on his rejected bid for the city abattoir. Mayor Nathan Phillips waves off Frankel's attempts to be heard.

Toronto Council in Uproar, Threats Hurled Across Floor

TORONTO (CP) — Abuse and threats hurled out at Wednesday's board of control meeting in which J. E. Frankel was refused the lease of the city abattoir were viewed by board members Wednesday night as an amusing incident but a danger to our precedent.

Aldermen Phillip Givens said steps should be taken immediately to protect members from physical attacks. "We say similar attacks on a member is seriously hurt," he said.

Mayor Nathan Phillips, after watching a repeat of the violent session on television, said with a broken grin, "That was a good act."

The incident was touched off by Mr. Frankel, a self-styled "retired millionaire", who was refused permission to speak on behalf of his rejected $1,501,000 bid for the abattoir.

Officials said he had no experience in the abattoir business nor had he evidence of adequate capital resources.

The infuriated bidder refused to take "no" for an answer, and wrestled and pushed against a special constable who tried to control him, calling his brother J. E. Frankel to his assistance.

HAMMERS ON TABLE

When the board tried to continue its business ignoring the din, Mr. Frankel hammered on their table, yelled at the mayor and singling out Controller Dorothy Rungeling, called him a "political back scratcher".

The mayor quietly retired, but Mr. Summerville was sufficiently provoked to challenge Mr. Frankel to a fist fight in the corridor. When this was refused, Mr. Summerville stood off to his office where he said he would take legal action over the insult.

Controller Summerville also insisted on blowing into the face of reporters to prove he had drunk no alcohol before the morning session. Mr. Frankel is alleged.

The reporters all vouched for his denial.

The board approved the lease of the abattoir to S. W. Assaf, owner of a hotel in London, and to his brother, Edward Assaf of Toronto, for $130,200 a year in rent and taxes.

Canada No Longer World's Leading Uranium Producer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has been toppled from its position as the Western world's leading producer of uranium.

An official of Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited said today it has been advised that United States production has fallen to Canada in 1959 by 301 tons.

Canadian production of raw material used to make fuel for nuclear power plants and for nuclear weapons rose by 1,000 tons last year from 13,537 in 1958.

The 1958 output of 13,537 tons was the largest by a Western country, topping America production by 700 tons.

However, U.S. output is 1959 rose more sharply than Canadian production to 16,410 tons from 12,550 the previous year.

Canada also was second to the United States in 1957, Canadian production that year totalling 9,537 tons, compared with 8,405 by the U.S.

The figures have ever been made available by Russia, or its uranium production.

Canadian production is expected to fall further behind U.S. output this year as a result of a stretch-out of uranium deliveries.

Deliveries to the U.S. and Britain under contracts expiring in mid-1962 and mid-1963 will be stretched out until the end of 1966. This action was taken because of the U.S. decision not to buy more Canadian uranium after current contracts expire and to keep a large part of the uranium industry in operation dur-

COMMONS BACKS DIEFENBAKER ON S. AFRICA POLICY

PM Leaves Today For Conference

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, backed solidly by Parliament Wednesday in his avowed hatred of racial discrimination, leaves today for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London and an inevitable discussion of South Africa's apartheid policy.

He goes, he said, with the belief that racial discrimination is the forerunner of tyranny and then of ultimate change by force. He told Canada and the other governments of the Commonwealth assembled in the South African situation by exercising "an influence of moderation" and not by condemnation and rejection or strident.

"I could do the popular thing," he told the Commons. "I could denounce. I could denounce the course of racial resistance. But denunciation of what I hate would not achieve what we desire should be achieved—the ending of a policy that is repugnant. South Africa will be included in the informal discussions of the London conference, opening May 1.

HAS HOPE

He added:

"One of the greatest hopes I have for an ultimate settlement of that South African issue is what drawn itself from the Commonwealth and the fact that it will be represented in London at the prime ministers' conference.

"The changes that the channels of informal communication have not been closed."

Mr. Diefenbaker also leaves Ottawa after hearing the condemnation of South Africa by Leader Pearson—Canada's former Liberal external affairs minister—and Canada's "many drive, herself out of the Commonwealth" if not a choice between her policies and the views of other members.

There must be a change in South African policy, he said.

FORTUNATE CATCH

SEATTLE (AP)—Two passengers aboard cross a street here Wednesday and caught an 18-pound salmon that leaped from a third-floor apartment window. Richard Dickson was the lucky scorer. His rescuers were Richard Taylor and David Fitzgerald. The man who lost Ervin Sullivan, 20, said her daughter, Mrs. Joan Sullivan, "knowing things out of the window."

Macmillan Says Commonwealth Will Survive

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan said Wednesday the peoples of the world must learn to live together so they can avoid dying together.

In this aim, he said, the Commonwealth can play a shining example. It was "easy in logic" to show that such a loose group of nations must inevitably disintegrate, but his view was that it would survive and continue to play a useful role in a world of change.

The prime minister, in relaxed form, addressed a luncheon meeting of the Commonwealth correspondents' Association. After his formal speech, he answered questions on the record in remarkably free-and-easy fashion.

ing a period when the metal will be in short demand.

The Eldorado company announced Wednesday that Canadian production of uranium in the first three months of 1960 showed a decline of 25 tons compared with the corresponding period last year.

5-Mill Increase From Last Year, Budget Passed

Commercial Rate Also Is Increased by 4.8 Mills

Belleville's 1960 tax rate for residential and farm properties will be 84.5 mills and for commercial and industrial properties 91.3 mills, it has been decided by city council.

Council met in a special session late Wednesday afternoon to strike the 1960 mill rate which for residential properties shows a five mill increase over that of 1959. The commercial rate is 4.8 mills over the 86.5 mills last year.

Although the five mill increase will result in an additional tax of about $20 for a home assessed at $4,000, it is possibly lower than was expected by many of the taxpayers. Prior to striking of the rate Wednesday night a 10 mill increase might be anywhere up to 15 or more mills.

But even the five mill increase does not get Belleville taxpayers off the hook. In addition to the current year's millrate there will be a levy to cover the city's floating indebtedness.

This, for ratepayers in the old city limits will be a levy of 16.5 mills, while for properties annexed in 1957 it will mean another three mills.

Alderman William Jarvah, chairman of the city council finance committee, said property owners generally will be better off paying the special levy off in one year or spreading it over the five-year period. Those that choose the time payment method will be debenture charges added.

The city's deficit figure and method of payment is expected to be finalized by the Ontario Municipal Board next week. It will hold a hearing at city hall on May 5th.

The hearing date is almost a year to the date on which the city's financial problem became known in 1959 when it was first estimated that extra city money was being used to help finance the city sponsored, Belleville Intermediate Senior Hockey team, and that the team was engaged in deficit financing.

Part of this year's five mill levy will be used to pay off a 1959 city deficit. Alderman Jarvah said that a rate was actually only 1.8 mills with the other 3.2 mills going to pay off last year's deficit figure.

The city budget this year is week's late as result of council having to await completion of the 1959 audit to determine the city's actual financial position.

Since early in the year council has been holding closed budget sessions with requirements of the various departments closely scrutinized to cut costs to the minimum.

Yesterday, Alderman Jarvah as chairman of finance together with other committee chairmen and department heads were thanked by acting Mayor Lorne McDougall for their efforts in keeping estimates down. All had turned in an excellent job, he said.

GRANTS TOTAL $449,881

The city this year is budgeting for a total of $3,390,874, of which $2,940,743 will be raised by tax revenue. Grants expected total $450,000.

On the expenditure side, education is by far the most costly

'Isn't Much of Our Country Left' Indian Chief Laments at Hearing

SARNIA (CP)—Chief Telford Adams of the Chippewa Indian band at Sarnia lamented to a royal commission Wednesday that "there isn't much of our country left" and when the tribe lost a large part of the reserve in 1956 it wanted to benefit as much as possible.

Chief Adams said he was still trying to get a fair deal more than 30 years after the band reached with Dimensional Investments Limited. The band was to receive a great deal more.

Dimensional Investments purchased 3,100 acres of the reserve for $6,520,946 or about $2,200 an acre. About 1,778 acres of that was sold to the Hydro Electric Power Commission for $1,250,000 or about $700 an acre.

The commission, headed by Chief Justice George Argo McLaren of the Ontario Court of Appeal, acting as royal commissioner.

One of the Indian councillors, Aylmer Plain, took exception to some of the evidence. He testified that his chief and fellow councillors put "great pontils in pockets of other Indians" and "send members" when they stimulated the sale of a major portion of the reserve.

His evidence was contained in a letter written Feb. 17 of this year to Deputy Resources Minister Macauley, second Vice chairman of Hydro.

In a much-quoted statement in the press by Chief Adams that the Indians felt they would have gladly accepted half the $1,250,000 paid to Dimensional Investments if the matter had been made was sheet nonsense.

He called it a vain attempt to cover up "the most colossal blunder in history" and said his supporting councilmen have made"

"The attempt to shift the blame for the Indian's financial predicament on the eve of a band election is a contemptible device," supporters that present incumbents should be returned to office.

The Indian council elections are in June.

"I am perfectly aware that I shall be soundly castigated very soon by the band or others for writing this letter, but I want the band and the general public to know that it was the council who literally pushed Hydro into the waiting arms of Dimensional."

Mr. Plain wrote.

LEAVES AND GRASS CAUSE FLOODING

The persistence of local residents in leaving cut grass and leaves on the streets has led to the direct cause of flooding in many areas after a rainfall, City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull said this morning. Mr. Turnbull repeated an earlier request by his department in asking citizens to please pile their leaves soft cut grass either on the boulevard or at a convenient corner of their lawn and call the department to have the refuse picked up. The phone number to call is Wood-land 5-5255.

Loyalists Will Hold Annual Meet Wednesday

The handsome brick residence erected in 1878 by David Wright Allison, M.P., and prominent citizen of Adolphustown will be the meeting place of members of the Bay of Quinte Branch, U.E.L. Association on the evening of Wednesday, May 5th for the fourth annual meeting and election of officers.

Under the direction and supervision of the Ontario-St. Lawrence Development Commission, which administers historic parks and places along the St. Lawrence Seaway, the handsome home brought about a restoration of this outstanding home of an early period. The lower floor will house a museum containing items which were donated and used by some of our intrepid ancestors, who settled in the Quinte district in the latter end of the eighteenth century.

Close by is the last resting place ol-many of the Loyalists, who accompanied Major Peter VanAlstine leader of a party that landed in a small creek adjoining on June 16th, 1784. This sacred spot was most beautifully restored in June 1956 through the efforts and finances of a group of members of the Toronto Branch of the Ass. The late Mr. Lt. Col. R. S. (Colonel) McLaughlin of Oshawa, whose daughter was the indefatigable head of the committee conceiving and carrying out this project. Her many active assistant, Mr. Harvey R. Pollock passed away earlier this month at his home in Scarborough.

At the May 4th meeting two descendants of the same ancestor of Mrs. McLaughlin and one of the noted Robbin family of Prince Edward, will be elected members of the Bay of Quinte Branch.

Rev. P. Squires of Consecon will display his paintings of Pioneer Days together with his historical comments regarding our Quinte district.

Health Unit Badly Needed In Hastings County Members Of TB Association Told

Hastings County badly needs a health unit, and the benefits which would be derived in safeguarding the health of county residents, would be greatly in excess of the comparative small costs to the taxpayer.

This idea was brought home to approximately 70 members and guests of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association last night by Dr. S. A. Holling of Toronto, director of the Division of Tuberculosis Prevention of the provincial Department of Health.

Dr. Holling addressed the annual meeting in the Hotel Quinte on the topic, "The Value of a Health Unit in Hastings County."

In an informative address, the speaker, who has been a member of the Tuberculosis Prevention Division for the past 11 years and its director since last year, outlined the organization, function, service and costs of a county health unit.

He explained a health unit is "a union of urban and rural municipalities for the purpose of providing a more efficient and sustained community health program through a full time, specially qualified personnel."

The local health unit program would consist of communicable disease control, including tuberculosis and venereal disease detection, maternal, infant and child hygiene, including school health supervision; sanitation in all phases—water, food control, sewage and recreational facilities; education, mental health, oral hygiene, vital statistics and co-operation with other health agencies, he explained.

In addition, the Provincial Department of Health would provide specialist consultative service in public health nursing, dental hygiene, tuberculosis, mental health, nutrition, sanitary engineering, industrial hygiene, and other phases of community health program.

He explained the health unit would function under the local authority of the Board of Health and the staff would include the Medical Officer of Health, doctors, public health nurses, sanitary inspectors and clerical staff.

COST 70 CENTS PER CAPITA

Dr. Holling stressed that since substantial government grants are available to help meet the actual cost to the municipalities amounts to approximately 70 cents per person per year. To operate most economically, the unit should serve a population in excess of 25,000.

He disclosed the total cost of organizing a health unit to serve Hastings County including Belleville and Trenton, would amount to $149,430.60. Based on a total population of 52,017, this would mean a net charge cost of $1.80 per capita, he said.

Provincial subsidies would amount to a total of $81,730.30, including $12,815 for Belleville, $10,885.50 for Trenton and $37,-990.80 for the county.

Belleville's portion of the remaining costs would amount to $38,845, he said. The cost to Trenton would be $10,885.50, and to Hastings County, $37,-990.20. This brings the total costs to be raised by the three municipalities to $87,730.30.

He explained the expense to the county would be less than the present cost of public health service.

Noting 75 per cent of the province is covered by health unit service (there are 33 health units in Ontario), Dr. Holling urged members to promote this idea in the hope a county health unit would be formed.

Dr. Holling was introduced by C. W. Fraser and thanked by George Wilson, president of the East Central Counties Association.

QUESTION PERIOD HELD

At the conclusion of Dr. Holling's address, a question - and - answer period was held, during which it was stressed by County Warden Earl Sager that the idea of forming a health unit must be widely publicized throughout the county before County Council would consider the question.

"If the people of Hastings County want a health unit, and show their elected representatives they want it, they will get it," he stated.

Others who commented favorably on the formation of a health unit were: Dr. William Turpel, M.O.H. for Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington Counties; Dr. Hopkins, medical director of Ongwanada Sanatorium, Kingston; Reeve David; Deputy Mayor Robert Gibson; Alderman Arthur Reid, a member of the Board of Health, Belleville.

Mr. Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School, stressed there is no health service in the city's secondary schools, and consequently the medical records of students are kept by the schools. He said he felt the time has come the county had a health unit, and believed if the idea of forming a health unit was published enough, city council would agree to the formation.

Miss Lowery, regional supervisor of the Division of Public Health Nursing of the Ontario Department of Health, brought greetings from that department, and urged all women's organizations and home-and-school organizations to support and publicize the idea of a county health unit.

Dr. Holling's address drew praise from Mrs. Marjorie Allen, executive director of the Ontario Tuberculosis Association from that organization.

Mrs. Kay Warden Earl Sager brought greetings from County Council and congratulated the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association for their fine work in helping to combat TB.

Chairman for the meeting, president Neal Hallam, welcomed the guests and special guests, and in a brief address urged the association not to relax its vigilance or complacency to creep into the association's ranks, but to continue to work for the eradication of tuberculosis.

In closing he thanked his fellow officers and members for their co-operation given him over the past year.

CHEQUE PRESENTED

Dr. Hopkins, medical director of Ongwanada Sanatorium, Kingston, was presented with a cheque for $1,000 by association treasurer T.J. Association, by president Hallam.

In a brief address Dr. Hopkins noted tuberculosis is still not beaten, and urged Association members to "work hard to prevent tuberculosis from springing up again."

The slate of officers for 1965-1966 was given in by nominating chairman, O. S. Lloyd, and adopted by acclamation.

The new president, Murry Atkinson, gave a brief address and presented the funds donated late past president, Neal Hallam, with a purse-string gift.

During the meeting, following reports were given: secretary's report, Mrs. N. Hallam; treasurer's report, Frank Lang, who noted the organization is in a healthy vent. Committee reports by Mrs. R. Thompson, seal sale chairman, who reported a total of $13,000 collected through the Christmas seal campaign; Murray Atkinson, case finding chairman; Mrs. Key Lapp, rehabilitation and rehabilitation chairman; W. B. Sheffield, health education chairman; and Dr. S. D. Moore, who substituted for tuberculosis adviser, Dr. J. B. McSherry.

Murray Atkinson New President TB Association

Murray Atkinson of Belleville was elected president of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association last night at the annual meeting in the Hotel Quinte.

Mr. Atkinson succeeds A. Neal Hallam who has headed the association for the past five years.

Other officers are: immediate past president, A. Neal Hallam; first vice-president, Mrs. Key Brown; second vice-president, Mrs. R. Wilbur; honorary treasurer, J. Frank Lang; executive, Ontario Tuberculosis Association representative, O. A. Lloyd; also North Hastings district representative, Mrs. Ernie Thomas of Bancroft Ont.

Mrs. N. C. Wilbur was re-elected chairman of the 1965 Seal Sale committee, composed of O. A. Lloyd, Mrs. Mary Lang and Mr. N. C. Wilbur.

Case finding committee chairman is C. W. Fraser, and this committee is composed of Robert Thompson and Dr. G. Brearley (advisory).

The medical advisory committee is composed of Dr. J. B. McSherry, Dr. D. H. Horne and Dr. McColl Metcalfe.

Mrs. Kay Chesson was re-elected chairman of the Public Service and Rehabilitation committee, and members are O. A. Lloyd and Mr. George Whitman (advisory capacities).

W. B. Sheffield of Madoc was re-elected chairman of the Tuberculosis Education committee composed of Allan Lazier and Mrs. Edna Cuff.

Chairman of the nominating committee, O. A. Lloyd, brought in the slate of officers which was adopted unconsiously.

IN MEMORIAM

CHOUINARD. — In loving memory of our dear brother and uncle, Joseph Chouinard, who suddenly passed away April 27th, 1962.

Memories are treasures no one can steal.

Death is a heartache nothing can heal.

It happened so sudden and you were gone.

But we'll always remember no matter how short or long.

—Lovingly remembered by Clover Leaf Chapter No. 67, O.E.S.

Interment Times please copy).

LAWRENCE. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Alfred Lawrence, who passed away April 28th, 1964.

Time can heal all sorrows,
And helps us to forget,
But there is a link death only proved,
How much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to take it,
But never will he know
But what it meant to lose you,
Dear mother.

No one will ever know,
The pain we hide inside,
The heartache and silent tears,
We never have and never will Forget you dear.
—Sadly missed by Blanche, Bert, Ruth and Family.

STAPLEY. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Sam Stapley, who passed away April 30th, 1951.

Dear Sam in our hearts memories,
Death can never take away.
Memories that will always linger,
While upon this earth we stay.
Lovingly remembered by her husband
STAPLEY.

STAPLEY. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Sarah Elizabeth, who passed away April 30th, 1954.

Dear God forgive our silent tear,
A fervent wish our love was here
To hold your hand and say
How much we loved you dear.
Dear God, take a message
To Heaven that will always linger,
While upon this earth we stay.
Lovingly remembered by her husband
STAPLEY.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Investors stayed away from the stock market again today as all sections felt a slump.

Industrials led the general depression, down 1.31 at 487.02 on index, with golds off .22 at 82.19, base metals off .72 at 158.28 and western oils off .18 at 90.72.

The 11 a.m. volume was 378,000 compared to the 310,000 shares traded at the same time Wednesday.

Standard Radio A led industrials lower, off a point at 13. Steel Company of Canada and Toronto-Dominion Bank were off ¼ at 72¾ and 50¾ and Imperial and Royal Bank off ¾ at 40¼ and 67.

On the plus side, Laura Secord jumped a point at 27.

In a losing mines section, Falconbridge led the trend with a drop of ⅝ at 29¼, with Canstar and Ventures off ¼ at 12¼ and 23¾ and Hudson Bay and Noranda off ⅛ at 44 and 38¼.

Consolidated Dis'overy gained 20 cents at 23.63 and Dome moved ahead ¼ at 18¾. In senior uraniums, Algom improved ¼ at 21 and Dehlson dropped 15 cents at 19.45.

Hudson's Bay helped the depression in a lightly-traded western oils section with a loss of ⅜ at 10¼, with Home Oil A off 10 cents at 28.50 and Canadian Husky off five cents at 26.30.

Industrials lost their grip Wednesday.

On index, they dropped .17 at 488.27, with base metals off .39 at 159.01. Golds gained .20 at 82.41 and western oils moved ahead .13 at 90.92.

Final volume was 1,371,000 compared with 1,321,000 Tuesday.

General lost 2¼ at 36 ¾, with Bank of Montreal, Interprovincial Pipe and Simpson's all off ¼ point at 46¾, 36 and 28. Auto Fabrics A and Bathurst A declined ⅝ at 11¼ and 43¾, while Consumers Gas slipped ⅜ at 37½ and Oglivie Flour fell ⅜ at 40¾.

Bathurst Power B and Eddy Paper A parced with two-point gains at 25½ and 65, with Dominion Stores up 1⅛ at 31 and Labatt B and Asbestos Corporation up ¼ at 25¾ and 26.

Cassiar and Hudson Bay both were off ⅝ at 12½ and 44¾, with Kerr Addison and International nickel off ⅜ at 13¾ and 50¼. Dome moved ahead ¼ at 18¾ and Hollinger gained ⅛ at 24¾. Gunnar dropped 15 cents at 28.40, Algom lost ¼ at 10¾ and Denison slipped 1 cent at 19.

Hudson's Bay moved ahead .10½. Central Del Rio gained 20 cents at 24.95 and Royalite improved 15 cents at 24.90, but Pacific Petroleum and Home Oil A both dropped 50 cents at 88 and 80.

item with high schools, public and seperate schools to cost the taxpayers an estimated $1,062,925. Protection services will cost $556,888 and debenture charges, some of which will be recovered, will take another $447,052.

A further breakdown of protection services shows the fire department this year will cost $223,413 and the police department $343,309, both up from last year.

The general rate for residential property is 46 mills, public and separate schools 32.8 mills, and the high school board 14.2 mills.

Alderman Jarvis in presenting the budget figures, noted that all boards and city departments had cut their requirements from the original budget figures presented to the finance committee.

"That goes for all boards, the health department, library board, school boards and the city hall department," he stated Ald. Jarvis.

One item which topped about a mill off the tax rate was the decision of the High School Board to repay, out of this year's budget, the $100,000 debenture issue for the new administration building. The original intention had been to raise the entire cost of the structure this year, the city's share of which would have been an estimated $42,000.

The assessment on which the city tax rate is based this year is $27,995,272.

Council was assured that the city tax department would proceed with all speed in getting out tax bills.

Easter Party For Retarded Much Enjoyed

An Easter party, prepared by the recreation committee of the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children was held at Bayview Victoria public school where the special classes are held for the 18 children.

The cute little Easter Bunny (Debbie Ladybrook) arrived, gave the children chocolate Easter eggs with their names on, and sang a song. George Coulombe, a retarded young adult also sang and played a tune on his flute.

Visitors from Zellers' Ltd. arrived with Easter eggs for the children.

The school children sang some Easter songs for all their visitors.

Refreshments of a decorated Easter cake and Pepsi-Cola drinks, courtesy of the Pepsi-Cola Co. Ltd., were served.

Mention was made of children attending the all-day class received Easter gifts from the trustees of the Engineers' Hall. The afternoon class for retarded children is held at the Engineers' Hall, Pine Street. Mrs. C. Gibson, who has received a certificate for successfully completing a summer course in the teaching of retarded children is in charge of this class.

THRILL OF A LIFETIME — Bobby Hull, top scorer in the NHL this year, special guest at a banquet held Wednesday night in the Glen Miller Hall for the Trenton Pee-Wee Flyers, presents Tommy Glover, captain of the Flyers, with a trophy. Each member of the team received a trophy. Tommy holds the cup he won as high scorer on the team.

Probation Officer Outlines Special Plan to Chamber

TRENTON — Dennis Atkins, Trenton probation officer, addressed members of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night and outlined a province-wide sponsored project to encourage boys of 15 and 16 to continue their education.

The plan provides an apprenticeship system whereby local firms will offer a 33-week course with minimum pay to young men wishing to learn a trade. Following the course, apprentices will spend several weeks at a trade school in Toronto to complete their training.

Ben Kroeer, Douglas Whitley and Mr. Atkins will explore the plan more fully and report to the chamber.

A 12-point program of activity designed to promote industry and business and to make Trenton a more pleasant place in which to live, was outlined to the directors by Mr. Whitley, provincial president of the Chamber.

Mr. Whitley proposed that Chamber members devote themselves to an all-out program to attract new industry to the town. H. B. Smith, secretary-manager of the Chamber, reported that he had received several inquiries about suitable sites for industry.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM

Part of the program is aimed at making the lot of the local merchants a happier one. The Chamber will work for better relations and ways to advertise and encourage co-operation on such points as store hours which will be suitable to all concerned.

The householder has not been forgotten. Chamber members will encourage residents to be proud of their community and to take an interest in beautifying their homes.

A committee was appointed to seek scholarships and bursaries for Trenton students. The committee will work towards this end in co-operation with the Board of Education.

Proposals will be made to the Community Gardens commission that an annual trade fair be staged in Trenton.

Efforts will be made to promote close liaison with members of parliament in this area so that Trenton will receive as much benefit possible from new legislation.

The Chamber will promote plant tours to acquaint Trenton people with items manufactured in their town. A speaker's system will be worked out with service clubs and other groups to avoid duplication of projects and the time.

The Chamber will undertake to publicize the Quinte Highland Pipe Band. The Band and trail junior pipers from 12 years

It was decided that the Chamber of Commerce would sponsor a tourist booth to promote the town generally, and acquaint tourists with accommodations, eating places and area facilities for sporting activities.

It was decided that as well as examining the merits of the appreciesship plan, as proposed by Mr. Atkins, the Chamber would encourage students to stay in school where their ability and family conditions warranted.

DDGM Ralston Confers 1st Degree on Nine

Ideas, Not Guns, Used for War Says Speaker

TRENTON — While the West has been sleeping like Rip Van Winkle, Russia has become the most powerful nation in the world, Countries like India, and the continent of Africa have awakened and are now forces to be reckoned with.

This was the gist of an address made by the Rev. J. T. Irwin to the Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club Wednesday night.

Mr. Irwin said ideas instead of guns now are being used to wage war. He said that by defeating the communist armies one could not be defeating communism because communism was nothing more or less than the rejection of God.

He urged club members to be members of a "minority" group which acknowledges the sovereignty of God, and to uphold Christian ideals in the modern world.

Mr. Irwin was introduced by Kay Harkness and thanked by Mary Thompson.

Preceding the speaker's address the members of the club presented a "Hat Show" with each member wearing a hat of her own design. The styles in headgear varied from the ridiculous to the sublime. First prize was won by Mabel Reid who wore a creation composed of aluminum foil and trimmed with hors d oeuvres. Second prize was won by Isobel McCrodan with a hat decorated with flowers and birds. Alice Wilson was third prize with her creation of type chapeau and Marion Baker was given a prize for the most intriguing hat. Judges were Miss Bessie Blackledge and Mrs. Jordan.

Any boy's copy deadline meeting last night all indicated their intentions of entering. Nowever only one team, the Deseronto Athletics, turned over the $25 entry fee at secretary Blaind's.

As a result the entry deadline has been extended until Sunday, May 8. A meeting has been scheduled for the following night, May 9, at Moira Street Fireball at 8.00 p.m.

At the beginning of last night's get-to it appeared that all business might be cleared up. All six teams, Bayside Bobcats, Belleville Sports Centre, Trenton Italoran's VW's, RCAF Flyers, Trenton Legion and Trenton Athletics, were represented.

However it soon became apparent that things were not quite as rosy as they looked. "Chuck" Mattinson, coach of the Bayside club that the Merchants would be in but at present time do not have their entry fee. He also said that he was not definite at this time just what players would be on the club.

Flyers' reps asked for and received an extension until May 9 to submit the entry fee. But at this point Sports Centre representative Bill Shaw asked that Sports Centre be granted the same length of time to officially file entry.

Slightly taken back by the change of events, and with Mr. Deseronto spokesman the only one waving his fee, Secretary Manager Harry Morgan and Blaind called for a vote on the deadline extension. The vote was that the May 8 deadline and that was that. Deseronto still died entry and the RCAF announced that that club's entry fee would be in Blaind's hands soon.

Other business was also on the agenda. Nick Nelli, president of the Cobourg club last year, was appointed vice-president of the league for the year.

The question of postponed games was brought up and after much discussion it was decided that teams involved in a postponement must play the game within seven days or a date would be set by the league secretary. Failure to do would then have to play on that date or the game would be thrown out of the schedule.

Playing rights were brought into the discussion. Belleville Bayside stand now both Belleville teams will be eligible for Belleville Minor for home games. Trenton games will be scheduled for Thursday, Deseronto Friday, and Sunday Saturday.

The possibility of Cobourg playing away games in Deseronto on Saturday nights and Trenton playing in Deseronto on Sunday afternoons was brought up because of the travelling distances. Deseronto is experience-

Province Might Help Develop Zwicks's Island

Some time ago, when the first session of the 26th Legislature of Ontario was considering Bill 89, "An Act to provide for Financial Assistance to Municipalities to Establishment of Parks," the Ontario Intelligencer in a report that local Parks Board officials were not interested in this bill. Their reason—the city already had adequate park areas awaiting development and the bill provided for financial assistance mainly in the acquisition of land.

We now find that this ain't necessarily so, although at is necessarily so is somewhat harder to determine.

We have just received a copy of the bill and a mimeographed letter carrying the signature of W. M. Nickle, Minister of Planning and Development, in which Mr. Nickle suggests "that you study it in provincial and if it is of interest in the establishing of municipal recreational facilities for your municipality would you communicate directly with me." This question of communication, though, seems to us to be strictly a matter for the Parks Board and we are merely taking this opportunity to call the attention of officials of the Board to the fact that, unless the real purpose of the bill is even further hidden in verbiage than appears to be the fact on first perusal, "the Minister . . . may make grants . . . for any municipality to assist in" not only "the acquisition of land for an approved park" but also for "the development of an approved park."

Just what is "an approved park?" Well, according to Section 1, sub-section d, of the Act, "approved park" means a park approved for assistance under this Act." But in case this doesn't help you — and we admit that it are inadequate — the bill provides a short and adequate clarification—some light may be shed by section 2, which states that "The parks established under this Act shall be maintained and operated for the use and enjoyment of the public in such a manner as will be complementary to the use and enjoyment of provincial parks."

This is the first, but not the last, time that reference to "provincial parks" occurs in the Act, but we are quite to say that no attempt has been made to define the "provincial park" in the same lucrid manner as was done with the "approved park." We are not certain, therefore, whether "provincial park" within the meaning of the Act refers to a park which is provincial in name as well as in fact, or whether it includes parks which are operated by the Ontario Department of Highways but not dignified with official recognition as provincial parks. If it is an approved park operated by the Department of Highways parks, all that would be necessary would be a couple of picnic tables. Almost every municipality could benefit. But if, as we suspect, parks will only be approved when they complement those parks which go by the name of provincial parks, then something more extensive and ambitious than picnic tables is called for.

It just so happens that Belleville, after close to a decade of transforming its garbage into an ideal waterfront property, by the sanitary fill disposal method, may give in Zwick's Island one of the comparatively few municipally-owned areas which would qualify for consideration under this bill.

If it does, and if we read the bill aright, the province is prepared to pay half the cost of its development, up to a maximum of $50,000. To complement the use and enjoyment of provincial parks, Zwick's Island might be provided with a camping ground, although we think that this is essential. Perhaps with proper marketing its sewage, medical health officers will not find necessary in the future to prohibit swimming in waters west of the Bay Bridge, although algae, rather than sewage, have been primarily responsible for pollution in the years. We read the other day that on some of the Florida keys sand bores are "rapidly" importing loads of sand. Perhaps the relatively sheltered position of Zwick's Island would result in sand staying put longer than it does when Atlantic storms sweep the Florida coast. And, with the province as a partner and with the Sandbanks as one provincial park, an adequate supply of sand would be handy. All this may be daydreaming, but it would appear as if Bill 89 of the first session of the 26th Legislature of Ontario is worth a second look.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

NOT GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE

An English churchman, Dr. Oman, criticizing the too easy American attitude toward divorce, said in a public address, that some of the American states seemed to be operated on the point of "incompatibility of temperament." Why! That is the object of marriage!"

Think about this for a moment. The realistic clergyman maintains that the object of marriage is to bring together people of such profoundly different temperaments that character will be developed in learning how to get along with each other.

This may seem a grim antithesis to the love marriage. Most people take a sentimental view of the ordinance, and thousands a happy brides and grooms have the altar confident that all their personal problems have now been solved because they have found their beloved will live happy ever after.

Well, it is to be hoped that they do. But anyone who thinks that marriage automatically confers a clothing of adolescent sentimentality for fifty years or more is due for a rude awakening. There is plenty of incompatibility even in the happiest of marriages. The compatibility of temperament in marriage is not a ground for divorce becomes for many people a challenge for uplifting marriage the greatest and most profitable adventure in life.

'Over 90, Things Rattle'

BBC London Letter

"Why do you refer to an engine as "her"—or "she?" Well, because they're temperamental, you've got to coax them, and you love them." Crack locomotive driver William Hoole must have stirred memories in many middle-aged hearts with these words when he spoke in a recent BBC broadcast about the career that used to be the ambition of almost every boy, electrification and diesel-driven engines spelt the end of the heyday of the steam locomotive.

William Hoole, who retired recently after fifty-two years' service on Britain's railways, began his career at the age of fifteen as a five-shillings-a-week messenger at Liverpool in 1907. Soon he was driving as a guard caller-up his first handled the regulator of a small donkey engine when cadging rides on one of the "locos" going from the docks. "From then on wherever there was steam, I was interested." A cleaner at seventeen, a fireman at eighteen, "picking up knowledge and experience," became a driver eight years after his return from service in the 1914-18 war.

Patience, and learning to work in harmony with the engine, the train and crew was the secret of a successful run, William said. Of course, a driver had to have a profound road knowledge of the countryside, to be certain every rhythm on the road as well as the rhythm of the locomotive. Almost every rail had its own tune and registered a kind of "personality" in the mind which is almost indescribable. I always knew when the rails were colder there was water underneath, or when there was ice, points, level crossings. Unusual features in a woodland, over a fen, would tell me at once that I was different formations of signal or telegraph wire alignment. Then as you build up for your sixty-five, seventy, eighty miles an hour—and in the nineties, you'll get a different kind of rhythm. The engine and you both begin to rattle. They registered that little bit of extra vibration and they registered in the whole frame, and so long as you were in sympathy with everything you felt quite comfortable, and you'd come right through the silky, serenely, eighty, ninety all in rhythm and just hoping that you could keep on and on at it."

"It wasn't high speed for speed's sake which I loved the most," Hoole explained, "it was the exhilaration I often experienced with the heavy train behind us and the vibration of the whole locomotive at high speed. During the First World War I was my pleasure to ride an Arab steed . . . and that's the feeling I have had sitting in the saddle of a thoroughbred and sitting on the seat of an A-4. I felt as though I'd got a thoroughbred, and there is a common understanding between man and horse, and between man and locomotive."

As an old hand, Hoole regretted the loss of the different personalities and traits of the different companies when railways were nationalized. "Also there were individual and very lovely different notes. I've stood at Crewe and Willesden Junction, Chepham Junction and York and listened to the different sounds and I've been gone through at night, and next day identified that it was a certain type of engine and been proud of the fact that I had been able to recognize the note."

William Hoole ended his career with special runs at over 100 miles per hour on his beloved A-4. Having driven many expresses a hundred I was able to produce another and she still had a lot in her. Incidentally, that was the first time an engine had exceeded three figures three times on the one round trip."

"I'm so hungry I could eat vegetables!"

Assured of three teams, the annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Baseball League will be held in Napanee on Tuesday night. One new club will be represented, the Kingston Ponies, while the RCAF "Flyers" and Picton intermediates of the 1939 league roster are expected to return to the fold, with Napanee Gibbards definitely out and Tom Lake, manager of the team, the score being 2169 to 1691. The following were appointed the teams: Yard team—Mills, Stapleton, Forbes, Rose and Laporte. Power team—Howell, Hart, Hurley, Ferguson and Meagher.

The Canadian Northern Railway and its proposed route through the city was discussed at a meeting of the city council last evening at which the Board of Trade was represented. The feeling of the majority of those present seemed to be that the C.N.R. should be given every reasonable inducement to come into Belleville with the understanding, of course, that the interests of the city and the safety of its citizens be properly protected. It was also, however, that the route will follow the bay and that the crossings will be level.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

GLACE BAY, N.S.

A town on Cape Breton county, centre of a large coal mining area, also the site of a Marconi receiving station. The name is taken from the French word "glace," meaning ice, in allusion to the presence of ice in the bay during much of the year.

Noise of Jets Plagues Many

Fort William Times - Journal

Now that passenger jets are taking to the Canadian domestic lines, the take-off noise is going to plague a large number of airport-using citizens who live in the neighborhood of airports. Airline operators have a distinct problem on their hands in this connection.

Over in London, England, some 60 residents of streets near the airport have asked the British Transport Ministry at his home. They called early in the morning, just before the jets zoom past and dressing gown, unshaven and tousled-haired, the minister listening to complaints about jet noise, for half an hour. He finally rid himself of the unexpected guests by promising them he would see what he could do to lower the noise of the jets.

Sad to relate, the minister set himself a task that has stymied the efforts of engineers for some time. It may be several years before the "bug" can be eliminated.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Strictly Personal

Neither Vanity Nor Conceit Are Identical

By SYDNEY-J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

The past is no reliable guide to the future, because when new evils appear they always wear the disguise of new goods; and when old evils survive they always masquerade as "necessities."

The hardest part of choosing a name for a baby is picking one that is fit-for-a-king woman, but easy-to-call-across-the-street child.

Another instance of the ways in which words and phrases degenerate: "raising the roof" originally meant a neighborly and co-operative venture, but now it implies a boisterous brawl that might prompt the neighbors to call the police.

Fashions, as with people, those that please us most easily are the most ephemeral; they do not wear well; and those difficult to approach are often most rewarding in the long run; thus, it is wrong to lay down a book because it bores us on the first reading.

When something perplexes us, it arouses our fear; and this fear, in turn, makes us hostile; and this hostility often displays an irrational anger toward whatever they call "obscure"—the real explanation of this simplicity that really explains nothing.

Each class has its own peculiar follies that cannot be understood by an outsider; as William Faulkner observed: "The petty economies of the rich are just as amazing as the silly extravagances of the poor."

"Vanity" and "conceit" should not be confused indistinguishably, as they usually are: the vain man wants others to think a lot of him, because he really thinks so little of himself; the conceited man thinks a lot of self-esteem that he doesn't care what others think, most of us are vain, which is merely laughable; but few of us are conceited, which is diabolical.

It is not true that necessity is the mother of invention; more important discoveries have been made by societies with leisure than by those who were necessitous.

Only shallow people think they really know themselves — and perhaps they do, if there is little to know.

When action becomes an end in itself, it becomes an evil; words that are ends in themselves.

South Africa Police State

Vancouver Sun

South Africa seems to be moving beyond racism and very close to the Gestapo mentality.

New "security" regulations were issued in Pretoria last week governing persons suspected under the Public Safety Act. According to the Minister of London, they provided that:

"No person so detained shall receive visits from any person including a legal adviser, except with the permission of the officer in command of the place of detention in consultation with the police officer.

"There shall be no communication in any form whatsoever with the outside world except with the permission of the authorities.

"No detainee shall receive newspapers or other literature containing political news, and no magazines or books; except that Bibles, sent by relatives or friends, shall be received by the officer in command of the place of detention on behalf of any detainee".

Further, the regulations set out a long list of "disciplinary contraventions" for which the detainee can be punished, if found detained. They include "disrespect towards a member of the South African police," and "whistling or making an unnecessary noise," and "conversing without permission".

In the hearing of charges of such "contraventions", legal representation of an accused person is not permitted except with the approval of the officer in command of the place of detention, after consultation with the local police".

It was just such a path that Nazi Germany followed to its logical end in the gas chambers and the cremation ovens. Also in self-destruction.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.
PARADOX OF ULCERS —TREATMENT KNOWN, CAUSE UNKNOWN

One of the strangest things about stomach ulcers is that while we know how to treat them we don't know what causes them.

This phenomenon is close to being the exact opposite of most of the things which interest us in healthwise. Usually we don't know much about treating an illness until we find out what causes it.

So that is why an article in the Journal of Diseases of Children carries such interest. The Journal is one of the several publications of the American Medical Association.

The article, by three University of Chicago physicians, Drs. Roberto Hernaz, Joseph B. Kirsner and Walter L. Palmer, contends that such ulcers (called ulcers of the stomach itself or of the connecting duodenum) should not be considered rare because they are discovered in children.

Several years ago it was pointed out by experts in this field that children even babies, sometimes were discovered to have such ulcers, and when I say "babies", I mean babies in arms. There are occasional cases when such ulcers have been detected even before the baby is born.

The probability is that these cases are rare, but regardless of the only the exceptional cases which the condition could be discovered or suspected. And that is very young baby cannot point to the spot where it has a stomach ache. And since the presence of an ulcer (an child so young is uncommon) is the first thing that is very often suspected of having in the stomach, the symptoms by which more often are responsible!

However, the University of Chicago study of adults with ulcers shows that almost 90 percent of them had symptoms in childhood (as young as four years old) which fitted the description of gastric or duodenal ulcer. This doesn't mean that they had ulcers, but it is a reasonable supposition.

We can be sure that ulcers in such little ones weren't caused by "the pressure of business and affairs", and they weren't caused by liquor, or smoking, or eating too-highly-spiced foods, for we know what caused them.

But what use is this information to us? Just this: While we don't know what causes such ulcers, we do know that if we avoid the things which irritate them, we have a very good chance of letting them heal. Or at least of preventing the further degree at which they don't annoy us.

After all, what is an ulcer? It's a sore. And if we can, calm the nerves, avoid eating highly-spiced foods, quit smoking, quit drinking at a minimum, perhaps use medications which prevent the stomach acidity from being too vigorous, the ulcers have a majority of cases of not bothering us.

So — in this case don't say you can't stop smoking, or you can't stop drinking, or you can't stop eating. Just go along with his best advice the doctor can give to keep the ulcer from bothering you.

Says Ironing On Way Out

St. Thomas Times-Journal

According to an authority of fabrics who is associated with Canadian Industries Limited, there is a revolution in the making in the field of fashion and if it develops there is a strong possibility that the next ten years most clothing will not require ironing.

We don't know how much a statement will be taken by the family men and women of automatic ironers but we can almost hear a cheer from the great majority of those who use the traditional ironing methods.

Dame Verna Hunter, the fashion co-ordinator of CIL, explains that the construction of fabrics, the finishes put on them and their combination with natural fibres has already produced skirts, dresses, shirts, blouses and other items of clothing that need little or no ironing.

This is made possible she says, because the fabric either doesn't absorb water but sheds it like it is made from a duck's back. These synthetic fibres also do not swell or become distorted by moisture as natural wool. Some garments will not wrinkle when they are washed. At the same time, in permanent pleating the synthetic fibre is bent into shape at temperature and will hold its shape when cooled.

If this technique can be perfected—and the fabric could have its wonderful qualities—a delicate garment would be placed in an automatic washing machine—including dryer, and eventually placed on the hanger without causing regret to the audience watched. The models then went through the audience so that the guests could have an opportunity of examining the fabric concerned by touch as well as sight.

If such techniques are being developed in Canada we can see the possibility of a revolutionary upswing in the fabric

TODAY'S TALK

TRACKS BEHIND

The expert lover of the ways of Nature has what might be called a sixth sense in regard to the life and history of animals and birds. They leave tracks in the snow and the soft earth.

Longfellow liked to refer to Nature and wrote of the "tracks of Time" as being related to the tracks behind.

I have walked with lovers of Nature and they have called my attention to the tracks of certain birds and animals. It is an interesting study. These tracks tell a story of their own. The tracks of birds are like the small designs left by a sewing machine.

Nature leaves her signature on the snow and on the wet printers. The story of millions of years is seen in the many fossils of plants and animals long ago.

The thoughts of men and women are pictured in every book that is read. There are tracks behind. Every biographical book is the story of man's tracks behind. Naturalists like to study the many tracks — sunprints, as they call them — that are left by the sun. Little wrens write the story there of itself.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Some time ago, the Packsack toyed with the phrase "red tape" and, understandably several readers have sent in genuine authentic samples of the red tape used by different governments in tying up documents and official papers of all kinds. One sample came from Ottawa, two from England, two from Washington and one from Argentina.

In the first place, red tape is not red, but a sort of washed out pink color. This was characteristic of all of them, regardless of their source. They were of varying widths but averaged about an inch to a little under half an inch, but all had a cheap, cotton feel to them, and when it is said and done all were little more than a flimsy sort of pink string.

All those who sent red tape to the Packsack admitted to having personally measured and since and had collected the samples as souvenirs. And all admitted that the red tape had, to some extent and possibility excitedly, been abandoned.

New and improved material has taken the place of red tape. It may now be cellophane, or Scotch tape, the sticky kind.

One thing to be said about red tape: it wasn't sticky, like the new and improved kind. It is that the official would appear to be using now. Copyright: Canada

Dr. H. Craig Again Heads Safety Council

Dr. H. Craig was re-elected chairman of the Quinte District Water Safety Council at a meeting of the Council held Tuesday evening last at the Belleville YMCA. Also elected to the executive were Mr. Don Hickson as vice-chairman and Miss Pat Featherstone as secretary.

The council, which included representatives from the YMCA, the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts, the St. John Ambulance, the Belleville Fire Department, the Belleville Harbour Commission, the Kinsmen Club, the Belleville Recreation Commission, the Navy League and Royal Canadian Sea Cadets, the Aqua Mariners, the Sportsmen SCUBA Heildivers, the Belleville Red Cross, the Ontario Provincial Police, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the District Examiners Association and a number of industries, discussed a number of problems.

Among the problems discussed was the organization and fulfillment of a program whereby pamphlets on water safety would be distributed amongst schoolchildren before their summer holidays. Some discussion also centred on the showing of water safety films to the public and how such an undertaking might best be implemented.

Water safety week and the type of program which might be used was also talked over. The local recognition of the need for water safety will be synchronized with the Red Cross national water safety campaign.

Some discussion also centred on the possibility of forming a district SCUBA diving association which would act as a central voice and representative for all the skin and SCUBA diving clubs in the area.

Council Names Bus Committee, Three Members

The city of Belleville will officially buy the bus business this weekend.

Purchase by the city of the Rawson Bus Lines has now received final approval of the Ontario Municipal Board and that city will take over operation of Belleville buses on April 30th.

Paving the way for the city's entry into the transportation business, city council yesterday appointed three members to a transportation commission who will direct the operations of the city bus lines.

Named to the commission were T. E. Schwab for one year; Kenneth Linder for two years, and Sid Silltoe for three years. The commission members were appointed by council on recommendation from the special bus committee with the chairman Alderman Ben Corke.

Purchase price of the Rawson Bus Lines agreed to by the city was slightly over $42,000, while the city will also rent Mr. Rawson's garage for a minimum period of two years.

Music Society Concert Band Makes Auspicious Debut Here

By EUGENE LANG

The newly formed Belleville Music Society Concert Band made its debut before hundreds of listeners last evening in the Collegiate Auditorium. This group of about twenty-five musicians under the capable leadership of Mr. Clifford Templer was gleaned from various musical organizations in this city, including, besides members of dance bands, former members at one time or another of the Belleville Municipal Band. Practising since the beginning of this year, these players have one thing in mind, the promotion of good music and the joy of seeing the individual and collective qualities of all contributing reaching a higher standard of musical aptitude on their chosen instruments.

The nervousness that is usually so apparent when any new group makes its initial appearance before the public was lacking here, as so many of the musicians have performed publicly for so many years in one media or another. Thus, when Mr. Templer raised his baton for the opening number, "The Trumpeters" by Leidzen, the brass right sounded forth with gusto in the opening measures, the rest of the band members following suit upon their respective cuings. This lack of nervousness on the part of the players resulted in a higher degree of projection in the many numbers given.

Many selections that were not of the first popularity and appeal were played, including selections from "La Boheme" of Puccini, "Manhattan Tower" Overture by Jenkins, Londonderry Air and a potpourri of melodies from Offenbach. Two Leroy Anderson favorites, "China Doll" and "Belle of the Ball", along with the "On the Trail" of Grofe, formed the full band's section to a close. In all these numbers a closeness of attack by the different sections of the band was noted, along with a fluency of style by the leads. Cornets at times were overpowering and symbol crashes were shattering —the loning down of these could lend better balance. Orchestral bells were used with success in some numbers, but lent nothing to the Londonderry Air in their additive embellishment. More reeds could be used and it is likely that more will be added in future.

The rhythmic and tonal properties of the band were shown with full effect in the three popular numbers that were played under the baton of Larry Brown. In two of these numbers an added percussion and rhythm section was used, but with more information than subtle shading. Judgement was mellow in their phrases, when heard.

THREE SOLOISTS

Three soloists added to the enjoyment of the concert, with each one turning in first rate performances. Mr. J. Burchill was superb in his trumpet triple tonguing in his solo offering and did not hesitate to come through with the goods demanded of him in his rendition.

The young and charming coloratura soprano, Patricia Downie, added laurels to her musicianship in her vocal artistry shown in each of her four selections. This young singer has a lovely voice that spells its way into one's aural sensitivities. She showed command of her voice that makes the most of every nuance and timbre in her voice-class. The difficult "Bell Song" from Lakme by Delibes was a challenge that was nearly met in all respects, while her "Summertime" by Gershwin was utterly compelling. Pianist James Rose provided enthusiastic obbligatos in "The Russian Nightingale" by Alabieff. Mr. Templer accompanied very suitably on the piano.

Belleville's musical virtuoso of the keyboard, Gregory Sauter received accolades after each of the four numbers he played. Gregory has come a long way since Sauter was last heard him and we hope that some day he will concertize widely. With techniques to burn he used his interpretative powers to advantage in both Schubert and Chopin opl. All four works were given excellent readings, but the Scherbert Impromptu seemed too fast and overly hurried at times.

Finally —a wonderful evening of musical enjoyment —more soon.

Holy Rosary C.W.L. Blossom Tea Dainty and Successful

Pale pink poinsettia flowers with satin-white leaves accented a pink lattice-work archway and decked the walls and tables of the afternoon in the Knights of Columbus Hall, for a dainty "Blossom Tea" sponsored by the Holy Rosary Catholic Women's League. Through the arch could be seen the little quartet tables with their snow-white cloths, covered by a similar pink and white flower. Little sugar and cream sets in varying shades and pink and white-squared with rose centre serviettes which added a complementary accent.

Into this inviting atmosphere the guests were received by the welcoming receptionists, Mrs. E. McGuigan and Mrs. J. Darling-ton, with Mrs. J. Bradder receiving the customary admiring glances.

TEA ROOM HOSTESS

The tea room hostess was Mrs. W. Smith, and those who served included Mrs. Daley, Mrs. L. Jarrell, Mrs. H. Taylor, Mrs. B. Blastic, Mrs. J. Boyd, Mrs. J. Barrett, Mrs. L. Farrell, Mrs. J. Ellard, Mrs. C. Doyle and Mrs. T. Morrison.

The prettily-appointed tea table with its shiny Madeira cloth and its lovely centre of pink and white carnations, flanked by tall pink candles in crystal holders flicked a gracious welcome. Little trays of colorful carrot strips, celery pencils and pimento - stuffed olives as well as prettily arranged sandwich and cookie plates made a most enticing picture.

Those who arranged the plates for Mrs. D. Winslow, Mrs. K. Fox and the kitchen conveners, Mrs. F. Mulvihill, assisted by Mrs. H. Horn, Mrs. A. Eves, while making tea was Mrs. F. Bedard.

ATTRACTIVE BOOTHS

There were two attractive booths, each decorated with garlands of pink, caught up with pink poinsettia flower and fringed streamers. The home-cooking booth was centred by red and white checked cloth and made a most enticing picture.

Here one might purchase many delectable articles — pies, cookies, homemade buns and tea-biscuits, date squares, rich hermits filled with raisins and tiny bits of candied fruit, cup cakes with meringue topping sprinkled with nuts, chocolate cakes and white cakes showered with shredded coconut, and many other delectables.

The other booth, that of the candies, was also centred by a pretty vase of pink and white lilies, tiny pink rosebuds. Boxes of maple creams, mouth-watering coconut squares and chocolate fudge soon found eager buyers.

Canada's Labor Movement Has Sanctioned Creation Of New Political Party

MONTREAL (CP)—In a bedlam of boisterous zeal, Canada's labor movement has solidly sanctioned the creation of a new left-of-centre political party.

With hardly a handful of opponents, some 1,600 trade union officials from across the country voted overwhelmingly Wednesday night to give the Canadian Labor Congress a mandate to work with the CCF party toward the new party.

The CCF is expected to add its formal support to labor's crucial plunge into direct political action when it meets later this summer in Regina.

After that, a founding convention of interested parties—Labor, CCF, farmers and other "liberally-minded" people—is to be called hopefully for early 1961 in Ottawa, in time to go into the next federal election.

Shouting, singing and cheering, the delegates to the week-long CLC biennial convention voted up their political action debate after a 3½-hour discussion.

There was a sense of history in the air, as they flung thousands of pieces of torn paper over their heads when the results of the vote were evident. Delegates thumped each other's backs and kissed bride the "democratic" to the advancement and welfare of their union.

They adopted a "position of neutrality" concerning the formation of the party and opposed the use of their CLC dues to help any political group.

MOST FAVOR

Of the 36 speakers heard during the debate, 32 favored the new party, three opposed it and one did not take a stand.

Immigration Officials Plan To Get Qualified Farmers

OTTAWA (CP)—A novel plan has been devised by immigration department to stimulate the movement to Canada of qualified farmers from The Netherlands, Belgium and France.

Department officials hope the plan will reverse a steady decline in recent years in the number of farm settlers coming to this country and help meet a growing demand in Canada for skilled farm help.

Under the scheme, some farmers in The Netherlands, Belgium and France are being offered an opportunity to come to Canada for periods of up to nine months to work on Canadian farms. Financial assistance for transportation is provided by authorities in their own countries.

The department says the young farmers will have a chance to familiarize themselves with agriculture conditions in this country and learn of opportunities to become established on farms of their own.

After their return home they would be expected to talk with agricultural and farm organizations about farming in Canada.

It is hoped many will later decide to emigrate to Canada, accompanied by others who have heard their stories.

Mrs. E. Schrieder and Mrs. E. Ward were in charge here.

Mrs. S. Haley sold tickets on a variety of aprons and warmer, while Mrs. C. Hochreiter sold tickets on the floral centrepiece.

A dainty tea pleasingly arranged and most successful, with thanks going to the convener, Mrs. J. Darlington, and Mrs. W. Smith.

Mrs. Ed. Bridle (Georgina), of Frankford, Ontario, formerly of Belleville, who was seriously injured in a motor accident, early Sunday morning, at Brampton, Ontario, shows a slight improvement. Mrs. Bridle is the younger sister of Mrs. Bruce Sills and Mrs. Ernest Baragar.

Presbytery S.S. Teachers' Assoc To Meet Here

The final meeting for this season of the Belleville Presbytery Sunday School Teachers' Association will be held Monday, May 3rd, at 8 p.m. at Thompsonville United Church, Belleville.

These sessions have been held bi-monthly throughout the winter for the purpose of promoting the work of Christian education in the various churches in the area.

The program will be opened with a brief business meeting after which there will be discussion groups as follows: beginners and primary, junior, intermediate, senior and superintendents.

The meeting will close with a devotional period and refreshments.

All those interested are urged to attend and are promised an informative and stimulating evening.

WOMAN OF YEAR

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The Kitchener - Waterloo branch of Quota Club International has named Mrs. L. O. Breithaupt as its "woman of the year." The wife of the former lieutenant-governor of Ontario was selected for her community and home life.

Bay of Fundy Marine Life Shown Q.F.N.

The Quinte Field Naturalists Club held its final indoor meeting for the current season at the Entomological Laboratory on Monday evening. Future meetings until the fall will be held in the form of field trips; the first such meeting to be held at Presqu'ile during the Victoria Day holiday in May. Headquarters for this gathering will be at Miss Nichol's cottage, "Dunworkin."

As an excellent increase in membership was noted for the new year and the Q.F.N. now boasts of 72 members.

Tentative details for the Federation of Ontario Naturalists gathering scheduled for the civic holiday weekend in the Belleville area were discussed at the meeting and the final details of this important event will be announced at a later date.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Stovell of the Laboratory staff. Mr. Stovell presented first a series of slides showing the marine life to be found around the shores of the Bay of Fundy. The slides showed many unusual and curious creatures and plants which are to be found if you know where to look and how to collect them.

Mr. Stovell's commentary was most interesting and informative.

Following this, the members were treated to a preview of the film "Between the Tides" to be shown Thursday evening at the film festival.

This film shows the audience the multitudes of sea life in a section of the English coast line. Some creatures and plants are fantastic in appearance and movement, others beautiful in their coloration, while many are simply grotesque. The photography is excellent and this is an excellent film for everyone to see.

Albert College L.G. Holds Dessert Bridge

Last Saturday the annual dessert bridge, sponsored by the Albert College Guild, was held in Ackerman Hall.

The guests were welcomed by the president, Mrs. E. Hickey, and Mrs. A. MacDonald, convenors of this successful social event were Mrs. Charles Hyde and Mrs. Clifford Smith.

When the scores from nearly 40 tables were added, Mrs. Hyde awarded the prizes. The high bridge score went to Mrs. Charles MacKenzie; 2nd high bridge, to Mrs. Liddle; high canasta, Mrs. Dimeo; hidden score, Mrs. Clapp; door prize, Mrs. J. Cousins; lucky prizes, Mrs. Sloan and Mrs. T. Calder.

Soroptimist Clubs to Hold Regional Conference Here

The Eastern Canada Regional Conference of the Soroptimist Clubs of Ontario and Quebec, 22 in number, will meet at the Hotel Quinte on April 29-30 and May 1st, with 80 delegates and an expectation of 150 guests.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Maurice Holt, (Alene) of Peterborough, will be present at the Friday night banquet, and on Saturday night Mrs. Lilly Quarnberg, of Vancouver, Washington, president of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas incorporated; and Miss Grace Nichols of Toronto, treasurer of the Soroptimist International Association.

TOPIC

Mrs. Holt will speak of "Canada and the United Nations". During the later part of 1939 she represented Canada on the third committee when it acted on humanitarian and cultural. She was also the first woman to be elected to the Peterborough City Council a post she has held for seven years, chairing the Legal and Reception and the Manufactures' Committees. Mrs. Holt is also president of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association, and a member of the speakers' panel for Ontario. She was chosen as Peterborough's "Citizen of the Year" for 1959.

WORLD WIDE ORGANIZATION

The Soroptimist International Association is a world-wide organization for professional and executive business women with the individual club membership limited to one woman from each classification. It was organized in Oakland, California, in 1921 and has spread to more than 32 countries of the world. It is not a secret organization, does not attempt to interfere with any religious or political organization, but its ideals are to imply loyalty to man's own citizenship and religion to recognize the rights of others; sincerity of friendship; joy of achievement; dignity of service integrity of profession and love of country.

County Home Residents Feted By W. Aux.

The monthly meeting of County Home W.A. was held on April 25 in the library room at the Home with an attendance of 28 ladies.

Mrs. M. McLean presided over the business part of the meeting. Mrs. A. Bongard reported 34 visits to the Home since last meeting and suggested a group from each organization take a turn in calling at the Home once a week.

Mrs. L. Watson, on behalf of the Auxiliary, wished to express gratitude to the Kiwanis Club Theatre Party, Call Hendricks' dance group and Youth for Christ Cheerleaders for entertaining the residents recently. It means so much for elderly people to have their days brightened this way.

ANNUAL BAZAAR

Plans were discussed for the annual bazaar in October. Anyone with ideas and suggestions in handicraft could contact Mrs. W. Watson.

Later, all assembled in the dining-room where a table was beautifully decorated with a large birthday cake, colorful cloth and serviettes in keeping with the Easter season with 27 residents, who had birthdays in April, were served cake, which was cut by Mrs. Haskett, 87. Everyone joined in singing "Happy Birthday" and other favorite songs. Mrs. K. Bird presided at the piano with Mrs. A. Daniels and Mrs. Insley leading.

Tea and fancy crackers were served by Mrs. K. Yorke, the staff and Auxiliary members.

The next meeting will be held May 16 at the Home.

'Changing Scene in Quebec' Topic at Women's C. Club

With charming naivety, eloquent 'talking' hands, and deep sincerity, Madame Solange C. Rolland addressed the Women's Canadian Club at the 48th annual meeting held on Tuesday evening, in Tabernacle United Church on "The Changing Scene in Quebec", stressing the "two solitudes" Canada and Quebec, a country divided by two cultures, English and French.

Madame Rolland, a writer and publisher, as well as a literary critic and winner of the gold medal of Radio Canada, is also a member of the Women's Press Club, L'Union des Artistes, and L'Union des Journalistes de Langue Francaise, deplored the lack of interest Quebec and Canada had with or in each other; partly because of the vastness of Canada, the east knew little of what was going on in the west. "Why is there this great segregation", she asked her audience. "Quebec is lonely, but it conforms. There is a great building of wide two and four-lane highways and bridges across the country, but why do we not use the bridges to know each other better? If the bridge of love were used there would not be divided cultures, and this vast country of Canada would be united. Though I live in Quebec, I am still a Canadian, and love Canada as my country."

FRENCH CANADA ALIVE

"French Canada is a much alive, and outgoing country, and French Canadian writers are very good. Quebec could be likened to a tree with deep roots which spread out into the English speaking part of the country; it has fruit which falls both in Quebec and in Canada, for both parts to enjoy".

The speaker mentioned the static of education, both in Canada and in Quebec. During a recent survey, it was seen that both Canadian children, and Quebec children, knew more of other countries than of their own. That being able to speak both languages, which are not separate, but of the same country, was a means, of communication by which members or citizens of both would be enabled to know each other better and to love each other.

EARLY STUDY OF LANGUAGE

The difficulty was, Madame Rolland thought, that children should begin the study of a second language at an early age, so that it would be incorporated into their very being as they grew up; with five years the ideal age.

In conclusion, the speaker earnestly petitioned "let us bridge the gap with love; let us learn about the country, since Canada and Quebec would enrich each other, thus making this great land a complete whole. There is the only one Canada it is to you to decide".

Following the address, a considerable time was spent in a question and answer period which drew forth many pertinent queries, and enlightening replies on the education of the young.

Madame Rolland was introduced by the president of the Club, Mrs. Robert Tanner and thanked in French by Mrs. D. McFadden.

ANNUAL BUSINESS

Previous to the address, the annual business meeting took place with Mrs. G. C. Demers, secretary, giving a full report of the year's activities, speaking most highly of the president, Mrs. Robert Tanner, who with her family is moving up to Ottawa, also of the various speakers who addressed the meetings of the past year.

REPORTS

Other reports included that of the treasurer, Mrs. D. McFadden who distributed mimeographed financial sheets to the guests and the departing president Mrs. Tanner, who remarked that it was her "swan song". Mrs. Tanner expressed appreciation to Mrs. Demers, Mrs. McFadden and Mrs. Forrester, and to Mrs. R. D. Arnott, for her capable handling of the Club during her recent absence in Europe; also tendered thanks to the assistant secretary, Mrs. E. E. Follwell, for her work in letter addressing; and to Mrs. F. Wilson, Mrs. A. J. Clare, Mrs. Dallas, Mrs. Fairman, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon and Mrs. Varcoe as well as to the churches and schools for their hospitality as meeting places.

1960-61 OFFICERS

The report of the nominating committee as presented by Mrs. W. L. Langlois, is as follows: past president — Mrs. R. S. Fairman; immediate past president — Mrs. R. A. Tanner; president — Mrs. R. D. Arnott; 1st vice-president — Mrs. J. H. Forrester; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. J. G. Demers; 3rd vice-president — Mrs. A. S. McCormell; secretary, Mrs. S. L. Jost; assistant secretary, Mrs. E. E. Follwell; treasurer, Mrs. A. P. McFadden.

Committee members: Mrs. W. Dalas; Mrs. A. J. Clare; Mrs. Fred Wilson; Mrs. W. J. McCormick; Mrs. B. E. Burley and Mrs. D. D. Maddock.

Coffee and cookies were served following the close of the meeting.

QUESTION BOX

Question: Since I announced my engagement a few weeks ago, I have received a lot of gifts. Should I make a display of them and ask those who presented them to me to come and see all of them? If so, do I leave the cards and notes on them?

Answer: It is quite unusual to receive many engagement gifts. It is not considered obligatory that they be given, and usually only members of the family present them. Gifts from friends usually are received at showers. It is not necessary that you display them, but it is perfectly all right to do so. Have the group in for afternoon coffee, or tea, or maybe for an evening get-together. Do not leave the cards on the gifts. This should never be done.

Question: I went on a blind date with a girl friend of mine the other evening. Her date was an old friend, and he hoped he brought me me was awful. He hardly said a word all evening and made no effort to join in when I tried to make conversation. He seemed bored to tears, and I certainly was! He has called me for another date twice since then. I have said no both times. How do you handle a situation like this?

Answer: Just keep on saying "no." Be polite, but always have another engagement. He should take the hint, eventually. Even though he may be shy, he should have made an effort to cover up his half way by trying to be agreeable. Blind dates can be difficult sometimes, but even though you do not like your partner, you should be gracious for the one evening. Strangely enough, this boy personally liked you or he wouldn't ask for another date. Teach him a lesson. Maybe next time he will try to be a nicer companion.

East Area Boy Scouts Hold Conference in Brighton

The Avondale Cubs and Scouts' Mothers' Auxiliary held its April meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. J. Wettlaufer, Colonna Street, with Mrs. D. Cooke presiding.

The business report and correspondence was given by Mrs. Dave McDonald. Mrs. Nik gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. Millen the welfare.

Mrs. D. Cooke gave a report of the group committee meeting which was held at the home of Mr. B. Locklin. Akela Taylor reported that 14 badges and three stars were awarded. A date for the scrap drive is set for May 7th.

Mrs. J. Wettlaufer, who recently moved from the Avondale district, was the recipient of a gift presented to her by Mrs. McPherson on behalf of the Auxiliary.

Talent money was donated by Mrs. D. McDonald and Mrs. Wilson.

It was announced that the annual potluck supper of the Belleville Boy Scouts' Auxiliaries will be held later in May in the Tabernacle.

After the business period, Mrs. Dave McDonald, delegate, gave a report on the East Area Boy Scouts conference held in Brighton, recently. She stated that more than 225 registered, consisted of Scoutmasters, Cubmasters, Rover leaders, Group Committeemen and Ladies' Auxiliary.

The program opened with the flagdrill by No. 1 Brighton Troop, and opening ceremony by Scoutmaster Connolly, Lewis, who welcomed the guests. This setting took place in the High School auditorium and was most colorful.

TEAM SHOWN

District Commissioner J. Broughton, of Brighton, introduced Col. Wilson of the Peterborough Detachment of the R.C.M.P. who showed a film, and gave a lecture of "Safety On and Near the Water". He stated that just the rules exist regarding the operation of cars on highways, similar laws have been made for the common good of those using its waterways. He also mentioned that there were two kinds of life saving equipment available for boats — those bearing the approved stamp of the federal Department of Transport, and the potentially dangerous, unapproved brand. Both are available in stores throughout the country. Look for the name "Department of Transport" to ensure it is an approved article!

"CAMPING"

The next address was by Art and S. M. who spoke on "Camping", an integral part of the program". He mentioned that all Scout groups who spend three or more nights in a camp must hold a permit from the Boy Scouts' Association, and a camp license. All camps must be registered on the correct forms not later than May 21st. Mr. Fort stated that Scout camp is not a holiday camp but a training camp.

Breaking off at noon, the delegates were served lunch in the cafeteria by the newly formed Brighton Girl Guide Company. During the noon hour, the delegates listened to a tape recording of a speech by Baden Powell, the founder of Scouting. It was a speech given to the Empire Society in Toronto in 1910 and was just as applicable today as then.

AFTERNOON SESSIONS

Area Commissioner Archie Lewis presided over the afternoon sessions, when the various leaders were split into eight different groups meeting to their various interests and duties in the movement.

The Ladies' Auxiliary held a general session under the chairmanship of Mrs. L. Blaker, who was assisted by Mrs. Belnap acting as secretary for the meeting and also by Mrs. P. Gelthorpe, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. A. Fort who spoke on programming, Mrs. E. Tafford, and Mrs. Dave McDonald.

Mr. F. Lancaster addressed the ladies giving the history of the Cub and Scout movement, policy organization and rules, and the place of the Auxiliary in the Scouting family. He suggested that the ladies could assist with refreshments, entertainment, make costumes and help with makeup, supplement libraries, contact leaders with cooking tests and look in on troop and pack meetings and give encouragement to leaders. He also mentioned that the group committee should be shown bill and expenditures.

ANNUAL BANQUET

In the evening, the annual banquet was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the 1st Brighton Boy Scout Group was held in the auditorium of the Masonic Temple. Mr. Kenneth Ferren, head of the Guidance Department of Trenton High School, was guest speaker, and gave a splendid address on the need for educating youth to grow up as individuals and as good citizens.

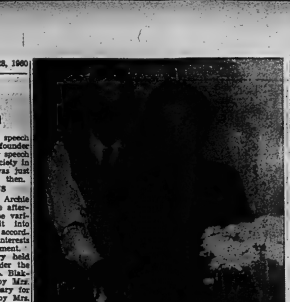
A highlight of the evening was a presentation of a Douglas Tartan waist-coat by leaders and committee men of the Prescyle District to Flain Commissioner, Arthur Jackson, who was escorted to the platform by two leaders in kilts with two pipers in full highland regalia, to receive his gift.

344 UNITS

The Quinte Region now has 304 units in 134 Groups with a total of 7,622 members. This membership is led by 777 registered adult leaders.

It was most encouraging to see the Avondale Cubs and Scout leaders present in their uniform at the conference.

Refreshments were served ending a delightful meeting.



HELPFUL CLASSES

Home nursing classes were conducted by 851 registered nurses in the Canadian Red Cross program in 1959.

Holloway St. United Church W.A. Sponsors Delightful Salad Tea

Bouquets of yellow, white, and mauve mums, white Easter lilies and tall white baskets and trellises of yellow forsythia and pussy willows transformed the basement of Holloway Street United Church, into a spring-like setting, Wednesday afternoon, for the annual springtime salad tea sponsored by the church Women's Association.

Even the weather finally cooperated to provide a bright springlike atmosphere outside the hall, as well.

Guests were graciously received at the door by Mrs. C. W. Coleman, wife of the church minister, Mrs. H. Outlaghan, Mrs. T. F. Townsend, and Mrs. A. C. Campbell.

Treasurers for the afternoon were Mrs. J. Cordes, Mrs. F. Cook, Mrs. W. Jeffery, and Mrs. B. McMurray.

Hostesses were Mrs. C. Coulter, Mrs. C. Holmes, Mrs. N. Brown, and Mrs. I. Knight.

Patrons were invited to the tea room by Mrs. W. Cone and Mrs. C. Smith. Tea room conveners were, Mrs. J. Bush, Mrs. M. Hick, and Mrs. F. Wilson.

FRUIT CENTREPIECE

The tea table, covered with a cut-work linen cloth, was adorned with a centre-piece consisting of bouchs of yellow Forsythia and pussy willows which were "forced into bloom," and in platters of various kinds of fruit — red and green grapes, bananas, oranges, lemons, and pineapple. The centre-piece was flanked on either side by tall, green, lighted candles in glass holders.

Similar fruit centre-pieces only on a smaller scale, were used to decorate the individual quartet tables.

Presiding at the tea services were: Mrs. B. Moorman and Mrs. R. Welbourne; Mrs. C. Smyes, and Mrs. F. Scott.

Those responsible for replenishing were Mrs. E. Bush, Mrs. R. Brown, Mrs. O. Bertrand, and Mrs. D. Cook.

Servers were: Mrs. F. Movment of homebaking was on sen, Mrs. W. Sandy, Mrs. M. male, convened by Mrs. R. Martin, Mrs. C. Vader, Mrs. Jose and Mrs. C. Wannamak-R. Dorsee, Mrs. T. Poste, Mrs. er. Going Places

By TRACY ADRIAN

If you have a trip in the offing, here is a wool knit suit designed to travel well and pack easily. It features a smooth-swinging jacket with a cardigan neckline and three-quarter sleeves. The matching skirt is slim and well cut. The colors are camel, green, navy or gray checks on white. A blouse of the matching color completes the outfit.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. L. G. — Why do the children keep things from me.

Ellen R. — She worries too much.

Mrs. L. G. — I am a widow in my late 60's. I have my own small apartment and a part-time job. I have a married son and daughter and I make it a policy never to interfere in their lives.

Just the same, I think a mother has a right to know a few things about what is going on in her family. My children don't tell me anything. Last year my son had a serious operation and I wasn't informed until a week later. They told me he had to go out of town on business. Last week I learned from outsiders that my son-in-law had given up his job and was going into business for himself.

Why should they keep things from me? Am I so old that I shouldn't hear about things any more? Don't I count? Why do they push me out of their lives?

Ellen G. — Mother has always been a great worrier and she seems to feel deprived if we don't give her things to worry about. We feel she shouldn't have to worry about us any longer. We are capable of running our own lives.

If we had told Mother about my brother's operation, she would have been hysterical for weeks. At things are, she was hysterical when she found out. Since she has found out about my husband's plans she has been making a nervous wreck out of me with her worries about whether or not the business will succeed. I am trying to be calm about it but she upsets me.

I don't know why Mother considers it a reflection on her age when we don't tell her things. We don't think she's really old — just a bit too old to worry about us.

The Council: The motives of the two children in keeping worrisome facts from their mother is understandable, yet we would say this policy is altogether desirable.

It is true that Mrs. L. G. was spared a certain amount of advance worry about her son's operation, but the bad feelings she experienced afterward were also extremely unpleasant.

Mrs. L. G. states her feelings quite explicitly. When she is excluded from important knowledge about her children, she feels canceled out by them. Elderly individuals naturally feel that their time on earth is limited and they don't want to hasten the end of active living. If they feel great anxiety about the shortness of life they may want to participate in more activity than is good for them.

To Mrs. L. G. worry is probably a substitute for doing many of the things she was once able to do for her children when they were young. It is unfortunate that she has not been able to relinquish a bit more of the old relationship and involve herself in a multitude of other interests, but the fact is that she cannot readily change her feelings.

She should recognize, however, that she acts as a most disturbing force in her children's lives at moments when they must muster all their strength. She must control her emotions for their sake if she wants to share things with them.

Turkey Any Day

by Mary Moore

Eunice M. J. writes: " . . . I make full use of the freezer in the fridge and only shop on payday very two weeks. I often prepare meals in advance and freeze them. I find a 15-lb. turkey very economical. I roast it for one day, and spend the next afternoon (a Saturday usually) in preparing the rest. I cut the breasts off first and wrap them up. Then cutting up the dark meat I cut some up in cubes, measure the quantity for various recipes, label and freeze. Some I grind up and use for Turkey-burgers. I make pies as well and of course a good supply of soup made in the pressure cooker."

(of pieces of meat), 1 cup fine buttered crumbs.

Make White Sauce: Heat together 2 tablespoons each butter or margarine and flour and 1-2 teaspoon salt, blend, then stir in 1 cup milk until thick. Add turkey gravy, washed and seeded peppers which have been cut in strips, peas and onions to hot white sauce. When it is near boiling point add cut-up turkey cubs and turn into large casserole. Cover evenly with buttered crumbs. If desired, store in refrigerator until baking time. Or bake at once at 375 deg. Fahr. until bubbly and golden about 40 minutes. Bake longer if it comes cold from refrigerator.

NOTE

If desired, you may extend and enrich this casserole with the addition of 1 average-sized can of oysters or clams with their liquid.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Broiled Beef Cakes; Hashed Brown Potatoes; Creamed Cauliflower; Relish Tray; New Green Onions, Carrot and Green Pepper Strips; Applesauce a la Mode; Spice Cake; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Scalloped of Veal; Buttered Noodles with Poppy Seeds; Asparagus; Shredded Carrot, Cabbage and Raisin Salad; Apple Fritters with Hard Sauce (see Monday); Coffee.

When this letter arrived I had just had a baking bout with an 8 1-2-lb. turkey costing $5.04 and from it had served two meals: one to four, and one to eight guests. This works out to be 42c per person. In addition I made two quarts rich soup.

I would very much like to have Eunice's recipe for Turkey-burgers.

So I'm in a position to talk turkey too.

Originally I roasted the bird in foil and Pete carved it as if it were Christmas Day.

After dinner when it was cold enough I wrapped it in foil and kept it cold overnight. Next day I had to be out all afternoon, but was having eight for dinner at 6:30 p.m. So I made a turkey casserole in advance.

TURKEY CASSEROLE:

One cup medium white sauce (see below), 2 cups well-seasoned turkey giblet gravy (made previous day from cooking giblets and from liquid in roasting pan), 2 green peppers, 1 cup fresh frozen peas, 1 tablespoon grated onion or onion flakes, about 4 or 5 cups cut-up cooked turkey. (Amount depends on size

NEUROSURGEON — Dr. Wilder Penfield, world renowned neurosurgeon and founder of the Montreal Neurological Institute, believes neurology holds the eventual key to problems of mental illness. His work in open brain surgery and the treatment of epilepsy has helped make Montreal Canada's top medical centre. (CP Photo)

A Few More Pills and There Won't Be Any Psychiatry, Says Dr. Penfield's Nurse

Work in neurology and psychiatry — two approaches to the treatment of ailments of the mind—has helped earn Montreal its reputation as a leading medical centre. Are the two subjects destined to become one? Views of authorities on both sides are presented in this story.

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal Neurological Institute looks confidently to the day when its staid will swallow that of the tury grey stone mansion.

Both study and treat ailments of men's minds and brains, the MNI through the physical structure, the Allan through mental functions.

"Some day," says Dr. Wilder Penfield, the world-renowned neurosurgeon who founded the MNI in 1934, "neurology and psychiatry will be one subject. The problem of psychiatry will be solved by treatment of abnormalities of the brain."

His head nurse, Eileen C. Flanagan, observes wickedly: "A few hospitals are being set up, based Allan Memorial Institute.

The hospitals stand a few hundred yards apart on the south slope of Mount Royal, the MNI in a wing of the Royal Victoria Hospital, the Allan in a 19th century pile and there won't be any psychiatry."

The sweeping purpose of Dr. Penfield's neurology is "to study the nature of the brain and the mind. Then let the nervous system of man we will learn something of the spirit and the relation of the mind and body."

NOT DISCOUNTED

Dr. Francis McNaughton, the the MNI's head neurologist, says psychiatry is valuable for its emphasis on the sociological approach "but after all, social stimuli work through the nervous system."

Doctors at the Allan feel, however, that psychiatry cannot easily be devoured whole.

Dr. Murray Saffran, a senior biochemist at Allan, says: "To neglect the psychological approach is to neglect the nature of man. . . . You can't explain disintegration of a man's personality by biochemistry."

Discussing the pattern of cause and effect, he adds that "a psychological insult leads to physical changes" and that "psychical disturbances create mental havoc."

"Medical advances will be on the psychological side."

WORLD LEADERS

Regardless of which branch of science prevails, the Allan and the MNI are international pacesetters in their fields, combining broad vision with sound science to help make Montreal one of the world's leading medical centres.

While autonomous, both are linked with the Royal Victoria Hospital and McGill University.

Dr. D. Ewen Cameron, psychiatrist-in-chief of the Royal Victoria Hospital and chairman of the department of psychiatry at McGill, says the Allan, set up under his direction in 1943, is a pilot plant for the province.

"It was the first psychiatric division of a general hospital to be opened in the province. Now there are 19. It was the first psychiatric hospital in Canada to operate purely on the open-door basis, and now its lead is being followed in every province in Canada.

"It was the first general hospital (in the world) to establish a day hospital, and now day on the Allan Memorial Institute, in every continent."

"The extent of the recognition of the part played by the Allan Memorial Institute as a pilot plant is shown in the fact that while the first World Congress of Psychiatry was held in Paris in 1950 and the second World Congress was held in Zurich in 1957, the third World Congress is to be held in Montreal in 1961 with the Allan Memorial Institute as the organizational headquarters."

WORLD HEADQUARTERS

The Allan is also headquarters for 50 doctors from many countries on a four - year diploma course in psychiatry. They work with the Allan's 89 in-patients, the 40 day patients and in mental wings of other hospitals.

The lively research program at the Allan includes work on motivation by a team led by Dr. Robert B. Malmo; research into forensic psychiatry by Dr. Bruno M. Cormier; the hormone work of Dr. Theodore Sourkes, and studies in psychosomatic medicine by Dr. Eric T. Whitthower.

Dr. Malmo is examining the relationship between headscratching and problem-solving — the premise that physical actions, including clenched fists and grimaces, help thinking and learning. Physical activity, it is believed, helps stimulate the part of the brain that governs responses to a given situation.

TRIPLE ROLE

Dr. Sourkes, 40, says the biochemist has a triple role in mental illness:

To look at psychological illness from the physiological point of view, to look for the biochemical effects of therapy such as electric treatment, and through fundamental research to define biochemically problems of interest to psychiatry."

Dr. Whitthower has made his office at the Allan — once the home of Sir Montago Allan, shipping magnate and donor of Sir Montagu Allan Cup—the headquarters for a world-wide or "transcultural" study of psychosomatic illness.

He leads world study into the role social settings play in such anxiety-induced ailments as ulcers, asthma, colitis and skin disorders.

MORE COMPLETE

There are neurological institutes in Amsterdam, Madrid, Leiden, Moscow, London, New York, Chicago, San Francisco and San Diego, Chile, says Dr. Penfield, but the Montreal Neurological Institute is "more complete in one sense than each of the others."

It is the only one to combine two floors of basic research laboratories with 160 hospital beds where graduates and undergraduate doctors and nurses are trained and patients treated.

Dr. Penfield's success with surgery on the open brain brought fame to the $4,000,000 institute and to himself. His equally brilliant colleague, Dr. W. V. Cone, neurosurgeon and one of the world's great neuropathologists, died in 1957 at 61.

Dr. Penfield retired as McGill professor and head neurosurgeon at the Royal Victoria in 1956 when he was 65 but still performs operations and lectures widely. In spare moments he writes fiction, following his own advice to older men to have a second career ready for their retirement in ward off "false senility."

MAPPED BRAIN

He was a pioneer in mapping areas of the brain which control the working of specific parts of the body and ras had a particular interest for 25 years in the electrical misfirings in the brain that cause epilepsy.

Much of the institute's work is devoted to the medical and surgical care of epileptics.

Miss Flanagan, Dr. Penfield's nursing ally and a pioneer in her own field, has 140 nurses on her staff and training under her.

Miss Flanagan's pride—next to a statue of Peter Pan in the children's ward—is the MNI's outstanding nursing record: not one case of operating room infection last year out of nearly 1,000 operations and "never a bedsore."

RAPID RECOVERY

The "eternal vigilance" and discipline necessary for such a record demand a big staff but pay off in fast patient turnover. Because complications are eliminated, the average stay in hospital for patients requiring brain surgery is an "unbelievably low" 17 to 18 days. Last year the MNI's beds accommodated 2,700 patients.

Dr. McNaughton speaks with pride of the "many young men" conducting MNI's research.

These include Dr. K. A. C. Elliott, a biochemistry professor studying brain chemistry; Dr. Ronald Miller, an anaesthetist seeking the relationship between anaesthetics and the level of stress-caused, adrenalin-like hormones in the blood of patients under surgery; and Dr. J. B. T. Cosgrove, trying to analyze proteins in spinal fluid as a means of diagnosing multiple sclerosis.

If the neurologists' succeed in taking over psychiatry, Dr. Cormier of the Allan has a brand new field where unemployed psychiatrists may turn—social illness.

CRIMINAL MIND

Physically sound habitual criminals are not mentally ill by court definitions but they are socially sick, says Dr. Cormier, 40-year-old psychiatrist at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, assistant professor at McGill and an Allan staff member.

"We are putting in doubt the concept of reward and punishment for certain types of criminals."

Once a person is outside the system of goals and deterrents that keep ordinary people on the straight and narrow, he says, punishment ceases to exert much influence on him. Punishment of massive doses, such as long prison sentences, helps little. Other treatment is needed.

"We are trying to approach this problem of criminality in the same way we approached physical illness and mental illness."

County Council Decides To Delay Setting Tax Rate

Will Await Ruling by Court On Bicroft Assessment Case Then Hold Special Session

Prospect of the current April session of Hastings county council being cut to three days were entertained by county members Wednesday afternoon with the decision not to strike the 1960 mill rate at this session now to set assessment equalization figures.

Decision to hold a special sitting of council to set the current year's mill rate came after a lengthy discussion on assessment grants and their application to assessment.

In agreeing to hold the special session council took the advice of officials of the department of municipal affairs who earlier this week at an interview in Toronto suggested the mill rate not be struck until a court ruling is made on an assessment appeal made by the Bicroft mining municipality.

Department officials stated the ruling on the appeal could have a direct bearing on similar cases as several of this country's municipalities also receive mining grants.

Councillors spent almost the entire afternoon session in discussion of assessment matters and in hearing the 1959 auditors' report. A year's operational surplus of something over $13,000 was noted in the report.

DISCUSS MINING GRANTS

The discussion on mining grants was touched off with the reading of a communication from Reeve Harold Lockhead that municipality would refuse to pay its 1960 county levy pending an extra payment been made in calculation of its equalized assessment figures.

On Monday of this week a delegation from Marmora township and Marmora village visited Toronto with Warden Cecil Sager to interview department officials on the mining grant question.

Reeve William Shannon noted that the equalized assessment for his villages for 1960 had been figured on the basis of taking mining grants into consideration but said it had now been learned this should not have been done.

SOUGHT OPINION

He said that in the opinion of one municipal affairs department official the error had wiped out the village's legal responsibility to pay the levy this year.

County assessor Cecil Green admitted that while an amendment to the assessment act ruled out the necessity of figuring mining grants into a municipality's equalized assessment, he said grants rises in the county actually should have been paid on mining grants in the year in which they were received.

Whether or not Marmora village will still liable to pay for last year, Mr. Green said, was something on which he was unprepared to comment.

Warden Sager said department officials had seemed to want to lay the blame on Hastings county officials on the mixup, but councillors were generally of the opinion that the trouble arose in Toronto.

Reeve J. W. Brenton even went so far as to say he would not much dependence on [illegible] of Deputy Minister J. W. P. Carter.

OBJECTS TO FORMULA

Last year reeves receiving mining grants objected to the formula used in converting these to assessment when it was found out that in many municipalities would be paying out more than was received.

County officials had contacted the department on the matter and were told that mining grants must be applied to assessment. Also a resolution had gone forward from council requesting clarification on the matter.

There had been no reply to the resolution although since then the act had been amended.

County officials maintained that in figuring the assessment and in making the levy they had been merely following department instructions.

Warden Earl Sager urged that no action be taken either on the mill rate or on setting the assessment figures until the court ruling on the Bicroft appeal had been learned.

In the meantime County Assessor Green had presented figures suggesting equalization based on actual land and property values in the different municipalities.

It was noted that any additional assessment arising out of mining grants or on properties on which grants were received in lieu of taxes, could be added later.

OWED APOLOGY CLAIM

But feeling still rankled with Mr. Green declaring Reeve Shannon owed him an apology for stating his (Mr. Green's) figures had been wrong when it had turned out they were right. Mr. Green also accused Reeve Shannon of being responsible for an editorial in the Marmora paper which pointed out the mistake.

"It is you who owes me an apology," Reeve Shannon told Mr. Green. "I had nothing to do with the editorial."

"Actually", he continued, "I thought the editorial was rather mild. The county levy means $8,000 to our village. It was you who neglected to make the assessment last year".

Council was told by roads and bridges committee chairman Reeve Harleigh Hamilton in his road report that the CNR hopped to call tenders in the near future for the construction of the proposed subway under the double track north of Trenton.

Plans call for the diversion of the main track double line with construction of the underpass expected to take about five to six months. He said the road committee had decided a road diversion was not justified in view of the construction time and accordingly had given permission to close the road.

The report noted that the county share of the subway cost would be about $51,000 which would be subsidized 80 per cent by the highways department.

SNOWDRIFTS NORMAL

Winter control for the 1959 fiscal year was reported as $250,507 and that the total for 1960 would be about the same, approximately $251,000 lower the normal year.

Spring break-up damage on county roads to date had been about normal and the only serious flooding anticipated earlier had been averted. Only at one spot on the county system — on the Madoc-Hazzard road was flooding deep enough to be troublesome.

Paving of the Holloway bypass was expected to be completed by the highways department this year.

So far there had been no allotment made by the department for continuation of road development work on the Ridge Road but it was expected this would be forthcoming. During the winter the department had authorized the extending of actual construction work westerly well into Stirling village and some of the survey work had been carried into the new year left.

It was expected that much paving would be done this year on the one-mile westerly from the Madoc Road.

Further survey work had been carried out during the winter on the Tweed-Sulphide development road. No allotment had yet been made but this was expected.

Tribute was paid to the late Edward Lasier, former county road patrolman, who died recently after being ill through the winter. Mr. Hamilton said Mr. Lasier had been an outstanding man in county work and in the community.

Reeve Hamilton noted that expenditures had been included in the roads budget to reimburse the county office for clerical work done for the roads committee.

And it was decided that the county would take advantage of the offer of free canned surplus foods that were made available by the federal government.

The county will act in distributing the canned pork to member municipalities for distribution to welfare and needy recipients. The surplus pork originated as result of the federal government's pork support price and is being made available to hospitals, public institutions and welfare recipients.

"SADISTIC" ATTACK

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters)—Three teen-age boys Wednesday were sentenced to three years each in borstal for maliciously killing 34 rare birds in a "cold-blooded and sadistic" attack at Manchester Zoo. In sentencing the boys, aged 12, 13 and 14 the magistrate said "it is clear that all three of you need strict training and discipline."

Trains No. 35, No. 36 Now Discontinued

TWEED — Last Saturday afternoon a lengthy C.P.R. era in rail service was brought to a close when Trains No. 35 and No. 36 running East and West from Montreal and Toronto passed through Tweed for the last time.

As far as can be ascertained, these two trains have been operating since the rail line was laid in 1857.

At one time Tweed was served with a "local" between here and Toronto, but this was taken out of service more than thirty years ago. Between Tweed and Havelock and later between Havelock and Peterborough it still runs as the old Tweed Local No. 601 and 602.

Approval to discontinue this day service was given some weeks ago by the Board of Transport Commissioners, Ottawa. The Chamber of Commerce and municipal councils between Montreal and Toronto have been pressing for a substitute "Dayliner" car, but the possibility of this service seems remote at the moment.

After presenting figures on dwindling passenger service, the Board of Transport commissioners approved the railways proposal to discontinue the trains.

The regular night trains will continue on schedule with one C.P. Express service each day between Toronto and Montreal.

Parking and Hospitalization Discussed by County Council

Hastings County Council, at its morning session yesterday, covered a variety of subjects ranging from abuse of parking facilities at county building property to information from a Hospital Services Insurance Commission representative on the problem of registering indigent persons for hospital coverage.

Councillors were advised that something would have to be done to reserve parking privileges at the county buildings for actual county employees and officials and for persons visiting on county business.

It was stated that spaces were being used by persons parking their cars on county property, with the result that county council members and other officials could find no place to park.

It is expected that a motion will be presented to council authorizing the obtaining of proper signs indicating that parking is for county officials only.

PORK AVAILABLE

Also during the morning session council members were advised that free surplus canned pork was available to certain institutions and municipalities for distribution to welfare recipients. The canned meat will be being made available by the government to hospitals, county homes and welfare agencies, the only cost being payment of transportation charges.

No action was taken on a Welland county resolution asking that the one half mill maximum contribution costs for the provincially which cities and towns might be charged for suburban roads be increased.

Reeve Harleigh Hamilton, roads committee chairman, felt the present half mill maximum was sufficient to carry out the suburban roads program and the resolution was accordingly filed.

SHOULD REGISTER

Hospital Services Insurance Commission representative Mr. Graham emphasized the importance of municipalities seeing that possible indigent persons be registered for hospital insurance, otherwise indigent hospital costs could result in unnecessary expense to the municipalities.

He noted that under recent amendments the statutory rate to be paid by municipalities to hospitals for indigent patients has been increased by 50 per cent. This increase made it all the more important that indigents be registered for hospital care, he said.

Mrs. D. Curzon, controller at Belleville General Hospital, also spoke briefly to council, assuring that registration of indigents for hospital insurance would not only save the municipalities money but would also greatly assist the hospital in its collection.

Warden Hamilton thanked the road committee report, noting that the regular road expenditure by-law for 1960 had been approved earlier for $253,000. At the conclusion of his report he recommended a supplementary by-law for an additional $70,100.

This, he said, would cover the cost of the county's share of the proposed subway on county road No. 4 north of Trenton, which would take the road beneath the CNR double track. The county share of the cost was estimated at $31,000, this to be eligible for 80 per cent subsidy.

Also included in the supplementary by-law would be $5,100 for a new floor an Main's Bridge regrading of three quarters of a mile of the Shannonville sideroad, $17,000 for new machinery and a machinery shed, and $10,000 for additional winter control costs last winter.

Discussion on the road report was scheduled to continue during the afternoon session.

Belleville Boy Given High Post By Graymore

GRAYMOOR, N.Y. — Brother Bernardine Bennett, S.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bennett of 11 Harvey Street, Belleville, Ontario, has been assigned to the Central Library attached to Westminster Cathedral in London, England.

Brother Bernardine came to Graymoor in September, 1956. He attended St. Michael's Academy and St. Michael's High School in Belleville. He was clothed with the brown habit of the Graymoor Friars on July 25, 1957 and took his vows on First Profession on July 26, 1959. He has recently completed his training in Book Binding at St. Joseph's Trade School for Brothers at Cumberland, Rhode Island.

Bro. Bernardine sailed aboard the S.S. Queen Mary on April 6.

Tools of the poaching trade are examined by Everett W. Ferguson, head of the Napanee office, who may be seen holding a spring gaff. This device is illegal for use by fishermen at any time.

A seized pickerel and gaff line are shown Tweed District Fish and Wildlife division chief Hugh Dornan (left) by deputy warden Tom Allen of Kingston. The fish and rig were picked up from a poacher along the Napanee River where the spawning fish are so numerous at times that it's almost impossible to reach into the water without touching one.

Claude Winters and Don White (right), Fish and Wildlife officers covering the Prince Edward County area, use radio to contact other game wardens in the area to quickly obtain information or assistance in maintaining the most effective possible control of poaching activities in their area.

In the Spring When the Pickerel's Fancy Lightly Turns to Thoughts of Spawning Poacher Hunts Her From Sunset to Dawning

With the spring comes the pickerel; with the pickerel comes the poacher; with the latter comes the busy season for the Fish and Wildlife men of the Ontario Department of Lands and forests. The poacher is a diminishing breed according to Hugh Dornan, head of the Fish and Wildlife division in Tweed district but he is still quite active.

It is the practice of these people to prey on the spawning pickerel with spears or gaff lines and sell their catch to fish fanciers. In an effort to prevent this illegal operation a 24-hour watch is kept on the spawning areas in this district by the Lands and Forests people and their deputy wardens. Most of the poaching is done at night.

There are three "common" types of poachers which the game wardens come across. There are the kids who do it for the heck of it; there are, in some areas, the "swinos" who are always looking for a source of revenue; and there are the dyed-in-the-wool poachers who do it for the profit involved.

The spears and gaff lines are the instruments commonly used. The former are usually grounded-down harforks with wooden handles, although the true professional may have a spear made up at a welding shop, using a lead pipe handle so that it will sink if he has to throw it away at the approach of a game warden.

GAFF LINES CRUEL

The gaff lines are a most vicious and inhumane device consisting of a stout line with a number of large hooks attached. This line is secured into a pole at one end and weighted at the other. It is used by throwing the line into a pool of spawning fish and then snapping the pole in order to impale or catch fish on the hooks. It is usually quite effective . . . and quite destructive. Some two or three fish may be caught with each cast but there are many more which are maimed or ripped open by the slash of the barbed hooks.

These maimed fish are usually found dead near the mouth of the river within the next day or so. Some are dead with their eggs still inside them. It is the prevention of this sort of thing that keeps the game wardens working around the clock on 12-hour shifts, which usually stretch out into 14 to 16 hour tours of duty while the pickerel run is on.

Although the game warden staff has been relatively small in past years, this year there is a number of extra Lands and Forests personnel on game warden duty in the Tweed district from the north of the province. Many of them had heard of the pickerel run in this district but, to quote Bill Shields of Cochrane, "never seen anything like it . . . poaching not like this in the north."

RUN NEARLY OVER

The run this year, now nearly over, has been quite thick with fish of up to 18 pounds weight having been caught at the Napanee rapids. A point of interest is that pickerel will come to the first rapids in a river for a spawning place and this is usually where a town or city is located, thus giving rise to a belief that the fish want to spawn near people. Actually it appears that the fish have been doing this for centuries and that later the settlements sprang up around these rapids during the settling of the country because of the availability of water power for grist mills and such.

With the run finishing, the Fish and Wildlife people can once more return to the normal working day. The close watch on Hay Bay, at Napanee, at Belleville, at Trenton, around the county of Prince Edward and at Shannonville can be relaxed until the next spawning season. Incidentally Shannonville is an active spot for spearing pickerel for residents of the reservation. This is all quite legal, however, for, under treaty, the Indians are allowed to take at least three fish per day between certain hours.

An interesting point here is that the limit allowed the members of the reservation and the enforcement of these limits was set and is carried out by themselves, with game wardens appointed and assisted by the Lands and Forests people. Aside from this particular instance, whereby the rights and customs of these people are specifically guaranteed and preserved so that their ancient means of sustenance is not jeopardized, the taking of fish during spawning season is strictly forbidden all other persons.

Until people fall into line, however, the Fish and Wildlife officers will be maintaining their 24-hour, seven-day-a-week schedule to see that the fish are protected against the preying of those who do not fish for the sport of it.

Pirates Plank-Walk Phillies For Sixth Victory in Row; Tigers Drop 2nd, Yanks Lose

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Kansas City's A's, a ghost of guys other clubs figured they could do without, may not be able to keep it up but they've been making it tough on the big teams in the American League race.

After eight games with the defending Chicago White Sox, Cleveland and hot-running Detroit, the A's are tied for third at .500, just 1½ games behind the first place Tigers. They got there by beating Detroit 3-1 Wednesday night on a six-hit...r by Ray Herbert, a two-run single by Harry Chiti, and a home run by Bob Cerv.

It was the second straight setback for the Tigers, who won their first five, but they stayed a full game ahead of the Yankees, beaten 5-4 by Washington. Baltimore beat Boston 8-3 in the only other game scheduled in the AL—the Orioles' third straight success after dropping five in a row.

Herbert (2-0) walked just two and struck out five while pulling away his second one-run game for the A's by blanking the Tigers on three hits over the last seven innings.

Detroit scored on singles by Rocky Colavito, Chico Fernandez and Lou Berberet in the second.

The A's beat southpaw Hank Aguirre (0-1) in the fourth inning, when Chiti's single followed a single by Cerv and a double by Dick Williams. Cerv then homered in the eighth off reliever Bob Bruce.

Washington (5-3) tied the A's for third with a four-run eighth inning, capped by Jim Lemon's two-run homer, against loser Whitey Ford (1-1). Rookie Dan Mincher also homered for the Senators.

Left-handed rookie Jim Kaat gained his first major league victory with a save by Pete Ramos. Kaat allowed just three hits, one Bill Skowron's solo homer in the seventh, walked two and struck out four before being lifted for a pinch - hitter in the eighth. The Yanks got their other runs, all unearned, in the fourth on two singles, the walks, a wild pitch and Elston Howard's sacrifice fly.

Arnie Portocarrero (1-0) had a two-hit shutout for seven innings and finished with a six-hitter for the Orioles in his first 1960 start. His only walk, Marty Keough's single and a double play broke up his shutout in the eighth, and the Red Sox then scored twice on three hits in the ninth.

Jim Gentile drove in three runs for the third consecutive game for the Orioles. He was credited with one in the first inning against loser Frank Sullivan (0-1) when he grounded out, and he hit a two-run single that triggered a clinching, four-run third.

They're a year late, but the Pittsburgh Pirates, a bunch of hustling Bucs who have made their slim pitching pay off, are riding a six-game winning streak atop the National League standings.

Last year was supposed to be the Pirates' year, after finishing second in 1958. But they lost their first five, never got higher than third and finished fourth. And that's where they were generally figured this year.

Now, with Bob Skinner driving in two runs and Vern Law winning his third without defeat in a 3-2 victory at Philadelphia Wednesday night, the Pirates have the longest streak of the young season and a full-game lead over idle San Francisco.

DODGERS STAY CLOSE

The Los Angeles Dodgers stayed within two games of first by beating Chicago Cubs 8-4. Milwaukee held fourth, defeating Cincinnati 8-5 in the only other National League game scheduled.

Skinner, one of five Bucs batting over .350, was 3-for-3 for a .500 average and upped his major league-leading RBI total to 15. His sacrifice fly gave the Pirates a run in the third against loser Jack Meyer (0-1), and then he brought the clincher home in the fifth with a single after Dick Groat had doubled.

The Phils scored on home runs by Bobby Del Greco and John Callison.

CRAIG OPENS WELL

The Dodgers, who won Tuesday at Chicago with a four-hit job by Don Drysdale, swept the two-game series behind the four-hit pitching of Roger Craig. It was the first start and first decision for the big righthander.

Craig had a perfect game until the sixth, when Del Rice doubled with one out and scored on Tony Taylor's single. Wally Moon was 5-for-4 and Gil Hodges drove in three runs with a homer and sacrifice fly for the Dodgers against righthander Dick Drott (0-3).

Lew Burdette, 1-1 as a starting pitcher, added his second save in relief for the Braves, blanking the Reds on one hit for three innings after taking over for winner Carl Willey (2-0) and reliefer Don McMahon. Hank Aaron, 4-for-4, hit a home run and Johnny Logan added an RBI double in a two-run fifth as Milwaukee that beat southpaw Jay Hook (1-2). Frank Robinson hit a homer for the Reds.

Napanee Takes Georgetown 4-2; Leads Series 3-1

NAPANEE (CP) — More than 1,200 fans jammed the Napanee arena Wednesday night to see Napanee Comets defeated Georgetown Raiders 4-2 in the Intermediate A Ontario Hockey Association finals.

Napanee leads the best-of-seven series 3-1 with the fifth game in Georgetown Friday.

Blake Ingles opened the scoring for Georgetown in the first minute of play and Napanee tied it at the five-minute mark, Jack McKeown counting.

Each team got a single tally in the middle frame.

Jack White put Napanee in the lead after three minutes of play in the final period and Douglas got the insurance marker.

Youth Dies After Bout

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—An 18-year-old youth died of an apparent brain hemorrhage Wednesday night shortly after leaving the ring in a supervised boxing tournament in a reformatory.

Authorities said Michael Golubiff of Milwaukee collapsed in a shower room of the state reformatory only minutes after the welterweight bout was halted in the second round.

Reformatory recreation supervisor William Baye said the fight was halted when Golubiff turned away from his opponent, who was not identified, and fell into the ropes.

Baye said Golubiff never actually was knocked down and that he protested when the match was stopped.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Take a motor-minded moppet, a youngster with a yen for piloting his own racing car, give him a "Go-Kart" and you've got some idea of the latest hobby sport to hit kid-dom —and not a few oldsters to boot.

The new sport is called "Go-Karting" and despite some adverse publicity a little while ago in Toronto, those in the know claim it is growing rapidly in popularity.

These miniature motorized flat-tops dubbed in some quarters "bum-bombs," have a maximum wheelbase of 50 inches, minimum 48 inches, measured from centre to centre.

While the hurricane deck is scarce inches above ground, the maximum height is 42 inches but this includes the seat-back. Tiredom is from nineto 12.5 inches.

The Go-Kart Club of Canada specifiicenions call for two-cycle engines only of up to 10.5 cubic maximum cylinder displacement. Since the sport has grown in popularity and has reached organizational stages, three classes are now permissible; class "A" up to 5.5 displacement; class "B", 5.51 to 11. displacement and Class "C", 11.61 to 16.5.

The overall maximum length of these buzz buggies is 72 inches. Tire size is a maximum 12.5 inches, minimum, nine inches, of a type incorporating a pneumatic tire.

The sport (the Go-Karters don't like you to call it a fad) originated three years ago in the United States when some enthusiastic parents, noticing their youngsters fooling with lawn mower motors, decided to hitch one to a wagon. The first effects were crude, but they worked, and there was born an idea.

As it developed the fathers realized there was a lot of fun to be derived from the machines. Later manufacturers sensed an opportunity and began making specialized equipment such as wheels, sprockets, and finally as the sport grew, special engines were manufactured.

The "sport" caught on and clubs began to spring up all over the United States and "Go-Karting" is now achieving popularity in Canada.

Clubs have been started in Belleville and Kingston and the success has been big for another in Trenton. The first "meet" of the district was held in Kingston last week and the second is scheduled for tonight at the Community Centre. There is a road entry list including "karts" from Belleville and special prizes have been posted for winners.

Jim Moone is behind the "Go-Kart" movement here and has formed a Belleville club. It is holding its first meet in Trenton Community Gardens on Saturday night and spectators should get quite a "kick" out of those buzz baggies slipping around a miniature track at a speed of between 30 and 40 miles per hour.

WEIGH THAT BIG ONE!

The trout season opens on Saturday morning and the pickerel-hungry will get their chance on May 15. That big one could be worth a hundred dollars to you. Just have it photographed (foolish statement) and the weight witnessed.

For the second consecutive year the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters is conducting a "Big Fish" contest. Molsons Breweries are co-operating to the extent of $3,000 in cash prizes.

One hundred awards will be awarded for the biggest fish in each of the following categories—large-mouth black bass; small-mouth black bass; yellow pickerel, great northern pike, muskinonge, lake trout, speckled trout and rainbow trout. They must be caught in Ontario waters during the regular season on rod and line and must be played by only one person.

A badge of honor will be presented each fishing enthusiast submitting an entry which complies with the minimum weight requirements.

The tournament runs from April 30 though until October 31, and all entries must be received by November 8th. Entry forms and other details may be obtained from any member or the secretary-manager, Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, Ridgetown, Ont.

American visitors copped a number of the top awards last season. The biggest fish that did not get away, however, was hooked and boated by Lee Gauthier of North Bay. It was a 54-inch musky weighing 48 pounds 12 ounces. Second biggest fish was a 34-pound lake trout caught by Leonard Pebo of Fort Arthur.

Smoke Eaters' Goal-Fire Blazes; Tie Maroons 5-5

Blast Thrice From Behind After Scoring First Marker In Nip, Tuck Overtime Fray

By Bob Trimble
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Trail Smoke Eaters, refusing to buckle under pressure, blazed from behind three times Wednesday night to earn a 5-4 overtime tie with Chatham Maroons in the second game of the Allan Cup final series.

Maroons lead the best-of-seven set for the Canadian senior hockey title 1-0 with one game tied. The third game will be played here Friday night.

A disappointing crowd of 3,018 fans, far below the 4,000 turnout for the opener, saw Smoke Eaters press from the start and finally score the first goal early in the second. The lead was shortlived and Trail trailed 4-3 by the end of the period.

Two third-period goals moved the Smoke Eaters into a tie and set the stage for a frantic 10-minute overtime session which saw both teams take turns committing play.

'WE'RE GETTING STRONG'

"If they (Chatham) thought that was tough, they ain't seen nothin' yet," growled playing coach Bobby Kromm of Trail. "We rocked 'em a thing, they're getting strong, we're getting strong."

Johnny Bereck, manager-coach of Chatham, was in about the same frame of mind.

"We threw it away when we led 5-4 in that last period. Both our forwards and defence made too many mistakes and their tying goal was a result of our stupidity."

Maroons played with only three defencemen the last half of the third and during the overtime period. Bereck benched Ivan Tennant.

Tennant was on the ice for all the Trail goals.

The turn of events led to speculation that Maroons' ace defenceman, Jack Douglas, will see action in the third game. Bereck said only: "We'll have to see at game time." Douglas has been out three weeks with a broken hand.

LINE SCORES FOUR

The Hal Jones-Kromm-Pinoke McIntyre line accounted for four Trail goals, two each by Jones and McIntyre. Kromm had three assists.

McIntyre, Jones and star defenceman George Ferguson were picked up for the playoffs from Boston and Western International League team. McIntyre was the scoring champion and Jones runnerup.

Both hit the goalpost late in the third period and Chatham goaltender Cesare Maniago made a brilliant glove stop of McIntyre's close-in drive in the eighth minute of overtime.

The unit drew sharp attention from Bereck, who said he would put his checking line of Fred Pletsch, George Aitken and Al Cleary on Jones Friday night.

"We'll see how effective they are then. They'll bat zero."

Defenceman Don Fleicher scored the other Trail goal. Gerry Sharp, with two, Pletsch, Aitken and Jack Stoddard handled the Chatham scoring.

Horeck also looked for more scoring from his big line of Sharp, Ted Power and Jim Connolly.

Sharp's two goals, both strong efforts, were the only bright spots for the line so far in the series. They brought to 58 the number of goals he has scored in 84 league and playoff games.

WILL CONTINUE

Trail netminder Seth Martin, who twisted his knee late in the third period during a goalmouth scramble, is expected to continue in the Trail net.

"But it gave us quite a scare," said Kromm. "Seth has been a big cog in our team and to lose him at this stage would really hurt."

Martin was sent flying into the goalpost during a battle for the puck at the goalcrease. He handled 30 shots, Maniago stopped 36.

None of the 12 penalties, seven served by Maroons, figured in the scoring.

Jones sent the Smoke Eaters into a 1-0 lead at 1:13 of the second period, picking the far corner after Connolly's rush with a hard shot. Stoddard tied it 1-1 at 4:13 as Trail defenceman Don Fleicher raced directly on to his stick from the side of the net.

Sharp cut around Fletcher and beat Martin with a backhander at 7:37 to give Maroons a 2-1 edge. McIntyre deadlocked things at 13:52, digging the loose puck out of a goalmouth scramble and firing it past the sprawled Maniago. Trail took the lead again at 16:36 on Fletcher's 30 - foot screened drive, but Sharp got his second goal on a breakaway from centre ice at 19:23 to make the score 3-3. Aitken moved Chatham in front at 19:48.

The Smoke Eaters came right back to set up the third period goal with Jones getting the equaliser. Ferguson clobbered a loose puck and slapped a short shot past Martin at 4:38 to give Chatham a 4-3 lead but McIntyre, on a perfect pass from veteran centre Frank Turik, tied the game at 12:12.

HURT BY PENALTIES

Horeck said penalties hurt his team. Chatham was given four of the five first-period sentences.

"Those early penalties really tired us out," Horeck said. "They were behind the eight-ball and when we went with three defencemen, that just made it worse.

"I'm not criticizing Daigneault, referee Frank Dalgaault of Montreal or Bill Ion in our home league, some of them wouldn't have been called. We played a no-frills game and let the refs don't hand out penalties unless somebody's just dirty stuff."

Maroons operate in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Sponsors Bears Giants Game

TORONTO (CP) — Joe Ryan, former business manager of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union, identified himself Wednesday as one of the sponsors of a pro-wrestling game here Aug. 15 between Chicago Bears and New York Giants of the National Football League.

Other key figures in Sports Enterprises, Inc., a sporting group, are M. J. Carroll, J. E. Churchill and S. L. Hart.

Ryan said the match, billed for Varsity Stadium, will be the first involving two NFL clubs ever played outside the United States.

Prices for the event start at $3, the best seats going for $7.50.

Fish Died By Thousands In Lake Scugog

TORONTO (CP)—The heaviest winter kill of fish in more than 50 years has been reported at Lake Scugog, the department of lands and forests said Wednesday.

It estimated that more than 2,000 muskellonge, 1,000 large-mouth bass, 30,000 carp, 1,000 perch and lesser numbers of other species have died.

The lake is a large but fairly shallow body of water 30 miles northwest of here.

Oil Kings Upset Teeps 5-3

'Dont Bet on Us' Youngsters Hand Eastern Champs Jolt In Memorial Cup Inaugural

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Ex-motion Oil Kings mailed the Catharines Teepees with a Chi nook-like punch Wednesday night to win 5-3 in the opening game of the Memorial Cup hockey fi nals.

The western champions held sti edge in the game for more than two periods with their swift skating—and they took no nonsense along the boards, returning checks from the burlier Teepees.

The Teepees, a team that came up from the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A cellar to sweep the eastern finals staged one of their famous comebacks in the third frame when they trailed 3-0. They tied the score at the mid-way mark on goals by Ray Culies and Chico Maki.

FENNINGTON'S GOAL WINS

The deadlock lasted 10 seconds. Right- rated Cliff Pennington, who joined Edmonton from Flin Flon took a pass from Ed Joyal and blistered a hasher shot into the lower open corner of the net.

After the game both coaches agreed the series looked like a long, tough one. Neither would make any prediction of winning.

"We've got our work cut out for us," said Teepee coach Max Kaminsky.

"St. Catharines is a good hockey club. Don't write them off," said Edmonton mentor Harry Allen.

Red-headed Bruce MacGregor, Edmonton captain, led his Mi nis with two goals. Other Oil Kings' scorers were Joyal and Bob Cor.

Both teams were a man short when Teepees defenceman Terry McGuire received a 'roughing' at 12:10. He grabbed the puck from a scramble around his own net and made a solo dash the length of the ice.

TEEPEE STICKHANDLING

Ed_Joyal showed some nifty stickhandling when he left St. Catharines defenceman Carlo Longarini fumbling and flipped the puck past goalie Roger Crozier at 19:03 to tie the game.

Edmonton had a few anxious moments when agile defenceman Russ Gillow was hit over the right eye by a slap shot from Teepees' Chico Maki early in the first. The game was delayed 12 minutes while doctors closed the cut with 10- stitches.

Gillow showed no bad effects as he continued to turn back St. Catharines' rushes during the remainder of the game.

MacGregor put Edmonton ahead at 2:15 of the second period when he stole a pass intended for McGuire and slipped a sliding shot past Crozier.

The third period was only 4-13 old when MacGregor scored again on a rebound.

St. Catharines pulled all the stops to tie on goals by Cullen and Maki at 9:08 and 11:30.

ENDS RALLY

The goal by Pennington within 10 seconds took the wind out of the Teepees' sails and the clincher by Cox at 13:35 broke them completely.

Referee Joe Venet of Winnipeg handed out 12 penalties — seven to St. Catharines.

Edmonton had 34 shots on goal and St. Catharines 38.

Second game of the best-of-seven series is at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens Friday night with the third in the Gardens Sunday.

"This guy Gillow is the best goaltender Teepees have faced all season," said Rudy Pilous, the Chicago Black Hawk coach who is the owner and general manager of the St. Catharines club.

Pilous felt that Teepees would have won by two or three goals if they had been facing any of the Ontario junior goaltenders.

Teepees centre Peter Berge suffered a possible shoulder separation while defenceman Bill Speer suffered a charley horse to the left thigh.

Berge was injured late in the third period and could be out for the rest of the series. Speer is expected to be back for Friday night's game.

Kentucky Derby Favorite, 'Victoria Park' Meet Today

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Tomorrow, the early Kentucky Derby favorite, and Victoria Park, the pride of Canada, meet as half of the field today on the $25,000-added Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland.

T. A. Grisson's Lurullah and Mrs. L. P. Tate's Come About complete the field for the mile and an eighth test that last year sent its winner, Tomy Lee, to Churchill Downs for a Derby victory.

The field of four is the smallest since 1942, when Shut Out defeated two other starters. Shut Out also won the last Blue Grass winner before Tomy Lee to win the Derby.

One other year—1940—the race included only three starters.

Thompson, owned by C. V. Whitney of New York, and Victoria Park, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, will carry Derby weight of 126 pounds.

The Blue Grass will offer more room for a match between Tompion and Victoria Park, the first time they've met in the wire last Friday in the six-furlong Forerunner Purse for a field of Derby eligibles.

Both colts will have the same riders as in the Forerunner—Willie Shoemaker on Tompion and Bill Hartack aboard Victoria Park.

North Bay Takes Step For Junior 'A'

NORTH BAY (CP) — Hockey-minded citizens took their first concrete step towards making a junior 'A' club a reality here last night by establish an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A franchise here next season at a meeting Wednesday night at city hall.

A delegation of four decided to attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association Saturday at Toronto to investigate the possibility of entering a team.

Representing North Bay hockey interests will be arena manager Morris Solder, former North Bay Trappers' senior operator Pete Palangio, Northern Ontario Hockey Association executive officer Jim Aspin and former NOHA president Carl Palangio.

On the Track

PORT ERIE (CP) — Winning Shot returned to the races after an absence of nine months and galloped to a comparatively easy win in the feature race at the Port Erie track Wednesday. The big chestnut owned by Mrs. Evans of Toronto was the beaten odds-on favorite in the 1959 running of the Queen's Plate.

Page Service was second and Woodrunner was third.

GERMANY WINS

LUDWIGSHAFEN (CP) — Germany (AP)—Germany defeated Portugal 2-1 Wednesday in a national soccer game watched by 50,000 fans.

Television Has Shown Little Creativity in Theatrical Areas

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the curious aspects of television: Although it is basically concerned with entertainment, it has shown little creativity in the theatrical areas.

TV borrowed the form — the time schedules and commercial structure—from radio, its material and dramatic forms come largely from Broadway and motion pictures. Its great stars, if they didn't come into TV with big stage or movie names, at least had their basic training there.

Perhaps one of the big problems of the medium is the development of a comedy, a gossamer product often so topical and attuned to the times that a month-old quip is as dated as yesterday's newspaper.

TV eats up comedians almost as voraciously as it consumes manuscripts. Some of the big ones have survived—or been reared—victims of over-exposure or tired material.

Dorothy Loudon, one of the season's few bright, funny finds, suspects she knows the reason for the sad plight.

"The main trouble is in production and direction," she insists. "Everybody is so nervous and they never want to give you enough time to set anything up properly. Even in a night club you have 30 or 35 minutes. You can start slowly and build, carrying the audience along with you. In television they give you three minutes or five minutes and expect you to have everybody screaming."

Dorothy stars tonight in CBS' Accent on Comedy, with Herb Shriner.

It was an enchanting idea: Set talented French entertainers in the middle of Paris-in-the-spring scenes and let them perform for American television. That was Wednesday night's ABC invitation to Paris special, but it missed the mark. The rather disjointed show lacked gloss, gaiety and even good production — in spite of Maurice Chevalier and France.

Jeffrey Hunter Will Play Jesus in The King of Kings

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Film-land legends die hard, and the one about H. B. Warner is returning to heckle Jeffrey Hunter.

The 33 - year - old actor has signed to play Jesus in The King of Kings, to be filmed by Samuel Bronston in Spain, Italy and the Holy Land. Jesus has often been portrayed fleetingly in films, but this is the first important biography since Cecil B. deMille made his silent King of Kings in 1927. (The deMille estate is suing Bronston, over use of the title.)

The Wm. Tracie - looking Warner played the title role for deMille, and his acting career was blighted for years thereafter. During one of his comebacks, the actor told me producers could see him in nothing but religious roles.

HE REALIZES DANGER

Hunter realizes the danger he faces:

"Already, several people have asked me if I knew what I was doing. 'Remember what happened to H. B. Warner,' they say.

"I know there are certain risks involved. But I'm willing to take them because the part is so great. The script is fashioned in terms of action; the violence of the time is portrayed convincingly.

"And Jesus is not a quiet, contemplative, semi-effeminate person as he has sometimes been pictured. He is a carpenter of Nazareth, a strong, wiful person who would rout the money-changers from the temple with his own hands.

"I'm not worried about getting typed. Gee, I've played so many kinds of roles in my career that I don't think this one could stop me."

Burnley Favored for Title After Defeating 'Brum' 1-0

LONDON (Reuters) — Burnley became the favorite Wednesday night to win the English first division soccer championship by defeating Birmingham City 1-0 and moving into second place in the standings.

Burnley now has 52 points from 40 games, Wolverhampton, the current leaders on goal average, has the same number of points but have played one game more. Tottenham Hotspur has 51 points from 41 games.

Burnley last won the title in 1921 and plays Fulham Saturday and Manchester City Monday. Three points from these games—irrespective of what Wolverhampton and Tottenham do—will give Burnley the championship.

Brian Pilkington scored the vital goal Wednesday night nine minutes from the final whistle.

Norwich City, which beat Southend 4-3, now is certain of promotion with Southampton from the third to the second division.

Royals Beaten

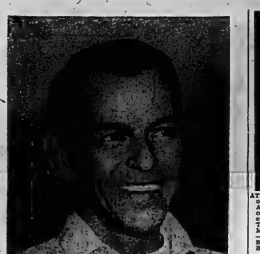
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Havana Sugar Kings at long last flexed their muscles in the International League and let it be known they are about ready to vacate the cellar.

The Sugar Kings came up with a big five-run eighth inning Wednesday night to topple the Montreal Royals 10-5 for their second victory in eight starts. They are still last, 4½ games behind league-leading Buffalo, but only a half game behind Miami, Columbus and Richmond.

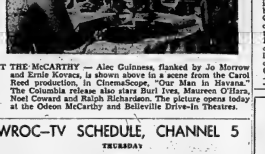
Buffalo opened its home season before 13,867 Wednesday afternoon and defeated Richmond 7-2 while Rochester played before 12,911 in its home opener—also in daylight—and beat Columbus 7-3. Toronto defeated Miami 5-4.

Doubles by Felix Torres and Ray Shearer, each driving in two runs, were the big blows in Havana's eighth inning. Bob Lennon homered for the Royals. Luis Arroyo was the winner in relief.



WINS HIS SECOND

Art Mahaffey won his second, limiting the Vees to six hits and fanned 11. Rookie Wayne Graham and Don Landrum homered for the Bisons and Jim Pisoni hit one for Richmond. Gary Blaylock was the loser.



Home runs by Jim Frey and Duke Carmel and a two-run error by Columbus shortstop Dick Barone helped the Wings to their victory. Frey hit a two - run homer and Barone's error gave the Wings the tying and go-ahead runs in the sixth. Carmel hit a three-run shot. Jim Donohue (3-0) was the winner in relief and Tom Cheney (3-1) lost.

Toronto scored five runs in the first inning as Al Cicotte got his second victory and Herb Moford the loss. Bob Wilson's double and a single by Mike de la Hoz each drove in two runs for the Leafs.

General Tendencies: Until noon be very careful you do not become embroiled in some argument with another who is tired and worn out from lots of personal problems. Later on, friendship is best instead. Then through the night the aspects are fine for having a good time, making visits and generally enjoying yourself as most suits you.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Early in a.m. is the best time to forget any worries about which you can do nothing. Get busy garnering information and putting plans to work. P.M. you are very charming and should go out socially and impress the right people favorably.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — During a.m. you could easily argue with a good comrade over which route would be ill-advised. Listen to his, or her good suggestions instead and improve relations. P.M. you can be very happy in some personal relationship.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Refrain from entering into that discussion with a person up who is justly angry at somebody or you lose out. P.M. fine for any social gatherings or parties. Better still, plan one yourself on the spur of the moment. Have fun.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Get those routine tasks out of the way early in a.m. Instead of dabbling in the same unknown place or person. Spend time this evening finding out your true position with higher-ups in career or personal affairs.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Don't endeavor to argue with a true expert, especially since you are only theorizing. Tonight it is wise to make new contacts who can assist you materially in your career and agencies you of the best and most modern methods of operating.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Endeavoring to put your worries on the shoulder of the big society who is already overly burdened can only bring hardship where a higher-up is concerned. Be helpful instead and smallness both business and personal conditions.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Working too much or too hastily in a.m. can only result in errors and damage. Relax. In p.m. you can plan use a new approach with associate that will be infinitely more successful.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be pleasant and smiling today, but refrain from going on some pleasure jaunt or you will lose out on the fine opportunities to increase income all about you. P.M. plan regular duties more efficiently.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Steer clear of arguments at shoddy. Get out early and visit with associates for an active day that will really increase profits. Be sure to go out for recreation and sports this evening. Have fun.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Drive most carefully today and avoid a possible accident. You can then get many duties done efficiently and still have time to devote to improving health, appearance, wardrobe, hobbies, etc.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Use plenty of calm resistence now and retain your hard-earned savings. Investments would not turn out well at this time. Get regular chores out of the way quickly and then be off for a truly good time. Be sociable.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Strict adherence to family duty and regular job are best for you today, although your desire to be out for fun is almost unconfirmable. Plan your work carefully, then keep at it religiously. Be patient, good-humored.

If your child is born today—The child born today will have much an active mind that he, or she, will be into everything at a very early age and still seem impatient, which will lead you to believe that there is discontent in the makeup. So, be sure you early provide sports and other interests to keep your child busily occupied in a constructive way. Adult life will be very successful because of knowledge acquired in formative years.

Natural Herbs Found In Syntona Make Your Ideal Spring Tonic

After the inactivity and enjoyment of the long winter months thousands suffer from faulty digestion, stomach gas, excess acidity and heartburn, bowels do not function properly, appetite is lost and you feel tired, sluggish and rundown.

With the first sign of warmer weather these troubles usually become pronounced. Each day a tonic and pick need of a good Spring tonic is more apparent.

Nature provides, made from herbs and roots, the finest Spring tonic we know, Syntona. It is particularly valuable at this season of the year. Syntona helps you to digest accumulated acids and impurities by its action on the stomach, liver and bowels and by promoting elimination of waste.

At the same time Syntona brings quick and effective relief from backache, headaches and rheumatic pains. In time, Syntona has made over four thousands of men and women healthier, happier, full of energy, banished constipation, restored appetite and overcome tired, sluggish, rundown feeling. Now say that after one week they begin to feel different, better.

This spring try Syntona yourself. Use as directed for one week. If you are not then 10 times as well as ever before for the warmer weather feeling fit, return the empty carton and we will refund your money.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

DON'T BE A "FLOOD VICTIM" THIS SPRING

This doesn't have to happen to you this spring. Have us install a Sump Pump and Check Drain Operation in your basement drain. A flooded basement from your drain backing up and up hundreds of gallons of ruined merchandise, furniture, etc. Don't take chances when you could prevent it. This handy item also has a battery shut-off to keep drain open all of the time.

TOWNSHIP OF THURLOW

In the matter of The Municipal Act and in the matter of the proposed By-law of the Corporation of the Township of Thurlow to stop-up and close an allowance for road.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to Section 637 of The Municipal Act that the Corporation of the Township of Thurlow intends to consider and, if deemed advisable, to pass on its regular meeting to be held at the Township Hall in the Village of Canniffon on the 6th day of May, 1960, at the hour of 8 p.m. a by-law to stop-up and close part of the allowance for road between Lots 8 & 9, Con. 3, which said parcel is described as follows:

ALL THAT PORTION OF THE ROAD allowance between BROKEN FRONT LOTS 8 AND 9, CONCESSION 3, in the Township of Thurlow in the County of Hastings, in the Province of Ontario, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at the intersection of the said limit of the lands of the right-of-way of the Canadian National Railway Company and the said limit of a service road as shown on Registered Plan No. 21M-11 with the said limit of the lands of the County of Hastings as number 113; with the said limit of the said road allowance between lots 8 and 9, Con. 3 Thurlow, a distance thereon of 1543.56 feet measured in a northerly direction from the said limit of the lands of the County of Hastings; thence from the southwest corner of Registered Plan No. 21M-11 as aforesaid; thence southerly 166.58 feet along the said limit of the said road allowance between the said limit of the lands of the said right-of-way of the Canadian National Railways, the chord equivalent being 166.58 feet measured on a bearing of 13° east, to the westerly limit of the said road allowance; thence north 180° 94' west along the said westerly limit of the said road allowance 1147.76 feet to the northwest corner of the said road allowance; thence easterly and along the northerly limit of the said road allowance 66 feet, more or less, to the northeast corner of the said road allowance; thence southerly and along the said easterly limit of the road allowance 1015.1 feet, more or less, to the point of commencement.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that a By-law to authorize the said stopping-up and closing of the said allowance for road as hereinbefore mentioned, the Council of the Corporation of Township of Thurlow shall then and there hear in person or by his counsel, solicitor or agent, any person who claims that his land will be prejudicially affected by the said by-law and who applies to be heard.

Dated at Canniffon this 20th day of April, 1960.

NOTICE

TOWNSHIP OF THURLOW

In the matter of The Municipal Act and in the matter of the proposed By-law of the Corporation of the Township of Thurlow to stop-up and close an allowance for highway.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to Section 637 of The Municipal Act that the Corporation of the Township of Thurlow intends to consider and, if deemed advisable, to pass at its regular meeting to be held at the Township Hall in the Village of Canniffon on the 6th day of May, 1960, at the hour of 8 p.m. a by-law to stop-up and close parts of the allowance for road between Lots 10 and 11, said parcels are described as follows:—

1. That portion of Township Road Allowance extending from the South boundary of the travelled roadway in Con. 2, Thurlow Township, northerly between Lots 10 and 11 to the North boundary of the travelled roadway in Con. 3, Thurlow Township, northerly between Lots 10 and 11 and West halves of Lot 10 in the said Third Concession and the South boundary of the right-of-way for Provincial Highway No. 2.

2. Radio Station At Peterborough Changes Hands

TORONTO (CP)—Sale of radio station CJPT at Peterborough to a group headed by Alan Waters, owner of radio station CHOY in Ottawa and Ralph Snelgrove, owner of CKVR radio and television station Barrie, has been confirmed by Mr. Waters.

The sale is subject to approval by the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Mr. Waters said the Peterborough station, which opened four months ago, encountered management problems.

He and Mr. Snelgrove each will hold 26 per cent of the shares with the remainder owned by Toronto and Peterborough businessmen.

The station had been controlled by a Peterborough broadcaster, William Brennan and Dud Haywood.

Peterborough has another station, CHEX.

COMMONS BACKS

tion for debate on a matter of "urgent public importance" received no objection from the prime minister, who launched the three-hour Commons debate on apartheid.

There was no resolution as such before the House. Technically, Mr. Pearson's motion asked for adjournment of the Commons to discuss the matter—one which he said threatened relations of confidence and friendship between members of the Commonwealth caused by the policy of apartheid of the government of South Africa."

His motion simply cleared the Commons' schedule of regular business in order to make room for the three-hour apartheid debate, in which five speakers took part.

Mr. Diefenbaker's own stand for a moderate approach to the South African situation was underlined by External Affairs Minister Green, who also leaves Ottawa today to attend a meeting of the NATO Council in Istanbul.

"It is not the Canadian way to go to extremes of one kind or another," Mr. Green said.

At the time, Mr. Green was replying mostly to CCF criticisms that Canada had not been outspoken enough on the South African situation. Previously, CCF House Leader Hazen Argue had called for a formal diplomatic protest and a Canadian boycott on South African goods.

The socialist party's position in the Commons Wednesday was no less vigorous in its condemnation of apartheid but, as expressed by Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) in Mr. Argue's absence, it contained few of the arguments advanced earlier.

Mr. Winch described apartheid as "not only villainous but perilous." It was tantamount to dictatorship.

Mr. Diefenbaker, last speaker in the debate, said that after hearing all party representatives express their views "we will all be reinforced in the sure knowledge that there are no divisions of opinion on this matter."

He agreed with Mr. Pearson's contention that wherever discrimination takes place it leads to disaster.

"We say we cannot win a nuclear war; that no nation can win it," Mr. Diefenbaker said. "Equally so, no nation today can win a race war within or without its territories."

"Our responsibility everywhere within the Commonwealth is to make the Commonwealth a bridge based on tolerance which will bring to the whites, the blacks, and all the other colors that are represented in this Commonwealth, equality through moderation.

"Discretion in discussion does not mean acquiescence or tolerance of the thing with which we disagree.

"Bettering his argument against those who call for expulsion of South Africa from the Commonwealth, Mr. Diefenbaker said this would lead to motions and majorities in the prime ministers' conference and "it would not be very long before all of us would have voted the rest out."

nation.

Charges of fraud, intimidation and police brutality during the election set off six weeks of revolt that overthrew the Rhee regime.

Choi has been in hiding since the bloody climax of the revolt April 19. There have been unconfirmed reports that he has fled the country.

Others whose arrests were ordered were Lee Kang-Hak, former director of the hated national police under Choi, and Han Hi-suk, Rhee's campaign manager.

The death of Lee and his family was announced by the army against those who call for expulsion of South Africa from the Commonwealth, Mr. Diefenbaker said this would lead to motions and majorities in the prime ministers' conference and "it would not be very long before all of us would have voted the rest out."

Mr. and Lee Kang-ak, 49, committed suicide at the home of a member of the president's secretarial staff, a friend of Mrs. Lee.

The announcement gave no details, but it was understood that the elder son—whom Rhee and his children's wife had adopted—shot his parents and his brother and then turned the gun on himself.

The American - educated Lee had lived his political life in the shadow of Rhee, the man he idolized. He served as the aged leader's closest aide, friend and hatchet man, and was his choice to succeed him in the presidency.

ARRESTS SHIP

TORONTO (CP)—The Swedish freighter Rigoletto was arrested minutes after it docked in Toronto harbor Tuesday on a warrant taken out by Volkswagen Canada Limited claiming $5,316 damages its cars brought to Canada on three previous shipments. Sheriff's officer Ed McCarl said the ship can't move on its moorings until its agent puts up a bond covering the damage.

is considering consolidating its operation in one locality and is looking at Elliot Lake, the source said.

Both firms are looking to the federal government for help. It is events of recent weeks will be adding to what will happen in the months ahead," Mr. Pearson said. "There are deep, dark forces at work which may soon sweep away the chances of any settlement based on reason and justice."

It was Mr. Pearson, whose mo understood the government won't make a decision until the firms supply more information on the projects.

In the meantime, it was reliably reported, the federal government has not heard further from the province of Ontario on what plans it may have for the model community in the Blind River uranium district. The town faces sweep-away unemployment arising from the United States decision not to renew uranium purchase contracts beyond 1963.

FEDERAL PROJECT

The federal government is said to have searched future programs of several of its own departments but so far has been able to find only one project—the defence establishment which would suit the location, employment problem and resource potential of Elliot Lake.

Elliot Lake's residents have urged the government to build a nuclear research centre there, instead of in the Whiteshell area 60 miles north of Winnipeg.

However, the government is firm in its decision that the centre must be located near a university campus and should go to Western Canada to help that area develop in the field of science and industry. The Whiteshell project will be five years in building, and will then employ about 1,000.

CONGRESS BODY MOVES TO KILL BOMARC

30 Students Hurt In Clash With Ankara Police

4,000 Defy Martial Law To Protest Dictatorship

By The Associated Press

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Student demonstrations against the strong-man government of Premier Adnan Menderes spread to Ankara today. At least 30 persons were injured in a violent clash between university students and the police.

Spurred by the example of Korean students who led the successful revolt against President Syngman Rhee, some 10,000 students and others defied for a third day in Istanbul Turkey's largest city. Unofficial reports said police fire killed four persons, but the military commander of Istanbul denied this.

Although martial law was proclaimed in both Istanbul and Ankara, only 4,000 students slipped Turkey's independence ambush assembled on the Ankara University grounds today to demonstrate in support of the Istanbul rioters.

CHARGE STUDENTS

Three hundred mounted police charged into the students as they started to march away from the university grounds, yelling in praise of ex - president Ismet Inonu, leader of Menderes' chief opposition.

In the melee that followed, persons were hurt and all the windows in one wing of the university building were smashed.

The students retreated into the building and threw pieces of broken window glass down on the mounted police.

Two Turkish newspaper photographers and a Turkish reporter were arrested as they covered the tracas.

MOB COMMANDER

Ankara's military commander appealed to the students to go home. But demonstrators booed him and stayed in the law building. The police then set a cordon around the building, so that students could not leave it to rally others to their support.

At least eight ambulances moved into the university grounds to get the injured out.

Army troops also blocked off Inonu's home and the approaches to government buildings.

Menderes was reconciled as a dynamic political organizer, entered Parliament in 1931. After Ataturk's death he helped found the Democratic party. He became premier in 1950 on a program of free enterprise.

He boldly reverses the laws to invite foreign investment. But his aid—he eventually amounted to more than 12,000,000,000—he imported tractors and other farm subsidies, opened new coal and ore mines, sugar beet factories, textile and steel mills, huge dams, highways, power lines and irrigation projects. Irrigation increased tenfold. In 1953 Turkey became a exporting wheat.

NEW PROSPERITY

The result was new prosperity for Turkey's 30,000,000 people, 65 per cent of whom are illiterate peasants when he took office.

But by the end of 1957, the government was plagued with serious inflation. Foreign credit was drying up. Farmers withheld refused to slow down.

Turkey's chief allies had to supply loans. Their reasons were primarily strategic, for Turkey forms the geographical link between the North Atlantic and Middle East alliances. It has always been bitterly anti-Russian and now is anti-Communist.

Explorer Claims Finding Wicked Cities of Sodom and Gomorrah

AMMAN, Jordan (CP)—A Baptist missionary-explorer believes that he and three other American explorers have found the wicked Biblical cities of Sodom and Gomorrah on the bottom of the Dead Sea.

The discovery was announced here Thursday night by Dr. Ralph Baxter, an American Baptist missionary who lives in Beirut, Lebanon, after underwater reconnaissance. The explorers established some two centuries before Christ. The cities of vice and sin inundated, apparently after an earthquake.

He said he and his divers found a seven 15 feet wide and eight feet high under the waters of the Dead Sea between Jordan and Israel. The levee ran from the southwestern point of the Israel Peninsula due west for two miles.

HOUSE EXTENDS HIGHWAY ACT FOR THREE YEARS

Plenty of Sniping On Quebec Election

OTTAWA (CP)—While the cat's away, the mice will play.

Perhaps it was post - holiday exuberance as much as the absence of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, en route to the London conference of Commonwealth premiers, that led the Commons down byroads of debate during most of Thursday.

Or maybe some of the opening guns of Quebec's June 22 election were being fired at the same time as there was scattered firing in anticipation of provincial elections in Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Whatever the ailment was serious enough—a government measure to extend the life of the Trans-Canada Highway Act by three years to Dec. 31, 1965, with a maximum federal contribution to the provinces for building the road to $400,000,000 from $300,000,000.

Eventually the measure received approval in principle by a vote of 122 to 0.

IMMUNITY

The sitting began soberly enough with Finance Minister Fleming informing Opposition Leader Pearson that he is acting on the assumption that Justice Minister Fulton is acting external affairs minister while Mr. Diefenbaker is in London and External Affairs Minister Green is in Istanbul attending a NATO meeting.

After that, the infighting began as the Trans-Canada Highway. Deputy Speaker Jacques Flynn sought to shake off references in Quebec's non-participation in the highway program but Quebec Liberal members accused him of getting in some remarks on the election.

Antilles Deeb (L—Montreal St. Denis), surged to his feet and shouted out from Quebec Premier Barrette the particular objection of the Union Nationale government to the act.

Mr. Deeb asserted the Union Nationale wasn't interested in participating because the act was drafted by a federal government in Ottawa. Now that more highway projects were under the accession of a Progressive Conservative government, Mr. Barrette might be willing to enter a highway agreement.

Mr. Deeb was describing Mr. Denis as "the Bob Hope of the Commons" when he took part in "reading the mind of Mr. Barrette" for the benefit of the Liberals in the Commons and the Liberal opposition in the Quebec legislature.

Both Mr. Walker and William Payne (PC—Saskatoon) drew a bead on B.C.'s Social Credit government and its Highways Minister, Phil Gaglardi.

Mr. Walker said the B.C. government was using its gas tax for building the Trans - Canada Highway in B.C. Mr. Payne in Payne made similar statements.

The minister then tangled with CCF Opposition House Leader Argue who said Mr. Walker refused to allow the CCF time to get listers to talk about extending the highway.

Mr. Walker accused Mr. Argue of fighting a provincial election campaign in the guise of a statement denied ever receiving a request for time and expressed readiness at any time to meet Saskatchewan's Premier Douglas.

Foreign Trade Deficit Cut To Quarter of That Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's foreign trade deficit—excess of imports over exports — was down sharply in the first quarter of this year from the corresponding period of 1959.

The bureau of statistics reported today a three-month import balance of $28,700,000, against $165,200,209 in the first quarter of last year.

Exports were up 22.8 per cent to $1,291,500,000 while imports were up 2.3 per cent higher at $1,320,200,000.

Exports to all countries in March were up 15.3 per cent from March, 1959, reaching a value of $432,900,000. The March increase compared with gains of 33.5 per cent in February and 21.2 per cent in January, this year over the corresponding months of last year, and continued the unbroken monthly year-to-year increases that began last September.

Imports from all countries were up 10 per cent in March to $476,400,000 from March, 1959, following a 19-per-cent increase in February and a very small decline in January.

Exports to the United States were 19.8 per cent higher at $258,300,000 and imports from the U.S. up 7.8 per cent to $936,300,000. Canada's March trade balance with the U.S. to

Seamen's Union Expelled, Teamsters Told to Get in Line

MONTREAL (CP)—With some grave misgivings the Canadian Labor Congress Thursday expelled the Seafarers International Union and warned the powerful Teamsters Union to get in line within 30 days or be automatically ousted.

Both orders were hauled on the CLC carpet for raiding other congress affiliates.

The SIU was ejected without ceremony by a two-thirds vote of the jurisdiction of the National Association of Marine Engineers.

The Teamsters, a 91,000-member brotherhood with allies in the building trades and allied crafts, forced a trial before 1,000 CLC delegates—and then was suspended automatically expelled by May 28 if it doesn't abide with the congress constitution rules against raiding.

The two moves promised an era of uneasiness for Canadian labor—particularly because the 1,150,000 trade union movement has decided wholeheartedly to step into direct political action with a new reform party.

There were signs of a prompt alliance being formed between the Teamsters on the highways and the seafarers on the seaway and Great Lakes.

Even outside the congress, both unions face organizational attacks from CLC unions.

There were fears of a bitter civil war within Canada's labor movement if the breaches are not healed quickly.

CLC president SIU, involved in a conciliation hassle with the lake carriers over higher wages and other demands, were expelled without any debate—because the union failed to appeal against a CLC suspension order during the convention.

But the Teamsters, found guilty of raiding members of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks in the CPR's new merchandising service at Vancouver, brought their fight to the convention floor after five days of behind-the-scenes talks.

CLC officers tried to avert a convention - floor battle in the hope of achieving a compromise on the Vancouver situation.

In union parlance, a raid takes place when one union signs up members of another union in the hope of getting a majority and thus winning bargaining rights.

Frank H. Hall of the railway clerks accused the Teamsters of moving into his territory at the Vancouver shipping service and new integrated shipping service that completes railway, highway and water facilities.

The Teamsters, who represent truck drivers across Canada, maintained their right to represent the CPR workers—about 450 altogether—and rejected a CLC compromise that would have released the workers to the RCRC.

The proposal also guaranteed congress protection for the Teamsters brotherhood if and when other jurisdictional disputes arose between a road and road transport.

"If the protection is of the same type as in the past, we cannot accept it," said I. M. (Casey) Wood, Canadian director of the Teamsters.

Mr. Hall contended the railway employees in the new merchandising service were freight handlers and were therefore within men his union represents across Canada.

He told the 1,600 delegated at the convention that the Vancouver workers were part of a nation-wide group of railway employees, all covered under one set of contracts.

"The only issue here is—is the constitution to prevail?" he said. "Are we to live by the law of order or the law of the jungle?"

MUST AVOID TRIAL OF SOUTH AFRICA --- DIEFENBAKER

Tells London Press Hard Words No Help

LONDON (CP)) — Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker, arriving by air today for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, said the meeting should avoid putting South Africa on trial for its race segregation policies.

The Canadian leader, who flew in from Ottawa for the conference which opens Tuesday, told reporters at the airport that "harsh words cannot bring about a spirit of conciliation." He suggested that the best way to deal with the problem would be through informal discussions with External Affairs Minister Eric Louw of South Africa, who will attend the talks in place of the wounded Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

The Canadian prime minister said the apartheid policy—racial wealth denied that the conference of his prime ministers should become in effect "a judicial review on the actions of other Commonwealth members."

He said acceptance that the Commonwealth "is founded on collective condemnation would, I think, bring an end to the whole conception of the Commonwealth."

The appropriate course to take toward the racial situation in South Africa would be informal discussions among members of prime ministers rather than making the subject one for general discussion.

The prime ministers could make their views known through informal talks and meetings, and the Diefenbaker report that this way there would be an improvement in the situation.

Britain's Harold Macmillan and Australian Prime Minister Robert Menzies have expressed the same views, but other leaders in the Commonwealth, particularly Prime Minister Nehru of India, have proposed that the South African question be formally placed on the conference table.

Arriving with the prime minister aboard the RCAF CS aircraft were External Affairs Minister Green, who flew on Saturday to Istanbul for a NATO meeting starting today, and a group of officials from the prime minister's office and the external affairs department.

Diefenbaker was greeted by Lord Hailsham, Britain's deputy seal and minister of science and technology.

Canadian High Commissioner George Drew and Mrs. Drew also were on hand to greet party.

In a general statement, the prime minister said he has been a "tremendous change" in the international climate since he left Canada a week ago today.

"Whether that change will be for a prime ministers' conference," he said.

While he did not necessarily agree with all the criticisms of his rulings, he said, there was a "new attitude of negotiation," which he hoped would be the result.

He said he was "very much encouraged" by the conference which "is specifically indulging in three days."

On Berlin, he said there can be no abdication of the Western rights in the city of East Berlin "or the leguered city," can in no way be sacrificed.

Canada Will Not Get Missiles If Program Reduced

Appropriations Group Prefers F-106 Fighters

WASHINGTON (CP) — A key Congressional committee today voted elimination of all the Bomarc-B missile production with the exception of a small development program and suggested some of the funds be used to purchase two squadrons of supersonic F-106 fighters.

Following this recommendation the powerful House of Representatives appropriations committee voted 29 to 1 to report to the House a bill providing $7,046,000,000 for the defence department.

"If the recommendation is approved and finalized, it will not be in keeping with arrangements made over a year ago by our two governments for the defence plan," Mr. Pearkes said.

The U.S. had been scheduled to supply the Bomarc missile for Bay and Mont Laurier, Que. About $400,000 has already been spent on preparation of the sites and another $2,000,000 was earmarked for this purpose this year.

As the Commons began its sitting today Mr. Pearson asked for the government's views on the Washington report that the House committee recommended discontinuation of the Bomarc pro-

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A high-pressure area centred over Lake Ontario will bring clear skies with light winds to southern sections of the province. Colder air spreading southeastward is expected to cover all northern regions by early Saturday. A low-pressure area over Kansas is expected to move northeastward, bringing showers to southwestern Ontario and rain to central Ontario tonight and Saturday.

Margaret and Tony Get Rough Time Since Engagement Announced

LONDON (CP) — No doubt about it, Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones have been getting a rough time since their engagement was announced two months ago.

Scarcely a day has passed without some British newspaper columnist or commentator firing a volley of criticism in the general direction of Clarence House. And whether its true or not, it must be beyond their control.

Although most newspapers have expressed warm approval of the marriage, the British have resented them from dabbling in politics. Margaret came under the young couple cringe. "A friend of Antony Armstrong-Jones" has become one of the familiar bylines in Britain.

It started with the announcement a month ago that Jeremy Fry would not be best man. Jaundice was the reason offered, but the country buzzed with rumors that this was merely the front for other reasons.

Then came the story of "royalty boycott"—the fact that only 700 persons were asked to attend the wedding. Few are, but it was the way it was done that was the reason. One newspaper suggested it's because the princess is a snob. Another commentator calls it retaliation for the fact that Margaret has attended only few royal events in Europe.

Meanwhile, Armstrong-Jones is being criticized for not getting a

Appropriations Group Prefers F-106 Fighters

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes said today in the Commons that any acceptance of the Bomarc-B anti-aircraft missile would "not be in keeping" with air defence arrangements made more than a year ago between the Canadian and United States governments.

He said in reply to Opposition Leader Pearson that the U.S. Senate also administration still have to approve the recommendations of the U.S. House of Representatives defence appropriations committee that Bomarc-B production be eliminated.

"If the recommendation is approved and finalized, it will not be in keeping with arrangements made over a year ago by our two governments for the defence plan," Mr. Pearkes said.

The U.S. had been scheduled to supply the Bomarc missile for Bay and Mont Laurier, Que. About $400,000 has already been spent on preparation of the sites and another $2,000,000 was earmarked for this purpose this year.

As the Commons began its sitting today Mr. Pearson asked for the government's views on the Washington report that the House committee recommended discontinuation of the Bomarc pro-

TEN PASS Y.M.C.A. LIFE SAVING TESTS

Last Wednesday evening 10 local men passed their YMCA life saving certificate tests under the examination of a panel of four examiners at the Albert College pool. Successful in the junior division, for ages 14 to 16 inclusive, were: Jim Tilker, David Craig, Ron Dorsey, David Hilston and Bill Phillips.

In the senior division, for those of 17 years and over, there were Donald Wilson, Harry Simpson, Ronald Chapman, John McDowell and Malcolm Gibson. The YMCA Life Saver Instructor's award was presented to Lamont Parks.

Examiners for the tests were Ronald Poole, Pat Featherstone, John Perry and Doug Paton.

DISTRIBUTE TREES FOR PRIVATE PLOTS

The Tweed District of the Lands and Forests department is now in the midst of distributing tree seedlings to hundreds of landowners who have private planting projects underway. These projects range anywhere from 10 to 100 trees in size.

This program has been steadily increasing throughout the province over the past few years, and Lands and Forests officials and this spring the Tweed District office anticipates a record 750,000 plus seedlings to be planted.

For this planting season, W. D. Tieman of the district office advises that seedlings are heeled in a cool, damp shady spot as they are received and that the roots be kept moist at all times. Surrounding sod and grass should be removed before planting the seedlings. Further information in the form of direct advice from the foresters or in the form of booklets on tree planting may be obtained from any office of the Department of Lands and Forests.

INCREASES PRICE

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Daily News said Thursday night the price of Sunday edition would be increased to 15 from 10 cents, effective May 1.

Closer Watch Will Be Kept On Parking

Hastings county councillors will keep a closer watch on who is taking advantage of allday parking on county property adjacent to the court house and Shire Hall.

Earlier this session it had been noted that the general public was using county property for parking while doing business downtown with resultant that county councillors were unable to find parking space during sessions.

Thursday councillors moved to correct the matter.

They passed a motion calling for all-day parking on the county property to be restricted to county officials and county employees with stickers on county business to be permitted to park, while conducting their affairs.

Proper signs will be erected to advise the public of the parking restrictions.

Accident-Free Drivers Given Safety Awards

The accident-free drivers of Dundas District Transport Limited, Belleville and Cobourg were honored at a banquet held at Latimer's Town Room on Wednesday evening for a display of safety awards and safe driving education.

An interesting item brought out at the meeting was the fact that eighteen men had received awards for 1,000,000 non-chargeable accident driving miles which had been accumulated in eight million miles of highway safe city driving.

Presentations were made to Belleville employees, R. Downey 13 years, A. Christopher, G. Walls and R. Colden, 8 years, E. Fitzgerald, G. Lucas and D. Heffernan, 7 years, J. Woods, 6 years, H. Bovay, 4 years, R. Fitzgerald and V. Croft, 3 years, J. O'Hara, 2 years, G. Jackson and M. Ruddell, 1 year.

Presentations to Cobourg employees were, B. McIntish, 14 years, E. Murray, 9 years, J. Green, 8 years and A. Junkin, 2 years.

The awards presented by District Winters Transport and Market Services (Canada) Limited consisted of merchandise certificates, electrical appliances for the longer periods of accident-free and safe driving buttons for those with the shorter accident-free periods.

Present and taking part in the meeting which was chaired by the local manager, R. H. Dundas, were D. Ferguson and G. Wilkins of the Transportation Safety Association of Ontario, Lorne Bennett, McDougall of the O.P.P., inspector McLauchlan of the Belleville City Police Dist., W. Fairbairn and J. Conduct of the Safety Division of United Winters Transport, Toronto, A. Bapis, Marcel Services Ltd., T. Taylor, Cobourg Manager, and C. Cookman, Material Division Supervisor.

A film was shown depicting a day in the life of a city police officer and a brief address, all of which was enjoyed by those present.

Quinte Curling Club Enjoys Another Successful Season

Enthusiastic reports, a sound financial condition and splendid co-operation throughout the year featured the annual meeting of the Quinte Curling Club held in the clubhouse on Thursday evening.

More than 100 members of this thriving organization were on hand to hear the reports and to thank the Board of Directors for a job well done. There was no jangling, very little criticism and the members left the building feeling the affairs of the club were in good hands and that the club would go on to greater things in the years to come.

J. C. "Pat" Hourton, the popular president, presided and thanked the members for the great honor that had been conferred on him. He called upon the committe chairman for its reports, which set forth briefly a number of items in his address.

Financially the club has had another successful year, the president said. Your ice plant is now completely paid for and the bank loan has been reduced. A year ago your indebtedness were Series "A" debentures, $17,000 notes payable on the ice plant $5,000 and bank loan $13,000. At the end of the year just concluded the bank loan has been reduced to $8,000 and we are paying off of the notes on the ice plant, at the rate of four per cent to $30,000. This means that the liabilities have been reduced by $6,500".

This is the result of a continuing policy by your directors to reduce the debt as rapidly as possible and if there is any further success in the future as there has been in the past the club will be debt free, at the rate of four per cent, in a few years time. This is a remarkable record", said the speaker. Mr. Houston thanked his committee chairmen for their interest and hard work during the year and a special thanks was given the women's curling committee for their activities. He noted that a letter had been received from the Women's Club asking permission to purchase new furnishings for the clubhouse and this letter will be passed on to the new directorate.

MRS. REMA FINNERTY

Mrs. George E. Green, Sidney, has received word of the death of Mrs. Rema (Imbolt) Finnerty of San Rafael, California last week. The late Mrs. Finnerty was born in Madoc township and was the wife of Dr. Edward Finnerty, the visit- ing relative here four years ago. She is survived by two daughters and one sister, a sister, Mrs. Sylva (Imbolt) Young of Belleville, Ontario. Interment was in Sonoma, California.

MRS. HAROLD E. PIGDEN (Mabel)

Following an illness of four months, Mrs. Iva Bernice Pigden, a highly respected resident of Madoc, died at her home on Thursday afternoon. She was born at Marmora, 61 years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCann and had resided in Madoc for the past 40 years and before that time at Eldorado.

In both communities she was well known and beloved by a wide circle of friends. Prior to her den was an active woman, taking part in many community and church affairs. Her help was gladly given to all worthwhile projects, particularly those of the church of which she was a member in Eldorado, the Ladies' Aid and the Trinity United Church and took an active part in all church work.

She is survived by her husband, Harold E. Pigden, retired Pigden Motors at Madoc, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCann, one sister, Mrs. Duane Thurston of Madoc, Mrs. C. (Violet) Blackburn of Eldorado, and one brother, Clayton McCann of Eldorado.

Resting at her late residence, Madoc, the funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

Street Work Delayed by Rain And Lack of Oil

The department of Public Works has been busy with the annual spring street cleaning and patching job, with little thought to crop up after every winter. Some trouble is still being experienced due to heavy rains, but more generally, unaware of the problems and the department of public leaves, etc., should pile them on the boulevard or at a convenient point for pick-up. The actual cost of the City Works people collect them.

SAINS CAUSE DAMAGE

Meanwhile the road maintenance program has been temporarily disrupted on the gravel roads throughout the rural sections of the city. The effects of the past rains have been most serious. In many cases they have done in grading the roads following the final thawing of frost in the ground has been negated by the effects of the heavy rainfall.

Oiling is at a temporary standstill due to lack of oil. It is expected that this program will be resumed shortly. Road patching is also underway in the city and on the "contrary, has been progressing quite well and these crews have been most busy.

The street cleaning program has just about reached completion and starting next Monday work will get under the catch basins throughout the city. Slated for commencement next week are a number of various summer sidewalk projects. The cleaning of ditches will also be taken up in the near future. Public works crews have been extremely busy at moment when the land is firm enough to carry the heavy equipment used in this work.

PLANT TREES

Tree planting throughout the city, which has consisted mostly of replacing trees which have not proved satisfactory, is another project underway to near completion.

The sewer maintenance crews have been quite busy with sewer dragging and maintenance. There is also considerable work going on in making and laying sewer connections for new hou-

SMASH GIRL RING

MONTREAL (CP) — A 160-member call-girl ring that catered to convention delegates visiting Montreal has been smashed with a raid on a midtown apartment, morality squad police said Thursday. The raid netted a woman suspected as the ring leader, five girls and a man who appeared in court today and was fined $50 on a charge of disorderly house.

Tentative County Levy of Just Under 20 Mills Decided on As Members Close Session

Although a special meeting will be called later in the spring to finalize the county's tentative county levy of just under 20 mills for 1960 has been decided on by members of Hastings county council.

The tentative mill-rate was set at the conclusion of county councillors wound up their annual spring session which, normally would have seen the tax rate struck and assessment of the various municipalities equalized for the next year.

The final decision on the actual mill-rate will be withheld pending on an assessment appeal by the Hycroft mining and municipal officials of the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs say could have a bearing on Hastings county assessments.

The ruling is expected to clear up the assessment of mining grants received by certain municipalities affecting their equalized assessment.

Yesterday's tentative county mill rate was set to permit counties municipalities to strike their local rates.

The county rate, still to be finalized, is made up of a general 19.9 mills, up just over three and a half mills from last year. The general rate will be set at 7.4 mills, while the general rate for schools will be set at 12 mills, also up from the 8.86 mills last year.

In addition the rate will include about a half mill levy to cover the cost of the Hastings county home.

It has been decided to levy the same mill levy year for the new Hastings county courthouse now under construction at a cost of approximately $250,000. Belleville and Trenton will share in the cost of the courthouse.

Reeve J. N. Brown of Rawdon, chairman of the county courthouse committee, said construction of the new county building was now expected to be completed about November 15 of this year. The opening set for December 6th, the opening of the first December session of council.

During the afternoon session Thursday, the following committee was read by Tweed Reeve Douglas Simpson.

The report noted the committees earlier had approved of a $2,500 increase in the county jail employees with maximum salary for guards set at $3,300 minimum at $3,750. The schedule was retroactive to January 1st.

Reeve Brown, as chairman of the county property and building committee, said costs for last year's budget $5,250 with 122 cases considered, 57 from the county and 66 from Belleville. The 1960 budget was passed accordingly.

Reeve Brown also noted that Children's Aid Society costs for this year had been considerably higher with the actual cost figure being $104,197, as compared with the $89,000 provided in the estimates.

And for 1960 it was estimated the cost would be $120,000 with $120,000 being provided in the estimates.

Reeve William Davis presented the administration of justice board committee's report and last year had been $117,238. Of this $75,000 was for the county and 502 and that of Trenton, $18,844.

The board approved a grant of $5,000 for the proposed addition to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Reeve Brent Rose of Frankford, as county representative on the Quinte Health Council, noted that from the time of the board's construction to the end of 1958, $1,000,000 per cent of the total), had been from Hastings county.

Deputy Reeve Harleigh Hamilton said the Trenton hospital governors had accomplished an excellent job. The building had been well sited, well constructed and at the time of construction provision had been made for the proposed expansion.

Also approved for grant was

Divers Council Will Act as Governing Body

Representatives of the three local SCUBA and skin diving clubs in this area met yesterday evening to form a Quinte Belleville Divers Council. This organization has been formed to act as a governing body for the activities of diving clubs in the Belleville and Quinte area.

Members present were Wood-house of the Sportsmen Helicopter Base; Rod Follwell of the Aqua Mariners were elected chairman and secretary respectively of the new organization.

Among the other purposes of the Council include co-operation with the activities and objects of the Quinte Region Water Safety Council and to co-ordinate all diving and instructional activities at all local diving clubs. Mass dives and other diving activities will be one of the many projects which the new Council will undertake to promote the diving sport in this area.

One of the first projects of the Belleville Divers Council will be a half-hour television program featuring a SCUBA (self - contained underwater breathing apparatus) display over CKWS-TV on May 19th.

Committee Head Reports On 10-Yr. Annexation Plan

TRENTON — At yesterday's committee-of-the-whole council meeting, Councillor H. S. Fraser, who has headed a committee to enquire into the town's needs for annexation over a 10-year period, reported that he and Mr. Harry, town clerk-treasurer, and Roderick Campbell, town solicitor, had met with Glen Grant, Toronto solicitor who was consulted by Belleville Annexation Commission problems, and that a comprehensive plan had been worked out.

The plan encompasses annexation of parts of Sidney Township to the air station, on the north by the Glen drive and on the south by the bay.

It is proposed that the town will also seek to annex the portion of Murray Township bounded on the north by Bayshore Avenue, south to the bay with the northern boundary left intact. Thirty acres at Murray Township have recently been annexed by the town and the contractor has begun work on the 119 unit sub-division.

Mr. Weir pointed out the benefits of long- range planning for annexation. He said that the Ontario Municipal Board disapproved of piecemeal annexation.

Councillor Fraser said the annexation of the land lying in Sidney township to the east of the town would add to the town's assessment to a considerable degree. In considering the annexation of the area in

Too Much Wealth Lost

In the normal course of events, the number of unemployed in Canada will continually set new records every year or so, because of the steady increase in Canada of the number of people able and willing to work.

There is, therefore, nothing terribly alarming about the fact that the number of persons employed at mid-March of this year is within 21,000 of the post-war peak in March of 1958.

What is alarming, though, is that the estimated unemployment in the middle of last month was over 9 per cent of the labor force. It is true that this is almost one per cent lower than in 1958, but it is also true that it is a half of one per cent above the figure for a year ago. Most important of all, it means that almost one person out of every ten in the country was unemployed in mid-March, not taking into account the 100,000 other workers who were either temporarily laid off or on short time. Canada will never be as wealthy as it could be until we devise some method of avoiding this tremendous wastage of man-hours.

government statement points out that unemployment this year is of shorter duration than last year, but when 41 per cent of the 566,000 persons unemployed at mid-March had been seeking work for over three months it is surely evident that, even if their jobless state can be described as seasonal, the potential fruits of their labors are being lost for a considerable portion of the year.

To suggest a solution is most difficult; but that is no reason why we should accept the conditions as unavoidable, or regard it as unalarming.

May Day

Sunday will be May 1.

May is many things to many people. It is eagerly awaited by people like housewives and young lovers. Besides house-cleaning and love-making, it also produces an upsurge of activity in several other fields of endeavor, including fishing, gardening, mosquito-swatting, loafing and the manufacture and consumption of dandelion wine.

May 1 shares with the month it opens the distinction of having special significance for a variety of reasons. It is traditionally the opening day of the trout season in Ontario, although this year the fly-tossers and worm-dunkers get an early start on Saturday, courtesy of the officials of the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. Even more traditionally, in more places, May Day is the occasion for celebrating, whether around the Maypole crowning a May Queen on a village green or parading, peacefully or otherwise, through the streets of great cities, demonstrating the solidarity of labor.

Out in Saskatchewan 30 years ago, something new was added. Child Safety Day was observed. It has become an annual event and has gradually grown into a national project.

Keeping a child safe is a 365-day a year project with the only change from year to year being overtime in Leap Year. Amongst the things which may kill children are cars, boats, guns, stoves, electrical appliances, marbles, stones, plastic bags, old refrigerators, ponds, dogs, balls, knives, mowers, spades, pills, sticks, tricks, pets, other children and parents. Safety Day officials say that the way to keep a child safe is to forbid, "safety forbid," and punish.

Happy May Day!

Works Both Ways

A Detroit editor says that if we are going to discount U.S. money Americans had better not visit us this year, not "infest their coffers with our (U.S.) coin". Well, that would be too bad, and in certain circumstances, indeed, might be too bad for the U.S., seeing that Canadians last year "infested" U.S. coffers with $300,000,000 more of their coin than Americans "infested" ours with theirs. What if we decided to stay at home, too? But perhaps Detroit editors don't read travel statistics. — Ottawa Journal.

STRENGTH for the HOUR

— DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A PRECIOUS TREASURE

There is nothing in the world designed to produce agony and misery so much as a troubled and uneasy conscience. Likewise, there is nothing in the world which gives more peace than a quiet and honest conscience.

Be careful of that conscience of yours. It has the power to tear you to pieces. People of great wealth, still others of low ay distinction and high station in life have gone through the years with their heads hanging down, their hearts heavy, their minds in turmoil. At every turn they expected some one or some thing to lay a hand on their shoulder. It might be an officer of the law, or an irate relative, or a betrayed friend. Most often, however, agonies of conscience arise from the realization of precious treasure.

wrong known only to the person who has committed the crime. Tears may be told a lie, or was slightly dishonest, or was unkind to a loved one, or betrayed a friend.

Why do we need to go farther? Why tear our own hearts with thoughts that lacerate? Why do we torture ourselves with dark and heavy moods?

Conscience is the voice of the evil of the past. Where this is allowed to have its way it can make life wrong and meter out justice which we may have long neglected. But it is a tragic mistake when we allow the past to get on our backs and bear us down and stamp us into the earth.

A quiet conscience! It is life's greatest treasure possession. Lay the anthesis of the "organization man," which is something

Men Do Not Seek Elixir Of Youth

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The percentage of family income for the average family on clothing in this country, has not increased nearly as much as the corresponding age for other commodities — and while it is easy to blame this on the wife's penchant for spending so much on her wardrobe, I don't think that tells the whole story.

I was looking at a full-page ad for men's suits in a national magazine yesterday, and both the man and the suit looked like every other ad of this sort I have ever seen. He was slim and tall and elegant; the suit was exquisitely tailored, hanging in impeccable lines.

Secondly, though, I couldn't put myself in his place; and most men can't in this way, because everybody differs from female. If a woman sees a dress on a lovely model, she has immediately transfers this image to herself, and rushes out to buy it — even if she doesn't. It will make her look trimmer, younger and infinitely more desirable.

Men have their own illusions, but appearance is not one of them. Yet almost all the clothing advertisements directed toward men show the male as the same level as ads for women's clothes. They are psychologically disoriented, and therefore largely a waste of space.

I would like to see some enterprising men's clothing manufacturer create a set of ads showing men: one would be the traditional model, who would be a man like you or me — of average height, running a little to fat, rumpled in the seat of the pants, and bulging with notes and pencils in the inside pocket.

This ad might say: "Our Model Man would look good in almost any suit — even draped in a bath towel, because he has the kind of physique that fits. But our Average Man needs a suit of our quality and cut, and he can get neat and respectable. And here is why our suits are superior. . ." Then the ad would give us some specific information about the cloth, the workmanship, the extra touches, and whatever else the manufacturing thinks brings clothes his goods from inferior products. Most men, like me, would buy the line of clothes that makes one suit much superior to the others, and we are swayed by lean and tamed illustrations.

I am not always fair to men for the elixir of youth and beauty — the whole cosmetics industry is based on this illusory quest. But a man (who is just as naive and self-deceiving as other things) does not share this hope: he knows he is not going to be a model, nor does he want to. He will want only to look the best of what he is — and I am always grateful to find him a satisfactory image of his own reality.

Are English Really Human?

Ottawa Journal

Some years ago a Dutchman wrote a charming book called "The English, Are They Human?" In this book was the following: "We have doctors and architects, lawyers and labourers, priests and students. They all feel strongly about the bomb." Then he asked: "What was happening in the English countryside, what was happening in London? One thing happening was that a crowd of demonstrators met a visiting Afro-Asian cricket team from South Africa with cries of 'Apartheid Isn't Cricket.'"

There need be no doubt at all that at the same time Negroes were hanging in Hyde Park listening to orators (stands or "public" pulpits) for them by their authorities) denouncing everything from the monarchy to vivisection.

Thus the English; the people who gave the most generous welcome to Garibaldi, extended the warmest welcome to Kossuth (he wrote most of "Des Captifs" in the British Museum) produced a "Lawrence of Arabia," and went off to fight Franco; the people of whom O'Connell once said that they had "all the qualities of the poker except its occasional warmth," but of whom another Irishman, Shaw, said that they were the "most sentimental on earth."

Whatever they are, human or otherwise, they are the English; individualists, nonconformists, the antithesis of the "organization man," which is something

Many New Oil Fields Found

Edmonton Journal

One of the most striking developments of recent decades is the discovery of new oil and gas fields in regions scattered practically all over the world. Many now fields have been found in western and northwestern Canada; others have been found in the Sahara and in central Russia. Before that, discoveries were made in Venezuela and the Middle East. The latest addition to the ranks is Israel, a small country for which oil and gas resources could have political, as well as economic significance.

Some promising drilling apparently was done in Israel in past years but it was not followed up, perhaps because of the greater attractions of the tremendously productive fields in the Arab countries. However, substantial discoveries of oil and gas now have been found in the Negev region southwest of the Dead Sea and geologists say that oil will be found by drilling deeper.

Israel has been importing about two-thirds of its oil requirements and thus has been economically hard hit in the midst of a hostile Arab world isolated with oil reserves. Should the new oil yield ample reserves of the liquid fuels on its own territory, the independent and economically more independent and politically more secure.

Oil and gas have been found in so many regions of the world in recent decades that one is tempted to suppose that they can be found almost everywhere. What we are going through at present, far, hundreds of "dry holes" in the latest discoveries and extensive searches for oil have failed in a number of regions. But new wells are constantly evident that, especially with modern geological methods and instruments oil and gas will be found in many more countries or regions.

Is No Riddle About Sphinx

St. John's Telegram

Notions change and values alter. What is a mystery in one age is a silly old nonsense in another. For centuries many people have heard about the Sphinx, which is strangely that colossal statue of ancient Egypt which still survives and is photographed by every tourist. Indeed, it appears, there is no riddle.

A distinguished English writer, Miss Dorothy Sayers, has buniked" the Sphinx in an article for the Radio Times magazine. He called it "a gigantic toy" and said Egypt is "littered with it." Here and there is the belief that the Sphinx is mysterious, but even it is no more mysterious than a billboard sign.

It was for generations thought to have a hidden meaning that would have be revealed when the sands of the desert were cleared away. But it is no mystery head. The only thing hidden was its lion's body stretching under the sands of the desert. Messen asserts that the Sphinx was carved in a ridge in the Sphinx is that it is a piece of prosperous sculpture.

Its ace is the portrait of King Khafre, the Pharoah who had it made. Khafre was a powerful king who ruled the world and the power to have this massive statue cut from solid rock.

Where is Khafre and his wealth and power now? It is recall Shelley's ironic lines on the Egyptian ruler, Ozymandias:

"My name is Ozymandias, king of kings;
Look on my works, ye Mighty and despair!"

Nothing else remains.

"I don't think it's fair to fail me - - - I thought the test was over."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
April 19th, 1938.

The celebration today of the Diamond Jubilee anniversary of the Bell Telephone Company recalls the extraordinary changes that have been brought about by the speeding up of voice communication: Belleville's splendid telephone history spans practically the entire period that it has been possible to talk over a wire. Alexander Graham Bell first succeeded in transmitting speech intelligibly over a wire on March 10, 1876. The following year on October 12, 1877, the initial telephone was tested over sixty miles of wire between this city and Picton, Ont. Just over six months later — on April 20th, 1878 — the Bell Telephone Company received its charter. . . . Assistance agent, Samuel R. Balkwill was Belleville's first "Telephone "agent." Sam, as he was popularly known, was an Englishman born in the same town as Thomas H. Wadland who was manager at Hamilton of the Empire's first telephone exchange. The first commercial telephones in Belleville were leased to W. H. and J. L. Biggar on January 24th, 1880. The Biggar brothers used the instruments on a line connecting their residences. The exchange was located on the ground floor of a building on the north side of Bridge Street between Front and Pinnacle Streets. The switchboard consisted of a fifty-line post-type apparatus about two feet, six inches long and eighteen inches wide. The telephone system was expanded quite rapidly and a larger central office became necessary. The exchange was moved to Campbell Street. The post-type switchboard was replaced by two sections of Gilliland switchboard, having a total capacity of 100 miles.

Householder Questioned

Cleveland Plain Dealer

The man who was being interviewed by the census taker said that he had a bathtub and hot and cold running water. There were 153 rooms in his house, he said, and the kitchen equipment is exclusively for the use of the housekeeper. He went further that, inaccie as he knew, there were no children or servants or vacant rooms for rent in the house or anywhere else on the property.

The man didn't have to answer the question: "About how much do you think this property would sell for on today's market?" because the census taker, a White House, and the man being interviewed by Dwight Eisenhower!

We can't escape the census — not even the President!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RIGHT WHERE YOU ARE

Your chance is probably right where you are — not a mile or a year or more away. And the measure of your full achievement is going to depend upon how you realize your ability at it right now and work it out in worthwhile end.

Day dreams are all right — provided you make all dreamers out at night time! The job ahead is the one that needs your best. But the task at hand is always the most important. And the man who puts on to the next. Many big things of the earth are done by little men and work is done by them!

If you want to get happy, see what you can do to make the ones nearest you happy. If you want to learn, look into the things about you and see what you can find. There is always something to learn. Ideas are always asleep — until awakened by a lively mind. Another city is not a goal. Be — right where you are. Show them what you are!

Right where you are, is a human need that is waiting development. Until your own life is supreme and successful, you have not performed that will demand your deepest thought and effort. Until your city is the best in the land, there will be things to do at home.

And always remember that better individual lives and cities make better everything. It isn't where you live or work — it's what you do that counts!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Like millions of others, the only part of the fights I have ever seen are on TV. Like millions of others, I have only a second-hand knowledge of the — mostly fake — of the fights. I find of recent months that I am more interested in the spectators I can catch glimpses of on the camera before and after the fight, than I am in the fighters. There is a great deal of fun in the spectators — and a great deal of fight audiences.

The Madison Square Gardens assembly is the most important one. If the fighters appear to be about to disconcert each other in the last round, the New York spectatory may be moved to applause, like a symphony audience polite and restrained. If the ladies in Madison Square Gardens are not present, the Motionless, slim, hands on lap, they all gazing as a flower might.

It is Utah that is different. The ladies of Utah prize fight crowds are housewifely, boneshaking and gals, wearing shirt waists, shiny spectacles and their hair done up in buns but also native boys, Mormon farmer or Lamar Clark, start their fight in a restrained and gentlelike slamming and banging at the opponent from other side of the ring. I am looking tenderly forward to the day that somebody from Argentina or Mozambique holds the Heroic Fulmer in the punch right up over the ropes and onto the ladies in the folds of Utah.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

LYMPH NODES CAN RESULT FROM INFECTED TONSILS

"Dear Dr. Molner: My nephew, 14, had swollen sides of his neck described as "lymph nodes." He is not unhealthy or in any pain. He has had all sorts of tests and am assured that his tonsils are not the cause. — Mrs. C. M.

The swollen nodules diagnosed' Such swelling most often comes from infected tonsils. After possibility is eliminated, especia, or "glandular fever." A blood test will clarify this. All sorts of tests" have been made, then obviously some of the less common possibilities have been eliminated, too.

If tonsils are not at fault, and the swelling continues, then it may be necessary to remove one of the swollen glands for special examination of the tissues. But in a case such as you describe, a bit of watchful waiting is preferable.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My father, 70, has Dupuytren's contracture and is worried that he is afraid of an operation since his heart is not too good. Is there any way to treat his trouble? — Mrs. B. (Ont.)

This condition consists of a thickening and drawing together of tissues (tendons, mainly) of the palm which gradually put the fingers into a bent position.

Surgery remains the correct treatment if the trouble progresses so that the hand cannot be used. Usually, the fingers thought to be helping in early stages; massage and exercises also have been used. However, I doubt that they help much, and that surgery will be satisfactory when a case is such that it has progressed to the gentlemen's heart: The degree of risk depends on the skill of the surgeon and the surgery is rarely done on a person who is old. I keep this in mind — many "not too good hearts" are better than they were before they went under surgery. Besides, anesthesia is usually considerably safer these days.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What would cause a tremor in the hands of a man of 42? It first started when he was 14. It isn't particularly bad but it gets worse each year. His father had the same ailment. — P. S.

If the tremor is as noticeable as you describe, it could become worse it should be analyzed medically. Causes range from psychological factors, anxiety, tension, etc., through heredity to disorders of the nervous system, such as thyroid trouble, Parkinson's disease, etc. (Coffee, tobacco, alcohol or other items), and disorders of the nervous system or brain.

It depends on the type of tremor and when it occurs.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 42 and had a hysterectomy three years ago. Sometimes my nerves would get awful bad as a result of this operation. Now I have a lot of headaches. Could it be my nerves? — Mrs. R. D.

For some reason (and I know it's human, but I don't exactly know why) people would rather believe the bad news that "hormones" made them, than the true (if unromantic) good news that a doctor tells them.

There is no reason for a hysterectomy to cause headaches, or "nervousness." Your doctor's advice can upset you, and give you a case of "nerves" if he proves so very often — and I wish he knew some way to make people realize that they worry themselves into troubles that don't exist.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, send for my booklet, "For Deafness — Their Causes and Cures." Enclosing with your request 10 in coins and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Presidential Vote Slogans

St. Catharines Standard

As early as 1840, when a U.S. political party promised the voter that he would have "two Dollars a Day and Roast Beef", the slogans were as much a part of presidential election campaigns as the handshake and the stump.

Only a fitting echo of the slogan, which was once the battle cry of the Democrats according to World Book Encyclopedia, the word comes from "plugh", meaning "array", and "galvo", for "call".

In 1864, when Lincoln was running for re-election, the Union was warned: "Don't Swap Horses in the Middle of the Stream". The cry was to echo 80 years later, when Franklin D. Roosivelt was told: "Don't Change Leaders of World War II".

Horace Greeley promised "The Full Dinner Pail" in 1900, setting a precedent for Hoover's "Two Cars in Every Garage, Two Chickens in Every Pot, a Car in Every Garage".

In 1916 the county re-elected Woodrow Wilson with the explanation: "He Kept Us Out of War".

Five months later the U.S. was in the war. When the next election rolled around, he voter wanted "Normalcy" and Warren G. Harding.

In 1924 the U.S. electorate decided on "Keep Cool with Coolidge." By 1932 they were ready for a "New Deal", and the slogan "Happy Days" gave his vote to FDR.

More recently some people remember "I Like Ike" and Adlai Stevenson but the elections of 1952 and 1956 proved that few people like Ike.

What will the slogans be this year?

Maybe we'll hear, "I'll Stick With Dick" . . . or "My Cup of Tea is Adlai" . . . or "What's Good for the Country is Hubert Humphrey".

gram and its "replacement in part with more fighter interceptors."

Mr. Pearkes said the committee today had reported its recommendation to eliminate Bomarc production and that a small development program be continued. More funds were recommended for the F-104 jet fighter plane.

"This is a recommendation by a committee yet to receive the approval of the Senate and administration," Mr. Pearkes said.

William Benidickson (Lennox - Addington) asked Mr. Pearkes to comment on the reported statement of a U.S. committee member that the only reason the Bomarc-B was not killed before was the political implication in Canada. He did not identify the congressman.

Mr. Pearkes said this was "quite inaccurate."

He said Canada had entered into an arrangement with the U.S. government for continental air defence.

"We have gone along with the U.S." in fulfilment of the agreement, the minister said, carrying out step by step the various points agreed on. The Bomarc was part of that agreement.

Canada was to establish two sites and had been proceeding with the selection, surveying and necessary planning and engineering. Construction had not started.

"We are in a position to do so if the plan is to continue," he said.

Mr. Pearson was ruled out of order when he asked Mr. Pearkes to comment on another statement by the same congressman that he, the congressman, would rather be a congressman from Cuba than minister of defence in Canada.

Actual Police Budget Lower Than $243,339

Budget requirements of the Belleville Police Department for 1960 are lower than the $243,339 figure quoted yesterday following the Wednesday noon's budget meeting of city council.

It was learned today that the actual police department budget figure for this year is $226,94, the higher figure quoted yesterday including several other items considered by the tax department under the general heading of protection services. Among these is the cost of school guards and the city council traffic and light committee.

Warn Anglers Of Fire Danger

With the speckled trout season opening tomorrow, a timely warning comes from Max Wilson, head of the forest protection branch of the Trenton district office of Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. Mr. Wilson advises those persons out in the woods to be particularly alert about guarding against forest fires, over 80 percent of which are due to human carelessness.

Fishermen and others are asked to make sure that all campfires are really put out. Ashes can be assured by drowning with water and then covering them over with earth or sand. Pipe heels and ashes, cigaret and cigar butts and matches should be handled with care and their users should make sure they are positively out and rendered harmless.

When smoking in a car, occupants are advised to use the ashtray and not to flick ashes or butts out the window. Observance of these simple rules by all concerned can keep the forests green.

May 1, Traditional Moving Day, Falling off in Many Parts of Land Survey Shows

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The first of May is still moving day when moppets tangle up maypoles in vitual ribbons.

But only in Quebec does May 1—actually Monday, May 2, this year—remain the traditional moving day.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that elsewhere in the country, leases—when people bother with leases—expire a year or two from the date they moved in. Moving day has become any day.

QUEBEC CITY DECLINE

And even in Quebec City the practice of relocating on the first of the month is declining. Only 10 per cent of the 40,000 rental units in Quebec City, Rents range from $75 to $90 a month, unchanged from last year.

HIGH RENTS

The Maritimes picture in brief terms high or climbing rapidly and accommodation tight.

Prince Edward Island reports rents about three times the 1939 level, twice what they were in 1945. They're heading 5 to 10 per cent higher than it was last year. Here, people move whenever necessary, with no traditional date observed.

William Hazen of the Saint John Housing Authority says rents have risen drastically in Saint John since last year. One year behind him was Henry Dunsmore of Kingston.

Others awarded were Leo Goyer of Belleville, nine years; Edward Jeannius of Belleville, eight years; Harold E. Orr of Belleville, seven years; James Putnam and Harold Lohnes of Belleville, six years.

Drivers honored who were unable to attend included George Akerley, Kingston, seven years; Frederick Steele, Kingston, six years; Robert Smith, Kingston, five years; William Magill, Belleville, three years, and Howard Wever, Kingston, one year.

CHEAPER ON PAYROLL

Lyall B. Ferrier of Toronto, manager of the company's real estate division and a student some years ago at Albert College, was introduced as the guest speaker by Mr. Riddell, who said: "In 1941 I still was selling so many signs to the Brewers Warehousing Company that the company thought it might be cheaper to put him on the payroll."

Mr. Ferrier who, with Mrs. Ferrier, operates a junior bridge club at his home for young people, and dabbles in high fidelity, spoke briefly on the company's past and future, saying, "If you are interested and enthusiastic and prepared to put your effort behind it, you will find new opportunities will open up to those who want them badly enough. There is no limit to the opportunities in this company, providing you want them badly enough. You see, within the next 25 years, about 80 percent of us old-timers will be retired."

The company has expanded in the past few years "at a great rate," he said.

"Our retail stores, which once were located on back streets, now have taken their rightful places on Main St. in new premises, side by side with the other merchants.

"We are not legalized bootleggers . . . We are merchants among merchants, paying tremendous sums in taxes, licences, improvements and providing employment. We have openings in this (Eastern Ontario) district. If new outlets, relocated or almost as many more, and we are just nicely getting rolling. If you know we will sell you something in Napanee, Trenton and Picton, where our stores are depolarizable. We've already done Kingston. We now are planning new stores where they have never been before."

He said new jobs were opening up "and they will always be coming up."

The company's interest in safe driving originally stemmed from a desire to reduce accidents, traffic and industrial. But in the years past its campaign was copied by other companies.

"I remember in Fort Arthur and Fort William several companies followed our safe driving system," he said.

RECORD NOT TOO GOOD

"In this area of Belleville and Kingston only 77 per cent of our drivers have accident-free records. When compared with other places, this isn't too good. Apparently you are lagging in the driving of your trucks — and in plant safety. We are really lousy in plant safety. We are so bad that the Workmen's Compensation Board is sending representatives in to our company on a province-wide basis, asking: 'What are you guys going to do about this?'"

Mr. Ferrier added: "Apparently are any taking enough precautions against those accidents which knock men off the job for a short while."

Greetings from the city were delivered by Deputy Mayor Temple on behalf of Mayor A. Bell, who is ill in resting in bed, a gradual widening of the selection of accommodation. The heaviest movement of the year is at the end of May, the end of every month from May to October is busy.

MONTREAL ON MOVE

The big May Day manoeuvre comes in Montreal, Quebec. Here the city estimated that 60,000 families will be on the move. The estimate is based on notices received between March 1 and April 21 for moves May 1. The notices are for power transfers.

The record year in Montreal was 1954 when 65,000 of Hydro's 240,000 clients relocated. Hydro connections are concurrent with 1960. There are about 39,000 families in Quebec City.

RECEIVES DIPLOMA

Last June, at the graduation exercises held at the Anglican Women's Training College, Toronto, Miss Eileen Dorothy Reg. N., of Christ Church, Belleville, received her diploma in Theology.

Among those present were her mother, Mrs. Mary Newman, Mrs. Ann Arnott, Mrs. Margaret Arnott, Mrs. Gordon Sharp, Mrs. Alf Cooper, and Miss Florence Fitzgerald, all of Belleville, and Mrs. Bertha Cooke, of Toronto.

So-Ed Celebrates Fifth Anniversary, Formulates Plans

Wednesday evening So-Ed celebrated its fifth anniversary in the city of Belleville by holding an anniversary ball which was brought So-Ed Spring '60 session to a successful and gala close.

Some 20 members of the Peterborough So-Ed were present to help celebrate the event, swelling the attendance to approximately 90 young people.

The auditorium was decorated in blue with lights centred on the dark blue as that the only light showing was in the shape of stars.

PROGRAM

The program, under the direction of social chairman, Dorothy Benedict, was well planned and entertaining. Square dancing (caller Harvey Homan) formed part of the "change of pace" numbers. Others were the Mexican Hat Dance, Rye Waltz, and Broken Circle Waltz. As a major part of the program, interspersed with mixers to get the crowd acquainted.

Harvey Homan was also the master of ceremonies.

Retiring president Marilyn Elliot, welcomed the group, welcoming Peterborough members and at the same time say "Au Revoir" to So-Ed and Belleville.

She will be leaving for California within a few short weeks and will be much missed by her So-Ed friends. The new president, Reta Christie, was introduced by Miss Elliot after the latter presented her new steering committee for 1960-61 vice-president of organization and administration — Doris Macdonald; vice-president of program — Margaret Snell and secretary-treasurer Ruth German.

PLANS OUTLINED

Future So-Ed plans were outlined by Miss Elliott and include a bowling party at the Bowl-O-Drome on May 4; a box social and dance at the "A" on May 11 (the proceeds from this activity will be donated to the campaign for YMCA "Y" on Dundas St.); a "Mother's Day for Brotherhood"). On May 18 a "Mother's Day Dinner" will be held at which time the aluminum etching and millinery projects will finish up and started during the session.

Plans are also correlated for the "Blossom Ball," and more than likely a discussion group will develop at some time during the evening. Later in May the annual "Blossom Time Social" is to be held at the Club Rendezvous. It is also unique in that it is "Twirp" season and that means "The Woman is Requested to Ask Her Partner." All ladies in the community an organization are free to ask man of her choice to attend; she pays the expense for the evening. Posters will soon be appearing in strategic spots around town with all the details. As this is a holiday weekend it is hoped that many attend for the weekend and be able to attend.

MARIA WEDDING

Dr. Scott, who was introduced to the group by Miss Elliott, and who is the head of the YMCA in World Service and aptly named Secretary Emeritus Society of the Y.M.C.A." World Service and "Buildings for Brotherhood" to be handed-in-hand today. The former sponsoring the formation and leadership of "Y" groups all over the world and the latter erecting buildings when these activities can be carried out to best advantage. The budget for the Belleville "Y" on a two-year plan is $200,000; one-half of this goal has been reached by contributions over the past year. It is hoped that the remaining $1,000 will be obtained from groups and individual efforts such as the tea and bake sale held annually at the "Y" and the box social held by So-Ed.

A sing-song was conducted by Barb German, accompanied by Mrs. Bob Burkett at the piano, while the "entertainment" was getting ready.

The entertainment consisted of a boy and girl duo singing something called "What's Your Name Little Boy." These young vocalists (Lorraine Twiddy and Harvey Homan), were attired in appropriate costumes. Jeanette in dotted voile with hinge puffed sleeves and hair bow and spray; Harvey was in short pants, "T" shirt and small cap. This production brought down the house.

Everyone was invited out to Benedict's for coffee after the party and some 45 to 50 accepted the invitation, also to see the Peterborough group off on their way home.

CLOSE OF SPRING SEASON

Thus, So-Ed 'Spring '60' has come to a close, but this does not mean inactivity, simply the end of activities. As you can see from the above paragraphs, that So-Ed is continuing its activities through the summer until session fall '60 rolls around.

All young adults in Belleville and surrounding districts are invited to attend any So-Ed functions. There is no set membership fee. Any bona fide session activities, but just a paying-as-you-go plan. A cordial invitation is extended to newcomers to the area — it is a wonderful way to make new friends, exchange ideas and views, and to learn new skills.

Girl Guides' Assoc. Plans Coming Events

Division Commissioner, Mrs. D. G. Diamantides, was hostess Monday evening, to ten members of the Belleville Girl Guides Association.

The meeting opened with the Guide Prayer.

Mrs. D. G. Diamantides presided over the business period.

The treasurer's report which was made by the treasurer, Mrs. D. Stewart.

Mrs. Diamantides reported on the sale of Hot Cross buns by the district which were the most successful.

Company 1 and Company 3 tied for first place in selling tickets for the annual Girl Guide and Brownie Tea. Pack 3 had first place among the Brownies. Prizes will be given to the Pack and the two companies.

Mrs. Diamantides reminded the Committee the Guiders Thinking Day for handicapped children to be held in Toronto, May 7th, and also of the Doe Lake Training for Guiders.

Plans were discussed for the annual Church Parade, May 15. Mrs. Steenburg presented a detailed report outlining the qualifications for Area Camp. Mrs. Steenburg stated that a quantity of crossed flag crests had been purchased for use on the sleeve.

Mrs. Diamantides expressed the appreciation of the committee for Mr. R. Murray's work to date on the area camp fund campaign.

Mrs. Diamantides and Mrs. F. Hammond attended the conference held at the Quinte Area Water Safety Council recently and reported on this meeting to the committee.

A social hour was enjoyed with refreshments being served by the hostess.

Women's Activities

PLAINFIELD W.M.S.

The Plainfield W.M.S. Easter thankoffering meeting was held recently at the home of Mrs. Fred Kerr, opened the meeting with an Easter poem.

An impressive worship service was conducted by Mrs. Ross Marshall with the theme "At the Name of Jesus." "How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds in A Believer's Ear" was sung. Mrs. Sero read the Scripture lesson, Ephesians 1:e-21.

Mrs. Willis sang a solo, "Place Your Hand in the Nail-Scarred Hand" which was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Stan Hazard reported a membership of 20 and $24.50 sent to the Presbyterial treasurer for the first quarter. Easter thankoffering amounting to $26.

Mrs. Harry McCreary, Christian envelope secretary read a brought attention to the missionary, Miss Mulley, for prayer. She also gave an interesting reading, "Time Belongs To God" and "Successfully Living As You Walk," a chapter of the study book "Africa Disturbed," by Dr. Paton. Mrs. Clarence Hall. To accept responsibility in the envelope one must accept it first at one's own doorstep. This the new Africa is doing.

Prayer by Mrs. Clarence Hall brought the meeting to a close.

A vote of appreciation for Mrs. Kerr's hospitality was tendered.

A delicious lunch was served and an enjoyable half-hour spent.

Dr. and Mrs. Boyd Upper are shown following their recent marriage in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Eva Hrachovec, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hrachovec of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Boyd Upper, of Toronto, formerly of Belleville. UPPER — HRACHOVEC

White Calla lilies adorned the altar of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, April, 23rd at 11.00 a.m. and white satin bows designated the pews reserved for the spring wedding of white interest, when Eva Hrachovec, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hrachovec, became the bride of Dr. Boyd Upper, of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Boyd Upper. The Reverend Peter Murphy officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Dorothy Grant, church organist, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. John Arab of the Royal Conservatory School, in his rendition of "Ave Maria", "Panis Angelicus", and "O Salutaris Hostia."

Given in marriage by her father in a full-length bridal gown of ivory tonoi peau de soie with bodice of re-embroidered lace with scoop neckless hips with chapel train. Her headdress was a ivory matching lace crown accented with pale blue forget-me-nots, and she carried a bouquet of shaded crimson orchids and narcissi, with white satin streamers.

Miss Irene Hrachovec, of Belleville, attended her sister as maid of honor, and Miss Gera Grandchalsi, of Toronto, as bridesmaid. Both were gown of set lide green delustered satin fashioned on princess lines with Sabrina neckline and bodices underlined with tiny roses of matching material. Both wore Sabrina hats of flowers and carried bouquets of deep pink roses mingled with sweet peas.

Mr. Norman Rainoy of Belleville, attended the groom as best groom, acted as groomsman. Ushers were Mr. Upper, of Toronto, brother of the bridegroom, and John D. O'Flynn, of Belleville ushered.

Following the ceremony, the reception and wedding dinner were held at Club Casara, where the bride's mother, attired in beige brocade with picture hat of same beige and brown and corsage of pale pink rosebuds, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing sky blue wool, with hat of same shade and pink rosebud corsage of deep pink rosebuds.

The bride's table was appointed in the traditional manner with white damask, and centred by an all-white wedding cake topped by white bells beneath an arch of white roses and miniature bells and bass with white tulle. Tall white candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquet added a floral nuptial accent.

For the wedding trip by air to New York City, the bride chose a tonic-green and cream checked wool dress, tonic - green wool coat flared in back, floral petal hat in matching green and white orchid corsage.

Guests were present from Toronto, Belleville; Batawa; Midland; Penetang; Bancroft; Prescott; Ottawa; Willowdale; Barrie, Chicago, U.S.; and Kitchener, Ontario.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. Upper and Mrs. Hrachovec at the home of Mrs. L. Shiels, Belleville; at dinner parties in honor of the bride and bridegroom by Mrs. William Bain, Mrs. Peter Bell, of Toronto, by Mr. and Mrs. John D. O'Flynn, of Belleville, in Toronto; also by Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Walker and Miss Jean Ostendahl and Mr. Geoffrey Parsons.

Dr. and Mrs. Upper will reside in Toronto, Ontario.

Word 'Temperance' Being Removed From Titles

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Suggestions that the Canadian Temperance Federation's national convention last December that the word "temperance" be dropped from all temperance titles after a motion at its annual meeting last month.

Members felt that many people in sympathy with the federation's aims were discouraged from giving their support by the connotations of the word "temperance."

A suggested alternative title was Ontario Federation for Alcohol Education.

The Canadian Women's Christian Temperance Union, however, has decided to stick to its present title.

Mrs. L. H. Perigoe, president, said the matter was discussed at the world convention in Mexico last September but no formal decision was made.

Rev. R. A. MacLeod, president of the Temperance Federation of Nova Scotia, said his organization would discuss the matter later this year.

Rev. H. Ralph Ingersoll, general secretary of the New Brunswick Temperance Group said no action has been taken because Other provincial organizations were also retaining their present titles.

Miss Nazla Dane Addresses B.P.W. Club on Its Aims, Ideals

Fellow members from Trenton, Tweed and Napanee joined the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club at it celebrated its fifth anniversary Monday evening in the Banquet Room of the Belmont Restaurant. Guest speaker for the evening was Miss Nazla Dane, Toronto, Provincial President.

To honor the occasion, Mrs. Dorothy Ellis conducted a delightful ceremony during the meal for the present and the future. Chairper president, Miss Joy Nicholson, introduced guests in attendance Miss Evelyn Coulter, Mrs. Dorothy Brown, Miss Marjorie Sherman, Miss Mary Dwyer and Miss Florence Fitzgerald, were presented with corsages. Miss Mildred Hall, president, representing the present also received a corsage. Two new members, Mrs. Ruth Gladdish and Miss Annie Arnott, being inducted, represented the future and were presented with a rose. A large birthday cake, colorfully decorated with birthday candles and candles, was out by the provincial president.

"PACIFIC" SELECTIONS

Miss Muriel Jobson delighted the audience with selections from "South Pacific" which were accompanied by Miss Nora Wolfe at the piano.

Miss Nazla Dane, a public relations executive with the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, was introduced by Mrs. Ellis. Miss Dane is the 1960 president of the Toronto Club, Miss Dane has also been on the executive of the Toronto Club, and will complete a two-year term as provincial president at the National convention in Winnipeg in July.

Miss Dane opened her address with a favorite poem:

"Your task is to make a better World", God says to me.

I answered, "How?

I'm such a little guy, a big place, So complicated now.

And I so small and useless am to help change the world I see."

She reviewed the high aims and ideals of the Business and Professional Women's clubs and stressed the need for individual members who would "enter the privilege of the opportunities of belonging to our organization."

"As members of individual clubs, we are all a part of our provincial federation, and what we can bring to our provincial and national gatherings resolutions which are worthy of our efforts in getting them implemented. We are the federation and we cannot be diverted from their objectives. Many of our women have been the ones who are proving that business women's groups mean what they are talking about when they appear before government officials."

"Our Canadian Federation is a living thing. Not only is it growing in numbers and influence, it is growing in wisdom and it is growing in the feeling that more objectively the value of our efforts and are scattering not just how we used to be. Yet we are taking on bigger and more important projects."

"Clever women, plodding women, every kind of woman has been here but we have no statements. Each of us has something to offer, no matter how small that something may seem to us.

"It is my belief that each of us has a 'part to play in life', not just with our own name in the whole of it. Each of us must accept the responsibility of the talents with our own name we can avoid it for years, perhaps, but after we have made do something of value in our community and within our organization."

"The busy, active woman is the woman who has time for really big complaints because she is taking her energy to get things done. The busy, active woman is the woman who gets herself organized so she can carry on her activities with the least strain on herself."

"Those of us who heard Olive Hanton of the Canadian Federation speak at our Conference banquet in Sarnia in 1958 will long remember her inspiring address. I should like to have you hear him at a public meeting and described to us at that time:

"We have to prepare to paint this picture, to be a well-poured project. So first of all you put on a mixture of the basic organization spirit. The members are the brushes. Some are big wheels in our organization and are, therefore, large brushes . . . others are good at doing only one type of thing so they are the specialized brushes. Then the doers go onto the canvas. And here you have the colors of the rainbow: Violet for adventure, blue for loyalty, indigo for love, green for friendship, yellow for patience, orange for adventure, red for valor. What a picture of the Federation we could paint with those colors!"

Let us make our efforts for Federation glow with vitality and the brightness of interest. We can do it by the touch of a loving a good job in our own clubs". "It's the commonplace that counts" from the Brandon Sun. "It's no use taking off your hat to do a thing if you don't take off your coat to the future".

Mrs. Ostendahl Donaldson thanked Miss Dane and presented her with a token of appreciation.

Plans were completed for the Friday, annual coffee party to be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Newman on the evening of May 4th.

Mrs. F. Jeffs Feted on 90th Birthday

RAWDON — Over Fifty relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Jeffs on Wednesday afternoon, Apr. 20 and tendered Mr. Jeffs' mother, Mrs. F. Jeffs, a party on the occasion of her 90th birthday.

Mrs. Jeffs is the former Martha Hagerman, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Hagerman, and his lived most of her life at Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Mrs. Jeffs received over 75 greeting cards, several boxes of chocolates, and personal gifts.

She was very appreciative of the kindness bestowed on her on this auspicious occasion. Mrs. Jeffs enjoyed a delightful visit with her guests during the afternoon and evening.

Business Girls 55 Hold Coffee Party

A delightful coffee party was held on April 27th, at the home of Mrs. V. Slavin, 19 Bleecker Avenue.

The dining table was simply and tastefully decorated with a lovely flower centrepiece of blue iris, yellow mums, with pale yellow Shasta daisies, with candelabra on either side holding yellow and blue candles on a dainty lace table cloth; at either end of table was a silver service.

There was a delectable assortment of home cooked sandwiches of various fancy sandwiches, cookies, tarts, cakes and squares, also a colorful array of pickles, olives, carrot curls, radishes and celery.

Welcoming committee consisted of Mrs. V. Slavin, Mrs. P. Berry and Miss M. Cardwell who all looked like a breath of spring, corsage of blue and yellow mums.

Those pouring were Mesdames D. Elliott, B. Ellis, D. Elvidge, P. Johnston, E. Turner.

Those taken at the door by Mrs. I. McMartin, Miss J. Scott.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames J. Bonisteel, D. Ducette, M. Booth, R. Carson, F. Moon and Miss M. Bricknell.

Replenishing handled by Mesdames D. Ellis, F. Moon, A. Tomlinson, E. Turner, Thomas E. Weddin, C. Elliott.

Those working in the kitchen were Mesdames Q. Fox, D. Ellis, W. Fever C. Tomlinson; Misses M. Adams 439 Bridge St. E.

Mrs. W. Tomlinson, convener. Miss M. Bricknell, co-convener and Mrs. Q. Fox, secretary, wish to extend on behalf of the business girls a big thank you to all who attended and helped in any way to make the party and the overwhelming success that it was. Everyone agreed that it was indeed, "a wonderful party", refreshments galore, coffee superb —even Mr. Weatherman cooperated.

Country Club Lady Golfers To Open Season on May 12

The Ladies' Division of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club anticipate as good if not a better season than the near-record one of 1959.

This was the general feeling at the annual meeting of the division held in the clubhouse this week. Business matters were preceded by a tasty potluck supper.

Division president Mrs. Joy Bowerman, entering her second term, chaired the meeting attended by some 60 enthusiastic members.

"All things point to another good season" the president said. "Just as good if not better than last year."

She announced the official opening date for the distaff golfers as May 12.

Three outstanding events feature the 1960 program. On May 4 the first two-ball-dinner will be held. The opening social event of the season is slated for May 21 when the club holds its spring tea.

Competitive play starts on May 20 when the qualifying round of the Jewellers' Trophy (mixed two-ball) gets under way.

Four rounds of Canadian Ladies' Golf Union awards were honored at the meeting. Mrs. Ena Hall won the general proficiency medal with Mrs. Eva Ketcheson being awarded the bronze medal. Mrs. Betty Ingram won the business ladies silver medal with the bronze award going to Mrs. Helen Marsh.

Mrs. Monica MacDonald is the press representative of the ladies division for the coming season.

CWL Members Attend Service, Enjoy Social Hour and Hear History of League Recited

Members of the Catholic Women's League of St. Michael's were privileged to hear a most thought-provoking sermon Sunday evening last, following Holy Hour in observance of the Feast of Our Lady of Good Counsel. Patroness of the League. Father Right Reverend J. P. Sullivan, D.D., P.P., delivered his sermon on "Christian Family Life" to a large gathering of League members, many of whom had to delinquently emanate from homes wherein the husband is only the head of the house and the wife discharged her duties as a Christian mother. He urged the use of sacramentals within the homes.

Later in St. Michael's Academy Auditorium a social hour was enjoyed, which commenced with the singing of Canada's anthem during which Mrs. J. J. Logan read the history of the C.W.L. of St. Michael's Parish.

In September 1917 The Most Reverend Mr. J. Sgrati, Archbishop of Kingston, and a former pastor of St. Michael's, Belleville, appointed a committee with Miss Helena Lynch as convenor, Mrs. D. Highland, Mrs. Fergus O'Connor and Miss M. Ronan for the purpose of organizing League sub-divisions through the Archdiocese of Kingston. The following day evening October 26, 1921, the women of the Parish met in the Academy and organized the subdivision was organized by the Diocesan committee. The first president was Mrs. J. F. Daley, vice presidents were Mrs. C. B. Smith and Mrs. Leonard and Miss Ann Hurley with Miss Helena Lynch as secretary-treasurer and Mrs. F. S. Anderson corresponding secretary and Miss Kate Dolan treasurer. Father Mc. Killeen, pastor of St. Michael's was the first Spiritual Director until 1922, Mrg. Daley the president found it necessary to resign and Miss Helena Lynch was named president and Mrs. W. J. Murphy secretary.

The first Diocesan convention was held at St. Michael's in October 1922 and Miss Lynch was the hostess president. Miss Lynch was later elected honorary president and held the two presidencies simultaneously from 1923 to 1931. During her term of office the house on the brow of the hill overlooking Phoenix Square was commonly called "The Castle" — between the church and the present Convent, was renovated by the League and "The Children of Mary" Hall, now "The Wilkie Bank Club". Meetings and social events were held there for many years — later it was demolished. The first library at St. Michael's was maintained and staffed by the League — and a library card was 10c. When the Academy burned in 1929, all was lost.

STARTED IN 1922

The Belleville Catholic Hospital Fund was started in 1922 with an initial donation of $500 from the League. The dream of the hospital was abandoned when authorization to go ahead was not forthcoming from the provincial authorities.

Miss Ann Hurley was the next president, serving from 1923-27. She was succeeded by Mrs. Fred Phillip Flaster who served from 1927-29. Mrs. Flaster was demoted by fire in January 1929 and thereafter League activities were held in the K of C hall. Mrs. John Trunisch was president from 1929 to 1931. Reverend Charles Baker came to St. Michael's as curate. Father Killeen's poor health failed completely, following the burning of the school and, after his death in June 1930, the Right Reverend J. F. Nicholson was appointed pastor. When the new Academy was completed the Apostolic Delegate to Canada came to the grand opening and the League served a banquet of 600 guests under their newly acquired silver flatware linen, dishes, glassware, which had been purchased in anticipation of this new event.

In 1930 the membership was 268 and the League held its general meeting saw 100 members present. Mrs. Frank Fitzpatrick was president from 1931 to 1933, followed by Miss Nellie Dolan, who served for two years. Mrs. A. B. Collins was president from 1935 to 1938 succeeded by Miss Margaret Ryan from 1938-39. Mrs. Collins was returned to the top office and served another two years, until 1940. During and throughout the war years, a Red Cross unit was formed to do war work in connection with the Red Cross Society and prayers for peace were the order of the day. Mrs. F. J. Butler was the next president and served from 1940-42.

NEW CONVENT BUILT

The new Convent was built and the League hosted the reception room for the Reverend Sisters. The old Convent on John Street was converted to St. Michael's High School, and it functioned most successfully under the guidance of Monsignor Nicholson and later Reverend Dean L. B. Garvis. Mrs. George Wilson served as president from 1943-44 and set up a committee to assist at the Blood Donors' Clinic.

Mrs. Stanley B. Upper held the presidency for one year 1944-45 and she was elected president of the Consumers' Branch of The War Time Prices and Trade Board here. The League also had charge of entertaining the armed forces at the Y.M.C.A. and cooperated with other civic organizations in entertaining the troops. A clothing shower for the Russian Relief, Rev. M. J. Belleau, P.P., was also inaugurated. Christmas boxes were sent overseas. Mrs. George Wilson was again president from 1945-47. A room in the Hotel Quinte was remodelled; the League sponsored a tea and garden party this year. St. Michael's High School students, The Blue Cross Insurance Plan was put into effect and 23 League members formed the Choral Group. A Victory tea was staged for the Academy to give nursing service 12 hours per week. In 1946-47 $975 was raised on a per capita of $1.15 per member. This expense was shared by the Benevolent Society and the Knights of Columbus. The League set up a Health service room with the assistance of a registered nurse who applies required. Miss Margaret Ryan was president from 1947-49 and the bazaars held in the early years of the decade were very successful. There were now a one day affair and function in the Academy auditorium. Mrs. D. V. Doyle served as president from 1949-51. Child-Welfare was the League's camp at the League's expense.

PLEDGED SUPPORT

The League pledged financial support to the Belleville "Our Lady's Philippines at Bandarawela, Rev. J. Buckley can." In Belleville as curate. A Scholarship fund was set up in the Memorial High School and music prize in the Collegiate and Vocational and Health Service room. Following the death of Father Nicholson, the Rev. L. B. Garvis was spointed pastor of St. Michael's. Mrs. J. F. Daley took the presidency in 1951 for the third time. Mrs. Daley served from 1951 — and after much work and persuasion by Father Garvis, a corps of volunteers from Home and School and the Parent-Teachers' Association was formed and adequate nursing staff engaged to service all the schools, so that the League was relieved of this financial responsibility. A Thrift Unit was desirable, but the outlying areas did not wish to come into this scheme at the time. A gift was presented to another young man of the parish, Terence O'Sullivan who entered the Christian Brothers. Scholarship Funds were provided by the League for resurfacing of the School campus.

DINNER BEYOND

Mrs. E. J. Logan was elected president and served from 1952-53. The League served a dinner following the First Solemn High Mass sung by Reverend Robert Fluvey, to his family and friends. A Spiritual Bouquet was sent to Her Majesty, Elizabeth II on the occasion of her coronation. Equipment for the staff room at the new St. Joseph's School was provided and Reverend J. F. Mc. V. Buckley was appointed pastor of St. Joseph's and the Reverend P. F. Murphy came to St. Michael's as curate. Two new subdivisions of the league were organized, the Diocesan President, Mrs. Urbin Haughian formed the new officers, of St. Joseph's and Holy Rosary on the afternoon and evening of the same day, Jan. 24, 1954.

The League sponsored a social club for the young men and ladies of the parish, with Miss Patricia as first president of the club. It later was called "The Regis Club". The Diocesan convention was again held in Belleville, June 1954, and we were grateful to the parish of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for the kind use of their hall. Father Cash was ordained to the priesthood and the League tendered a reception to over 500 guests in the afternoon following his First Solemn High Mass at St. Michael's. St. Michael's first Queen Scout was tendered an award and girl guides who received their Religion and Life emblem were honored. Equipment for health service room at the Academy and science equipment for the high school were provided together with necessities for the staff room of Academy.

GUIDE COMPANY FORMED

Mrs. Skinner was served for the family and friends of the Reverend Harold O'Neill following his First Solemn High Mass. A Girl Guide Company was formed in 1956 and is still functioning; along with two Brownie packs organized by past president, Mrs. D. Palmer; president, Mrs. R. Holston; vice-president, Mrs. G. Palmer; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. B. Brown; secretary, Mrs. O. Miller; treasurer, Mrs. L. Caller; district director, Mrs. A. Robinson; song leader, Mrs. A. Bannon; auditors, Mrs. J. Wilson and Mrs. E. Moon; nominating committee, Mrs. J. Prudhomme and Mrs. Sprackett; public relations, Mrs. B. Lucy; branch directors, Mrs. T. Pine Cote Branch, Mrs. Kibbon, Mrs. C. Keeble, and Mrs. Schofield; sick visitors, Mrs. D. Hurley, Mrs. E. Moon, Mrs. Hearman, Mrs. W. Kirkham and Mrs. Bannon; citizenship and citizenship and education, Mrs. N. McMillan; historical research and publicity, Mrs. Mrs. Keeble; home economics and health, Mrs. G. Palmer; resolutions, Mrs. G. Devalin.

The new president, Mrs. R. Holston, greeted the members and expressed her desire for their continued co-operation for the next year.

Lunch was served by the hostess Mrs. A. Hearman, Mrs. Weagant, Mrs. J. Wilson and Mrs. J. Fudge.

The ease of handling and pep are amazing, and I average nearly forty miles per gallon, which makes my driving really economical.

PLANNING A WEDDING?

Many young ladies are wedding-conscious right about now. For May and June, the so-called "bridal months," are fast approaching. Also, many of the harassed parents is faced for the first time with planning a wedding. Whether it is to take the form of a large, formal ceremony, or a quiet gathering in the home, they still are many traditions to be followed if the wedding is to uphold the sacred and beautiful customs that have come down to us through the ages.

Planning a wedding without having a nervous breakdown, or spending six months' income, takes thought and careful preparation. During the next few weeks I will endeavour to smooth the way by a few suggestions.

First, a brief summary of the obligations and duties placed by the parents of the bride and the bridegroom himself.

The parents of the bride are responsible for:

The purchase of the trousseau in its entirety. The engraved invitations or announcements and their preparation for mailing, including postage. The bride's gifts to her attendants. (While the bride-to-be selects the gowns for her attendants, she does not pay for them.)

All floral decorations for the church, or home, and reception. The bride's attendants' bouquets or corsages. (The bride's bouquet may correctly be paid for by the bridegroom, from the selection herself, of course, so that the flowers will blend with the gown she is to wear.)

The fees for the organist, choir or soloist and the sexton.

Automobiles and chauffeurs to escort the bridal party from the home to the church and reception.

The reception in its entirety, including the catering service, light refreshments, the wedding cake, the charge for the place if the reception is held away from the home, the hire of dishes, linen, silver, etc.

It is obvious that the bride's family shoulders the financial burden of a wedding, but there are a few details for which the bridegroom is responsible:

The engagement and wedding rings. (If it is a double ring ceremony, the bride purchases the ring for her bridegroom.) A gift for his bride on their wedding day. The wedding license. His bachelor dinner. Ties, boutonnieres and gloves for himself, best man and ushers. A gift for each of them. The fee to be paid to the clergyman. The bride's bouquet and going away corsage. A corsage for the mother of the bride. (Question: Recently I dined in a restaurant and during the course the waitress brought a relish tray. As I had never encountered this before, I was at a loss as to what to do with it. I have served myself or let the waitress serve me? Since there is no special plate provided, should I have used my dinner plate or my bread plate?

Answer: The waitress usually will indicate how you can make your own choice and serve yourself. Or she will ask your preference and then serve you. The relishes should be placed on your butter plate unless a special dish is provided.

QUESTION:

Your recipes create a great deal of interest among many of us here . . . In the paper you mentioned two recipes for the large number of people. Will you please send me a copy of your two desserts . . . Mrs. H. E. Mc.

ANSWER:

I have mailed to you a copy of Angel Icebox Dessert. Below is the recipe for the twenty-four hour White Fruit Medley given here on June 3, 1958. This has been so popular I have run out of copies. Anyone who will be serving 25 people this summer should clip it now.

ANSWER:

Use heavy saucepan. Be sure to use 2 cups brown and 1 cup white sugar — not all brown sugar. Stir first 6 ingredients to boil (as recipe directs), stirring until sugars dissolve. Then very sugar cannot "fail to boil." With candy clerk wipe sugar crystals from sides of pan.

ANSWER:

Missionary Tells of Work In Japan

On Thursday night, 35 girls from the Pilgrim and Colonist Groups of the Pioneer Girls of the Alliance Church gathered in the lower auditorium for a special meeting to meet with Mrs. Phyllis Jensen, Pioneer Girls' missionary from Japan.

Supper was served to the girls by the mothers of members of the two groups. This was followed by a lively sing-song and games. Mrs. Jensen, in native costume, gave a stirring message to the girls about the Japanese people and the tasks of the missionary. She also gave the girls an opportunity to ask questions about her work and much interest was manifested in the question period.

During her talk Mrs. Jensen told the girls of the groups for their part in helping her in her missionary work by praying and in their prayer support. At the close of the meeting she presented each girl with a little novelty bird which had been made in Japan. Mr. and Mrs. Jensen and their son, Stephen, will return to Japan in July.

Following the meeting at the church, the Pioneer Girl leaders and helpers were entertained, along with Mrs. Phyllis Jensen, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Atyeo, Charles St.

Depth of Foundation Depends on Final Grading

Once the footings are in place, work on the foundation walls can proceed.

There are two main types of foundations, the monolithic concrete or "poured" foundation, consisting of a single concrete mass, and the unit masonry foundation made either of concrete blocks or of stone masonry.

For appearance sake, the foundation should not project too high above ground level. On the other hand, the wooden framework of the house should not come too, close to the ground. A certain minimum clearance is essential to guard against rotting of the woodwork. If the finish is brick veneer the bottom part of wooden joists should be at least six inches above ground.

Minimum acceptable depths for foundations in NHA – financed houses are laid down in "Housing Standards". Poured foundations are usually from eight to 12 inches thick. Block foundations should normally be thicker than solid concrete foundations. The actual thickness, however, depends not only on the type of foundation, but also on the height and length of the house.

Foundation walls have to be strong enough to withstand the thrust of the surrounding earth. To provide additional strength, foundation walls exceeding certain length are buttressed with pilasters. A pilaster is a column built integrally with the wall by increasing the thickness of the foundation at that point, making it more rigid. This type of supplementary support is required, for example, in concrete block foundation walls more than 45 feet long.

Basement windows installed at the foundation stage, should be equipped with weather bar, to prevent flooding of the basement in heavy rains. A weather bar is a raised strip usually of metal or plastic, placed in a groove along the window sill. Standard casement windows are usually equipped with weather bars but made - to - measure windows should also be provided with this protection.

Houses with a crawl space in place of a basement are built on regular foundations with the footings carried below the frost line. Instead of excavating the full length and width of the house, only a footing trench needs to be excavated. The foundation wall is then built to a height of about two feet above ground level. The empty space between the ground and superstructure is known as a crawl space. Openings, or vents are installed at either end of the foundation to provide ventilation across the crawl space.

Old Card Table Gets New Face Of Fir Plywood

The crack-free surface of fir plywood is ideal for building step-saving folding tables or for renovating old card tables.

A sheet of fir plywood, scraps of lumber and hinges is all that's needed to add space to kitchen, dinette or living room.

To give card tables a new lease on life, remove the old top and replace it with a piece of quarter-inch-thick fir plywood, cut to fit just inside the frame.

Coat both the inside frame and edges of the fir plywood with glue, insert the new top and anchor it with small finishing nails.

The folding table is made of quarter-inch-thick fir plywood, also framed with 1 x 3 lumber. It is hinged to a window sill, or batten, nailed to the wall. The legs of 3 x 2 lumber are also hinged.

When finished, the folding table can be either painted to match the room decor or covered with a mosaic of light tile.

MASONRY DRILL GUIDE

Here's how to prevent your carbide-tipped masonry drills from "creeping". Through a scrap block of wood, drill a hole the size of the masonry bit and place it over the spot to be drilled. The hole in the scrap block will act as a guide for the masonry bit and keep it from creeping.

Proper Care Guards Floor From Erosion

Young feet scampering home from school may bring life and gaiety into the household, but they also bring floor upkeep problems.

Wet boots leave water spots on the floor, dropped skates leave scars, and even the shoes that most youngsters wear during the school year may mean extra floor upkeep.

Mother can anticipate such housekeeping problems and take time by the forelock with protective precautions. Wax is a logical answer to floor protection. However, there are many types of waxes and the choice of the right one is important if you want to eliminate many hours of upkeep and avoid the expense of floor refinishing.

If the floor is vinyl, asphalt tile, linoleum or rubber tile, a self-polishing wax should be the choice. A new one on the market will not turn yellow as did many of the old self-polishing waxes. It's easy to apply, too.

Liquid polishing or paste wax should be used on wood and cork floors. In the spots where there is heavy traffic it is wise to maintain the surface of the wax with regular applications. According to the makers of Johnson's wax, an easy way to tell when a floor needs revarnishing is to note when dirt begins to stick so that it cannot be removed with a damp mop. In the case of a polishing-type wax, rewax when the shine cannot be renewed by buffing. If a self-polishing wax has been used the floor should be cleaned thoroughly and a new coat applied. Where a polishing wax is called for a liquid wax which cleans as well as polishes may be used.

Many youngsters have rubber heels on their shoes and these may leave marks on a floor treated with wax. If the wax used was self-polishing the marks can usually be removed without difficulty by rubbing gently with a clean cloth dipped in the wax. Blend it over the cleaned area, let it dry and then buff lightly. Rubber heel marks on a floor treated with a polishing wax can be removed by applying a small amount of wax. Buff to a hard finish.

For a wood floor that has become spotted by pets, spilled ink or similar accidents, try a solution of trisodium phosphate. Mix to a paste with water and allow to remain on the spot for a couple of hours. Keep a damp cloth over the paste so that it remains moist. Then rinse thoroughly with a solution of one part vinegar and 10 parts water. When the floor is thoroughly dry give it a good waxing. This treatment may save the drastic measure of sanding and refinishing.

TAPE SAVES EDGE

Retract the blade of a plane when not in use, or cover the protruding edge with friction tape to keep the blade from nicking.

TAKE OUT WRAP

Hold a heat lamp close to a warped board or cabinet door until it straightens. Immediately apply sealer to edges and sides to prevent entry of moisture.

Plywood Makes Simple Shoe Cleaning Box

When space is at a premium — either in an apartment or in a household of growing children — shoe cleaning equipment often becomes cluttered and lost.

This simple, six-lined shoe cleaning box, which can double as a padded stool in the living room, is easily made of fir plywood.

It keeps all your equipment together, and gives you a place to work.

First take the measurements of the pieces from the plan and draw them on a 4'x4' piece of ¾" fir plywood. The plan shows the cushion of the stool glued to an extra piece of the lid, but this isn't really necessary.

While ¾" thick plywood seems fairly strong at first glance, the real advantage is that this thickness eliminates framing. Joints are simply nailed (or screwed) and glued.

When the pieces cut out, the box is then assembled. A piano type is ideal to fasten the top to the sides, but is expensive. Ordinary butt hinges serve just as well. Rubber-headed tacks are cautioned to keep the lid at a minimum height above the box on all sides.

Legs of the box can be either bought ready-made or fashioned from short pieces of 3"x2" stock.

A plastic-covered cushion, deep and 13½" square turns the box into a comfortable stool. Cushions can either be bought or made of foam rubber and upholstery.

The foot-rest is assembled as detailed, fastened in place with butt hinges. A card table hinge is positioned to keep the rest upright when shoes are being shined.

The completed box can be either finished naturally with a wax stain, "bleached", with a wiped-down diluted white paint or painted in the normal manner.

Paths

Paths that wind around clumps of shrubbery and lead to half hidden corners, or a shady bench, or steps add interest to any fair sized garden layout. And they are not hard to establish.

When there is lots of space and not too much concentrated traffic, good healthy grass will make an excellent path though we might have to add a flag stone here and there where the soil threatens to wear too thin.

If there is a lot of walking however, then something more permanent like flag stones, brick, cinder or gravel may have to be used as only such material will stand heavy and constant wear. But one should go easy with cinders and gravel. If they are loose there is bound to be trouble with lawnmower. If combined with something to bind them and then rolled or tamped down they should be satisfactory.

Early Lawn Care Vital To Securing the Best Results

Just as a carpet adds a finishing touch to a well-furnished room, so a healthy lawn adds a thing of beauty to your outdoor setting. Here are some tips from lawn experts to help you get your lawn off on the right foot this season:

Early spring clean-up should be number one on your list of chores, including a thorough raking to remove dead grass, leaves and other debris.

Rolling is another essential at this time of year. If your lawn seems rough or bumpy as you walk over it, there could be several reasons for this condition.

The winter "heaving" of the soil may have raised some of the individual grass plants. This can be solved by using a roller just heavy enough to press the loose grass back into the soil.

Or the bumps could be caused by night crawlers (those large earth worms that are great for fishing bait, but not so desirable for a smooth lawn). Correct this condition by applying a heavy rate of chlordane. This chemical kills off the night crawlers and also wipes out quite a few of Japanese beetles and other sub-surface soil insects. Roll the lawn to level out the mounds after applying the chlordane.

It's good to apply a commercial fertilizer in the spring, too, being sure to get uniform coverage by avoiding skips or overlapping.

When these steps are finished you can do any re-seeding that is necessary. Before applying the seed loosen the top 1-4 inch of soil lightly with a rake. Rake lightly again after the seeding. Then roll very lightly.

Weed control should be included in your spring lawn care program. The best material discovered to kill broad-leaved weeds without damaging the grass is 2, 4D. One solution, the Amtrol Hose-Spray Weed and Brush Killer, combines this ingredient with 2, 4, 5-T — a powerful chemical lethal to poison ivy and other woody plants — and a handy hose-spray attachment.

To combat crabgrass before it riddles your lawn, use a chlordane treatment early in the season before the seeds sprout.

Breaking the Slope

Split levels may be coming into fashion again in housing but they have always been popular in gardening. Where the ground slopes considerably one should make the larger lawn and grounds generally conform rather than trying to grade the whole thing artificially to one level. The simplest and perhaps most interesting treatment is to have an upper and a lower lawn joining the two with a bit of stone wall or a strip of rock garden. Through both the wall or rock garden of course there will be a series of steps in stone brick or cedar timbers. Another way would be to have shrubbery on the slope joining the two levels.

Easier if Rows Are Straight

When the old gardener insists on using a string to make every row in the vegetable garden straight and as long as possible he is not being old fashioned, only sensible. Straight rows are best because they are very much easier to cultivate and to thin. With straight rows and fairly regularly planting of seeds one knows where to expect the plants and can go ahead and weed even when growth is just starting. And of, course, regular cultivating is far faster and easier either with hand tools or power. Because there is so much simplicity in the neatly planted vegetable garden many people also plant their flowers for cutting like gladiolus and sweet peas and any left over from the flower beds in the same way.

Two Elections Already Set, More to Come

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

General elections are scheduled for two of Canada's 10 provinces in June and two others are expected this summer. A fifth provincial government, that of British Columbia, also may seek electoral approval before the year is out.

Premier Barrette announced in Quebec City Wednesday that his Union Nationale administration will seek another term in office June 22.

Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia announced Tuesday that his Progressive Conservative government will go to the polls June 7 looking for a second term in office after 33 years in opposition.

New Brunswick also is expected to have a general election during the summer. Premier Flemming, who heads a Progressive Conservative administration, said in Fredericton Wednesday citizens of that province "won't have long to wait" to find out the date of the next provincial election.

An election is expected this year in Saskatchewan, where Canada's only CCF government is in power. Speculation has centred on June 15 or June 22 as likely dates. The election in that province must be held on a Wednesday.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia has indicated his Social Credit government will call a general election either this year or in 1961, when it will have been in office for a full five-year term. Informed sources in that province say that September is the most likely month for the election.

U.S. Will Spend Three Times As Much as Canada This Yr.

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States plans to spend three times as much as Canada this year on new anti-aircraft installations in this country, it was learned Wednesday.

Authorities disclosed that in the current fiscal year begun April 1 the Canadian defence department has earmarked between $12,000,000 and $17,000,000 for new radars and the SAGE (semi-automatic ground environment) electronic control system for manned and unmanned interceptors.

This figure compares with the U.S. Air Force estimate of $44,800,000 for the same program, described in the U.S. defence budget as CADIN, the letters standing for Canadian Air Defence Integration North.

The RCAF here maintained that the figure for U.S. expenditures on SAGE and new radars in Canada is classified information.

However, it appears in public testimony given the U.S. House of Representatives defence appropriations subcommittee by the U.S. Air Force March 3.

Both the Canadian and American estimates for the program, which includes the SAGE centre at North Bay, seven new heavy radars and 42 low-filler or low-level radars, may be lowered because of the U.S. defence department's planned reduction in the SAGE part of the program.

The U.S. Air Force has decided, for instance, that the SAGE centre at North Bay as well as those in the U.S. will not be built underground as originally planned. SAGE is required for operation of the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile.

Officials also disclosed that estimated expenditures on the two Bomarc bases at North Bay and Mont Laurier, Que., this fiscal year are $8,000,000. Total cost of the sites is estimated at $15,000,000. The U.S. will supply and pay $91,000,000 for the 60 missiles and 56 launchers at the two Canadian sites.

The U.S. Air Force now estimates its total share of the SAGE-radar program in Canada at $86,400,000.

This indicates that Canada's share of the Bomarc-SAGE-radar program in this country will be much less than originally thought.

It now may amount to about $60,000,000 compared to the original estimate of $125,000,000.

SEXTON 50 YEARS — Joseph Vezina, 75, tends an incense burner at Notre-Dame-des-Victoires Church, built in 1688, where he has served as sexton for more than 50 years. Mr. Vezina, who rises each day at 4 a.m. and gets to bed each night by 9.30, attributed his good health to regular hours. His 50th anniversary with the church, in Quebec's Lowertown, was celebrated recently with a high Mass and hotal dinner in his honor. (CP Photo)

50th Anniversary As Sexton Of Church Being Celebrated

QUEBEC (CP)—For almost all of his 75 years, Joseph Vezina has lived and worked in an atmosphere of antiquity.

He was born in a 250-year-old house and is employed as sexton in a 272-year-old church.

His 50th anniversary as sexton of Notre - Dame-des-Victoires Church, snuggled near the waterfront in Lowertown, was celebrated recently with a high mass and a dinner.

Bright and alert, he has been getting up at 4 a.m. each morning since 1910 to tend the little Roman Catholic church. He goes to bed at 9:30 each night and attributes his good health to the regular hours.

He was born in an ancient house on the Island of Orleans, just downriver from Quebec. A brother—father of 21 children—still lives there.

Mr. Vezina, whose wife died in 1955, fathered 12 children, seven of whom are still living. Among them were three sets of twins.

"I was always able to care for them although you will understand we had to renounce luxuries," he recalled in an interview.

He also remembers that when he first became sexton, people had to be up at 5 a.m. for morning Angelus because they went to work earlier and often stayed at their jobs until 9 p.m.

PLASTIC INDUSTRY

Canada had 34 establishments manufacturing primary plastics in 1958, with record shipments valued at $97,902,000.

PERFORMANCE proved

Corvair was unanimously named "Car of the Year" by the editors of Motor Trend—world's largest general automotive magazine. And it's easy to understand why... "the most significant engineering advance" of 1960... "four-wheel independent suspension totally unlike any other North American-built car"... a rear engine and transaxle "allowing a flatter floor and lower roofline"—these are some of the praises the experts heaped upon Corvair in announcing the auto industry's most coveted award!

ECONOMY!

proved proved proved proved

The results of two major economy tests run by independent organizations* prove beyond a doubt that your Corvair will deliver 25 to 40% more miles on a gallon of regular gas than you can get in a conventional car. Add to this, the inherent dependability of an air-cooled engine, the savings on anti-freezes and anti-corrosives, and the fact that Corvair is easily and speedily serviced, and you'll know for sure that Corvair is your best bet for economical transportation.

*Pure Oil Economy Trials and Mobilgas Economy Run.

Here are the things Corvair gives you that no other car can touch:

Practically flat floor ... front and rear. Room for your feet, even if you're sitting in the middle. Who but Corvair remembers your feet?

No fussing with antifreeze ... or water or radiator repairs or water pumps. Corvair's air-cooled engine has nothing to do with 'em.

4-wheel independent suspension ... that gives each wheel its own coil spring and its own knee action. RESULT: a smoother, flatter ride.

Almost instant heat ... from an airplane-type heater. You don't have to wait for the engine to warm up — Corvair's heater warms in 30 seconds.

Fold-down rear seat ... that opens 17.6 cubic feet of storage space besides what's in the trunk. Standard in every model, two and four-door.

Four engine traction ... that comes with the engine's weight bearing down on the rear wheels. Why be a stick in the mud for snow or sandy situations when you can dig in and go with Corvair?

Come see it! Come drive it! Come price it!

DYSTROPHY RESEARCH — Dr. Gaetan Jasmin of the department of pathological anatomy at the University of Montreal examines one of the laboratory mice he uses in experiments to find a means to control muscular dystrophy. The 32-year-old researcher is approaching the problem through a study of enzymes. (CP Photo).

Enzymes Might Hold Key To Defeating Muscular Dystrophy, Says Scientist

The broad range of hospitals and university medical faculties in Montreal gives the city exceptional facilities for the specialized study of many ailments. This story discusses work being done on muscular dystrophy, heart disease and cancer.

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — A young medical scientist at the University of Montreal has gone searching for muscular dystrophy, and he thinks the ailment's days as an invincible cripplier and killer may be numbered.

Dr. Gaetan Jasmin, 35-year-old assistant professor of experimental pathology, believes enzymes hold the key to beating the disease.

Muscular dystrophy is hereditary and results in a gradual muscle breakdown that can cause death when it reaches the respiratory system. It attacks children, mainly, and there is no known treatment.

"But just because it is hereditary we should not say it cannot be treated," says Dr. Jasmin, who shares the optimistic view of modern doctors that, given enough knowledge, man can lick any disease.

MUST KNOW ADVERSARY

"You can fight heredity, as long as you know what you are fighting."

He has tackled the disease on the level of tiny chemical reactions that take place each time a muscle is used. Enzymes, the body's catalysts, trigger the combination of oxygen with body chemicals to produce energy.

In muscular dystrophy, he says, the enzymes fail down on the job—The chain reaction necessary to muscle functioning is broken, and the muscle becomes useless.

"This enzyme question is definitely a fundamental aspect of the disease," Dr. Jasmin says. "There may be other approaches, but not many. If we can prove it's an enzyme abnormality we may be able to help to supply what is lacking."

IMPROVEMENT NOTED

An approach based on presumed enzyme deficiencies—"supplying what nature failed to provide"—has been used on muscular dystrophy victims at the huge Ste. Justine Hospital for Children, at Hull, Mercier Hospital, and Dr. Jasmin says they are "definitely improving."

He hopes to see the development of medical treatments that will carry children past a suspected critical period until their enzymes begin functioning properly again on their own.

Like all pathologists, Dr. Jasmin watches from the corner of his eye for tissue changes that may throw light on cancer. But most work on his field in Montreal falls under the supervision of Dr. J. H. Quastel.

Dr. Quastel, director of the McGill-Montreal General Hospital Research Institute, feels that more researchers are needed if the hope of keeping cancer from spread out and destroy cancer.

SOLUTION IN DECADE

"If the present potential in cancer research is kept up and materially increased, especially by the provision of secure, attractive posts for the most able of our young investigators, I am convinced that a solution will be found to certain important aspects of the cancer problem within the next decade."

"Only through much more intensive work by men and women with experience and imagination will we be able to find the answer quickly."

Dr. Quastel says future advances will come on three fronts: Improved methods of surgery and radiation treatment; use of cancer-killing viruses; and production of substances which starve cancer cells while leaving good cells unharmed.

In his Institute Dr. Quastel is preparing the young men and women who will fight cancer across the world: in one room research is done by students from Pakistan, Nigeria, Latvia, Australia, Japan and Canada.

The battle against heart disease produces skirmishes in institutes, laboratories and hospitals across Montreal.

Three men represent three approaches:

Dr. Hans Selye in the Institute of Experimental Medicine at the University of Montreal is seeking in a simple salt pill a solution to heart attacks caused chemically by the combination of salts in the diet with hormones produced by bodies under stress.

Dr. Kenneth Melville of McGill's pharmacology department says the answer lies in diagnosis. Premier Paul Sauve of Quebec died early in January of a heart attack soon after a physical checkup. Dr. Melville says heart ailments in such cases could be helped if diagnosed.

And diagnosis could result from electrocardiogram readings.

BLOOD MAY BE KEY

When deprived of oxygen, he says, healthy and ailing hearts produce and bleed at different rates. He and Dr. Daya Ram Varma, fellow-worker on the project for him, hope to use this as a diagnostic key.

Dr. Arthur Vineberg, famed heart surgeon of the Royal Victoria Hospital, takes a more direct approach. He cuts daringly into ailing, hungry hearts to patch them up.

Dr. Vineberg developed the radical and still controversial internal mammary artery implant in 1950 for hearts starving because of congestion in the artery that brings in fresh, oxygen charged blood from the lungs.

Basically, the operation consists of translanting one of the great chest arteries into the heart. The heart adapts readily to this new source of blood and the artery becomes part of it.

HEART'S DEFENCE

Dr. Vineberg says this is an illustration of the toughness and adaptability of the heart, a concept rapidly replacing the notion of the heart as a delicate and helpless organ in the wake of work at the Institute of Cardiology, the Montreal General, Notre Dame and other hospitals.

Dr. Vineberg and Dr. James Walker of West Virginia have performed the operation on 56 patients, 73 per cent of them totally disabled.

Despite the poor condition of the patients only 5.5 per cent died during or soon after the operation and 70 per cent are back at work.

During the last two years Dr. Vineberg and his colleagues have been developing a even more successful type of heart operation for patients with blood-starved hearts beyond other medical or surgical help.

STRIPS SEWN IN

Inside the lining of the heart they sew satin strips of synthetic sponge material called ivalon. The sponge themselves are not sure how but the heart, with its tremendous will to live, draws blood through the sponge from its own chambers and from surrounding tissue.

The heart of primitive mammals was nourished in this fashion, Dr. Vineberg thinks the heart of man must somehow remember.

Dr. Vineberg has performed 1,000 operations on 14 patients within the last two years and in seven other cases has combined the sponge and the artery transplant.

One patient died. Most of the others are back at work.

Sunday School Lesson

Children of Our Desires

By ROY L. SMITH

Modern psychology has introduced an entirely new vocabulary into our daily conversation. We speak of inhibitions, complexes, repressions, neurotics, erotics, and fixations as glibly as we speak of food prices or box scores.

And modern psychology has also made us aware of the fact that every mental attitude has its attendant result. We cannot choose the result, but we can choose the attitude that produces the result.

Jesus put the ancient principle into an excellent literary figure when He said, quite solemnly, that no one expected to harvest figs from thistles. Nor can anyone hope to raise peace of mind from impure desires.

PURE IN HEART

It is commonly assumed that Jesus was talking about the matter of sex, when he said that the "pure in heart" would really see God. And it is true, of course, that a sensual man closes a thousand doors on himself, and draws the blinds on a thousand windows. But sex chastity is not the only purity Jesus had in mind.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 1: "The Pure in Heart". Matthew 5:8, 27-37; 23:25-26; Luke 2:52; 9:61-62; Philippians 4:8.

No man can be called pure in heart whose secret desire is for revenge. There is nothing pure about vindictiveness or spite. The man who keeps his mind so filled with hatred that luck is, somehow, filling and the woman who is unable to forgive a rival poisons her own soul.

CHILDREN OF DESIRE

Long before any man commits murder he wishes his victim were dead. Long before the rapist commits his crime he has mentally raped it and desired it. Long before the thief has stolen another man's goods, he has coveted.

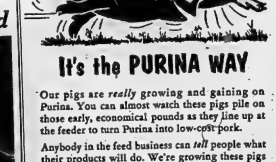
For every consuming desire there is an inevitable result. Kindle and stimulate the desire and the fruit ripens.

No one understands this principle any better than the consulting psychologist does. One of the first things the psychiatrist tries to find out is what part of a person's desires have been. It is for that reason that he encourages us to "drain our mind". Somewhere in the dregs come up out of memory he hopes to find the clue to the cause of the unwholesome fruit.

There is not a fault, a weakness, a besetting sin, or a contemptible manner in any of us, that is not the child of some desire. To change the behavior of the child we must change the character of the desire.

MORAL PRIORITIES

Most of us would agree that there are economics priorities in life which take precedence over lesser interests. It is all right, of course, to have a big sign over the top of the store, but there must be merchandise on the shelves. It is quite all right to advertise "service" but the help must be trained to render it. A flamboyant letterhead ought to be matched by integrity in the front office.



Similarly, there are moral priorities in life. It is better to keep one's honor intact than to show a profit. It is better to lose a sale than to misrepresent one's goods. It is better to make the work of our work so evident that it will not be necessary to oversell our honesty. It is better to save our honor than to save our business.

In this connection, perhaps it is fair to say that the rights of the child in the home take precedence over the whims or the privileges of either parent. A judge in a court of domestic relations one day remarked to a friend at the lunch club, "I would have few cases in my court, of people seeking divorces, if the children of the homes had the right to say the last word".

Many a child has suffered the loss of a parent all the rest of his days for no better reason. If that either his father or his mother insisted upon having his own way, no matter who had to pay the costs.

White Man's Anniversary Picture in South Africa Marked With Deep Shadows

EDITOR'S: In this, the second of four articles on South Africa, a veteran AP foreign correspondent recalls the days of the discovery of gold and of the Boer War.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—South Africa is celebrating 50 years of the union this year but only a fifth of the population has anything to celebrate.

Three million whites can look around them and see a nation operating with economic vigor, abounding in gold, diamonds, coal and a black labor force to mine them.

But looking out from their drab and strictly segregated surroundings 12,000,000 Negroes, Indians and colored people of mixed races see constant discrimination and no future.

Fifty years of union for them has meant an improved literacy rate and a gradual move toward the white man's civilization. But with these have come stricter segregation and tighter controls on movement.

TRADITIONAL KRAALS

Slightly more than a third of the 10,000,000 Negroes live in their traditional kraals in reserves, another third on the farms of white farmers, in the cities, in the crowded and rigidly-demarcated townships around the cities.

The white man's anniversary picture is spun with deep shadows. Afrikaner nationalism, rolling down the continent from the north, finds its strongest white bastion of white supremacy.

The Union of South Africa became a reality in 1910. It joined the two British colonies of Cape Province and Natal with two Boer republics, Orange Free State and Transvaal. That Boer blood more than a century of uneasy rivalry between British and Dutch settlers which finally exploded in the Boer War, 1899-1902.

This was a bitter struggle in the veldt. It let a legacy of hate and suspicion which the Boers, or Afrikaners, never have been able to suppress completely. They still talk of the concentration camps established by the British for Boer prisoners. They tell of farms burned and cattle slaughtered needlessly.

And now with Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd recovering from two bullet wounds inflicted by an assassin of English descent, there is one more black mark in the book.

CAUSES OF WAR

Broadly, the causes of the Boer War lay in huge gold deposits discovered in the Transvaal near the close of the 19th century and in British determination to unify the sprawling, unwieldy administration of the whole land mass of South Africa.

But there were international issues. Kruger recognized the danger to his republic and took drastic restrictive measures.

In the peace treaty, the treaty contained no safeguards for the overwhelming black masses in South Africa. But the British backed away from the relative liberalism they had given the Negroes in the Cape colony. They compromised. There would be no change in the political status of Africans before the Boer republics of Transvaal and Orange Free State.

When self government came the racialists were again in power and it was too late. A "white only" parliament was a reality.

Out of their dreams of a wholly racially-minded Negroes formed a National Congress in Bloemfontein in January, 1912. It became the African National Congress.

Now, in the golden anniversary year of the union, it has been outlawed for planning "a massive revolt."

Deterrent Power Best Means Of Defence Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes says all defence—for the free world as well as the West — may rest eventually on deterrent power.

Deterrent power is the means to deliver a overwhelming and clear counter-stroke in event of attack.

Mr. Pearkes of late has been dwelling on the theme that the means of retaliation is the only real defence of the West and he brought up the subject again in an interview.

Though Mr. Pearkes didn't say so, he apparently was hinting that Canada will eventually retire from the air defence business altogether except, perhaps, for helping the United States with development of a counter-missile system, if an effective one can be devised.

POSSIBLE THREAT

Mr. Pearkes said launching capable of launching missiles 1,000 miles from their targets might be a serious threat some five years from now—though there were no military or intelligence reports to indicate that Russia was pushing development of such a weapon.

On the other hand he said, the British have been testing a medium range Blue Streak rocket because of the vulnerability of its fixed bases to missile attack. A comparable test of ground would be just as vulnerable.

Missile - launching bombers would require a new generation of aircraft as a counter-measure to Russian interceptor with sufficient range now was under development since cancellation last year of the Avro CF-105 Arrow. The Canadian Arrow interceptor, also cancelled last year, would have had much too short a range, he said.

Mr. Pearkes said the west's retaliatory strength must be confined to intercontinental ballistic missiles and submarine missiles might be carried in non-American submarines.

Mr. Pearkes has strongly supported the U.S. defence department claim that the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile program in favor of more funds for long - range interceptor missiles to replace the Atlas, Titan and Minuteman.

He said in September, 1958:

"We must maintain not so much our defence as our deterrent power. We base everything on the hope that we can deter an enemy from going to war.

"There is no doubt that the present time against the missile once it has been launched. Therefore we must do everything we can to prevent missiles being launched, and this means we must let the Russians know that if they once start a war they will be met by such a tremendous counter-attack that retaliation, that the loss to their own country would be so great that it would be suicide for them to attempt war.

"The whole philosophy of our defence at the present time is that of a deterrent to war rather than of the actual defence of any particular country."

"I never have any trouble getting Bobby to do the right thing. I just tell him it's wrong."

Truck Industry Proposes Whole New Federal Act

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's trucking industry, split between federal and provincial regulatory jurisdiction, has proposed a whole new federal act.

The existing Motor Vehicle Transport Act is a flop in practice although sound in intent, the royal commission on transportation was told Thursday. As a proposed replacement the Canadian Trucking Associations, Incorporated, set out a Highway Transport Act of Canada that would continue to exercise federal authority on trans-boundary trucking through provincial regulatory boards.

It was spelled out in detail. Members of the provincial boards would act jointly as a federal control agency, and this joint transport board would deal with applications for inter-provincial trucking service.

The joint transport board "would proceed in a manner that would reduce all hearings of extra-provincial applications to only one set of hearings for each application and the statute would empower the members of regulatory boards concerned to consider jointly the evidence and jointly to render their decision," the CTA brief said.

The trucker brief said the present federal act authorizes any province to regulate trucking within a province to undertake a co-ordinated regulatory plan extending beyond that province. But the fact was that "such control is left to others."

The brief said that while railway problems should be recognized, a national transportation policy should not be synonymous with railway policy and the railways should not be assigned the role of "national carriers."

The brief presents arguments contending that other economic relief should be directed in compiling freight rates.

Caryl Chessman Prepares for 'Final' Talk

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Caryl Chessman prepared for a "final" talk with two of his lawyers today on what more can be done to prevent his execution in the gas chamber, scheduled for May 19 a.m.

The lawyers, A. L. Wirin and Rosalind Wiener, met Thursday with a new plea to Governor Edmund G. Brown Thursday. Brown told them that he had no power to stay enforcement of last Tuesday—that he is bound by the law and there is no some unexpected development of a critical nature. None is in sight.

Plans for the execution went ahead.

Warden Fred Dickson of San Quentin said no visitors other than lawyers of record for Chessman will be allowed on the prison grounds Saturday, the eve of the execution. Reporters have been admitted in the past.

The governor's office announced that it will flash the word when the cyanide gas pellets are dropped in the gas chamber. Reporters at the viewing area in the prison aren't expected to leave until the execution is over.

Chessman was sentenced to death on 10 counts including 7 robbery with bodily harm. He was convicted twice as the "Red Light Bandit, Since then he has been in San Quentin's death row for 10 and one half years, successfully fighting off eight execution dates.

Wirin, predicting Brown will spare Chessman, said:

"As a man of honor he can't do anything else. It would be an unconscionable act of godless act to let Chessman die."

SITUATION "URGENT"

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Diabetic Association said Thursday the annual drive for funds has reached only about 13 per cent of the national goal of $145,186 and "the situation has now reached a stage of urgency." It said there are 300,000 diabetics in Canada—60,000 more than in 1953 when the association was formed.

Cross Canada Survey

Anglers Prepare for Early Departure as Trout Season Opens Saturday in Ontario

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Lakes and rivers across Canada are standing by and taking aim on fishermen.

Every province except anglers are out after some type of fish, chiefly trout, although in some sections seasons haven't opened on choice species.

A few new regulations have been introduced by the provinces this year but fishing laws generally are the same as a cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows.

Alberta has reduced catch limits on trout and grayling, Quebec has opened two areas to spearing armed frogmen and Ontario has dropped its seven-inch minimum for trout.

UNUSUAL RULES

Some of the more unusual laws still in effect:

Quebec anglers may use only single barb lures hooks. New Brunswick forbids serving trout at public eating places, a move to back up the ban on sale of the game fish. Saskatchewan law provides a fine of up to $1,000 for persons caught fishing with bait minnows.

There are some sharp differences in the way provinces set their fishing laws. Ontario allows an angler five rainbow trout or lake trout per day. Saskatchewan has only rainbows of eight inches or more may be taken but set no limit on the number.

All provinces are looking to an upswing in sports fishing this season after record sales of licences in 1959.

The situation from coast to coast:

Newfoundland: Pond trout season opened Jan. 15. Ita trout opens May 24 and salmon—the main game fish—June 15. All seasons run to Sept. 15. Non-residents pay $5 for a season licence. Limits are 36 fish or 25 pounds plus one extra on trout, 10 fish or 21 a week on salmon.

Prince Edward Island: Speckled and rainbow trout fishing began April 15 in most parts; salmon June 1. Limits are 20 speckleds, three rainbows or six speckleds a day. Non-residents licence $3.

Nova Scotia: Trout and landlocked salmon season opened April 15; Salmon, April 15 in south and May 15 in north. Limit of 20 trout, six salmon and 10 landlocked salmon daily. Trout must be six inches or more, landlocks 10 inches, rainbows eight inches. No licence fees.

New Brunswick: Trout opened April 15; start of salmon season varies widely from May 15 on, according to district. Trout catch limit 10 pounds plus one, salmon six a day or 21 a week. Salmon opens April 1 with no catch limit. Non-resident licence fees range from $5 daily to $20 for season.

Quebec: Frogmen will be allowed to fish with spears in certain waters of La Verendrye park, Mont Tremblant parks. Trout generally opened April 20, daily limits from five to 19 fish according to species. No trout minimums except 10 inches on rainbows. Landlocked salmon opened April 20 with 10-inch minimum and daily limit of five fish totalling under 40 pounds; Pickerel May 1, opens May 14, black bass July 1. Muskies must be 30 inches, bass 10. Three muskies and 10 bass allowed in a day.

Ontario: Trout opens April 29 with the size limit removed this year on speckled and rainbows. Daily catch 10 speckled totalling less than 10 pounds, five rainbows. Pickerel opens May 28, limit six a day, muskie and bass generally July 1, two muskies and six bass. Non-resident licence $6.50, Manitoulin residents $3.25.

Manitoba: Lake, rainbow and brown trout, arctic char opened April 15 in-few sectors, May 14 in all areas. All other seasons open May 14 also, except Arctic grayling and sturgeon which are delayed until June 15. No size limits. Daily catches two to five trout, six char, grayling or bass. But angler limited to 10 fish total of all species. Non-resident fee $6.50.

Saskatchewan: Opening day May 7 for all fish except rare largemouth bass, July 20. No size limits and daily catch is eight of any type. Non-resident fees $5 in waters without trout or grayling, $10 with trout and grayling.

Alberta: No closed seasons or minimum sizes. Daily catch of 10 trout and grayling from 15, to five lake trout from 10, to 15 pike, pickerel and goldeye from 25. Licence fee $1.

British Columbia Province claims Canada's most liberal regulations. No closed season or size minimums. Daily limit 12 fish or 25 pounds on inland waters, eight salmon on coast. Non-resident fees for Canadians $3.50, others $7.50.

Status Raised To Embassies

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian legations—legations in Finland and Luxembourg are being raised to the status of embassies, the external affairs department announced Thursday. The ministers of those three countries here will also be raised to embassies.

C. H. Stanbury, charge d'affaires of the Canadian legation in Warsaw since March, 1959, has been appointed Canada's first ambassador to Poland. The announcement made no mention of who will be ambassadors to Ireland and Luxembourg.

Assoc. Requests Higher Tariffs On Imported Cars

TORONTO (CP)—The federal government is to be asked by the Automotive Parts Manufacturers Association to increase tariffs on imported cars and eliminate the duty - free status of automotive parts from the British Commonwealth.

In a brief to be presented at Ottawa the association says Canada's automobile industry cannot survive without tariff protection. The result is increased unemployment. It is a small price for the jobs of thousands of Canadians."

The brief states that from 1950 to 1959 the Canadian domestic market increased by 21 per cent from 444,000 to 538,000. Imports rose by only 1,000 to 91,000. Canadian production for the domestic market advanced 20 per cent from 358,000 to 449,000.

In the three years since then the domestic market has shrunk four per cent to 515,000, while production for the domestic market has dropped 22 per cent to 350,000.

In the same period imports rose 83 per cent to 165,000.

In a speech to the association Thursday Stuart Armour, economist for the Steel Company of Canada, described it as a time of wealth trade preference as a "second cow that should be led to the slaughterhouse.

Mr. Armour said that last year, thanks to Commonwealth preference, there were imported into Canada duty free from British sources about 76,000 vehicles valued at more than $88,000,000. Automotive parts imported from the United Kingdom were valued at about $40,000,000.

He said Canada had increased its imports of British motor vehicles by 164 per cent in two years and the value of imported British parts by 60 per cent.

Tariff reductions under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade have resulted in foreign manufactured goods capturing a huge share of the limited domestic market, Mr. Armour said. He called for a stronger bargaining attitude by Canada in the forthcoming tariff negotiations with the other GATT parties.

Senate Passes Motion on Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate overrode administration opposition Thursday and voted 52 to 38 to write into President Eisenhower's $4,145,600,000 foreign aid bill an amendment aimed at the United Arab Republic's blockade of Israeli shipping.

By a vote of 45 to 25, the Senate approved an amendment that would invite the president to withhold foreign aid from any nation engaging in economic warfare against any other nation that benefits from the aid program. A similar provision was approved by the House of Representatives.

Indian Chief Received $2,300 In Advance for Signing Option To Sell His Land to Company

SARNIA (CP) — Chief Telford Adams of the Chippewa Indian band here received an advance of $2,300 for signing an option to sell his land to Dimensional Investments Limited, a Royal Commission investigating the sale was told Thursday.

Sarnia realtor Donald B. White told the hearing that Indian locatees—land owners on the reserve—received up to $200 in advance when they signed their options, but Chief Adams got $2,300.

"He wanted more than the others," Mr. White said. "He wanted to take a trip to California."

Mr. White, who began negotiations with the Indians for the Crown Trust company, said locatees received $100 each after they agreed on an agreement to surrender the land. He explained that the money would be deducted from the price the Indians would receive for the land and that the advance made on the option because it was near Christmas and several Indians had asked for the advance.

They voted to accept the Crown Trust deal on May 1, 1958.

PROBES PURCHASE

The Royal Commission, 'under Mr. Justice Dalton Wells, MacGillivray of the Ontario Court of Appeal, was appointed by Ontario Electric Power Commission's purchase of land from Dimensional Investments Limited and through Crown Trust.

Dimensional paid 3,100 acres of the reserve for $6,521,946 or about $2,200 an acre, then resold 176 acres to Ontario Hydro for about $7,000 an acre.

The association says it believes the land for a transformer station, was bought from the Indians because the Indians wanted Hydro to locate in an industrial area so that industrial lines would not lower land values.

TO TAKE ACTION

Norman Borins of Toronto, lawyer for Dimensional, told the commission his client would take legal action against the Toronto Star and Kenneth Oberne under the Libel and Slander Act for untrue statements about the company.

He said front page headlines in the two papers Wednesday suggested his client used bribery to obtain the land.

Mr. Justice MacGillivray agreed that the evidence did not justify such headlines.

"It was clear enough money was paid at the meeting," he said. "But it was not what the average person would perhaps regard as a bribe."

The hearings continue at Queen's Park, Toronto, today.

Anti-Castro Plot Thwarted, Five Arrested

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban authorities today announced smashing another anti - Castro conspiracy which they said was engineered by three of them former revolutionary military associates.

A terse police communique said arms and ammunition were seized in roundups of alleged conspirators along with anti-government propaganda and an American flag.

Sergio Sanjenis, formerly second in command of the air force and military investigation agency, is identified as the leader of the plot.

Others arrested were Pedro Julio Fernandez, another military investigator; Jose Marquez Cano, ex-commander of a militia unit during the revolution; Hubert Matos Rivas, son of a senator during Batista regime; and Angel Lana Mendez, not otherwise identified.

POWERFUL SONAR

WASHINGTON (AP) — The navy has developed long range sonar equipment—used for detecting submarines and underwater objects—that is around 10 times as powerful as it had in the Second World War, the Senate armed services committee was told Thursday by Vice-Admiral Wallace M. Beakley, deputy chief of naval operations.

Goodfellow Says Working Pact To Be Sought

KINGSTON (CP) — Agriculture Minister Goodfellow of Ontario said Thursday night the province will seek a working agreement with marketing officials in Quebec to facilitate a joint attack on common problems.

"We must recognize," he said, "the fact that no marketing plan will have complete success on a commodity produced in more than one province without this working relationship in top level marketing circles."

Mr. Goodfellow told the Kingston Milk Producers' Association annual meeting he introduced Bill 86 to amend the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act because it was determined that marketing legislation would be efficient and workable.

He said the bill will ensure that the powers contained in the legislation are used as they were intended to be used. The government has assumed responsibility for "those things done under the bill" and therefore feels it must give some direction of the supervision when needed.

Producers marketing retail food distributors has increased pressure on the primary producer, but the Farm Products Marketing Act, in relation to the milk industry, helps to counteract effectively marketing foodstuffs at a reasonable profit, thereby leaving the pressure.

The minister denied that his department is aiding big business against the farmer. It has actually paid more attention to the big business picture, he said. If anything, big business is not too much concerned with inevitable supervision needed.

In Hospital For First Time In Century

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — After more than a century of life, John Cribs is in hospital for the first time.

He's recuperating from an operation at Kingston General but is confident he'll be back home around by July 1—Canada's 93rd birth day and his own 94th.

Although slightly hard of hearing, the trip to hospital in his only concession to old age. His mind is clear and doctors say his skin is that of a much younger man. His favorite pastime is watching sport on television.

A third-generation North American—his great-grandparents came to the Cornwall area from The Netherlands after the French Revolution—he lives with his son, John, 70, a retired farmer of Morrisburg, 40 miles south of here.

The last time he was in Kingston was 52 years ago for militia training when they were getting ready to fight the Indians on their raids through the west.

His reason for going:

"Be temperate in all things and don't let anything bother you too much.

"I just don't let anything bother me too much and I refuse to worry."

A staunch Baptist, he has never touched hard liquor although he admits having kept some hard cider in the basement since his farming days.

He took up his only current "bad habit" at 65 when he started smoking a pipe.

TURN DOWN STILTS

TORONTO (CP)—Metropolitan Toronto Housing Company Thursday refused to allow use of air rights over municipal parking lots to build low-rental housing projects on stilts. Company president Magistrate Fred Hall said he was against persons living above a parking area.

Can Inspect 'Dream Home' In Stanley Park Next Week

Designing and constructing your own dream home in the Stanley Park sub-division in the east end of the city is becoming the smart thing to do.

But when Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Beehler decided to plan and build their own dream house, they had an advantage in that the "man of the house" was already a professional builder, who had constructed many of the better type homes in Belleville.

And their new ranch type bungalow with its 1,678 square feet of living space, is proof that they know the ins and outs of the home construction business. The attached double garage and well appointed basement recreation room is just further proof that they appreciate the finer appointments of a modern luxury home.

Much larger than its appearance would indicate, the Beehler home has a specially designed "corridor" type kitchen setting oversize kitchen eating space and separate dining room. An island type fireplace enhances the big dining room. There are three large bedrooms and a boon for the hard worked housewife — ground floor laundry room.

MANY BATHROOMS

And with two-and-a-half bathrooms — one of them off the basement recreation room there should be little bathroom confliction.

Heating of the Beehler home is oil fired hot water with modern baseboard type radiation. All plumbing is of copper.

Kitchen and laundry equipment is all-electric. The home featured built-in air conditioning.

A native of the Ottawa district, Mr. Beehler started in the construction business in Belleville following World War II and has been in the city for 16 years.

To give Belleville residents the opportunity of seeing their new dream home, Mr. and Mrs. Beehler are holding "open house" on the weekend of April 30- May 1, when everyone is invited to inspect their ultra modern ranch bungalow.

Dupre and E. Foster.

Every member of the team carried out his part of the work in a capable manner and received many compliments from other members of the Lodge.

Tweed officers took their chairs again and Lodge was closed in the usual manner.

A buffet luncheon was served and a half hour social time was enjoyed by all.

Albury

ALBURY — The Albury Juniorettes held a breakfast meeting at the home of Evelyn and Bernice Sedford on Wednesday morning at 8.30. On Friday afternoon they held their 5th meeting at the home of Barbara and Beverly Jones.

A successful rummage sale was held in the Belleville armories on Saturday by the Rednersville Women's Institute.

Several from this vicinity attended the Quinte Chapter No. 59 euchre party at Ameliasburg on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Grace Smith has returned to her home after spending the winter in Belleville.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

After the atomic explosion had blasted Hiroshima, one man who survived without injury went visiting the maimed and the dying, and to each he apologized for not being hurt, too.

To everyone who has ever no longer held such a view regarding death.

Grief is a spiritual malady and we learn one of its cures when we recognize that death and sorrow are universal. What is it that makes us respond with sympathy to that men of Hiroshima? From this we can begin to understand that there are times in life when it is possible to feel guilty because we have been spared the universal fate of other men.

And out of this understanding, when we ponder life carefully, there often comes the recognition that even if all is well with us we must suffer because of the suffering of others.

And if we know sorrow because others know it we will also know how to respond to it when it strikes at our own door.

Consider what happened to another man. He was in an automobile accident and in his convalescence was required to walk on crutches. For the first time in his life, he said, he noticed how many cripples there were.

And so it can be with all of us. When death or tragedy come, and fate compels us to use crutches, there are two courses we can take:

We can go all to pieces, pitying ourselves and seeking the sympathy of our neighbors. Or, we can forget our own crutches and see how many other people are limping.

If we follow the second course we will find still another cure to that spiritual malady known as grief. We'll learn to give up concentrating on our feeling and go on some kind of active doing. We get some help even if we do no more than attend to the ordinary affairs of living.

But more than this, if we are identified with some great cause, as always, we are bound to receive in return infinitely more than we possibly can give — in satisfactions, fulfillments and the joys that come from serving an ideal.

Sorrow's effect, it has been said, is like that of intense cold.

When Napoleon's soldiers were retreating from Moscow, they paused to rest by the side of the road. They sought to take but a moment's sleep. But they never awoke. They were frozen, stiff.

If we do not know how to treat it, sorrow can be like the bitter cold of a Northern winter. Stay inactive, keep telling yourself how terrible you feel, never get up and do, and you are lost — to yourself and to everyone else.

You've got to march on! You'll learn how by keeping your eye and heart on the suffering in the world around you.

POLICE AGENT DIES

NEW YORK (AP) — Stephanie (Stevie) Horvath, New York detective who spent five years as an undercover agent spying on Communist activities, died Wednesday night of cancer. She was 46. She joined the New York police department in October, 1943, and four months later became a card-carrying Communist party member under a false name. She left the party in 1947 and testified on Communist activities before a number of groups, including the Senate Internal security subcommittee.

SMUDGELESS INK?

NEW YORK (AP)—Something is being done about eliminating the ink smudges you sometimes get while reading your newspaper. Aussies Challenge Uncle Sam For Famous America's Cup

NEW YORK (AP) — Australia will get a shot at the America's Cup which Britain has failed to win in more than 100 years of yacht racing for the United States.

The New York Yacht Club announced Thursday it had accepted a challenge from the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron for a 1962 battle of 12-metre yachts.

Presumably the races—a best-of-seven series—will be held off Brenton Reef Lightship near Newport, R.I., where Columbia turned back the bid of Britain's white - hulled Sceptre in four straight races in 1958. Dates and other arrangements will be fixed later.

The door was left open for Britain to challenge again. In the resolution released by the New York Yacht Club privileges were made for accepting a Commonwealth multiflex without the normal 10 months' notice.

Two prominent members of Britain's yachting society—Rear Commodore Eric Marshall of the Royal Thames Yacht Club and Peter Gillmore, retired naval captain—conferred with the New York Yacht Club executive committee in London before the announcement.

BUILDING BOATS

They said four British groups were building and likely would accept such a condition if the Aussies agree. The Australians are unlikely to accept.

The Australian syndicate is headed by Sir Frank Packer of Sydney, managing director of the Australian Consolidated Press, a newspaper group. Sir Frank has long age leased Vim, one of the three boats built for the U.S. defence role in 1958, and is racing the yacht in Australian waters.

Capital costs would be about $4,000,000, "We'd need an Olympic-sized pool, a speed-skating rink and an 8,000-seat arena. A 3,500-seat arena is planned for the next two years and it means we would just have to increase capacity to 8,000 for the Games."

How did Calgary get ruled out of the Olympics in the first place?

"Well the Calgary association had plans to stage the skiing events in Banff and the speed skating, bobsled and luge events in the city. Committees worked on that idea and then the IOC, they were told a year ago by A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal, Canada's member on the IOC, that they wouldn't have a chance.

"The IOC apparently doesn't believe in splitting up the venues. It's unfair to the athletes."

"That news was a disappointment, naturally, but we changed our plans to take Calgary out of the picture."

Winter Kill Of Scugog Fish Said Isolated

TORONTO (CP)—An enormous winter kill of fish in Lake Scugog, 30 miles northeast of Toronto, is an isolated situation and does not indicate what has occurred in other lakes of the region, the lands and forests minister said Thursday.

Lt.-Col. W. J. K. Harkness, fish and wildlife chief, said Scugog is highly susceptible to winter kill because of its shallow depths and heavy underwater vegetation.

A count of dead fish along the shores this week showed that more than 50,000, many of them carp, died during the late winter because of a lack of oxygen, which normally heavy snow.

The snow prevented sunlight from reaching vegetation and take bottom. This vegetation rotted, consuming oxygen from the water and giving off carbon dioxide.

Veteran residents, who say the kill is the highest in more than 50 years, recalled a similar situation in 1916.

Bob Trotter, a researcher at the forestry station at Maple, said there is no way of knowing what percentage of fish in the lake died.

The count of dead fish included 2,000 small muskies, 1,000 perch and 1,000 largemouth bass in addition to great numbers of carp.

Prince Philip's pies last July, and Canadians never have earned an unpaid job on a committee set up to get the 1968 Winter Olympic Games for Banff, Alta. It's up to him.

"We remembered his remarks made at Toronto when he told the Canadian Medical Association that Canadians aren't as fit as they might be, so we decided he might be able to do something about it," says Ed Davis, president of the Calgary Olympic Development Association. The initiative is in the diplomatic mill now, or soon will be.

If the pitch is accepted, he would be on the external relations committee whose main duties would be to spread the gospel of Banff for the 1968 Games. Getting the Olympics to Canada's playground probably make Canadians more conscious of physical fitness, and that's what Prince Philip preached."

Davis, a 45-year-old consulting engineer and president of the association operating Banff as the venue, pleaded his case before the Canadian Olympic Association last weekend. Montreal backed up Alberta's bid a year ago and, if everything goes according to plan, Banff will be one of the sites considered by the International Olympic Committee in 1963.

PLANS AND WORRIES

In an interview later, Davis and two of his right-hand men—John Burns, a chartered accountant, and Hans Marfel, an oil company accountant—talked glowingly of their plans for 1968, and some of their worries.

One of the big drawbacks, Davis said, is getting across to the Canadian public that the Calgary assault is deadly serious about staging the Games and that the cost of such an undertaking isn't comparable to the national debt.

"You talk to the man on the street and he asks where we are going to get the necessary $18,000,000 or $20,000,000 to pay for the Games. They say that's what it cost the Olympics in Squaw Valley, Calif., a couple of months ago and automatically figure our costs would be the same."

And that's where people are wrong. The Squaw Valley site was a wilderness and everything —arena, administration building, athletes' village, press buildings—and so on had to be built. It's a far different story for Banff.

BIG INVESTMENT

It is a national park, has hotels and other buildings that accommodate 11,000 persons. "There's a $50,000,000 investment in Banff and this is mostly idle in the winter so it's a bargain," said Davis. "We'd like to put that fifty million dollars to work."

The Belleville Industrial Hockey League officially wound up another successful season in grand style Tuesday evening at the ANAF Hall last night.

Long president Russ Soule complimented the four clubs, Bell Telephone, Sabrett, Quinte Chrysler Dodge and Kilts Transit Terminal, on having run a successful league during the season and said he expected it to be even better next year.

Soule introduced Gord Booth who presented the Booth TV Trophy to Bert Faulkner, captain of William Brothers, the league champions this year. Dave Feeney of Clarke was called on to present the similar plaques to the individual All-Star players. Mickey Brooks is a member of Booth TV's.

Bobby Green, a standout for Williams' Brothers throughout the league's existence in the playoffs, was awarded a trophy as the league's best goaler.

Other "presentations" in a lighter vein, saw referees Harry Morgan, Hank Ford and Bill Hurst presented with dark glasses; Frank Cole, "statistician" as the loop's "thrices" player; and Booth coach Bobby Hughes awarded a crying cloth as the league's top "crier". Cris was forced to spend another two minutes in the ladies "penalty box" before receiving the "gift" just to prove he could serve a full penalty without charging back ahead of time.

Team sponsor Gordie Booth presented Soule a memento of his team with beautiful brown leather jackets with crests inset.

Special prize winners were Ken Hamilton, Taylor Storms and Harry Morgan.

'Victoria Park' Beaten by Derby Favorite

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—C. V. Whitney's Tompion, favorite for the Kentucky Derby May 7, won the $30,000 Blue Grass Stakes Thursday, beating Victoria Park, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, by 3¾ lengths.

Tompion, with Willie Shoemaker in the saddle, was second about a length off the pace until straightening for the last of the field of four entered the final turn.

Tompion caught Victoria Park at the top of the stretch and the two raced head and head until the finish with the 3-to-10 favorite's nose where Tompion drew out for the win.

Lurullah followed last year's Canadian-bred Queen's Hussar and Cone About was last.

Tompion's time was 1:48 3-5, the same recorded by Iron Liege last year by Tomy Lee, who went on to win the Derby. With only win betting, Tompion, the 3-to-10 favorite, paid $2.60.

It was the second victory for Tompion over Victoria Park during the meeting at Keeneland but Shoemaker had to use the whip this time while the last victory was by a hand ride. The victory was worth $19,525.

Both Tompion and Victoria Park, ridden by Bill Hartack, carried Derby weight of 126 pounds, Lurullah and Come About carried 121 each.

Leafs, Bisons Keep Pace At League Top

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Buffalo Bisons still have the old sting that rocketed them to the International League pennant a year ago, but the Toronto Maple Leafs seemed to have also learned the secret.

The Bisons, atop the league with a 7-4 mark after beating Richmond 4-3 Thursday, have had to keep pace with the fast-stepping Leafs who won their fifth in a row, 4-0 over Miami. The Leafs have a 7-3 record, and are second, a half game behind the Bisons.

Gordon Windhorn's two - run homer in the ninth helped the Montreal Royals to a 3-0 victory over Havana as Rob Miller lost his first game in five outings. Three were the only games.

The Bisons, who won their first five and two of the last three, got a pinch-hit homer from Bill Hoeft with two on in the eighth to hand Richmond its fourth straight loss. Taylor Phillips was the winner, his first, and relief pitcher Tom Acker lost.

Bob Bruni and Allen Jones homered for the Leafs, as Steve Ridzik limited Miami to four hits. The loss, Miami's third in a row in the league cellar, left the Sarasota Angel Scull's single was the only Montreal hit until Mike Gabriel walked and Windhorn hit his homer with one out in the ninth.

On the Track

FORT ERIE (CP)—Charley E. Conner of Buffalo told Fort Erie Jockey Club stewards Thursday he knew of no attempt in the 1959 race involving Dottie's Girl. A four-year-old filly which won two races here last year.

Conner, former partner with Eddie Miller of East Aurora, N.Y., in the Royerest Stable which owned Dottie's Girl, appeared in Buffalo court earlier this week as a grand jury investigated bookmaking and conspiracy charges.

He refused to answer County Judge Burke when asked then if he was a party to a plot to fix an Ontario horse race last summer involving Dottie's Girl.

William J. Risewick, a steward representing the Ontario Racing Commission, told Conner magistrate Thursday's denial voluntarily. A full report on Conner's statement will go before the commission, Risewick added.

Judge Burke has directed Conner to return before the grand jury May 9 to answer questions he had refused to answer earlier.

NEWMARKET, England (AP) —John Jacob Astor's Mystic, a big bay colt longshot in the Epsom Derby, boosted his prospects by winning the Hastings Maiden Plate for three-year-olds Thursday.

In a photo finish, the chestnut colt got the verdict over Blueblue by a short head. Redoubt, owned by Lawrence's father, Viscount Astor, finished third.

Mystic, running for the first time this season, was the 8-to-1 favorite.

Mystic's time for the mile, 1:39.55, is expected to make a big difference in the betting when the May 1 Derby at Epsom June 1 is run. Knaidel's time previously 33 to 1 for the Derby, dropped to 1 to 1 after finishing third in the 2,000 Guineas last Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Never Too Late, American-owned and bred, is the 3-to-1 favorite for today's 147th running of the 1,200 Guineas for three-year-old fillies.

A starting field of 18 is expected.

New York Board Approves New 55,000-Seat Stadium

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The new Continental Baseball League won an important boost Thursday when New York City's board of estimate formally approved a proposed 55,000-seat stadium to be built in Queens at a cost of $13,000,000.

The board followed up Wednesday's informal talks with a official 20-to-2 vote to appropriate $442,500 for an engineering study and final plans for the new park at Flushing Meadows near the old world fair site.

Approval of New York is expected to stir stadium construction in Houston and other cities in the proposed third major league which expects to open its first season, April 18, 1963. A negative vote in New York probably would have killed the entire league.

The new park is expected to be completed by the opening of the 1962 season and the team probably will play 1961 games in the Polo Grounds, home of the old New York Giants.

Other league members are Toronto, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Dallas-Fort Worth, Denver, Houston, Buffalo and Atlanta.

MANAGER NAMED

Owners of the New York franchise have agreed to pay a $200,000 annual rental for the stadium, to be financed by a self-liquidating 30-year bond issue floated by the city.

The park would be available for all sports but the baseball club owners would be the lessees. For baseball, 69,000 could be accommodated with parking lot would take care of 5,500 cars.

It would be a triple-deck circular stadium with an open end. There would be moveable sections so designed as to convert the stadium to football use. Eventually a roof could be added to make it an all-weather stadium. The open end could be closed, increasing the seating capacity.

Two Pay $2,921 In Fines for Poaching Ducks

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Two men have paid $2,921 in American and Canadian fines for poaching 81 wild ducks on a Canadian island in the St. Lawrence River.

Conservation officials said the arrest ofs Cyriel D. Heath and Gordon C. O'Brien, both of Alexandria Bay, was the first in 10 years of extensive poaching by unidentified persons.

American and Canadian game wardens said they watched through binoculars as Heath and O'Brien shot ducks April 3 on Robinson Island.

Heath and O'Brien paid $1,250 each Wednesday on New York charges of possessing 93 ducks and transporting them into the United States.

They paid $200 each on Canadian charges of shooting ducks illegally, plus a premium which ling $21.70 on a U.S. - Canada money exchange.

The men agreed to a civil settlement with conservation officials and their cases did not go to court.

GRAND OLD MAN

Thomas Mower Martin, artist and one of the founders of the Royal Canadian Academy, was 96 at his death in Toronto in 1924.

Irate Fans Mob Manager Soccer Club

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)—Almost 200 Irate fans of the Barcelona soccer club mobbed the club's manager — trainer, Helenio Herrera, Thursday but he was not seriously hurt.

Barcelona was eliminated in the semi-finals of the Europe Cup by Real Madrid Wednesday night.

Herrera long has been under fire for refusing to play Ladislao Kubala, ace centre forward, in the result of a personal feud.

Herrera was walking down Barcelona's main street with a couple of reporters interviewing him. He was recognized by passersby who began shouting "Get out, get out. You sold out to Madrid."

A crowd soon gathered. Herrera was knocked down. Then he was hustled to carry him on a stretcher. Herrera succeeded in escaping into a nearby hotel. Police soon arrived and it all ended in a scuffle with the crowd.

Herrera already has announced he is leaving Barcelona and is reported to have signed with a Milan club next year.

SPORT IN BRIEF

TENNIS UPSET

DOURNEMOUTH, England (AP)—Lew Hoad of New Zealand Thursday upset Bobby Wilson, British Davis cup star, and gained the semi-finals of the British hard court tennis championships. The score was 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4. Gerrard advanced with two British Davis Cup players, Billy Knight and Mike Davies, and the former Wimbledon champion Jaroslav Drobny.

PHILS MAKE CUT

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies Thursday sent shortstop Ruben Amaro to Indianapolis of the American Association after having recalled Amaro missed regular spring training because of a back disorder. He was with Buffalo's championship team in the International League last year.

ON TOP AGAIN

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, Masters' champion, and Bill Collins shot identical 1-under-par 66s Thursday to share the first-round lead in the $15,000 Houston classic golf tournament. Dave Ragan, 1959 Eastern Open champion, called two penalty strokes against himself and wound up one stroke off the pace at 67, tied with Billy Maxwell.

MAKE OLMPTIC SOCCER

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Argentina, Brazil and Peru have qualified for the Olympic soccer championship tournament in Rome this summer. The teams took the top three places in the South American qualifying tournament. Argentina finished first by defeating Mexico, 3-1, Wednesday night. Peru and Brazil meet Saturday to determine second place.

ENTER SKEET SHOOTS

MONTREAL (CP) — Advance entries Thursday showed more than 300 registered for the fifth Canadian and 11th Quebec provincial skeet championships, to be fired at the Montreal Skeet Club May 6-8. Those who will be defending their titles include Soda, Ldr. Barney Hartman of Oshawa, who made practically a clean sweep in Canadian competition last year by winning the Canadian open all-guage, Canadian closed gauge, Canadian open all-round, Provincial all-round and the Canadian closed in all other events.

Doby May Play With Toronto Next Week

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Larry Doby, with Toronto of the International Baseball League after a brief look-see in the majors, may play when the Maple Leafs meet the Sugar Kings in Havana next week.

Manager Mel McGaha said Doby, 35, isn't on the active list yet but should get into the lineup in a few days.

"He broke his ankle last year and it still hasn't responded," McGaha said.

Doby joined Leafs this week. Earlier, he had a few workouts with Chicago White Sox, who so bought him last May for an estimated $20,000.

McGaha said he plans to use Doby, an outfielder during most of his career, at first base.

Doby batted .230 for Detroit and Chicago last year. He played in six all-star games, the last in 1954, and was on the 1948 and 1954 champion teams which won the American League pennant.

HUNGARY SURPRISES

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungary took a surprising 2-0 lead over Ireland Thursday in the opening matches of their first - round European zone Davis Cup tennis competition. A slow, dusty court handicapped the Irish, who normally play on fast courts. Andras Adam toppled Guy Jackson 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, and Istvan Gulyas defeated J. D. Hackett 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

Gwen Verdon, Mary Costa And J. Lewis Making Good

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was a gala opening at the Civic Light Opera season this week for the return of Gwen Verdon, once a dancer in the chorus. She came back as the most versatile star of the musical theatre, dancing, staging and acting up a storm in Redhead.

The triumph is even greater for the Culver City, Calif., girl who made good in the big town because of the vehicle. It is an old - but amalgam of musical comedy techniques, but the presence of Verdon makes the stage incandescent.

Another local girl made good at the Los Angeles Philharmonic's homemade concert. Mary Costa filled the Shrine Auditorium with a rich soprano voice that evoked a tremendous ovation. Add to the dramatic ability and a figure and you see why Miss Costa need no longer sit cars on TV.

Jerry Lewis is playing to big crowds at the Moulin Rouge these nights and he's in great form. The more he relaxes, the better Jerry is, but it's a difficult thing for him to do.

Jerry has been this way for the past few years. Even with kids in the front row, he insists on using risque material. There's no reason for a comic of his talents to purvey jokes, especially with tender ears nearby.

The highbrow critics will have a field day attacking Pollyanna, but it may be Walt Disney's biggest money maker. It is pure sentiment without apology, but wonderful Hayley Mills provides just enough tartness to cut the treacle. The film reaches a degree of human dignity to the screen.

On the other hand, take the current The Fugitive Kind, Marlon Brando plays a guitar-playing bum run out of New Orleans for taking part in a stag show. Anna Magnani, married to a dyspeptic, becomes pregnant by Brando, the second illegitimate she has had. Joanne Woodward plays a self-addicted lewd vagrant who alternates between chasing men and the bottle.

It will be interesting to see which film earns the most money, Pollyanna or The Fugitive King.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

One of the most prized targets of anglers will be fair game tomorrow when the speckled trout season officially opens. Literally hundreds of wintry-weary "trouters" are geared for action, with a lot of them trekking for the northern haunts tonight.

Quite a number, though, are waiting for a week or so, probably deciding to postpone the annual "visit" because of reports of high water and low temperatures.

Well, they can rest their minds. The Tweed office of the Department of Lands and Forests told this corner this morning that the inland lakes are all free of ice or will be by tomorrow morning.

The water in creeks and streams was high but receding rapidly. The temperature during the middle of the week ranged between 43 and 48 degrees, nothing for a trout fisherman to worry about.

Some flooding is still apparent but fisheries officials state the main creeks and other smaller trout haunts will be available by tomorrow morning.

Or if you prefer the lake trout try the Fievna district. Russell Brown of Ferrelegh says that some nice catches have been taken there since the fish have been feeding in surface water after the ice went out. Wensley Lake has been particularly productive of this species.

However as every trout angler knows, the lakers like the cooler water and as the weather warms will seek the deeper feeding grounds.

A number of resort owners in the northern areas report heavy bookings for the "opening" although they are not capacity-filled.

And, as if you didn't know, an important change in the regulations this year provides that the seven-inch limit on speckles will no longer be in effect and that trout of any size may be taken by the angler.

There are several reasons for the change. In some areas, it has been found that too many small trout. If some of these are removed the fishing for larger trout will be better since there will be more natural food available. Another important reason is that it was found that many small trout have been so badly injured by the hook that when thrown back into the water they died.

And if you are going after the lake trout, remember the limit in waters in this area has been reduced from five a day to three — and that includes the "splake," that hybrid produced from crossing a lake trout with a speckle.

The government's decision to reduce the laker take from five to three did not meet with wholehearted approval of the angling fraternity. The Belleville Game and Fish Association at a recent meeting discussed the reduction and after some discussion took an adverse view of the matter and decided to ask the government for more specific reasons for its action.

One reason given, and not by the powers-that-be, was the heavy inroads made into the lake trout population by winter fishing. It seem that ice fishermen have been taking large bags of the species, resulting in a large decrease in summer yields. The lake trout season in Frontenac, Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties opens March 1st through October 5th.

But tomorrow is the "speckers'" day. All in all it should be a fair-to-good "opening". As we mentioned the ice is out of the northern lakes especially in Algonquin Park, temperatures are said to be good, and the water is receding.

And remember every season, fishermen drown, get lost, suffer mishaps and encounter disaster because some safety precaution was overlooked or because they were unaware of or neglected one or more of angling's prime safety rules.

Always land your fish carefully. Keep a landing net handy — and use it. Otherwise your hand may slip on the slimy fish and run afoul of triple-barb hooks with painful results.

Cast clear of other anglers. Learn the overhead baitcast. It's accurate, effortless, safe. Casting bait by the "sidewinder" method is for when you're alone. It's dangerous to fly-cast overhead — a puff of wind may blow the hooked fly in your face. Most fly-casters use a "three-quarters" cast — keeps the line to one side a bit, though, so be sure your companions are safe on your other side.

Fish only from a firm footing. To fish from a slippery rock or to log is to invite disaster. Avoid the loose slippery kind. Test them out with your feet before you mount them. If they don't feel good, seek firmer footing. Take your time. Move about slowly.

Wade streams with care. Never chase a running fish unless you know the stream and its bottom beyond peradventure. A hidden rock or log, a hole, soft sand, or sudden drop-off and you're down. And sometime you won't come up. Just be sure your line has plenty of backing in case with a trout's rushes, and stand still. No fish is worth an accident.

Hurls Second 4-Hit Shutout As Bucs Take Seven in Row; White Sox Scalp Indians 3-1

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Tigers are terrors no more.

After hammering 11 homers and scoring 34 runs while winning their first five games, Detroit's Tigers now have managed to score just once in each of their last three. And they've lost them all.

The Kansas City A's, working behind the four-hit pitching of Dick Hall, made it two straight over the Tigers with a 2-1 victory Thursday night that slipped Detroit into a tie with idle New York for the American League lead.

Chicago's defending champion White Sox beat Cleveland 3-1 on Al Smith's three singles and Billy Pierce's five-hitter. The Baltimore Orioles won their fourth in a row, defeating Boston 6-1 and joining the White Sox and Washington in a tie for fourth place at 3-2.

The third place A's, just one ball game behind, beat southpaw Don Mossi (0-1) with five hits. They scored one in the first on two-out singles by Hank Bauer, Norm Siebern and Bob Cerv, and added the clincher in the sixth on a double by Bill Tuttle and a single by Jerry Lumpe.

BERBERET HOMERED

Hall, 2-0, extended the Tigers' scoreless slump to 34 innings before Leo Berberet homered in the eighth for Bill's first run batted in. He struck out five, walked just one.

The White Sox defeated righthander Jim Perry (1-1) for the fourth consecutive time, on a Smith-Nellie Fox-Minnie Minoso parlay. Smith upped his batting mark from .136 to .353 with 9-for-19 two games as Leo Cristadoro singled his first three times at bat and scored all of the Sox runs before his consecutive hitting ended at eight with a foul pop.

Minoso brought him home twice with a single and a sacrifice fly. Fox had moved him along first with an infield out and a bunt. Nellie's triple scored Smith the third time.

Pierce (1-1) had a three-hit shutout for eight innings. Then the Injuns scored in the ninth on Woodie Held's second hit, a triple, and a single by ex-White Soxer Bubba Phillips. Pierce struck out five, walked three—twice giving up passes to Harvey Kuenn, back in the starting Cleveland lineup for the first time since suffering a leg injury opening day.

Rookie Steve Barber won his first for the Orioles. He walked four and gave up six hits, but struck out six and shut out the Red Sox over the last six frames. The Orioles, who socked six doubles among their eight hits, ripped loser Bill Monbouquette (1-2) for four runs in the first. Gene Woodling drove in two with a single, and Brooks Robinson capped it with a two-run double.

Sonny Liston Takes Over as Top Contender

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Sonny Liston, winner of 22 straight fights and unbeaten in 30 years, Thursday replaced former champion Floyd Patterson as No. 1 heavyweight contender in the National Boxing Association's April ratings.

Thailand's Pone Kingpetch, new flyweight champion, was named boxer of the month.

It was the first time in six years that Patterson failed to be listed as champion or leading contender. He is second.

Liston, 23, knocked out Roy Harris in the first round Monday night. Now fighting out of Houston, Tex., he has a 28-1 record including 20 knockouts.

Kingpetch earned his honor for beating Argentina's Pascual Perez in their title fight at Bangkok April 16.

12TH GAME DRAWN

MOSCOW (AP) — The 12th game in the world chess title series between champion Mikhail Botvinnik of Moscow and Mikhail Tal of Latvia was adjourned on the 41st move Thursday. It will be completed today.

Tal leads 8 points to seven in the 24-game series and appears almost certain to dethrone the veteran defender.

Botvinnik, playing white, offered a variation of the Nimzovitch defence at the outset but changed his tactics on the ninth move in hopes of taking command of the action in the middle of the board. The champion, on defence during the later stages of Thursday's game, failed in his 40th move for 30 minutes then surprised everyone by exchanging queens. Tal's advantages grew as the game continued.

Can It Recite 'Mudville' If Casey Comes to Bat?

CHICAGO (AP)—Bill Veeck's newest plaything, a huge electronic scoreboard that has everything but a part-scented window, capsizes into action tonight when Chicago White Sox face Cleveland Indians.

The glorified pinball machine can chill about any notes the White Sox president chooses from a remote control board. He can sound the thundering hooves of a cavalry charge when Ted Kluszewski lumbers around the bases, or play Flight of the Bumblebee when Luis Aparicio makes a base. It doesn't take much imagination to figure what Veeck will play when Cleveland pitcher Gary Bell 1-0 takes the mound.

When he gets tired of making noise, he can flash messages on a Scoregram or toss pitches at a Pitchometer.

The scoreboard also flashes the usual balls, strikes, errors, etc.

First Canadian to Drive U.S. Boat in Competition

VANCOUVER (CP)—Car salesman Jim McGuire is about to become the first Canadian to drive a United States boat in unlimited hydroplane competition.

Veteran of nine years in limited-class boats, he has been hired as driver of the Seattle-based Miss Bardahl, 118 craft that won the U.S. unlimited speedboat championship in 1958 and was runner-up last year.

He'll make his first start in the Apple Cup at Lake Chelan, Wash., May 8.

"This is the chance I've always wanted," he said shortly after testing Miss Bardahl on Lake Washington. "Being picked to drive this boat is the biggest thrill I've ever had in racing."

HIT 180 M.P.H.

McGuire steered the boat in trial runs at speeds of up to 180 miles an hour and Miss Bardahl's owner, Ole Bardahl, and his crew lifted what they saw.

Here McGuire was 30 when he first started racing.

"I hardly knew what a hydroplane looked like when I came to Seattle from Calgary in 1947," he said.

Born in Spokane, he had been taken to Calgary by his parents when he was two or three months old and he grew up in the Alberta city, getting his education there and starting out in business in the advertising and sales promotion department of an oil company. A business move brought him to Vancouver.

STARTED IN 1951

McGuire started racing in 1952 and within a few years was raised among Canada's top drivers. Driving exclusively the last three years for hydroplane builder and owner Art Jones of Kelowna, B.C., he was Canada's top points driver in the class in 1957, 1958 and 1959 and tops in the 266 class in 1956.

The 266 class in just one step below unlimited craft—but quite a step. A 266 is developed around a horsepower and a top racing speed of 120 m.p.h. Miss Bardahl, powered by a Rolls Royce Merlin engine, developes 2,200 horsepower. This gives her 20-foot, 6,200-pound craft top speed of 190 m.p.h. in competition and 200 m.p.h. in straight time trials.

SPEEDBOAT RACER — Jim McGuire, former car salesman in Calgary, has been chosen to drive a United States boat, the Seattle-based Miss Bardahl, in unlimited hydroplane competition May 8 in Washington state. It will be the first Canadian to drive a U. S. speedboat in such a competition. Miss Bardahl was owner of the U. S. national speedboat championship in 1958 and runner-up last year. McGuire was born in Spokane but was taken to Calgary as an infant. (CP Photo).

Maroons Will Use Douglas, Smoke Eaters Not Impressed

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Defenceman Jack Douglas, a wily old campaigner, gets into the Allan Cup championship series tonight for Chatham Maroons.

His value is questionable.

You would be risking life and limb to make such talk among folks in Chatham, but in newsrooms and Trail Smoke Eaters have doubts about Douglas' effectiveness in tonight's third game of the best-of-seven series for the Canadian senior hockey crown.

Douglas has been on the sidelines for nearly three weeks with a broken hand.

Listen to Trail playing-coach Bobby Kromm:

"His hasn't played a regular game or been in a serious practice since then and will have to worry about keeping up with the pace.

WILL RUSH HIM

Douglas is going to be having his hand as well and you can bet we'll be rushing him. It could hurt Chatham more than people think".

Johnny Horeck, Maroons' manager-coach, admits there is some weariness. He has decided to use five defencemen tonight.

Chatham leads the series 1-0 with one game tied and both coaches back to the third engagement as the key to the series.

"The pace is going to be tough on Jack," said Horeck. "But he'll be sticking to defensive hockey and I tell you this—Jack will cut down the number of shots Trail will be able to get on goal by five or 10.

"Any Trail forwards won't be able to skate around Jack if they have been doing with pens or our defencemen. He's too smart for that."

Horeck was undecided on which forward to bench tonight.

Kromm also had thoughts about his defence, which in the first two games has left much to be desired.

"Terry George Fitzpatrick has been our best on D-ice, Shiskin (Harry) and Fletch (Don Fletcher) haven't played nearly as well as can be expected. When they start rolling, it's going to take more than one man to take them out. That will leave more room for our forwards in the Chatham zone."

TO USE LONG PASS

Kromm also plans to use the long clearing pass to gain advantage, especially when Trail has a manpower advantage.

"They've been trying us up in our zone by putting five men and sometimes three deep in our zone. The long pass is going to catch them napping. We won't be working the puck up along the boards any more."

Maroons took things easy Thursday after battling to a 5-5 overtime deadlock against the Smoke Eaters Wednesday. Some Chatham players relaxed on the golf course. The Smoke Eaters held a light drill.

Kings Chant Underdog Tune But Betting Odds About Even

TORONTO (CP)—Manager Leo LeClerc says the magic "bubble will burst" for his Edmonton Flyer Kings but St. Catharines Teepees will probably be watching that it doesn't explode in their faces when the clubs meet here tonight in the second game of the Memorial Cup final.

The Oil Kings, billing themselves as underdogs ever since they arrived in the East for the Canadian junior hockey final, defeated Teepees 5-3 in the best-of-seven opener at St. Catharines Wednesday and predict they'll "do the odd refrain—that they've been lucky all season.

"We're very happy and proud about that upset last night but we're not going to take any chances," coach Harry Allen said Thursday after the Kings held a mild workout. "This is still going to be a tough series. That St. Catharines club showed us last night that it isn't going to be easy."

HIGH-SPEED TEAM

But observers — even staunch Teepees fans—praised Edmonton's high-speed style. Russ Gillow, goaltender for Oil Kings, was singled out for praise from such an expert as Turk Broda, former Toronto Maple Leafs netminder and until recently coach of Toronto Marlboros, opponents of Teepees in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series.

The western change are expected to be slightly favored for tonight's game because of their history on the wider and brighter ice surface at Maple Leaf Gardens. But because each club has a reputation for staging offensive comebacks, betting odds are about even.

St. Catharines almost pulled Wednesday's game out of the fire, tying the score in the third period, but couldn't continue the pace.

SHARP GOALTENDING

Gillow, 20-year-old native of Hespeler, Ont., who almost was dropped by the club last fall, was tremendous Wednesday in making 39 stops, including one shot that cut him over the right eye for eight stitches early in the game.

But Allan said: "That wasn't an unusual game for Russ. He's been playing like that right through the playoffs."

Broda said he had never seen a young netminder come up with such a game after being hurt.

"That was the best goaltending our game has seen all season and that includes the playoffs," said the Teepees' owner, "I thought our boys played well and on shots would ordinarily have been three or four goals ahead."

Neither coach expected to change his lineup tonight.

"We had plenty of balance out there last night and our replacement players really filled in well," Allen said.

But he may make a switch for Sunday's third game here if Bobby Goebel has recovered from the groin injury which has troubled him for a month. Goebel, on the sidelines during the western final against Brandon Wheat Kings, would play left wing on a line with Cliff Pennington and Ed Joyal.

St. Catharines coach Max Kaminsky decided before Wednesday's game not to place a shadow on Pennington, the owner of a bullet-like shot who was picked up from Tim Flon. He may change his mind tonight, remembering it was Pennington who fired the winning goal in the opener.

Teepees will stay in St. Catharines and commute here for the next two games at least.

Tiger Jones Is Favorite

BOSTON (AP) — Ring - wise Ralph (Tiger) Jones is favored to frustrate ambitious young middleweight Joe Deucett tonight in their 10-round fight.

It will mark Jones's 43rd appearance on national television (NBC and CBC, 10 p.m.). In 10 years of professional boxing he has amassed a record of 49 victories, 28 defeats and four draws.

Deucett, at 30 a dozen years younger than his opponent, is a willing slugger with a 25-6 record.

Odds favoring Jones have been quoted from 7 to 5 up to as high as 2 to 5.

Wolves, Burnley Tied for Top Lancs Lads Have 2-1 Chance

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The entrancing possibility of a championship not undecided till the last ball is kicked is giving added zest to the closing stages of the English soccer season.

As the contenders approach the last full day's play Saturday, the Football League title is Burnley's for the taking. Tied with Wolverhampton Wanderers at the top of the standings, the Lancashire club has two chances for self-improvement to the Wolves' one.

Still in with a shout of a chance is Tottenham Hotspur, a point behind the co-leaders with only one game to play.

The Spurs have an easy home assignement against Blackpool, but although the Londoners became back superbly from a disastrous slump with a 3-1 victory over Wolverhampton last week matters have slipped beyond their control. If Wolves win at Chelsea or Burnley masters Fulham at home, the championship will elude Tottenham for another year.

SECOND CHANCE

If Burnley fails to gain ground on the others Saturday, a second bite at the apple is offered by a bid — Lancashire clash at Manchester City Wednesday, the season's last full day. Stanley Waves on a goal average, Burnley has to finish ahead on points to win.

Successive home defeats at the hands of Manchester City and Chelsea during the Easter weekend provided the one-two punch that virtually knocked Tottenham's chances.

Birmingham City, at home to Blackburn Rovers, needs a point against the cup finalists to guarantee survival in the First Division.

Uncertainty also clouds the Third Division, where Tranmere Rovers and York City are battling to escape relegation, and the Fourth, where Watford and Northampton Town are fighting to move up.

Lady Byng Trophy Won by Don McKenney

MONTREAL (CP) — Centre Don McKenney of Boston Bruins was announced today as winner of the National Hockey League's Lady Byng Memorial Trophy for the 1959-60 season.

The annual award goes to the player showing the best in sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability.

Runner-up was Andy Hebenton of New York Rangers, a former winner. McKenney polled 66 of a possible 180 points, Hebenton 47.

Alex Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings, winner last year, was third with 44 points.

McKenney, who will be 26 Saturday, has never won an NHL award before. He receives $1,000 from the league.

MR. TWEEDY

by Ned Riddle

"Why is it, Tweedy, that you spend twice as much time at that fountain as the other man?"

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, April 30, 1960

General Tendencies: This is the Saturday to take any ideas you have that you feel can be made a success of, and bring them to those influential persons in a position to make them a success. Look particularly for merchandisers, for they now are able to bring your wares of any sort, before the public or satisfactory outlets. Tonight, be sure to show affection where you really feel it.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) This day may begin by your being undecided whether to devote time and energies to home, business or outside activities. Determine which is most important early, then carry through enthusiastically. P.M. enjoy home pleasures.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Seek out novel methods or suggestions from dependable source. P.M. is then ideal for showing you capabilities to the right people who will be only too glad to support and back you. Be enthusiastic and specific.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Rely on your intuitions today as well as the good ideas of experts in order to advance more quickly in your special line of endeavor. P.M. do some serious studying. Then be off to any recreational or cultural interests.

Moon-Children (June 22 to July 21) — You will find that some changes will have to be made after you early discuss current matters and trends with partners. P.M. go out in the company of some bosom pal so you enjoy yourself in the most ideal fashion. Be happy.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Many tasks await you that can only be performed over the weekend. However, show true co-operation with good helpers. Later in the day, a higher-up brings real support and advancement. Be grateful for his, or her, good graces.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Important you find out your true position with those to you, whether at work or at home. By being more broad-minded, you will reach a far better understanding with everyone. Do not lose your temper.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — It is best to contact the most powerful and experienced people you know today in order to get advice that will help you advance in the future, as well as increase harmony within the home. Follow it.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have so many inspired thoughts today that you hardly know which to put into operation first. Be sure you first know what your duties to others are. Then whittle ideas down to practical size and put them to use, since they are valuable.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good leisure day to get personal bookkeeping records in order. Know what your true financial position is. Then try to consult with an expert, such as banker, lawyer or adviser, to increase revenue and holdings.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A.M. should be spent getting a true picture of your relations with associates of all kinds. This will mean advancement in the future. Pleasures with good comrades are then fine to relax your mind.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A fine Saturday to put all those small but important chores behind you. Clear them up quickly to you start the new week uncluttered. Tonight should be spent at own fireside enjoying close ties, reading, etc.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) You can truly have an enjoyable day now, but you must take the initiative and call your friends to arrange a nice day's activities. A long drive and dinner at an inn are advisable and long visits in the evening are fine.

If your child is born today... The dear child born today is a born investigator. Do not curb this tendency to explore the sum and substance of tomorrow's success will stem from these early experiences. However, early curb any tendency toward self-pity and hypersensitivity. The chart is also fine for the big businessman or woman. Give as thorough an education as possible.

VE-Day Riot in Halifax Left City in Shambles and Damage at More Than Million

By MEL SUFFIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Fifteen years ago, while the rest of Canada joyfully celebrated the end of the war in Europe, Halifax was gripped in a nightmare of unrestrained violence.

The VE-Day riots of 1945, a night and a day of destruction fed by more than 150,000 bottles of looted beer, wine and liquor, left almost every store in downtown Halifax ransacked. Damage was more than $1,000,000.

The fighting in Europe ended on Monday, May 7. Like other cities, Halifax launched a celebration. But somewhere it turned sour. High spirits gradually gave way to destructive urges.

Several thousand sailors led a series of attacks on business establishments and taverns. Crowds that lasted through Monday night and resumed with increased fury the following day.

WINDOWS SMASHED

Some 500 Halifax firms suffered damage—several in fires believed to have been started by rioters—2,600 panes of glass were shattered and 207 stores and offices looted. Jewellery, clothing and department stores were ransacked.

There isn't a cuff link left," said an official of Henry Birks and Sons in the wake of the looting.

Beer, wine and liquor worth more than $250,000 were carried from breweries, retail outlets and warehouses in Halifax and neighboring Dartmouth.

More than 30 stores in Dartmouth were damaged and some more looted.

Streetcars were smashed. One was burned.

STREET WITH BOTTLES

Citadel Hill, rising majestically over the heart of the beleaguered city, was a scene after each of bottles and cartons after an orgy of drinking.

On the night of Tuesday, May 8, a curfew was imposed and armed troops were brought in from Debert, N.S., to maintain order. But it was marked by fear that the riots had burned themselves out.

It was primarily a navy show although civilians took advantage of the opportunity for looting afforded by shattered store fronts and windows. And in every mob there were at least some soldiers and airmen.

At the height of the rioting, the owner of one men's wear store stood in his dry window trying to protect what was left of his merchandise. When a drunken sailor shoved his head inside, the owner waved him away.

GOVERNMENT PAID

"What do you care? Mackenzie King will pay for it," was the sailor's rejoinder.

He wasn't far wrong. The federal government did reimburse property-owners for material damage. It paid $1,064,263.60 in claims approved by a board of inquiry.

What caused the VE-Day riots?

For months before the Allied victory there were mutterings of discontent among some of the 17,000 sailors quartered in the crowded, war-weary port. They grumbled about high prices and shortage of accommodations. Some threatened to give the city a rough time when the war ended.

ANOTHER CAUSE

But the extent of this feeling can never be fully established, and Mr. Justice Roy Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada, who conducted a royal commission inquiry into the riots, concluded that this was not the immediate cause.

"The cause of the troubles on May 7 and May 8 was, in my opinion, the same, namely, lack of planning to occupy the minds and the time of the ratings and keep them from wandering in large parties about the streets," he wrote in his report.

Monday began as a happy day for Halifax. At 10:30 a.m. whistles began to blow, signalling the end of the fighting in Europe. There was street dancing in the afternoon, fireworks in the harbor that evening and community singing on Citadel Hill.

Even at the height of the subsequent rioting there were suggestions of good humor though it was largely concealed by the ugliness of the destruction and looting.

THEATRES CLOSED

Except for outdoor celebrations, there was little for servicemen on leave to do and several thousand were left to wander the streets. Theatres and liquor stores ignored. Few eating places remained open. The wet canteen at Stadacona; the main naval base, shut down at 9 p.m.

About that time a crowd of ratings was seen gathered around a streetcar on downtown Barrington Street. They were smashing its windows. A naval officer with 30 shore patrol dispersed them but made no effort to get them to return to barracks.

Half an hour later a crowd gathered near the City Hall and began tearing down flags that decorated hydro poles. City police decided the crowd was too big to halt. It continued its way southward into the main business district.

At 10 p.m. naval ratings had begun to interfere with the operation of other streetcars on Barrington, pulling the trolleys off the wires.

TRAM SET AFIRE

An effort to get all the trams off the streets was made and all but one reached the car barns. That one had been damaged.

The one that remained was attacked in force on Barrington Street by naval ratings. When they were unable to turn it over, they set it afire.

City police and shore patrol were sent to the scene at about 11:30 p.m. but it was evident they were too few to take effective action.

The cluster of policemen got out of their vehicles, looked over the situation and quietly walked to the curb. There they stood while their patrol wagon was turned on its side and burned.

FIREMEN JEERED

Fire engines hurried to the scene but efforts to put out the flames were frustrated by sailors who disconnected the hoses and then proceeded to chop them into pieces with firemen's axes. Firefighters heeded the warnings of sailors not to remove their equipment before it too was destroyed.

Emboldened by the belief that authorities would take no strong action against them, the rioters headed for the liquor stores. Shortly before midnight the second of two attacks on the Barrington Street store met with success. The looting began.

Police finally managed to clear rioters from the premises but within minutes there were attacks on liquor stores on Buckingham, Hollis and Agricola streets in the downtown area.

Half the stocks of two stores on Hollis were looted and a small quantity was taken from the others.

TOWN MEETING NOW

The violence seemed to taper off about 2 a.m but drinking continued through the night in parts of the city, notably Citadel Hill, scene of a gigantic party.

Rear-Admiral L. W. Murray, senior naval officer in Halifax, admitted later that he read of the first night's rioting in the morning newspapers but said he never occurred to him that leaves should be cancelled on Tuesday.

He stoutly maintained through subsequent investigations that the navy had only a minor part in the disturbances, an attitude that prompted Mr. Justice Kellock to write that the admiral had shown an "unwillingness to accept facts."

Admiral Murray retired immediately after the riots and now is a barrister in England where he specializes in marine law.

RIOTING REVIVED

The revival of the rioting came after a parade on Tuesday morning at a time when civic authorities were meeting with RCMP, city and service police officials to consider ways of protecting liquor stores from further attacks.

When the parade broke off, a sailor wielding a slab of wood led a group south on Granville Street smashing every window on one side of the block.

Within a short time ratings again began interfering with streetcars. Several thousand swarmed southward from Stadacona into the heart of the city, beating off attempts by service police to disperse them.

Attacks were launched during the afternoon on two breweries—Keith's in the southern part of the city and Oland's in the north. More than 30,500 quarts of beer were taken from Keith's.

LIQUOR STORE RAID

The liquor commission's retail and mail order stores on Hollis were broken into and there was a steady stream of people carrying away cases of beer, wine and whisky.

Liquor stores on Buckingham and Agricola were again attacked and looted and a small group made a foray against the liquor commission's warehouse.

In each instance there were civil and military police in evidence, but never in large enough numbers to control the crowds.

While this series of raids was being carried out, others were making systematic attacks on business firms. Dozens of men and women were seen with loads of furs, clothing and jewellery.

LITTERED WITH WRECKAGE

The streets were a mass of broken glass and discarded loot. One section was blanketed by oranges from a raid on a fruit market.

One woman entered a ladies' wear store, removed her clothes and emerged in a new outfit.

Drunken sailors with their arms about unclothed mannequins or wearing fur neckpieces posed smilingly for newspaper photographers.

People's Credit Jewellers, where one man was subdued by police as he came out with $1,000 worth of jewelry, was damaged by fire that spread next door to D'Allaird's women's wear shop. Both stores were cleaned out.

$100,000 DAMAGE

Another blaze damaged Fader's pharmacy and a soldier scaled a ladder to rescue a person trapped on the second floor. Damage in the two fires was about $100,000.

In the city at the time were 156 members of the naval shore patrol for 17,000 men and 1,000 women; 180 military police for the 4,400 soldiers; 74 service police for 1,100 airmen; some 60 city police and 60 RCMP, 43 of whom were loaned to the city for VE-Day.

For whatever reason, they were never at any time united in to a single force which might have taken effective action.

Discussing the events of Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Justice Kellock wrote that they were "apparently happening so quickly and so often that police headquarters was bewildered."

NAVAL POLICY

Throughout the period, the navy followed a policy of making no arrests for drunkenness. This wasn't lifted until the day after the riots ended.

Thirty-four naval ratings were arrested on other charges. Also picked up were 117 civilians, 41 soldiers and 19 airmen.

In succeeding days, as loot was found abandoned in the streets or located after anonymous tips to police, the number of civilians under arrest rose to more than 250, mostly for theft.

Most severe sentence was four years given a petty officer who broke a window and handed merchandise to another petty officer. the latter also convicted and given three years. Three other seamen got sentences of two years for breaking windows and a chief petty officer was sentenced to six months for assault.

SOON FREED

Those given long terms were generally freed on kicker of leave after several months.

There were hundreds of minor injuries, mostly drunks falling in broken glass.

Two men died—a lieutenant-commander found with a fractured skull and severe leg wound on the Dalhousie University campus and a stoker suffocated of having drunk himself to death.

VICTORY RIOTS — A crowd loots a brewery (right) in Halifax during the VE-Day riots of 1945. More than 150,000 bottles of beer, wine and liquor were stolen from breweries and liquor stores and almost every business in downtown Halifax was ransacked during the two-day spree led by sailors. Damage was more than $1,000,000. Although thousands took part in the rioting, thousands of others participated in orderly celebrations to mark the victory in Europe.

CANADA BOMARC PLANS PLACED IN DIRE JEOPARDY

U.S. Legislators Put Axe to Program

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada's plans for three squadrons equipped with Bomarc-B antiaircraft missiles have been placed in dire jeopardy by United States legislators.

The powerful House of Representatives appropriations committee aimed another body blow today from cuts originally earmarked for the Bomarc-B, leaving only $29,000,000 to continue limited development if the military deems it worth while.

Congress could yet revive the scrapped production section, but little enthusiasm has been shown here for the missile, which the committee said "has had very little success" in its testing.

Canada has already spent about $300,000 to construct launchers for Bomarc-B sites at North Bay and Moot Lantier, Que. originally the U.S. Air Force planned 56 Bomarc sites in the two countries, but this was later reduced to eight in the U.S. and two in Canada.

The Canadian government scrapped the Avro Arrow supersonic interceptor 16 months ago, deciding to rely on the Bomarc for anti-aircraft protection.

Some members of the U.S. House of Representatives are likely to put up a fight when the recommendation of the appropriations committee reaches the House floor for debate next Tuesday. Generally, however, the House goes along with the committee's verdict.

In Ottawa Friday Defence Minister Pearkes noted that the Eisenhower administration has agreed to approve the committee's recommendations. But he said that Bomarc has failed in eight of the ten firings, three appears little chance that President Eisenhower will override the Democratic-controlled Congress.

"The Bomarc missile in its final configuration is a very highly controversial and as yet unproved, and tests have done nothing to instil confidence in the program," the committee said.

"The manned aircraft will have advantages over the missile," it says which makes them very much more desirable from the standpoint of the overall defence picture."

Pearkes told the House of Commons Friday that if the Bomarc budget is cut by $29,000,000 "it will not be in keeping with the arrangements which were made over the years by between our two countries . . ."

Reaction in North Bay varied from relief to that of interest.

Reeve J. W. Bolton of Widdifield, in which township is Bomarc launching site, said the installation are being built, said:

"I am glad that the big project burst before it got too big. It is unfortunate for the township, but surely the properties could be put to happier use."

Mayor Merle Dickerson said "There is no need to jump to the conclusion that they're going to close down the base tomorrow."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis — Skies will be mostly clear all the forecast regions this morning, however showers are expected in Northwestern Ontario where temperatures will near 50. Cold air covers Northwestern Ontario while milder air covers the remainder of the province. A band of rain and snow stretches from Eastern Lake Superior northeastward across James Bay.

A low pressure area over Missouri was expected to move northeastward, passing across Central Ontario Sunday morning. This will be followed by strong northwest winds and colder weather.

TURMOIL IN TURKEY — Fellow students carry an injured comrade from the fray in Istanbul after clashing with the police in an anti-government demonstrations reminiscent of the South Korea uprising. Thousands of Turkish troops patrolled Istanbul to curb the demonstrations, which were sparked by a ban on political activity instituted by the strong man government of Premier Adnan Menderes.

ISTANBUL (AP) — New anti-government demonstrations erupted in Istanbul today as some 1,000 students and others, shouting "freedom," paraded before the building where the NATO foreign ministers are to meet Monday.

Tuesday security arrangements now in effect in Istanbul have caused grave traffic snarls throughout the city.

Small roving bands of students and other demonstrators, all of whom in Istanbul against Premier Adnan Menderes. The groups, about 40 or 50 strong, kept operating in scattered parts of the city.

Earlier in the day, troops with fixed bayonets had dispersed 2,000 student sidelong strikers from the campus and police had subsequently charged with violating martial-law regulations.

The Istanbul military command declared in a communique: "The students who did not heed the warnings aimed at bringing an end to recurring regrettable incidents and for the return of order will be incompletely detained in camps to face legal proceedings for their disobedience to martial-law regulations, resistance to police and assault."

Troops, armed with rifles, entered the main gate of the university and gradually forced the students into waiting army trucks.

There were 100 girls among the strikers.

The students appeared tired, hungry and drawn as they filed into the trucks and greeted the police slogans and sang patriotic songs.

Despite the collapse of the student demonstration at the university, about 100 other students defied police orders and swarmed before the new municipal building in front of the NATO foreign ministers are meeting Sunday, picketed quietly for about 10 minutes and then dispersed.

Harassed by spreading riots, Premier Menderes has called rivals of inciting the student demonstrations.

Showing grave alarm, Menderes appealed by radio to the people to help keep order and urged them to turn in any rumor mongers.

The movement so far appears to have been confined to university students. There was apparently no indication of general support from the public that disheartened quit.

Friday's violence centered in Ankara, where four students and a policeman were reported killed in demonstrations put up a rally with clubs and tear gas.

Last Dictator in South America Challenged as Paraguay Invaded

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP)—Fighting was reported spreading today against armed invaders seeking to overthrow the strongman government of President Alfredo Stroessner.

The government said casualties had been inflicted on the rebels, who struck across the jungles from Argentina.

Paraguayan sources in Argentina said several columns of Paraguayan exiles had launched invasions from Brazil as well.

Paraguayan air force planes bombed the "battleground" on the Argentine border in the Alto Parana River that forms the boundary with that country. Paraguay and Argentina's Misiones province.

The rebels appeared in greater strength than an invasion force of about 1,000—men which was repulsed last December.

A communique said one insurgent band of about 500 men was beaten off Friday in attacking the tropical jungle town of Puerto Carlos Antonio Lopez on the Parana River.

Stroessner is the last remaining dictator in South America and has ruled Paraguay with an iron hand since 1954. He is also the army chief.

The 47-year-old artillery officer, of German descent, has suppressed the press and as leader of the ruling Colorado party has tolerated no real opposition.

There have been a dozen attempted coups against his dictatorial regime during the last six years, but all fizzled out.

Paraguay is a land - locked, underdeveloped country of 1,900,000 people, mostly of mixed Spanish and Indian stock.

CBC Buys TV Rights to WIFU, Big Four Games

TORONTO (CP)—The Big Four Football League and the CBC announced today that the CBC has bought the television rights for Big Four games this season for $212,500. It is the same amount that the CBC paid last year.

It is expected that 21 league games and three playoff contests will be televised over the CBC's eastern Canada network. The same local blackout restrictions that were in effect last year will apply.

The CBC and the Western Interprovincial Football Union also announced agreement this week to televise it WIFU and a maximum of five playoff games in western Canada. The CBC agreed to pay the WIFU $125,000 for the rights, $8,000 more than the amount the league obtained for seven league and four playoff games last season.

The CBC now will seek to obtain commercial sponsorship of the games.

Court Rejects Clemency Plea For Chessman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Caryl Chessman lawyers today prepared last-ditch legal strategy aimed at saving the convict author from the state's gas chamber Monday.

George T. Davis planned a new application for a writ of habeas corpus which he said would raise questions of federal law. He asked William I. Sulli clerk of the U.S. District Court, to be on hand at noon today to accept the filing.

The condemned Los Angeles "kidnap-rapist" petition for clemency reconsideration was denied by the California court Friday for the third time, again 4 to 3, after an unusual late-day session of two hours and 40 minutes.

Attorney Quesilla, warden Fred Dickson arranged a "last" press conference for Chessman at 10 a.m. Monday only hours before the six-foot convict's sinah date with death in the cote.gonal-shaped green chamber.

American Coins Becoming Almost Rarity in Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

American coins, which once made up almost a third of the change in Canadian pockets, are becoming a rarity in Canada.

In May and June, these coins have almost disappeared in some areas, flowing back across the border in a sliver stream.

It was April that Canadian banks began discounting United States coinage. The rate is two per cent more than the prevailing daily rate for paper money and a total of about 40 per cent — and applies on silver in amounts of $1 or more."

Under the fine of the bank discount retailers began charging customers one cent on a nickel or dime, two cents on a quarter and four cents on a half-dollar. The effect was that U.S. coins overnight became highly unprofitable.

One official of a major Canadian bank said in Toronto that his firm has shipped $27,000 to U.S. banks and "the same thing is happening at other border points."

Another bank, which did not ship any coinage to the U.S. before the discount, has sent $6,000—72 bags of silver—to Buffalo banks in three weeks.

In Ottawa, Postmaster-General William Hamilton, under opposition questioning, admitted that in some areas postmasters have been instructed to pass U.S. coins on to the public rather than honour the bank's discount by depositing them.

John Peck, manager of a Chatham, Ont. branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, said his bank has been forced to order silver from foreign sources during the last few weeks.

"When people take their American silver out of circulation in a border community such as this, it is bound to create a silver shortage."

Banks point out they have always had to discount U.S. coins at the prevailing rate on currency, but that the practice gradually disappeared. Then business began sending people to U.S. border points such as Fort Erie, Niagara Falls, Windsor, Sarnia and Cornwall to buy goods at cheaper prices.

The result, he called for strengthening the family farm to "preserve the traditional values which our society — preserve a contribution of real value while at the same time stimulating a satisfactory level the economic development of the economy in a changing, industrial society."

The speech prompted praise from government and some officials from Agriculture Minister Harkness. But many other delegates were more specific in their remarks, and then the minister left the meeting without comment.

Harold Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) said the agricultural cansing industry's chief ailment is that many Canadian plants are being controlled by foreign interests. American canned fruit and vegetables are being produced in Ontario, British Columbia and Nova Scotia under Canadian trade names.

Mr. Harkness said it is true that Canadian canners are now buying out small Canadian plants, mostly in Ontario but in the larger plants and then ex-tending their facilities. The rapid decline in Ontario fruit and vegetable output.

Mr. Winch said the number of Okanagan Valley canning plants has declined from 40 to 15 and from 15 or 16 a few years ago.

"Canadian farmers are not going to do with this decline, the minister replied. B.C. tomato growers . . . have had all-

Retarded Children Group Discusses Many Subjects

HAMILTON (CP)—Local associations of the Ontario Association for Retarded Children have become forceful factors in the life of the province, association president C. J. Bowey of Ottawa said in Hamilton Friday.

"We are no longer on the outside looking in," he said of delegates to the OARC convention.

"Through our concentrated efforts the neglect of retarded children and adults now is an active concern of officials in high places," he said.

Mr. Bowey said the association's legislation committee will present a resolution at the September meeting of the Canadian Municipal Association calling for support of the principle of assistance a municipal level. He added that 15 large urban municipalities will support the resolution.

Lela B. Arrowsmith, clinical services consultant for the province said the University of Toronto will this year become the first Canadian university to offer special work students field training in retarded children.

A field training centre will be opened in Toronto in August and will accommodate 20 students, she announced.

William R. Mark, chairman of the adult program, said he understands 50 workshop training programs are being planned in Windsor, Hamilton, Brantford, Tillsonburg, Oshawa, Peterborough and Welland. Similar programs are being considered in Toronto, London, Barrie and Ottawa.

The Ontario legislature subcommittee which prepared a brief on overcrowding in hospital school hopes to have an early meeting with the cabinet on the subject, reported R. Gerald Angin, chairman of the institutional committee, he said the brief urged a crash program of building to relieve critical overcrowding in the schools.

Mr. Anglin said a committee brief to the minister of health

COMMONS FARM DEBATE WANDERS IN MANY FIELDS

Members Reminisce About Pioneer Days

OTTAWA (CP) — Behold the wanderings of a meat storage plant for the Lakehead, how got to grow tomatoes and fertilizer in the Yukon.

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) reminisced about the pioneer days in B.C.'s Okanagan Valley as the House debated the 1960-61 estimates of the federal agriculture department. He said he knew what it was to take two dozen eggs in a lard pail to the store in order to get a package of tobacco and two boxes of matches."

He gave the "general approach" to agriculture of his party's policy committee group, and said flatly that agriculture is "without doubt in a crisis."

Samuel Boulanger (L—Drummond-Arthabaska) said agriculture has reached a "chaotic and desperate situation" since the Progressive Conservatives came to power in 1957. Farmers, prompted to increase their national income, had in fact suffered a reduction in their net farm cash income last year. In addition, prices of wheat, oats, barley, rye, flax and hay were all were below the levels when the Conservatives took power.

PRAIRIES RESEARCH

Mr. Herridge praised the department's research work in agriculture and the agencies trying to implement it. But he deplored the duplication of effort by provincial governments in many farm fields, and suggested that what he said is a lack of a national policy being on a long - range agricultural economic and ecological facts.

Mr. Boulanger called for strengthening the family farm to "preserve the traditional values which our society — preserve a contribution of real value while at the same time stimulating a satisfactory level the economic development of the economy in a changing, industrial society."

The speech prompted praise from government and some officials from Agriculture Minister Harkness. But many other delegates were more specific in their remarks, and then the minister left the meeting without comment.

Truck Drivers Crossed Bridge At Reduced Rates

MONTREAL (CP) — Preliminary hearing ended Friday in the case of Eugene Benoit, one of six former toll collectors on the Jacques Cartier bridge charged with breach of trust and thefts totalling $25,000.

Sixteen truck-drivers, testifying for the prosecution in Benoit's hearing which opened earlier this week, told the court they crossed the bridge at reduced rates on about half their trips.

6 Dead As RCAF Plane Plunges Into L. Michigan

Craft Trying to Land With Runaway Prop

MILWAUKEE (CP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force plane, trying to make an emergency landing with a runaway propeller, crashed in foglound Lake Michigan Friday night. By dawn this morning there was no trace of the six occupants, one of them one of the RCAF's best - known senior officers.

Searching aircraft parts and clothing scattered over a wide area were found in the lake shortly after daybreak, indicating the plane had exploded on impact.

Picked up were two wheels from the plane, heavy clothing, an officer's flight pants and jacket, a grip containing the plane's log, a seat, a suitcase and three life rafts and inflatable identified.

Air Commodore J. G. (Joe) Stephenson of Windsor, chief of personnel services of Air force headquarters in Ottawa, was making the flight from Ottawa to the Canadian Air Force Base at Truax, Wis.

OTHERS ABOARD

Also aboard were, Wing Cmdr. G.W. Kudlar, 42, of Air Defence Command, Winnipeg; Lt.-Col. Bert Gaudet, Que.; FO Robert F. Rowland, 29, of London, Ont., Flt. Lt. D. J. Mac Mc Moore Range, Sask.; Sgt. Lawrence J. Bisson, 43, Sturgeon Falls, and LAC Neil A. Porteous, 22, Ottawa. All but Kutiar were stationed at Otta-

The plane, a twin - engined Mitchell bomber — a Second World War type—took-off from Ottawa's Uplands Airport Friday evening. Shortly after 10 p.m. it radioed the Billy Mitchell Air Force Base that it was in trouble and would attempt an emergency landing.

Officials at the field said the plane made one pass at the field and missed. It then circled back out over Lake Michigan a mile away, exploding on a fiery crash.

Two fishermen on a prier near the airfield said they heard the sounded as if "it was trying to climb in a hurry."

NEAR DISASTER

"The motor conked out and we heard a splash and then a boom," one of them said. "There was no light, no explosion when it hit the water."

Crash boats and an army helicopter immediately began a research in the fog and darkness but failed to find any trace of the plane. The coast guard picked up more boats to intensify the search at daybreak.

Stephenson, 48, had been in the RCAF since 1938. During the war he was in charge of flying training in Canada, and in 1946 was appointed to command a group captain to wing commander so he could go overseas and fly operationally.

He flew with 432 squadron at the Rabat No. 2 group bomber station at Earlmoor, in York-shire, and was shot down on a raid to Hannover, Germany, in January, 1943. He parachuted safely and was a prisoner-of-war until released in the spring of 1945.

'Golden Kangaroo' Trade Mission Arrives in B.C. From Australia

VANCOUVER (CP) — The golden kangaroo men arrived in Canada Friday night, talking trade, foreign policy and economic conditions.

Behind the friendly, joke-cracking economist, diplomat and salesmanship is serious purpose. The Australian trade mission started a two-week tour of Canada that will take them to Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, with a side trip to Washington. They leave Ottawa June 7.

During the tour the mission will pass out, while they last, paper buttons depicting a golden kangaroo wearing boxing gloves.

In a statement the mission's leader, Sir Douglas Copland, former Australian high commissioner to Canada, called for closer agreement on foreign affairs between Canada and Australia. He said the two countries have much in common: They are young and virile, have enormous potential rising standards of living and a mutual connection within the Commonwealth.

While going into no details, he said the two countries are not as close as they could be in foreign policy.

Sir Douglas said the object of the mission is not so much to reduce Australia's trade deficit with Canada $54,100,000 exports—$195,200,000 imports—but to add $41,200,000 shipped by Australia.

He said as to increase two-way trade, Australia did not wish to obtain an increased share of Canadian trade at the expense of the Canadian manufacturer, but sought a greater proportion of Canada's imports.

He said Canada could buy more woolen goods — a "really good" wool, Australian wool has been developed — and sugar, of which Canada now imported about $15,000,000 worth annually, among other items.

Australian international reserves and export earnings were sufficient to make possible imports of dollar-area goods that were previously only available from the sterling area.

"Canadian businessmen would therefore be well advised to consider visiting Australia, with a view to locating markets there."

Disarmament Parley Adjourns

GENEVA (AP) — The 16-nation disarmament conference adjourned Friday until June 7, turning over the whole unsolved problem to next month's summit meeting in Paris.

The seven-week discussion of an East-West arms cut ended without agreement on how to begin serious negotiations. The two sides also failed to agree on the wording of a final communique.

Western officials said the conference will resume here June 7, regardless of the outcome at the summit. But they believed that there could be progress without a fundamental policy shift by one or both sides.

REDUCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States maritime board Friday ordered a reduction in Great Lake service.

Mail Service By Transport Is Inaugurated

Reminiscent of the old stagecoach days when the only mail transport was by road, Her Majesty's mail on the Smiths Falls-Tweed run will go by transport van is now being carried by highway mail transport.

The new service has been inaugurated by the Postal Department at the time of cancellation of daytime CPR trains between the two points.

Each morning the mail truck leaves Smiths Falls at eight o'clock arriving in Tweed at about 11.15, the return trip to Smiths Falls starts at four and arriving back at 7.15.

In the meantime an eastbound truck leaves Peterborough at 1.15 in the afternoon, arriving at Tweed at 5.30 and after turning around arrives back in the Lift-lock City at seven o'clock.

The Tweed service is for day mail only with night mail going by road by train.

The Toronto - Ottawa CPR daytime run passing through Tweed made its last trip on April 23.

Netherlands Vice-Consul Says Why Fewer Dutch Come

Safety Official Makes Challenge At Big Rally

TRENTON — A challenge to establish a safety program in their plants and to take measures to see that the safety rules laid down were adhered to by the workers, was thrown out to top management representatives by Fred Blaney, executive manager of the Ontario Industrial Accident Prevention Association, speaking at a safety rally held in the auditorium of Trenton High School Thursday night. The meeting was attended by about 300 persons from the Quinte area.

Mr. Blaney said that last year 1,200 people from the central Ontario region had met with crippling accidents and that six people had been killed as a result of accidents encountered in the course of their day's work. He said that 300 from the same area had suffered serious injury in industrial accidents since the first of this year.

"Somewhere along the line someone has failed to do his part," he said. "It's time we had team work."

Mr. Blaney suggested management should see that a safety committee was elected from among the workers and that the recommendations of committees were instructed in the procedures of safety which would cut down or eliminate safety hazards. Strict penalties should be imposed on persons committing infractions of safety rules.

He said foremen were particularly responsible for seeing that their departments were kept safe. He said that each foreman should analyze every job on his line and instigate safety measures.

The workers present were told to take heed for their own safety and for that of their fellow-workers.

Mr. Blaney said it had cost the Workman's Compensation Board millions of dollars to patch up injuries during 1959.

He said that safety shoes and protective glasses should be worn at all times. He warned workers against wearing long-sleeved shirts, flowing ties and finger rings to see that proper guards were a part of their machines, and to have every small injury reported and treated at the first aid station.

Mr. Blaney had a word for the wives and mothers. He said that the safety of the home should not be sent off to work with a home problem on his mind. Men should be encouraged to carry out a safety program at home and all guards should see that such things as drugs, knives, plastic bags and sharp tools were kept away from children. Fire hazards in the home should be checked and adults should learn artificial respiration methods.

Mr. Blaney said that he had offered his advice "so that the workmen shall live to enjoy the fruits of his labor."

Following the address, Bill Lenton, Patricia Hudson, Joanne Graves, Dennis Curtis and Sheila Corrigan, all CKWS-TV stars, offered a revue of music and dancing for entertainment.

Arthur Duncan, public relations director of the Eddy Match Company was master of ceremonies.

TRENTON —"The theory that "too many governments securities tend to break down the morale fibre of the individual" was referenced by John Vander Vlugt, vice-consul for the Netherlands in the Trenton area, at Thursday night's weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

He said that men grow stronger when they are forced to weather the storms of life and that it was a fallacy to believe that the "cradle to the grave" type of security advocated by some groups would make the individual happy and contented.

Mr. Vander Vlugt was commenting on the impressions he had received during a recent visit to Holland, his birthplace. He said that in the past few years immigration of citizens of that country to Canada had been "off." He said this could be explained by improved economic conditions in Holland, more social security for Dutch citizens and the winter immemployment picture in Canada.

He pointed out that while there had been little Dutch immigration to Canada before the turn of the century, 33,000 Dutch people had entered Canada between 1901 and 1945, but since the end of the Second World War more than 150,000 Dutch citizens had emigrated to this country. These people had, for the most part, adapted themselves to their new life and become citizens of worth in their various communities. Many had taken out Canadian citizenship papers.

Mr. Vander Vlugt said that Dutch immigrants had built their own industry and their own churches, formed their own societies and published their own papers and magazines. This had enabled them to retain certain national characteristics which they felt were desirable. On the other hand, they had made every effort to absorb the characters of their new country and to make it their own country themselves.

He said that as the former secretary of immigration for the Netherlands in this area, he was concerned about the drop in immigration recently.

Local Market Prices Unchanged

Prices were unchanged at the weekly auction market in Belleville today although the number of vendors was up.

Egg prices remained steady at 55 cents a dozen for extra large, 50 cents for large and 45-48 for mediums.

Many turkeys were sold up around 56 a gallon.

A wide variety of shrubs, trees, plants and cut flowers was offered.

No fowl was available.

Unveil Plaque

D. L. Storey Memorial Wing Opened, Dedicated by Shrine

Belleville and district Shrinedom paid imposing memorial tribute to Ra sman founder here last night.

In colorful but simple ceremonial the new D. L. Storey Memorial Wing was officially opened and dedicated at the Shrine Club, Dundas Ave.

A beautiful bronze plaque unveiled by Sir Ransford Rae, Potentate D. L. Storey Memorial Wing — Erected November, 1959 — Dedicated by Sir Ransford Rae, Potentate Camel Herder, Ali Baba Temple Stable," was unveiled.

Preceding at the unveiling ceremonies was Potentate's Ambassador Al. Frank Clifton of Ramses Temple, Toronto, who paid sterling verbal tribute to the late Mr. Storey.

Noble Clifton was introduced by Noble "Boller" Lloyd who in his own tribute said the late founder "had brought the club from a smoke-filled backroom to this beautiful edifice." He said Noble Clifton "had been a Shriner since 1928—and a Shriner groom for the past six months."

In a brief ceremonial address, Noble Clifton pointed out the work being done by the Shrine in crippled children, maintaining some 14 hospitals for crippled children. "Some 40,000 of these kiddies have been cured or helped through Shrine effort," he said.

He said one reason the Shrine Club in our city has been so successful was because of the fine contribution made to mankind by people like the late founder, D. L. Storey.

"D. L." he said, "gave wholeheartedly to the Ramses Temple after it bestowed on him its highest honor — even as did the city of Belleville, which was an outstanding Shriner, and this club which he had a hand in existence but his marked organizational abilities."

ALL INSPIRED BY WORK

"Tonight we pay tribute to a fine Shriner, husband and father, one whose fine attributes (his effort inspired all of us. Our personal memorial tribute to him will last much longer than after this material plaque has work out."

Noble Norris Whitney, MPP, Prince Edward-Lennox, thanked Noble Clifton for being the principal figure at a "very memorable occasion."

The dedication and unveiling were sponsored by the Belleville Stable, Ramesses Camel Herders Unit. Chief Camel Herder Georgs Mueller chaired the ceremonies after an official Shrine welcome by Noble Jim Stevens, the large audience of Shriners and their ladies for club president Noble Ken Vivian.

Introduced by Noble Mueller were head table guests including Noble Clifton, who represented Ramesses Temple Potentate James Bartlett, Toronto; Mrs. D. L. Storey, Noble Doug Storey and Mrs. Storey; Noble Bruce Storey and Mrs. Storey; Mrs. Clarence MacBrien Shrine president Noble Vivian and Mrs. Vivian; Noble and Mrs. Norris Whitney and Noble secretary Noble Hugh Sullivan and Mrs. Sullivan.

Before and following the dedication and unveiling ceremonies, the Shrine Club ladies enjoyed dancing to the melodic rhythms of the Dixie Five Orchestra.

BUFFET LUNCH SERVED

A delectable buffet lunch was served just before midnight. The ladies were presented with special Shrine gifts while a lucky "Stetson" won valuable prizes.

The late Past Potentate and ex-Mayor of this city, D. L. Storey, passed away in 1957, the year following his elevation to the office of Ramses Temple Potentate. He was mayor in 1949.

He organized the Belleville and District Shrine Club back in 1946, and was active in its quarters in various parts of the city. It was during his early efforts the present handsome Dundas Club building was secured.

As Noble "Boller" Lloyd put it, "it rose from a smoke-filled back room to this beautiful office.

Seen going over the program are Belleville president Mrs. Georgia Smith, Miss Grace Nichols, Toronto, International President; Mrs. Lily Quarnberg, Vancouver, Washington, President Soroptimists Federation of America; Mrs. Nora Partridge, London, Eastern Canada Region governor, and Mrs. Ena Corke, Belleville, conference chairman.

Major Arnold Brown Heard By Red Shield Group Here

Major Arnold Brown of the publicity department of The Salvation Army Headquarters in Toronto in an address to the final meeting of the Red Shield Appeal committee here stressed the need of thorough organization to ensure success. The Major, speaking from considerable experience, referred to the importance of a balanced effort, adequate, informative publicity and an equally strong field force of workers. Campaign objectives, said Major Brown, are not carelessly arrived at but rather the result of careful budgeting and are in fact realistic figures vital to the continuance of Salvation Army welfare services.

A film entitled "The Open Door" was presented, which depicted the work of The Salvation Army, from the training and dedication of its officers in College to the many and varied avenues of service in which they may be engaged.

The guest speaker was introduced to the meeting by Mr. Charles Lundy and suitably thanked by Mrs. Effie McCabe.

Major Brown, a Belleville boy, left here twenty-five years ago and entered the Salvation Army College in Toronto. He has had wide experience as the chief publicity officer in the Canadian territory of The Salvation Army and is an authority in the field of radio and television.

Mr. W. T. Simpson, the chairman of the Advisory Board, expressed his thanks to Mr. Frank Domenico for the splendid work of organization and felt that once again The Red Shield could depend on the citizens of Belleville and district to support this year's appeal.

CONCILIATION MEETING

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — All parties involved in a dispute holding up work on a civic hospital addition have agreed to attend a conciliation meeting called by Mayor Donald Loucks. Yukon Fertilizer—and the need to supply it there—was raised by Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) in a speech underlining the North's agricultural potential. Mr. Nielsen said the territorial government's attitude toward farming is apathetic.

Hubert Badanai (L—Fort William) said the agricultural potential of Northwestern Ontario's Thunder Bay area is being stalled by discriminatory freight production in the area, Mr. Harkness and failure to implement the government's announced policy for regional farm development.

When Mr. Badanai called for federal government construction of a cold storage plant at the Lakehead to encourage livestock raising the government has never built such plants anywhere, it has subsidized the construction of some of them, but never built them itself.

World Refugee Year Topic At Study Guild

World Refugee Year was the topic of the program at the monthly meeting of the Study Guild, held at the home of Mrs. G. Maybee. Mrs. L. Reid, president, welcomed the visitors and introduced Miss Gloria Wilson who showed two short films from the library. The first film, "Fountain of Jabalia," showed the work of rehabilitation done by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency among the Arab Refugees in the Gaza Strip; the second film, entitled "We Very Much Regret," depicted the daily life of a family which has been living for 10 years in a barren refugee camp in Europe, waiting for word of possible resettlement in a new country.

Following the films, Mrs. G. H. Tivill gave a resume of the refugee situation in Europe, Asia, and North Africa. She told how the Year of World Refugee Year had originated with "four angry young men" of Britain who had visited European refugee camps and were horrified to find thousands of hopeless, despairing refugees living in intolerable conditions in camps, twelve years after the end of the war that had made them refugees. The activities of these young men resulted in the United Kingdom's representatives at the United Nations proposing the establishment of World Refugee Year during which it is hoped the European camps may be closed [illegible] elsewhere may be helped to a better life. The United Nations proclaimed it to extend from June 1959 to the end of June, 1960, and 70 countries of the world have agreed to support it.

Mrs. Ralph Bell then told of what some of these countries are doing this year to help the refugees, and completed the talk by giving the contribution of the Canadian people towards World Refugee Year—the government, the Canadian Committee for WRY and its 43 voluntary sponsoring agencies, local WRY committees in various communities, and smaller groups of private citizens.

Mrs. A. Archibald introduced Rev. Eleanor Lowe, who gave a timely devotional based on our duty as Christians to our brothers in Christ who, through no fault of their own, have been placed in such difficult circumstances.

It was decided that, since this is Austerity Week, the Guild would donate $15 to be sent to the city hall, which is accepting donations for World Refugee Year.

Mrs. J. Cochrane and Mrs. George Meader served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Soroptimist Aims Like UN Eastern Canada Convention Told by Peterborough Woman

Alderman Alene Holt of Peterborough Friday night told the 28th conference of the Eastern Canada Region of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas that the basic aims of the service club "are tantamount or parallel to the purposes and principles of the United Nations."

Speaking on what it is like to be a Canadian at the UN, she said that attending the first meeting at the Permanent Mission of Canada and listening to the agenda of 74 items "you really realize that one is not there for a good time but that you are there to do a job for your country."

Mrs. Holt was a Canadian delegate to the mission and said there were times when "one becomes frustrated — so many discussions — each representative wanting to make his point, especially with reference to his country and possible political grouping."

The Soroptimist conference started yesterday and will end Sunday. Today's session was given over mainly to business and nominations. Mrs. Lily E. Quarnberg, president of the Federation, will address a banquet tonight.

"The discussions and the compromises and the disagreements that occur in committee meetings are of the utmost importance", she said.

EIGHT WORD IMPORTANT

"Using the right word in the right place is of the utmost importance. The phrasing of a sentence or the use of a word may later be of great help in enabling you to win a particular point in debate, or it may cause you to lose a point."

Mrs. Holt believed friendships, public relations and good will play a major role at the UN.

"By developing and encouraging these friendships we are better able to understand our fellow man from other countries. I do feel that such efforts on behalf of our country have a way of overcoming the jealousies and political implications that are a part of every form of political life. When one can sit down and talk in friendship, the tension is lessened and many times a compromise can be arranged."

Mrs. Holt was for three months the Canadian representative on the UN's social, humanitarian and cultural committee and said the current World Refugee Year was of considerable interest during the 14th session.

"I would recommend to you this work of the World Refugee Year committee in your city", she said.

"Having read and discussed this problem I feel certain that any assistance that your organization could give on behalf of the World Refugee Year and the refugees themselves, would be appreciated."

TAKE FULL SPONSORSHIP

Canada's official contribution is the undertaking of full sponsorship of 1,000 extra-urban refugees and their families. It is expected the movement will enable more than 400 refugees to leave the camps in Europe and come to Canada.

"Immediately on arrival the refugees who are ill are placed in hospitals or sanatoria or under medical surveillance," she said.

"Every precaution has been taken to protect public health. It must be understood the problem of the refugee is one that cannot be fully solved by governments alone. It calls for the sympathy, understanding and, above all ,the active assistance of people in those countries where such experiences are unknown."

She said Canada voted in favor of a resolution which established the $100,000 United Nations prizes which will be awarded to institutions making the greatest progress in wiping out cancerous diseases.

RAPS NEWS PRACTICE

TORONTO (CP)—Allan Grossman (PC — St. Andrew) has rapped the practice of "lifting the ethnic origin of criminals. At a two-day meeting of the Canadian Ethnic Press Federation here Friday he urged the ethnic press to, speak out against what he termed the maligning of a whole community. He said press, radio and television often refer to the origin of criminals but seldom give the same information if a new Canadian, or a Canadian of other than Anglo-Saxon origin, distinguishes himself.

Cheryl Turner Flees From Home

SYLMAR, Calif. (AP) — Lana Turner's 16-year-old daughter, Cheryl, who two years ago stabbed her actress mother's boodling lover, escaped Friday night from a county-operated home for girls.

The statuesque teen-ager had been committed to the El Retiro home for girls six weeks ago for what her mother termed psychiatric therapy.

Cheryl and two other girls climbed over a chain-link fence and faded into the residential neighborhood in the San Fernando Valley community of Sylmar.

Cheryl in 1958 fatally stabbed Johnny Stompanato, ex-bodyguard to gambling figure Mickey Cohen, during a fiery quarrel between the handsome underworld figure and her mother.

This man is your neighbour...

You can be a good neighbour to this man who has come to grief through misfortune or mischief. In the hostels, havens, homes and hospitals of The Salvation Army, such men are given compassionate help and led back to health in body and spirit. The message of hope is carried even to those in prison and offenders are often placed in the care of The Salvation Army in lieu of sentence.

To you this man may be a stranger, but like the man befriended by the Good Samaritan whom the Master praised, he is your neighbour.

By your contribution to such works of mercy you can know the happiness of being a good neighbour in a practical way.

The 1960 Tax Rate

We never heard of a property-owner jumping for joy over a five-mill increase in the tax rate, even if he had feared that the boost would be twice that high. Belleville's 1960 mill rate, 84.5 mills or 91.3 mills depending on whether the taxpayer is paying the residential or the commercial and industrial rate, is not cause for rejoicing. At the same time, it ought not to be greeted by lamentations, providing that time proves the budget to be an honest one with sufficient revenue being raised to meet all our municipal expenditures and with no effort to postpone paying the piper until tomorrow, while enjoying the tune today.

Most of the increase in the tax rate this year is really a hangover from 1959, a year which Belleville ratepayers might now like to forget but which, if we learn well the lessons it has taught, may prove to have provided our salvation. Aid. William Garvan says that only 1.8 mills of the five-mill increase is necessary to meet anticipated increased expenditures this year. The remaining 3.2 mills of the increase is required to avoid duplicating in 1960 the deficit which resulted from 1959 operations. In other words, the 1959 council had failed a rate high enough to meet all of last year's expenses, this rate would have been only 1.8 mills below this year's rates of 84.5 mills for residential property and 91.3 mills for commercial and industrial property.

In addition to these rates, though, Belleville residents also have to pay a special rate for past taxes, their debt will cost residents of the older portion of Belleville another 16.5 mills, to be paid now or over the next five years. Residents in the portions of Sidney and Thurlow Townships which became parts of the city on Jan. 1, 1959, will escape much more lightly, their portion of the accumulated deficit being only three mills, since these will help to pay only that part of the total debt which was incurred after annexation.

Even the higher levy, of 16.5 mills, is something less than catastrophic when spread out over five years. Indeed, the amount which will be paid each year is only slightly more than a mill in excess of the 1.8 mills increase in the 1960 rate made necessary by higher expenditures. This, though, ought to be taken by future councils as a warning of the importance of keeping expenditures at the minimum consistent with the proper economy and adequate maintenance of necessary services, rather than being interpreted as indicating that past mistakes were not really serious.

If this year's budget is the commencement of a consistent policy of "pay-as-you-go" administration, Belleville ratepayers, while they may not grin too widely, will prove willing and able to bear it.

Two Health Problems

It is probably just a coincidence, but the week ahead has been claimed by two health organizations, both of which are primarily interested in the brain.

May 1 to May 7 will be Cerebral Palsy Week in Ontario and the same seven days will also be observed as Mental Health Week.

Cerebral palsy, the effects of which are akin to the dreaded but now largely conquered polio, is a condition in which damage is suffered to that area of the brain controlling the movement of limbs. Its crippling effects are clearly evident to even the most casual acquaintance of one of its victims. The Ontario Society for the Cerebral Palsied is trying to obtain a marked improvement in facilities for treatment and for education of children who are victims of the disease, together with public understanding of cerebral palsy. Unlike polio, cerebral palsy is not yet preventable by vaccination, the fact that parents of the palsied child cannot look for preventive measures or cures — or even much physical improvement in severe cases — makes it all the more necessary that what can be done to teach these children to live with their handicap should be done promptly and adequately.

Mental illness, unlike cerebral palsy, may be present without many of those who come into even intimate contact with the sufferer being aware of this fact. This make its early detection difficult, but all the more important for that fact. There are a variety of mental illnesses. Most of them can be cured if the patient receives proper treatment.

Chorus Girls Turn Mulish

The Times of London

It takes, one was brought up to believe, a good deal to turn a chorus girl sour.

Gay, warm-hearted, impulsive, generous to a fault, she has been — fiction, at any rate — a sort of happy-go-lucky stultification which makes light of the unnecessary occupational hazards of her calling.

But there are limits to what even the sunniest nature can put up with, and these limits have been reached in Melbourne — where the endless chorus of a Christmas pantomime is said to be on the verge of mutiny. The trouble has arisen over another member of the cast.

This sort of thing is constantly happening in fiction, where the leitmot is normally the leading lady.

But in Melbourne it is a bit-player, without even a line to speak, who has annoyed the girls; they have been unhinged by her presence. The aspect of the creature has been engaged to draw a crowd when the station-type-casting, of course, but perfectly suited to all that.

The girls are not jealous of his role, which none of them could perform herself; what they resent is the fact that the hours spent on it each week are more than they can stand.

So, moreover, without having to make five changes of costume.

There is clearly some element of inequity here, but it is a one which the more one ponders it, the more hopelessly confused one's values become.

It must be galling for a beautiful young lady to draw a lower salary than an elderly certainly elderly horse. But legs are the stock-in-trade of the one and the horse has twice as many as she.

She is paid to rush about the stage and kick her legs high in the air; the horse's way of using its pacity lies in the fact that he can be relied on not to do this.

Her role is the more strenuous, demands greater versatility, but, wherever there are thousands, perhaps millions, of chorus girls in the world, there are very few horses with stage experience and their particular one is time indispensable to the play than any single member of the chorus.

Meanwhile there would seem to be little the chorus girls can do to remedy their grievance.

Soldiers, it is said, must just have to grin and bear it; in the Australian theatre, apparently, we know and in the second we suspect them to be well groundless.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

April 30th, 1940

An eight-year-old youngster, Buddy Stratton, who claims to be the youngest bandsman in the city delighted a capacity audience at the McCarthy Theatre when he wielded the baton for the popular number "Beer-Barrel Polka", while hundreds of people gave him vociferous acclaim. Hearing of the youngster's enthusiasm for band-music, Bandmaster Fred Johnson enquired if he were in the audience, and invited him to the stage. "Did you ever lead a band?" he asked the slightly blushing youngster. "No sir," came the reply. "Would you like to do so", asked Mr. Johnson. "Yes sir", replied the lad. "Well, here you are", and the genial bandmaster handed the baton to the small admirer. The band swung into the strains of the popular song, and the slightly-built boy conducted the thrill of his life.

A Lift for Living

Forsake Not Thy Mother's Law

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Although Mother's Day is still a week away, these intervening days are usually designated as National Family Week. As a preparation, therefore, for this week and the Mother's Day to which it leads, I should like to talk with you about a word of wisdom uttered by the writer of Proverbs in the first chapter, the eighth verse: "My son, hear the instruction of thy father and forsake not the law of thy mother." It would almost seem that the Proverb hat is words mixed. It would sound more appropriate to say, "My son, hear the instruction of thy mother, and forsake not the law of thy father." Traditionally is it not the fathers who lay down the law? Mother was often the refuge to which we fled when we had broken father's laws. Mothers do not, talk in terms of law, but in terms of love. When, therefore, we read, "Forsake not the law of thy mother," we mean not the laws which mothers laid down but others but rather the laws which they manifested in their own lives.

BE SMALL WORLD

There is one law manifested by our mothers which we as a society must not forsake. It is the mother's law of concentration on the family. In Noel Coward's motion picture "Cavalcade" he depicted the vicissitudes of an English family during the first two decades of the twentieth century. First was shown the young husband and father going off to the Boer War about 1900. Then came the tragedy of the elder son's death on the Titanic in 1912 soon that great new ship struck an iceberg and was sunk. Then in World War I, just before the Armistice, death took another son. Then was shown Armistice night in London with its scenes of triumph and rejoicing. The grief-stricken mother watched from the window as the shouting marchers went by, and then turned away tearfully to say, "But my world's a very small world." Viewed from one angle that mother's words might seem a vindictive remark. It is typical to live in a small world when we should be concerned with the struggles of society. And we must be confessed that some mothers do make their homes little circles walled in with selfishness. Some mothers do teiber their sons with the silver cord of maternal affection so that they delay the making of new homes or disrupt their sons' homes when made.

Yet, saying all this, we must also say that unless we learn to live in the small world immediately around us we shall not live successfully in the realm of large affairs. The home is the training ground whereon we drill ourselves in those attitudes of personal adjustment which are necessary for effective social readjustment. It is in the home where we best learn the habits of mutual consideration which make for tolerance and co-operation in the community. It is in the home that we must form the habit of keeping our word as individuals if we are to keep contracts inviolate in business. The family circle is our first dictionary of Christian character. As the family is not only, as has often been said, the unit of civilization: It is the test of civilization. The stability and persistence of any nation are in proportion to the integrity and coherence of its family group.

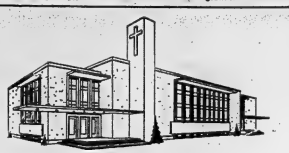
THE MOTHER'S LAW

When a society neglects the mother's law of concentration on the family, nothing can quite make up for its lost. Schools can not discipline the youth that parents do not train. Churches cannot develop character when homes dodge their responsibility. Courts and laws cannot control the wildness which family circles fail to tame. We multiply our policemen to keep people straight. We multiply government bureaus to keep business straight. We multiply officials to keep government straight. Thus we go on increasing social overseers and social overheads. And still our laws will be evaded and broken.

The world's eyes are beginning to focus on the forthcoming Summit Conference at Geneva. We hope and pray it will be fruitful. But let us not neglect the supper conference in our homes where the tensions of our little worlds are lessened and the ties of family love are tightened; where Mary unpacks her heart with words and Bill shares his dreams, and Father listens and learns and Mother lives and understands. As our world outlooks enlarge, our local loyalties must be enlivened. More than ever we need to hear and heed the prophet's counsel: "Enlarge the place of your tent . . . lengthen your cords and strengthen your stakes."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED M. WILSON
QUIET GRAY-CHEEKS



In the same way as a Scotchman can be recognized as soon as he begins to speak, so's a member of the thrush clan can be identified once it sings. As regards from Kilmorgh, Glasgow, or Dundee differ, so do the songs of the hermit, the wood, or the olive-backed. But the gray-cheeked thrush presents us with a very real difficulty — it is rarely heard singing.

The [illegible]

our thrushes, and neither as numerous nor as widely distributed as the others — making our chances of hearing it that much less. The speed with which it migrates through settled districts gives the bird no time for singing, and the breeding grounds for the most part beyond districts frequented by man. Few ornithologists dare to risk what is the standard song of the gray-cheeks because humans heard are apt to apply to individuals of one family and not to gray-cheeks in general.

HEADING NORTH

Starting from their winter quarters in South America, these birds are found near the mouth of the Mississippi River about April 20th, though fanning out somewhat their course then lies almost directly north until they enter Canada shortly after the middle of May and continues through the settled portion of our country to the boreal forest of tamarack and spruce. Many do not stop until they reach the open tundra, where dwarf willows and birches grow. A comber then turn sharply northwest, hurtled flying on to the very furthest corner of Alaska which they reach by May 29th. Of late years, some of them go on to eastern Siberia. During that month, the average speed per day must be 130 miles, all accomplished at night. Can you wonder that the gray-cheeks have little time for song in migration?

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Keller were recent guests in Coe Hill, of the former's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Keller.

Delightful Tea At 'Y' for World Service

To assist in the work of YMCA world service a delightful tea was given on Friday afternoon at the Y. It was a perfect spring day for social gathering and the affair was well patronized. A table of home baking in charge of the W. Memorial Club was set up in the lobby. Mrs. J. Fletcher, Mrs. H. Clarke, T. Weir, Mrs. J. Lascombe, Mrs. H. Watson, Mrs. A. Newman, Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. V. Prentice were kept busy selling pies, cakes, tarts, cup cakes, coffee and other baking goods in tempting array.

Tables for serving tea were arranged around the tea room upstairs where the guests were greeted by Mrs. J. A. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Diamond, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Robb, Mrs. N. E. Edwards looked after the tickets at the door.

The tea table was Baldosmeby appointed with a centrepiece of red snapdragons, white chrysanthemums and blue delphiniums flanked by two tri-branched candelabra holding tall dark blue candles. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. W. Fraser, Mrs. H. W. Workman, Mrs. W. L. McDougall and Mrs. V. Weir. The hostesses were Mrs. J. McArthur and Mrs. P. C. McGuire, and those who received were Mrs. J. C. Anderson and Mrs. D. D. Sood.

The dainty sandwich and cake plates were arranged by Mrs. J. E. Donaldson, Mrs. J. C. Richard, Mrs. L. D. Read, Mrs. J. Shorey, Mrs. D. D. Sood and Mrs. H. Watson. The preparation of tea and replenishing of teapots was in charge of Mrs. F. Bedell, Mrs. R. Fox, Mrs. W. Workman and Mrs. J. McCoy. The table napkins which were used bore the crest of the YMCA, work of service in blue on white.

Assisting in the serving were Mrs. H. Emerson, Mrs. W. Barnes, Mrs. M. Burkholder, Mrs. J. S. Kelleher, Mrs. J. B. Leslie, Mrs. H. Murray, Miss Barbara Robb, Mrs. Jay Wills and Mrs. G. L. Wambolt.

Much credit goes to the two conveners who made the arrangements for the tea, Mrs. D. G. Williams and Mrs. A. S. Robb.

MUSIC PROVIDED

Music was provided throughout the afternoon with a stereo record player provided by Jack Ireland, and records from radio station CJBQ. Later in the afternoon students of Albert College presented a musical recital with vocal solos by Jason Patrick, accompanied by Miss Howard, and piano solos by William Cloak.

The tea was for the friends of YMCA to help in the raising of funds through teas and special events to assist the missionary work of the Y in 78 countries throughout the world. There are two types of program being carried out, one a service to help with carrying out programs, and the "building for brotherhood" which will help build 116 YMCA centres. Over fifty secretaries are helping these people to help themselves. Eleven million dollars is being raised in North America for this purpose, with five million to be raised by 800 countries being helped. Canada's share is $400,000, and Belleville has been asked for $3800. Half of this sum was raised last year, and it is expected the balance will be raised this year.

The chairman of the World service committee in Belleville is A. S. Robb, assisted by L. D. Read and Dr. D. M. Scott.

Mr., Mrs. William Minnie Mark 44 Years of Married Life

A surprise anniversary party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Minnie, of Actinolite, on Sunday last, in honor of their 44th wedding anniversary. The immediate family were all present for this auspicious occasion, and were included: Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Casey, (Madeline), of Halloway; Mr. and Mrs. James Sturring, (Viola), and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McConnell, (Barbara), of Picton, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Minnie, of Gananoque.

The supper hour was spent at Price's Log Cabin where a tureen supper was served. After the sumptuous repast, the family returned to their parents' home where friends and neighbors were awaiting their arrival.

They were the recipients of many lovely congratulations and best wishes, flowers and

This - - - and That

BY HARRIET STEVENS

At this time in our country, we are observing Cancer Month. At other times we set aside certain periods when we give our attention, energies and monetary help to some of the diseases which we wish to combat. About a month ago at a United Nations seminar in Toronto, we were told by Mrs. Lee Hall, on behalf of UNICEF, that malaria was still the greatest killer in the world. In our part of the world it is not prevalent and it is rare that we have to contend with patients who have had malaria. The last cases of the Unesco Courier were:

"The eradication of malaria will free humanity from a ruinous disease that is a disgrace to our time. Other diseases may dominate a population; malaria can depopulate a whole region. Those lines are still true in lands. Throughout history it has driven men of vast tracts of fertile land. And those that stay on, drag out a miserable existence.

"Behind dry facts and figures, is an ocean of human misery. Each year a new generation of the following hopeless generation of malaria victims is born in the cultivated fields. Through the centuries entire peoples have been decimated and mentally deteriorated under the repeated attacks of the fever and fatigue. Physical weakness has undermined their vigor, spirit and brought mental apathy and lifelessness."

The twelve hundred million human beings are living under the constant threat of malaria, the world's greatest killer and world -assault against this disease.

This year, World Health Day is devoted to malaria, the world's most costly disease and the world campaign for its eradication.

Malaria spots in Europe are receding rapidly except in Greece, was once the most malaria-ridden country in Europe. Fourteen years ago it was picked as an advance post in the world campaign for disease. Today it with malaria practically driven out it has scored a resounding victory. The number of flight of army recruits has increased by 4-5 men, and the people are being brought under control.

Malaria is often first at a country's most precious resource, its young children, and economically it is usually held responsible for 10 to 15 percent of the national income. The question is asked: "Was ancient Greece vanquished by malaria? Was the real enemy which ensured the fall of ancient Greece the malaria mosquito, whose ravages so weakened the country's inhabitants that its frontiers were left defenceless in the face of threatening enemies?"

Fourteen years ago, head of Greece's antimalaria services, says that Greece has been a pupil to the disease for more than 2,000 years, and it has left deep scars on the country. He believes that malaria ultimately weakened the resistance of the soldiers of ancient Greece, so that her defenders were laid open to the invader. Her institutions collapsed, the waterworks fell into ruin, agriculture was neglected, and the fertile plains gradually changing into barren wastes, until at last the country which had led the world was plunged into long centuries of darkness.

In Afghanistan, about one million peasants lived under the constant shadow of malaria and some of the most fertile land could not be worked. Civion has saved about $30 million a year since the disappearance of malaria. A comparable estimate applies to India also.

In the Philippines the uprooting of malaria has opened possible many projects which previously were out of the question: construction of roads, opening of mines, building of houses and industrial premises. This same story goes on in all malarial countries.

The first director of Malaria Eradication for Asia, Dr. Soper says that, freed from malaria, the people begin to rediscover their strength, regain their energy; they realize how much they have been deprived of. In short, they return again to life.

What of the people who do this work? As always, they are dedicated individuals. WHO experts, U. S. Marines may set out on a 10-day march through the Himalayan foothills to organize supply lines for Nepal's eradication campaign. He is only one of many dedicated workers away from home for the benefit of all mankind.

Demonstrate Handicrafts at W.A. Meeting

At the April meeting of the Coronation WA of Bridge Street Church, a wide variety of useful and pretty hand-made gifts and bazaar items were displayed by Mrs. Wilma Summers, a member of the group, and Mrs. H. M. Davis.

A great variety of items were skillfully made from such materials as foam rubber, plush, felt, nylon, satin, wool, the latex, liquid plastics, and felt.

Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Summers explained details of construction of each, stressing how simple it is to make many of the attractive articles. She said encouragement was given beginners in demonstrating with a few pieces of scraps of foam the making of cushions, rubber flowers, ribbons, bows and flowers, used to ornament large hats, toys, or corsages. Also scraps of foam rubber, wool, or felt are used for toys of animals and dolls. Many items are inexpensive to make, she stated.

Mrs. M. Dales thanked Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Summers on behalf of the members whose interest was greatly stimulated in new types of handiwork by this interesting demonstration.

Mrs. B. M. Kerr, president, was in charge of business of the meeting after the members of Mrs. G. Locklin's group, Mrs. W. McGee, Mrs. D. D. Hickson and Mrs. R. M. Chaplin, opened with a Mothers' Day theme.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting while entertaining took advantage of the opportunity to examine and discuss the handicrafts.

Cannifton, Corbyville W.I. Elects Officers

The May meeting of the Cannifton - Corbyville W.I. was held Monday evening at the township hall, Cannifton, and was presided by Mrs. D. Windsor. There were 16 members and two visitors present.

It was decided to purchase bread and butter, and dishes plates to match the cups and saucers, also to continue turning in Canada Packer labels and get five banquet size table cloths.

At this meeting, the district president, Mrs. C. Reid, declared all offices vacant and proceeded to conduct the election of officers for 1960-61.

Mrs. F. Meale was acting secretary and vote was taken by show of hands.

Mrs. G. Shorey of the nominating committee read the names for 1960-61 officers as follows: president, Mrs. Ellsworth; 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. Latchford; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. D. Allen; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. P. Meale; directors, Mrs. W. Carmichael, Mrs. Eves and Mrs. Palmer; district director, Mrs. Windsor; pianist, Mrs. A. Boyd; assistant pianist, Mrs. Welsh; auditors, Mrs. W. Latchford and Mrs. D. Windsor; conveners standing committees: agriculture and Canadian industries, Mrs. R. Stewart and Mrs. Post; historical research and current events, Mrs. G. Shorey; home economics and health, Mrs. A. Boyd; citizenship and education, Mrs. Welsh; press, Mrs. P. Meale; community centre, Mrs. D. Windsor; telephone committee, Mrs. R. Stewart and Mrs. Fraser; public relations — representative, Mrs. L. Reid.

The officers were accepted as read, also the committees as read.

Mrs. Reid declared the new officers take over, and the president, Mrs. Ellsworth, took charge.

Correspondence regarding the ploughing match to be held in this area in 1961 was discussed. It was decided to join the match previously held of the county regarding the operation of a concession in the area.

Mrs. Reid gave an interesting address on duties as Institute members and urged the need for women to prepare themselves to help and take their places as leaders.

Mrs. Reid was presented with a gift in appreciation of her presence.

Plans for members to help provide lunch for the dance to be held May 6th in the Orange hall, Mt. View, Thurlow Community Centre, were completed, and the lunch for the Institute tea to be held May 25th in the township hall at Cannifton.

Lunch was enjoyed by all.

St. Thomas W.A. Holds 75th Birthday Tea, Bazaar

A birthday tea was held at St. Thomas' Parish House to celebrate the founding of the Woman's Auxiliary of Anglican Church of Canada by Rodeyria Tilton, and to also honor voted women in Ottawa seventy-five years ago in May by clergy in the missionary efforts of the church.

The tea was convened by Mrs. S. E. Morton assisted by Mrs. Ruth Wilcox, Mrs. W. Carman and Mrs. Gray.

The W.A. theme was carried out in the decorations. A small white Winchester cottage, the W.A. emblem, on a red background, surrounded by red candle, was the decoration for each small table. The large tea table had an attractive centrepiece of red tulips and white chrysanthemums (the W.A. colors), in the centre of a large birthday cake, with 75 on the white fondant, flanked by silver candelabra with red and white candles.

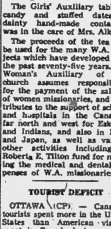
Tea was poured by Mrs. M. Jones, Mrs. H. Lee and Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. J. Chant.

Mrs. Ruth Wilcox, president of the Senior Branch, Mrs. M. Smith, president of the Evening Auxiliary, and Mrs. Gray, president of the Junior Auxiliary, were in charge of the birthday cake.

The hostess was Mrs. T. Gibson and her daughter assisting and serving were Mrs. J. Benson, Mrs. J. Buchanan, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Mc-Geen, Mrs. W. Kokish, Mrs. F. Lascombe, Mrs. A. Bowerman, Mrs. R. Beamish, Mrs. J. Massie, Mrs. T. Simpson, Mrs. H. Taylor, Mrs. R. Van Dusen, Mrs. F. Bromfield, Mrs. F. Alker and Mrs. J. Tate.

The home cooking table was popular and its conveners, Mrs. H. Smith, Mrs. Wilcox assisted by Mrs. F. Clarke and Mrs. F. J. Leach, were kept busy tempting the delicious pies, cakes, tarts, and other goodies donated by many friends in the congregation as well as members of both branches of the W.A.

A gift table of miscellaneous articles conveyed by Miss M. Lodge with Mrs. D. Nightingale, was empty by the end of the afternoon. Much attention was attracted by a table of gay and charming spring hats. These were made by Mrs. Ivison, formerly of Ellis, who donated her entire proceeds to the W.A.



Mrs. Alber with Mrs. T. Hurst presided over a table filled with golden jars of ginger and three-fruit marmalade, also straberry jam made by members of the Evening Auxiliary. Mrs. Chambers sold floral cards and pretty gift wrappings for the birthday cards.

The Girls' Auxiliary table of candy and stuffed dates in dainty hand-made containers was in the care of Mrs. Alker.

A novel method of tea table was used for the many W.A. projects which have developed over the past seventy-five years. The Woman's Auxiliary of the Evening Auxiliary was responsible for the payment of the salaries of missionaries in the field, and contributes to the support of schools and hospitals in the Canadian north and west and for Eskimos and Indians, and also in India and Japan, as well as various other activities including the Roberta E. Tilton fund for meeting the travelling and other expenses of W.A. missionaries.

TOURIST DEFICIT

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian tourists spent more in the United States than Americans travelers spent in Canada last year, Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton reported Friday. Canadian tourists spent an estimated $454,000,000 and American tourists about $257,000,000, up almost $50,000,000 from 1958. Both totals are records.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Arthur Bates are pictured signing the register following their marriage in West Huntingdon United Church. The bride is the former Miss Mary Ann Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wright, of Halloway, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bates, of Roslin, Ontario. BATES — WRIGHT

Easter lilies and spring flowers formed a lovely setting for the double-ring ceremony in West Huntingdon United Church, at high noon, on Saturday, April 16, 1960, when Miss Eleanor Ann, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wright, Halloway, became the bride of Donald Arthur Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bates, Roslin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her wedding gown of lace, in waltz - length with portrait neckline, long sleeves ending in points over the wrists, full skirt featuring three rows of lace at the back caught with roses of self material. Her chapel-length veil was attached to a tiny flowered crown headdress of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She wore white slippers, a single strand of pearls with matching earrings, and carried a cascade of deep red Bettertine roses.

Miss Lois Coote, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a waltz-length gown of pink with lace bodice and crystalette skirt draped at the back to form a large bustle bow. Her headdress was an open crowned picture hat in matching shade. She carried a bouquet of pink bud linked carnations, and pink satin shoes and gloves completed her costume.

Little Miss Kathy Jane Bateman, sister-in-law of the bride, as flower girl, was sweet in a short dress of baby blue nylon with full skirt and pink satin sash. She wore a tiny white satin hat, white shoes, and carried a basket of pink linked carnations and 'mums, tied with a pink bow.

The rings-bearer was the bridegroom's nephew, Terry Reid, of Cornwall, dressed in his grey flannel trousers and navy blazer.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Francis Thompson, Moira, and ushers were Messrs. Charles Wright and Gordon Carlson, cousins of the bride and bridegroom.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. V. Walker, assisted by Mr. George Dixon. The wedding music was supplied by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Bruce Stapley, who played the wedding March Mendelssohn's Wedding Chorus" during the signing of the register.

A wedding dinner was served by the Rebekahs in the IOOF hall in Stirling.

The bride's mother received her guests wearing a gown of Dior blue crepe with a floral white picture hat, squirrel furs and corsage of pink and white carnations. The mother of the bridegroom's mother, wearing sapphire satin with soft blue-flowered hat, squirrel furs and corsage of carnations.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker ably performed the duties of toastmaster and called upon the bride's brother - in - law, Mr. Carl Bateman, who proposed a toast to the bride to which the bridegroom replied. The bridesmaid and flower girl were presented by Mr. Gordon Carleton, and a toast to the bride and bridegroom was proposed by Mr. John Mowatt of Port Arthur.

Mr. Terry C. Reid, friend of the bridegroom's family, also spoke and the bride's father invited the guests to attend the view the wedding gifts.

The wedding of Mrs. Toronto and points north, the bride wore a blue wool dress and jacket with black accessories and orchid corsage of red roses.

Following their return, the young couple will reside in Roslin.

DIVORCE FOR DUCHESS

LONDON (Reuters) — The Duchess of Bedford was granted a divorce Friday on the grounds of adultery by her ex-second husband, Britain's "showmen peer." The duke did not defend the action which alleged he committed adultery with Annabelle Yurka, a former night club hostess, in a hotel in the west end. The duke and duchess married in 1947, both for the second time.

Tourists Are Advised to Visit West Germany's Historic Sights

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

The "Rhine Arrow" makes the trip from Paris to Frankfurt in an unvarying five hours, and considering how much there is to see along the way and how long it takes to get between airports and cities these days, rail is the eminently satisfactory way of crossing the colorful heart of West Germany.

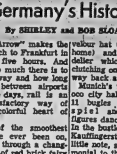
Along one of the smoothest road beds we've ever been on, the train winds through a changing countryside of red brick fairy tale villages, medieval walled cities full of turrets and towers, fields of hops and finally, in the Rhine River Valley, the world's finest white wine vineyards clinging to steep slopes.

You can take it all in while casually having lunch, a matter not taken casually by the German Sleeping and Dining Car Company. Not only does the company maintain its own elaborate kitchens on the train, but it offers a menu whose top item is an unspoken-of cheese steak dinner at $1.50. We paid $1.75 for a fine cold cut sandwich on the New York Central.

REWARDING SIGHTS

The sights and atmosphere of Germany are rewarding and exciting. All too many grand-tourists limit themselves to a quick trip down the Rhine from Paris to Cologne to look at Cologne's cathedral.

Thus they miss the castle delights as Hanover's fabulous nineteenth century opera house; the perfection of the Baroque Palace city of Rothenburg; historic Nuremberg, famous for its contribution to the invention of the pocket watch long before wristwatches existed (a name with infamy; and dear old Heidelberg with its still-ringing echoes of the Student Prince.



And if you can picture such a city as Cologne, U.S. Army, as most undiscovered by tourists, you have your choice of fine history-seekers, art-lovers and shoppers alike.

Like the rest of Bavaria, Munich has pretty well gone its own way in the history of Germany. Though this is where the Nazi movement started, it never collected much contentment. Munich seems to have stopped being Germany's art city in the 1920's and for a while the Bavarians' love of beer and sausage and silly woodcarvings. Talent or timidity that Bavaria grows.

Bavaria uses.

This is the baby's week" — from a TV commercial.

Where else but in New York's Fifth Avenue would you find such people!

Let's speak of these "honky" Baby Boutiques. As adorable as they are fantastic. For baby fashion, frighteningly and costly (one frock marvelously) begins in the basement and ends in the penthouse. Take it from a girl that the best things in life are wearable."

Or, skip it good for the off-spring's morale, if a baby doesn't look smart, how can she feel smart? Anyway, you know, some heart in any emotional security and so, you've a neces-sity on your hands. But as for eye symbols, chic children are good for a mother's ego, and effective her appearance effective-ly. Like a diamond clip or a wardrobe.

The question whether high fashion is a good thing or not for children is, however, hotly debated by mothers. Well, they're divided. Those well-known authority on good manners and taste declare that children should be fashion sets but standards. A $100 dress for a little girl is an abomination, she says. "It is a crime. If I had a daughter I would be publicly drowned and she wouldn't be allowed to get lost in a crowd without me knowing."

Then — she — on — you — go!" keeps bothering you as you inspect them littlest customers' shoes. Note the "antiqued" natural white talcum powder room with its mirrored walls and pedestalled fixtures just for toddlers who might wish to "powder their nose" before deciding which bikini to buy; the kind all the pre-school mothers are wearing, or one of these velvet at-home pants for the youngster in the house. In these places all the rules that govern attire worn by the first edition of the social register are strictly adhered to. Like white on white in lace embroidery. Brown or red Mary Jane shoes for walking in the park, but black patent for dress parties. French or Swiss labels for underwear. Cashmere sweaters and hand-knit blankets for those British. Or, for the more leather-lined but slightly chromed carriages. Unless a chinchilla, or Persian lamb bunting is preferably chosen. These $5,000 little girls' clothes which are held in questionable taste by mothers "with a gift for fashion" may be worn when, in spite of the frantic race against time, since a governess may outgrow it before her initials can be properly monogrammed on its lining. However, babies are allowed mink-collared coats, those under one, because they spit and chic must be bad for fur."

CUTE PINAFORES

What cute pinafores; for four-year-olds, custom-made, by fashionable dressmakers, in every-day dresses for nursery school or visits to grandmother. Note that black is smart for party dresses. There are some de-signer label dresses for $100. They're copies; the originals are $200.

And there are chemisettes some for $200, but mostly $100 ones are sold. We went through the boutiques and it's been fun but, in spite of the cuteness, little christening dresses bring forth a tragic question. Are they indeed of christening day dresses that are heeded down in fam-ilies, or are they bought for the occasion at ruthlessness. Which, on second thought, could replace. These are priceless. In such gar-ments are "new-born babies" of Ellery Queen city" presented spiritually and by name to this world. Or was christened in the line of Guernsey from whence he came to Canada.

Or was Mrs. W. S. Wills pos-sess the gown in which Mr. P. E. Trudeau, Canada's premier, French, parts in length, in which all the children of the Langlois family were christened? Or was Mrs. Mary Jane Hall and Mrs. Langlois' one soon. It is nearly 300 years old and was worn by Mrs. Hall's great-great-grandfather when he was christened in the Duke of Guernsey from whence he came to Canada.

Or was Mrs. W. S. Wills pos-sess the gown in which Mr. P. E. Trudeau, Canada's premier, French, parts in length, in which all the children of the Langlois family were christened? Or was Mrs. Mary Jane Hall and Mrs. Langlois' one soon. It is nearly 300 years old and was worn by Mrs. Hall's great-great-grandfather when he was christened in the Duke of Guernsey from whence he came to Canada.

Mrs. J. Forrester recalls her christening gown "as fine lawn with many tucks and lots of lace, made in France" but it was lost in the fire. Mrs. Hall has a cloak while crossing from Portsmouth to Guernsey during the First World War.

While Mrs. W. R. Burrows' 170 Dundas Ave., recalls there were two christening gowns in the family, one worn by her self, her mother's family in which all the girls were christened, and one by her father's family in which all her brothers (includ-ing Lieutenant-Governor) were christened. The latter unfortunately was lost when the trunk it was in was stolen.

There is a gown in Mrs. H. Stevens' home, Richard Street, Hillcrest Park, that is smart for Do you know of others?

SATURDAY

Chicken or Turkey Casserole (see Thursday); Cranberry Orange Relish; Buttered Green Parsley Butter Carrots; Avo-cado and Grapefruit Salad on lettuce; French Dressing; 24-Hour White Fruit Medley (see Friday); cut cucumber in salt to serve 10); Coffee.

RUM AND BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

1 tablespoon rum, 1 package butterscotch instant pudding, 1 gingersnaps, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons melted butter, light cream.

Crush 15 gingersnaps and mix with sugar, butter and 1 table-spoon of water. Spread over bot-tom of 9" pie plate. Cut 6 ginger-snaps in half, arrange around edge of pie plate. Prepare pud-ding according to package direc-tions using combined rum and cream instead of milk called for on package. Pour pudding into gingersnap shell. Chill for at least 2 hours.

Letter: . . . I am enclosing a recipe I like which might be use-ful — very simple and my hus-band raves over it . . . Rita W.

CHICKEN-V GOURMET

(Courtesy Rita W.) (6 servings) One-quarter cup butter or marg-arine, 1 clove garlic, minced, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon chili powder, ¼ teaspoon pepper, dash dry mustard, 6 chicken breasts or legs. Melt butter in small saucepan. Blend in garlic, salt, chili powder, pepper and mus-tard. Place chicken in shallow baking dish with tight cover. Brush generously with butter mix-ture. Bake at 350 deg. for 40 min-utes. Remove cover; turn oven to 325 deg. and continue, basting often, until tender, about 40 min-utes more. Serve with pan juices as sauce over.

Answer: I rawe over it too, Rita. Thank you.

Letter: . . . You once had a recipe for cake over the stove in a layer-cake could be attractive and good enough to serve. I saw this demonstrated many years ago by a Home Economist, that put the 3 layers together with icing. Then very generously iced the sides and top. Do you, at this stage. Frankly, I've never been able to make the cake taste as did she. Then she turned the cake carefully on its side — when iced — and proceeded to roll in crushed walnuts with her hands to cover the top and bot-tom. Chocolate shot or any of the tiny decorating candies as well. Perhaps such could be used in this same way. Then gently re-turn cake to normal position and ice and decorate top, if desired. I've used this method many, many times, and it is very satis-factory . . . Mrs. G. L. S.

Answer: Thank you for for-warding to us this clear account of a professional's method.

Mother's Helper

EVEN if the dessert you've prepared is so pretty you'd like to display it, better relax the impulse until the main course has disappeared. Just looking at something so tempting may destroy a child's appetite for the more prosaic but essential meat and vegetables.

PROPER USE OF CALLING CARDS

The other afternoon a business acquaintance of mine dropped in to pay a social call. It was not a long visit, but we had a very pleas-ant interval and I did not learn anything startling. The only thing to mind the difference between the rules to be observed when entertaining socially with those for a business visit. There is a difference, but it is so slight that it takes never to confuse one with the other.

The married woman who uses her maiden name in business has the most difficult time. Her visit-ing cards should be engraved in the name by which she is known in business, "Miss Mary Jeanne Brown" and the name of the man whom she is accompanying appear in the lower left hand corner. Her address goes in the right. For social calling, only the full married name is correct, "Mrs. John Smith Doe," and of course the residence address should be placed in the lower right hand corner. If paying a social call upon a business ac-quaintance, the married wo-man's card should be the same she uses in business, the maiden name should be hand-written in paren-thesis on the social card.

The same problem to consider is that of the married woman who combines her maiden name with her married surname in her social activities. In the past years it was considered incor-rect to use the maiden name and the husband's name on a calling card, but today, for business use, it is correct and in good taste in some sense. For instance, for business purposes, the card reads "Mrs. Mary Jane Phillips"; for social occasions, "Mrs. John Smith Phillips"; with "Mary Anne" hand-written in parenthesis, if calling in a city where she has no husband acquaintance.

Another problem is encounter-ed by the divorced woman who continues her maiden name and husband's name for her professional and personal life. Her calling card should be simi-lar to the past, today she may right-ly use the same name on her business and social cards. For example; "Mrs. Agnes Smith Brown" for both business and so-cial use.

The unmarried woman has lit-tle or no difficulty, because her business and social cards are usually identical. The only exception is, of course, that the name of the firm with which she is associated does not appear on her social calling card. The full name is also engraved there on in both instances "Miss Mary Jane Brown."

Remember, too, that it is con-sidered extremely poor taste not to use a business card for social purposes, and vice versa. Some women have very confused their use. Criticism will be your lot if you do!

The Experts Say

Mothers Advised to Keep Medicine in Locked Places

By EDNA BLAKELY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — When a woman polishes her furniture she usually doesn't care what the polish is made of, as long as it does an efficient job.

But a poison control centre at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Chil-dren keeps careful note of the composition of such polish as well as the ingredients of all household products. And this system itemizes 8,000 brands of household products, and books that number 15,000 to 20,000.

The card index hastens the work of finding more than 1,700 poisoning cases brought to the hospital since last Feb. 1. It gives the ingredients of the pro-duct, that the victim got hold of — and the proper antidotes.

The poison control centre at the hospital is the only one in Canada across Canada from Halifax to Victoria.

Most of the cases are pre-school children, says Dr. Robert Imrey, head of the centre. Adult pills swallowed by infants ac-count for perhaps one-third of the cases and drugs, cleansers and drugs are responsible for most others.

Many children, at the age when they play on the floor, will put almost anything in their mouths, says Dr. Imrey.

With spring housecleaning time here, the Canadian Association of Consumers is joining doctors in urging housewives to be cautious with household products.

It latest bulletin says: "It is difficult for an adult to believe that children will eat or drink lye, drain-cleaning, detergent, dye, disinfectants, deodorants, waxes, polishes, paints, var-nishes, inks and weed killers. Doctors in poison control centres in two large Canadian cities state that some children will eat or drink anything that is not nailed down.

The CAC advises mothers to keep medicines in locked cup-boards and other dangerous ma-terials locked in the basement, garage or workshop or on high shelves.

Handbags, which may contain medicine, should be placed out of reach of children.

Housecleaning agents in use should be kept in a basket which can be carried with the house-wife even when she answers the telephone.

Never transfer a harmful sub-stance from commercial bottles into food containers, cups, milk bottles or pop bottles.

If an accident does happen, call your own physician or a poison control centre, says Dr. Imrey.

HALLELUJAH! SING TO JESUS!

Hallelujah! sing to Jesus!
His the sceptre, His the throne;
Hallelujah! His the triumph,
His the victory alone;
Hark! the songs of peaceful Zion
Thunder like a mighty flood;
Jesus out of every nation
Hath redeemed us by His blood.

Hallelujah! not as orphans
Are we left in sorrow now;
Hallelujah! He is near us,
Faith believes, nor questions how;
Though the cloud from sight re-ceived Him
When the forty days were o'er,
Shall our best forget His promise,
"I am with you evermore!"

Hallelujah! Bread of heaven,
Thou hast fed us for evermore;
Hallelujah! Lord of heaven,
Thou hast fed us for evermore;
Stay!
Hallelujah! here the sinful
Flee to Thee from day to day;
Intercessor, Friend of sinners,
Earth's Redeemer, plead for us!

Where the songs of all the sin-less
Sweep across the crystal sea.

Hallelujah! sing to Jesus!
His the sceptre, His the throne;
Hallelujah! His the triumph,
His the victory alone.
Hark! the songs of peaceful Zion
Thunder like a mighty flood;
Jesus, out of every nation,
Hath redeemed us by His blood.

About the time the nineteenth century was getting well into its third quarter, young William, the name of William Chatterton Dix, was writing out a few brilliant poems and bright hymns for England.

The song which Mr. Dix wrote were good enough and popular enough to find places in many of the best English hymn-nals of his own day, and many of them are still in wide use in churches of England and Amer-ica.

"Hallelujah! Sing To Jesus!" is one of the most familiar in the list. It was written for communion use in the 1860's and was giv-en to the public in a collection of "Altar Songs" published by the author in 1867.

That year, "The People's Hymnal" is London carried so-certain sensational articles about the other of Mr. Dix's hymns, "Come Unto Me, Ye Weary," which was inspired by a Bible verse the words of Jesus in Matthew 11:28 "Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy-laden, and I will give you rest."

Mr. Dix was born in Bristol, England in 1837. He lived for many years in Glasgow, Scotland, where, in addition to writing, he carried on an insurance business.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

ERMON'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. L. S. — Laura gave up her child.

Laura S. — I can't hold anyone who doesn't want me.

• • •

Mrs. L. S. — I am heartbroken at a terrible mistake made by my daughter, Laura.

Her 14-year-old marriage broke up because her husband was hav-ing an affair with another woman. I begged her to sit tight and do nothing about it for a while but she insisted upon divorce. As if that wasn't bad enough, she gave up her 10-year-old daughter to the custody of the child's father and his new wife.

Nothing I or the lawyers could do would stop her. She said her daughter made the choice. But what can a 10-year-old know about such choices? Now Laura is on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

Laura S. — My daughter was unusually affected by her father leaving and he actually couldn't survive emotionally if she was married from him.

When she first learned that we were taking up the house, Joe said at once, "I want to go with Daddy". At first I told her she couldn't and it was quite a fight. She screamed again and again that she hated me and wanted to be with her daddy. How could I hold her?

I guess I'm just not the selfish type. I don't want to hold any-one who doesn't want me. I couldn't look at my husband any more the minute I learned about the other woman.

The Council: Although Laura takes pride in her unselfishness, she has shown a childish selfish-ness in handling her tragic situ-ation.

She'll agree she suffered about the most wounding blow a woman can know, but she in-dulged herself much too far in a retreat into false pride and self-pity. Although she suffered, Laura's first thought should have been to fight for her home and family. The woman who gives up readily to "the other woman" is herself to be deserted and re-jected credit.

Laura compounded her error when she let her child make the terrible choice between two parents. She was in effect say-ing: "Your father doesn't love me and I suppose you don't either, so go with him." This is just like a child whining when he doesn't get what loves him be-cause he has been hurt.

A judge would not permit a child to make a choice of this sort if the mother was in good health and shown unfit to care for the child. Laura may have shown she was in such a sad state of hysteria that she convinced the judge she couldn't and wouldn't care for the child properly. Her lawyer undoubted-ly made a grievous error in letting her present her case in this way. The average judge is not unusual.

Despite Laura's protests and threats, she is actually couldn't survive emotionally if she was married from him.

What Is There at Home?

By ALMA MASON

16th in series

A storekeeper said to three boys who persistently loitered in his store, "Don't you have an ever go home?" They parried with a question in return, "What is there at home?"

What a pathetic tragic ques-tion! It could only be asked by children who feel home is an empty place, and usually the re-sult of indifference and lack of attention and consideration. Everyone yearns to be wanted, treasured. Everyone has a need, instinctively to be an integral part of the machinery of home. All young people need love and sym-pathy, regard and sympathetic understanding that only can be fostered under the roof of a well-ordered home.

In developing tender human plant there blows this way and that by modern winds of uncertainty and inse-curity, many children are vulnerable to the frosts of heart-break dampened. Frustration and timidity becomes susceptible to the beating rains of neglect. It is there the productive fertility requires the drenching golden sun of a warm, loving, secure home life.

These are days when we par-ents must put our spiritual field and its tender young roots into the aims and principles against the bitter and false doctrines of materialism. Materialism is a spurious idol. Former steadfast faith in God and the Christian faith is coated with the tinsel of pleasure-seeking. Thus the atmosphere about outward appear-ance occupy a favored and re-spective place in the minds and habits and in our erroneous estimate of values. Over-emphasis on pleasure out-side the home or the physical needs at the expense of the spiritual nature of our children have grown up without the sustaining fruit and fine character, the formu-lation of which through the home should shape a valiant, compas-sionate heart and a courageous and serene mind.

Let us turn the spotlight on the home which has failed to grow into manhood and woman-hood.

PROBLEMS AHEAD

First let us study the waver-ing and uncertain feet of the little girl on the road to wo-manhood.

The child's parents quarrelled a good deal. The mother con-stantly lamented the fact that the father did not earn a salary adequate enough to satisfy her craving for expensive furniture and costly clothing. Her poor husband, a hard-working man, rotated around the subject of money and family housework.

The embryo mind of the daughter stored away these bitter arguments with the conviction that clothes and jewellery, new cars and furniture were things for which the home were immeasurably subordinate. Then came child liv-ing. Continually steeped in the hallucination that the material was the power of money was definite prerequisite for proper living. The mind firmly implanted in it and focused on false truths and false values.

Purchasing new clothes be-came an obsession with her. She acquired a good salary as a private secretary she was constantly in debt. Her attitude toward money was definitely wrong. Her materialistic outlook led to wreck.

Now let us explore the vigor-ous and encouraging develop-ment of a certain fortunate boy who has traversed the path to manhood.

The parents of the lad had to live frugally. He attended grade school and often in winter-time wore a hand-me-down sweater. In time, he worked at all types of jobs, including a paper boy pay for his college education.

Throughout the years under the family was subjected to during the boy's growing up he was confronted by a rich family life, one realistic in truth and hon-est in relationship and not cursed with warped notions of the pretensiveness of materialism.

His parents avidly read the Bible and the best in literature. Their family and neighbors at times discussed at the dinner table.

HUNGER INCREASES

Before long the boy develop-ed an increasing hunger for the spiritual and satisfying food of the Christian faith. He studied books, for the best in music and art. Hence arose his developed a voracious appetite for higher education.

Before he has realized his educational plans. Wide and un-usual interests in human endeav-our stretch to captivating hori-zons and found his exploring and ever-seeking eyes.

The boy never loitered in front of a store. He was always busy and happy. He loved home. The home life he knew overflowed his heart and mind with a sense of security. His predominant awareness of be-ing needed and wanted.

Parents realized that the mistress on his bed was thin and hungry. He slept enveloped in love and family togetherness. He never was hungry.

A desolate and silent street, the cheerful warmth and sweet;

A cozy life rich and complete.

I never felt the whisker cold For I was wrapped within a fold Of love and joy of home indeed, The finest cloak this earth can hold.

I count no wordly pedigree My chest of gold possessed a key Where hearth of home concealed a key And blessed my life and soul to free.

Women's Activities

TRINITY W.A. MEETS

MADOC — Trinity United W.A. held their April meeting at the home of Mrs. John Storrings on Wednesday afternoon. The pre-sident, Mrs. Ken Gordon, in charge.

The theme song and prayer were used for the opening exer-cises.

Mrs. F. Bennett was in charge of the worship service, the theme being "Visit Here With Christ". Mrs. C. Holmes read the Bible lesson, Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Clements were given by Mrs. Ben-nett. Reports were received from the various committees.

Mrs. H. McCoy was in charge of the program, which was in keeping with Easter season. Easter thoughts were given by Mrs. F. Fleming, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. McCoy. Suitable hymns were sung. Mrs. Gordon, the president who attended the rally in Belleville on April 3rd, gave a concise report on the meetings and also related the high points of the rally held in Oak-ville, which was interesting.

After the closing prayer by Mrs. Gordon, the members en-joyed a pleasant social hour, with Mrs. Storrings and assistant serving afternoon tea.

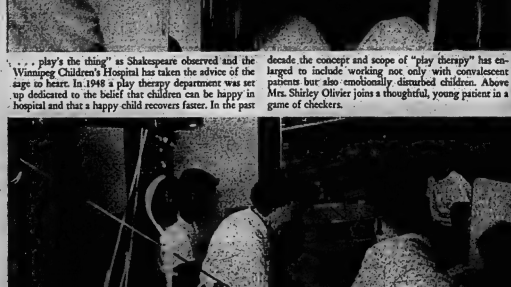
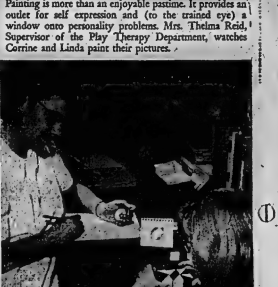
Play is a Many-Sided Thing



Last year, 8,428 boys and girls received treatment in the Play Therapy department of the Winnipeg Hospital. Well over sixty thousand children have received help from the department's congenial and well-trained staff since its opening. National Film Board of Canada Photos by Chris Lund.

Painting is more than an enjoyable pastime. It provides an outlet for self expression and (to the trained eye) a window onto personality problems. Mrs. Thelma Reid, Supervisor of the Play Therapy Department, watches Corrine and Linda paint their pictures.



. . . play's the thing" as Shakespeare observed and the Winnipeg Children's Hospital has taken the advice of the sage to heart. In 1948 a play therapy department was set up dedicated to the belief that children can be happy in hospital and that a happy child recovers faster. In the past decade the concept and scope of "play therapy" has enlarged to include working not only with convalescent patients but also emotionally disturbed children. Above Mrs. Shirley Olivier joins a thoughtful, young patient in a game of checkers.

Increasingly, medical science is coming to appreciate that the mental and emotional needs of young patients require every bit as much attention as the physical during their stay in hospital. Winnipeg's Play Therapy department does more than just speed up convalescence. The large, well-equipped playroom provides a revealing and relaxed background for studying and working with disturbed and maladjusted children.

The philosophy of play therapy has spread throughout the hospital. Student nurses must spend 3 weeks in the department; children's bed charts, in addition to temperature graphs, now contain notation as to the child's play level, attention span and toy needs.

Blocks are not just for building. Mrs. H. Friend, Resident Psychologist, times a six-year old in a test of visuo-motor coordination. The ability to recreate designs and see spatial relationships is an important clue in assessing the child's performance abilities.

TO STUDY IN RUSSIA — Andrea Kelanji, 14-year-old Vancouver pianist, leaves in August for Kiev, in the Soviet Ukraina, where she will begin five years of study under a scholarship given to her by the Soviet Union. She is seen phoning home with the news of a recent victory in music competition at Vancouver. (CP Photo).

Vancouver Girl Pianist Awarded Scholarship by Kiev Conservatory

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Andrea Kelanji had her hair in pin-curls and a hairbrief on her head the day the biggest moment in her life.

It was her performance at the piano, before a hastily-summoned meeting of professors at the Vancouver Conservatory of music in the Soviet Ukraine.

Instead of taking up to nine months to make their decision, as they usually do, the professors offered Andrea a five - year scholarship on the spot. She accepted immediately, and she will leave her home and family here in August for training in the Soviet Union that may launch her career as a concert pianist.

Andrea's family will provide only the air fare to Kiev and back. The Soviet government will pay all her expenses, estimated at $25,000, while she is studying at the conservatory, acknowledged as one of the finest in Europe.

SHOWS PROMISE

Andrea is shy, pretty and 14 years old with an almost adult mind and gifted hands. She has a few competitors for the title of the most promising young pianist in Canada today.

Her teacher for the last five years, concert pianist Marshall Sumner of Vancouver, says she's completely at home playing before the public, has a tremendous flair . . . and quite extraordinary technique.

How does a 14 - year - old girl find herself in Andrea's position? Her mother, Ellen Kelanji, explained in an interview.

She said she and Andrea were in Vienna last summer at an international music festival when Russian observers heard Andrea and invited them both to Kiev. There the special meeting was called.

AMAZED AT PRACTICE

"They gave her about an hour to warm up — and they were amazed even at the way she practised. She came back to the hotel later, with her hair up in curlers because she was going to give a concert that night, and an old lady met her in the hall.

"She told me, 'Mother, they hugged me and kissed me and asked me to study here'."

Mrs. Kelanji has had some doubts about the wisdom of sending her daughter so far for further studies but feels "nothing much more can be done here."

She recalled that when it was learned Andrea would try for some further scholarships at the British Columbia music festival — a competition she had long dominated—some of the music teachers threatened to withdraw their pupils.

Oldest of four Kelanji children, Andrea could hum a tune before she could talk. By the time she was five she had been in a recital and passed her first piano test. She won her first prize at the B.C. festival at six and her first scholarship then has been a succession of scholarships and prizes.

She practises five hours a day on the $2,500 studio grand her parents scrimped to buy. Her brother Michael, 11, also plays piano, every - year - old Diana takes violin lessons, and Cynthia, 8, likes singing. Their father, Emil, 38 - year-old shipyard machinist, acquired a love of music from his mother, plays and plays the guitar and tambourine.

Despite her concentration on music, Andrea still gets top marks in most ninth - grade subjects, participates in school activities such as operettas and sports, and studies Russian besides taking extra courses in mathematics.

Before she leaves for Kiev, she will give concerts and recitals in Vancouver, Nanaimo and Powell River, B.C., Edmonton and Calgary.

U.S. Navy Sights Soviet Trawler Near Test Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Navy sighted a Russian trawler Tuesday 60 miles off Long Island, within a mile of the spot where the new Polaris submarine George Washington was testing its missile-launching apparatus, Navy officials said Friday. The same Russian ship, the Vega, was spotted the next day off Norfolk, Va., home base of most of the U.S. Atlantic fleet.

In both cases the trawler was in international waters. The navy continued its tests with the George Washington, which included shooting dummy Polaris missiles from the sub to the surface.

Presumably the Vega was equipped with sonar, the underwater listening equipment fishermen now use to hunt schools of fish. It is just as effective in detecting the movements of submarines. The navy knows the Russian ship had this capability because it took photographs of it that showed the characteristic antennae.

The navy said the Vega was in areas rarely used by foreign commercial fishermen. The last one off Long Island often is used for manoeuvres by submarines based at New London, Conn.

World Chess Battle Is War Of Psychology

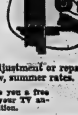
MOSCOW (CP) — It was the general consensus around the Central Chess Club today that Mikhail Botvinnik has all but lost his world chess championship.

Botvinnik, 48, first met Mikhail Tal, 23, in a rematch for the world 24-game series in defence of his title. He lost the first game—and resigned after a long struggle—but declining.

Tal is well out in front after 18 games, having won five, lost two and drawn 11. He has to win only one more game to clinch the match.

However, in the 1954 championship match, Boris Spassky was leading Botvinnik 9-7 in points but Botvinnik overcame his two point deficit in the last game to retain the title. He dropped it in 1957 to Vassily Smyslov and regained it the following year.

UNORTHODOX MOVE



In the 18th game Tal gave another example of his smashing surprise-attack strategy that in other years has swept him towards the top of the chess world. With the white pieces, Tal forced a trade, a knight for two pawns—an unequal exchange in any man's game.

But it put him in position to capture a third pawn later, leaving Botvinnik with a queen and two pawns to defend against the queen and single pawn.

Tal engineered the resulting play so that on the 76th move, when he proposed a draw, Botvinnik agreed. He resigned in both places, wearily accepted.

Tal has been using psychological warfare. After winning the first game he began fighting for draws, trying to maintain equality on the board with unexpected moves that upset Botvinnik's strategy.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Complete Move After Retirement Can Prove an Expensive Problem

By THOMAS COLLINS

A major problem you will face if you plan to move after retirement is to figure out just what it will cost to pack up and go.

Here is the experience of one couple which may help you. It is not an average case, of course, because everybody's circumstances are different. But it seems to me to be a fairly typical financial accounting and at least it should serve you as a guide.

The couple involved, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Smart, retired from the city and moved to a small town in Missouri.

"We owned our home clear," Mr. Smart said, "and when I inquired from a real-estate agent I came to believe I could get $18,000 for the house. I think agents are inclined to put such estimates on the high side.

"We never got a $18,000 offer. We did finally get a $12,000 offer, a suggestion of a compromise by the real estate agent, and a final sales price of $14,500.

"The real estate commission on the sale and various other expenses connected with it were roughly $1,000. Mrs. Smart and I had bought this house many years ago for $8,500, and since there were few permanent improvements we could charge against the $6,000 profit, I wound up with a tax liability of around $1,300.

A MAJOR MISTAKE

"I made a major mistake here. I sold the house in the same year I retired and thus had to pay income tax on my salary as well as capital gain tax on the house profit. Had I waited to sell the house in a year in which I had no salary income, I would have fared better."

"We had bought good substantial furnishings for our home over the previous three years in anticipation of retirement. At the time we didn't know we would be moving when I reached 65. But now we had the fine refrigerator, stove and furniture and were not willing to sell them second hand.

"We got estimates from the moving van companies and made a deal to move all possessions for our new home on an estimated bid of $900. It is dangerous to get moving bids of this type from untrellable companies. They may tell you a job will cost $900, and you couldn't possibly figure it out for yourself. Then when the actual mileage and weight are figured you find yourself owing $1,000. Our $900 bid was only $31 short of the actual bill."

The Smarts, according to these figures, got out of their house and to the new home town for about $2,100. They moved into the upstairs apartment of a private home and for such things as new curtain rods, lamps, book shelves, etc., they spent around $200 more.

The commission they paid on their house is about normal for most cities. The tax on the house profit is normal. The moving cost depends entirely on the weight of the furnishings and the distance to be moved. The rate of reputable companies is fairly uniform. The curtain rods and bookshelves would usually run around $200.

GOOD SOCIAL LEVEL

One of the most interesting things about the Smarts is that they have been living for several months now in their Missouri town for about $175 a month and say they are on a social level with about the best people in the community.

The town is the girlhood home of Mrs. Smart. Through the years she and her husband had made visits frequently enough to maintain old family contacts. They found in moving back that the nice home of an old friend on Cherry Street was as good as anybody else's address, and that an upstairs apartment in a small town had no stigma to it.

The rent they pay is $60 a month and their food bill is never over $30 a month. Beyond these two items and possibly $10 a month incidentals they have virtually no expenses. They disposed of their car, can walk wherever they want to go and are happy with social life of television and evening visits. Their clothing was good enough when they retired to last for six or seven years.

A Little Care Keeps Valves Working Well

By EUGENE S. MILMOE

No part of your car engine works harder than the valves, nor under more difficult conditions. They function with incredible precision while defying intense heat, explosive pressures, sludge, carbon, varnish and dirt. Yet, they will operate efficiently for many thousands of miles without any great degree of maintenance attention. Engine oil of good quality, frequent oil and filter changes are the principal prescriptions. Running a solvent through the engine occasionally further helps to keep them gum free.

Five ailments may make themselves known via noise or a decrease in performance. Sticky, burnt or worn valves, weak springs or late timing are the more common troubles. At the 25,000 mile mark — sometimes sooner — a carbon removal and valve grinding job represents a good investment.

H. Z. writes: "When I try to start my engine, the starter will turn once or perhaps several times before anything happens. Can this be anything serious?"

(A) The starter drive shaft is probably sticking. Dirt or gum will cause this.

From R. G.: "Over the weekend, I drove about 300 miles and on one occasion my brakes faded when I tried to slow up for an exit ramp. Does this prove new linings are needed?"

(A) Perhaps, but fade is commonly caused by too much clearance between brake drum and lining. This prevents the lining from making proper contact with the drum when heat has caused the latter to expand.

J. C. asks: "A slinging noise can be heard from the engine area of my '55 sedan, but only if I'm making a hard or full turn. The noise stops when I ease up on the steering wheel. The car has power steering, which may be the trouble source."

(A) Agreed. When extreme turns cause the power pump to become hot, the pressure relief valve sings out a warning.

E. McG. writes: "A slight thump comes from the left rear of my car when it is moving. As speed is increased, the noise becomes more rapid."

(A) This could be due to an out-of-round tire or a high spot on the tread. Another possibility is a loose spare or jack in the trunk.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Mrs. Harold Ackerman and family and Mrs. Roy Reed and daughters spent Wednesday with Mrs. Blaine Foster and family. Mrs. Foster, Darlene and Carol returned to Belleville with them for a couple of days visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Foster were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Parliament and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Foster and family spent Saturday at Kingston with her father, William McWilliam. They were also at Kingston on Tuesday of this week.

Mrs. Noah Wood has returned to her home here after eight months spent with her daughter, Mrs. M. Brant, Mr. Brant and family due to illness. She underwent surgery in the county hospital. All wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Foster opened their home on Tuesday evening to the officers and teachers of Bloomfield United Church Sunday School for the quarterly business meeting. After the meeting, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

EMOTIONAL TEARS

Of all the creatures on earth, only human beings shed tears in moments of grief or joy.

Deseronto

VISITS PAPER MILL

DESERONTO — A group of about 20 children from Grade 4 Deseronto Public School, on Wednesday of last week, toured the plant of the Strathcona Paper Company at Strathcona. This tour was unique in the fact that all organization and arrangements were made by the pupils themselves. Douglas Clasis of Grade 4 was the originator, and supervisor of the event and it was through him and another pupil from the same grade that the Paper company agreed to allow the tour. The transportation was provided by Mrs. Ray MacDonald and Mrs. Jack Tierriem. All the children were considerably impressed by the working factory and the experience is one that will leave a lasting impression to all concerned.

Attending the 1960 convention of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations at Toronto last week were: Mrs. D. C. McVicker and Mrs. H. Sweetnam, from Deseronto. Mrs. Sweetnam was only able to attend for the first day of the convention but Mrs. McVicker was on hand for the full week from both Wednesday and Thursday.

The convention was held at the Royal York hotel, Toronto and was officially opened by Hon. J. Keiller Mackay, Lieut.-Governor of Ontario. At the banquet held on Thursday night, the principal speaker was the Hon. John P. Roberts, Minister of Education.

Mrs. McVicker, who is president of the local Association, also attended the meeting of the Association presidents. She reports that many new and constructive ideas were gained from attending and some of the suggestions will be of assistance to the local group.

DART TOURNAMENT

Two teams from the local branch of the Canadian Legion competed in the dart tournament for Zone F-3 in Belleville on Saturday. In the competitions the team composed of H. DeRushie, W. J. Barker, Al Reid and J. Berry finished in second place. The other team composed of Al. Fraser, James Howard, Earl finished in third place. The winning teams now advance to the district competitions.

FERRY BEGINS RUNS

The Deseronto ferry connecting this county with Prince Edward county began operation on Monday of this week. While there has been considerable damage done to docks and wharfs along the bay the ferry is still able to operate. Part of the wharf used by the ferry was washed down the bay and landed on the shore of the island. It is reported that the level of the water in the Bay is considerably higher this year than last.

CHEVROLET

YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS... UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!!!!

IF

you're considering an economy car, you couldn't do better than Corvair! Count up its big, big advances: Remarkable rear-engine traction . . . the supple sliding qualities of 4-wheel independent suspension . . . the extra storage space of a fold-down rear seat . . . the economy of an air-cooled engine (no water, no antifreeze, no radiator repairs ever!).

Corvair 700 4-Door Sedan

THERE'S NO BETTER CAR FOR TENDING YOUR DOLLARS THAN CHEVROLET. FOR RESOUNDING PROOF, LOOK AT THESE FINE FEATURES. YOU JUST DON'T GET THEM ALL ON ANY CAR NEAR CHEVY'S SIZE AND PRICE—EVEN ON SOME CARS THAT COST A WHOLE LOT MORE!

A General Motors Value — Bel Air 4-Door Sedan

1 FULL COIL CUSHIONING

Chevy puts a deep coil spring at each rear wheel, too. Unlike old-style leaf springs, they don't have to anchor the rear axle or transmit the focus of braking and acceleration. Chevy's coils have nothing to do but tame the bumps—and what a gentle job they do!

2 WIDEST CHOICE OF POWER TEAMS

Eight spunky engines with five power ratings—in 24 combos in all. No other car anywhere gives you such a wide choice!

3 Body by Fisher

Those crank-operated vent windows, for example, will give you an idea of all the extra consideration your comfort gets in Body by Fisher.

4 HYDRAULIC VALVE LIFTERS

Oil-hushed hydraulic valve lifters in all popular Chevy engines (including the six) never need adjustment. What's more, they lengthen valve life—and keep mighty quiet about it!

5 MORE "EXTRAS"... at no extra cost!

Your dealer can show you a whole raft of 'em — single-key locking and starting . . . antiglare hoods for each instrument . . . and enclosed steering column . . . a two-piece drive shaft (an ingenious way to a smooth, quiet flow of power) . . . Safety Glass all around . . . precision-balanced wheels and tires. And a whole lot more besides.

6 SAFETY-GIRDER FRAME

Chevrolet's frame is X-built, not just X-braced. This extra attention pays off in greater torsional rigidity, and it's one reason for Chevy's silence.

7 SHOCK CUSHIONED STEERING

Chevrolet keeps road shocks away from the steering wheel with a cushioned steering column. Another Chevrolet feature you'll appreciate.

8 HIGHER ENTRANCE HEIGHT

Chevy makes its comfort easy to enter with up to 3.1 inches of extra entrance height.

Doctrine of Apartheid Not Designed to Be Oppressive But Malan Made It Work

The doctrine of keeping the races apart has been South Africa's policy for three centuries but now — stung by a boom humiliated most by the apartheid policy of the last 11 years, that is the third of four stories by Lynn Heidezeldig headgrowning the situation.

By LYNN HEIDZEZELDING

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Dr. Daniel Francois Malan, a towering 74 - year - old preacher-politician, made apartheid an international word.

The zombie minister of the Dutch Reformed Church got his chance in 1948 when his Afrikaner Nationalists swept Gen. Jan Christian Smuts' moderate government out of power.

The doctrine of apartheid as drawn up by Afrikaner intellectuals was not designed to be deliberately oppressive. Their solution to a centuries-old fear of the future of white survival at the southern tip of the African continent was to let each race develop along its own lines in its own particular way.

In Malan's hands, however, apartheid became an instrument for humiliating the non - whites races.

No measure for curbing the aspirations of the blacks seemed too trifling.

One of the early measures was to cut the grants for feeding African schools. Later on the ground the Negroes should be encouraged to become self-supporting.

All the accumulated hates of three centuries was turned against the Africans, Indians and coloreds. And this in face of the circumstance that the growth of South African economy and the very foundations of the nation's existence—gold mines and farms —were built on cheap black labor.

When enthusiasts demanded that all Africans be returned to reserves, on the main artificial economic affairs, Eric Louw, sharply warned that the whole economy would collapse if this were done.

The Malan government, ignoring the gathering storm, stopped training African artisans. It scrapped Smuts' plan for using more educated (mulatto) in government departments and opened these low paid jobs to "poor whites."

The coloreds and a few "civilized Africans" were removed from the common voters roll in the Cape and the only place in the Union where they could vote, ter.

Malan promised in an election campaign to shield the white Afrikaners from "Jewish racialism."

Nationalist organizations devoted to white supremacy and Afrikaner secrecy, such as the Broederbond Geswarkrandwag and Oswald Pirow's Nazi-like New Order party, added shrill voices to the clamor.

Gen. James Barry Hertzog, a moderate Afrikaner, had joined Smuts' coalition government in 1933 and served as prime minister up to 1939 when he differed with Smuts on South Africa's entry into the war. His death in 1942 removed a stumbling block once in Afrikaner politics.

Smuts, who led the country successfully through war came home to a political defeat and saw his dream of a dream of close Afrikaner-English co-operation fading under Malan's brusque hand.

Although he fought bitterly against the British in the Boer War, Smuts considered Britain the Union's good friend. He died in 1950.

Malan did not invest segregation in South Africa. It had been practised for three centuries.

The cornerstone of segregation legislation, the Native Land Act was passed in 1913, three years after the Union was formed. Negro ownership and tenancy land reserves comprising about an eighth of the country's area, about half the Negro population was forced to live as migrant workers in white farms or in cities. They were cut off from land ownership in the remainder of the country in which still prevails. The Negro population is 9,000,000 and earns $42 a month. For 400,000 mine workers on Witwatersrand the wage is $18 a month plus food and quarters.

Malan provided supporting legislation for the land act.

The Immorality Amendment Act tightened the law against relations between whites and Africans. The Population Registration Act provided that every person must declare a race and specifying race. The Group Areas Act provided for division of country into areas for the various racial groups.

Malan retired in 1954, Johannes Strijdom, a stern believer in white supremacy and the final success of apartheid, became prime minister.

Strijdom's minister of native affairs was the most uncompromising of the Afrikaner leaders and he all—Dr. Hendrik Frensch Verwoerd, the current prime minis-

Shadow of Violence in Africa Will Dominate Conference

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The long shadow of violence in South Africa inescapably dominates next week's meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers.

When the question arose before previous conferences why it was necessary for the prime ministers to meet at all, the answer usually became in the form of an attempt to analyze the flexible and flexible structure of the Commonwealth and its unifying role among its far-flung citizens.

Recent conferences have been ushered in by comment by showing impressively that the organization had benefited from the many adjustments within its ranks over such thorny issues as Suez and the border dispute between India and Pakistan.

MAZY SITUATION

But as the prime ministers and their deputies gather in London for their ninth meeting since the Second World War, many Commonwealth citizens are asking whether the power can or should be exercised again.

Under the Commonwealth's unwritten articles of association, direct action to expel a member is constitutionally impossible, although there is little doubt that it would be a relieved indirectly.

Yet none of the members, however, would like to see the issue of apartheid and its consequences, has given any indication of wishing to put it on the offender run at the club. Nor has South Africa expressed any desire to withdraw.

A great deal, then, will depend on the personal diplomatic presence in the informal talks which South Africa's critics attempt to arrange in the course of the next degree of patience with which her colleagues are prepared to be lectured.

NEEDS FRIENDS

Both sides have every reason to wish to see South Africa's Commonwealth status maintained. In a growing isolation, South Africa needs all the friends she can hold. And the easy atmosphere of the present talks offers perhaps the best remaining chance for the expression of the black South African to plead his case.

But if the prime ministers can succeed in avoiding an open break it will be an uneasy truce at best for as long as events in South Africa continue to take their present course.

With increasing insistence, the question that will be asked is how grave an issue and how deep a gulf of principle can be allowed to divide one nation from another and still generate the association on terms of friendship.

SUGGEST UNION

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A firm of city planning consultants Friday night recommended establishment of a city of 350,000 taking in all of Niagara Falls, Stamford, Chippewa and Willoughby, and portions of Thorold and Niagara townships. Population totals 275,000. In a report to Niagara Falls, Stamford and Chippewa councils the consultants, Deacon, Arneti and Murray of Agincourt, said such a union would provide adequate room for development for the next five to 10 years.

Interest Rates Up to 81 PC Paid For Mortgages

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Officials of Peterborough Real Estate, finance and trust companies said Friday interest rates of up to 81 per cent for three-year second mortgages are common in the area.

Householders who want to raise $2,000 on a second mortgage, they said, may be asked to pay a bonus of $1,000 just to secure the loan, and then have to pay seven to 10 percent interest on the $3,000. Thus the mortgage is made out for $3,000 although the borrower will only get $2,000.

E. McKay of Victoria Grey Trust Company said some lenders demand and receive 24 to 27 per cent a year on second mortgages, making a total of 72 to 81 per cent interest over a three-year period.

In some cases, he said, the borrower is told the discount, interest rate, legal fees and lending costs he will have to pay. In the case the buyer goes by with his eyes open, and by accepting the conditions indicates he considers them reasonable.

He said some borrowers are confused after signing of the mortgage agreement with exhorbitant "legal fees" or "finders charges" made by an agent for the lender. The loan is high for five per cent of the principal.

Sometimes the borrower finds only $50 in the loan package advertised at seven per cent carry an extra $100 in commission, he said.

However, Gordon Hancock, a local real estate broker, said mortgage companies are restrictions on second mortgage rates. Pointing to the risks involved, he said the lenders suggested severe restrictions might be placed on the $18 a million money available for those willing to pay the higher rates.

ARRIVALS FOR COMMONWEALTH CONFERENCE — Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and his wife are shown arriving at London airport yesterday. He is in the British capital to attend the British Commonwealth prime ministers' conference which starts Tuesday.

Stronger Fire - Safety Rules Are Requested

BRANTFORD (CP) — The Western Ontario region fire inspectors' association has requested the Ontario welfare department for stronger fire safety rules in nursing institutions.

Such legislation would be applied to a new type of rooming boarding houses for the elderly and sick and children's convalescent homes, day nurseries and reception centres.

The conference also heard that a draft of a new national fire code is being prepared.

The 10,000-member SIU, which controls Great Lakes shipping, and the 40,000-member Teamsters brotherhood, with jurisdiction over highway truckers, were expected to sign a pact of cooperation Friday by forming a united front against assaults on their membership.

Hoffa, head of the CLC, a union is subject to raids by congress unions without permission from the parent body.

If unions decide to raid either the SIU or the Teamsters—the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers is contemplating such an attack—the labor movement may suffer a civil war.

Claude Jodoin was returned Friday for another two years as CLC president. A $2,000 pay raise brings his salary to $16,000 a year.

His re-election was unanimous and unopposed. He has headed the CLC since its formation in 1956.

His top aides were also re-elected: Donald MacDonald as secretary - treasurer, Stanley Knowles and William Dodge as executive vice-presidents.

Four general vice-presidents, also returned for two years, are: William Mahoney of the Steelworkers, William Jeromes, Bricklayers; George Burt, Autoworkers; and Frank Hall, Railway Clerks.

Unemployment, South Africa, picket lines, inflation and social security were among other problems delved into at the convention.

The congress delegates agreed to go after bigger pay packets—on the theory that higher wages raise people's buying power, expand markets, boost production and provide full employment.

They also called for: Shorter working hours with the same take-home pay to spread employment; a welfare state social security program to aid medical protection and assistance during illness.

They agreed to boycott South African goods in Canada in protest against racial policies and backed a new public relations campaign to tell labor's side of the story against so-called big business.

To pay for the cost of fighting for their demands, the delegates approved higher dues to increase the CLC's finances and provide an additional $400,000 a year for the congress;

SARNIA (CP)—Recently completed studies by the federal department of health and welfare show Salk vaccine produced in Canada is 97.5 per cent effective in preventing paralytic polio, Dr. Jean Farrell of Connaught Medical Research Laboratories in Toronto, said Friday. He told the health section of the Chemical Institute of Canada that quality was the only explanation for the 997 cases of polio recorded last year in Canada.

Labor Congress Convention Concludes After Busy Week

MONTREAL (CP)—The weekly Canadian Labor Congress convention ended Friday night with the labor movement heading for party politics and some degree of internal disruption.

More than 1,000 delegates gave almost unanimous sanction to labor's entry into the political battleground.

The new party, dedicated to social reform in both federal and provincial politics, has the support of the CCF, farmers and other "liberally-minded people."

A founding convention—probably in mid-1960, in Ottawa—was agreed upon for the birth of the new party.

Another major decision at the convention was the expulsion of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union from the 1,500,000-member Congress—central body of Canadian labor.

The congress also told the Teamsters Union to stop raiding another CLC affiliate or face the same fate Sept. 28.

The 10,400-member SIU, which controls Great Lakes shipping, and the 40,000-member Teamsters brotherhood, with jurisdiction over highway truckers, were expected to sign a pact of cooperation Friday by forming a united front against assaults on their membership.

SOVIET TRAWLER OFF NEW YORK — The U.S. Navy in releasing this picture in Washington, April 29, identified the ship shown as the Soviet trawler Vega operating about 60 miles off Long Island, April 26. The Navy said the ship was within a mile of where the new U.S. Navy Polaris submarine George Washington was testing its missile launching equipment. The picture was made from a Navy aircraft.

No More Free Canned Pork for Saskatchewan

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Harkness said Friday that Saskatchewan would receive no more free canned pork from surplus federal stocks for distribution to approved charitable and welfare organizations.

His statement followed reports that some pork made available to Saskatchewan has been distributed to the general public. The area in which this is reported to have occurred is the municipality of St. Phillips.

Mr. Harkness said Saskatchewan has had all the free canned pork it can make use of for the purposes for which the pork was donated.

An agricultural stabilization board official at the provincial level is being pressed to take up free pork for distribution to the welfare and welfare organizations.

He was commenting on a Winnipeg report quoting an unidentified Manitoba welfare department official as saying that the federal government is urging Manitoba to take its share. Agriculture Minister Harkness extended an invitation by letter some months ago to provinces.

Agencies claiming free pork for various welfare distribution include the Red Cross, Canadian Council of Churches, Mennonites and Lutheran, the official said here today.

Twenty-seven thousand cans of surplus government pork are being distributed to 7,200 relief recipients in Cornwall. This is in addition to 7,200 cans received earlier.

Liberal Leader Asks Resignation Of Dr. Phillips

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader Wintermeyer has called for the resignation of Provincial Secretary Phillips, whose lawyer pleaded guilty for him Thursday to a charge of having the scene of an accident.

In view of the fact he did not appear in the trial as an ordinary citizen is required to do, Wintermeyer said, he no longer expect to hold the confidence of the people of Ontario, Dr. Phillips is said following a Liberal party caucus at Queen's Park.

Dr. Phillips pleaded guilty in Toronto this week to driving and assessed nine demerit points. Twelve points means an automatic licence suspension.

"We trust highway public safety primarily," said Mr. Wintermeyer, "but at the outset Dr. Phillips took the position he wasn't involved.

Dr. Phillips was involved in an accident Feb. 26 that severely struck the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Dorothy Lawrence of Toronto, stopped at a signal light. The woman was knocked unconscious and her car badly damaged.

A transport department official said Dr. Phillips, now in France, will receive a lecture from a department interviewing officer when he returns.

Penalty for failing to attend the interview — incurred when a driver piles up nine demerit points — is loss of driving licence.

Debonair Dandy From Toronto Gets Long Term

NEW YORK (AP)—Life was just a bowl of cookies for Charles Gregory Cannon, debonair dandy from Toronto. Bad cheques and counterfeit credit cards were a magic wand that brought him the luxuries he savored—fine clothes, gourmet food, sleek limousines, gracious hotel living.

But alas, they handed him the full Friday—15 years in prison.

Cannon's displeasure was manifest. Adjusting his pinkees, he chided Judge Charles Metzner in aggrieved tones.

"These activities were basically to support myself while trying to obtain employment suitable for me, I am not a laborer."

Cannon's quest for suitable employment has been sporadic, interrupted by brushes with police that have consumed about nine of the last 13 years. Between terms, his was a full and satisfying life.

Last December he broke out of jail in Miami, where the police had detained him as a guest for a year for using a fake credit card.

Off again in pursuit of a suitable station in life, the 35-year-old Cannon equipped himself with such professional devices as a printing press, cheque-writing machine, engraving tools and other sundry aids.

He headed from Florida to Canada, What his credit cards couldn't provide, his phony cheques of a Toronto firm, latex, ran to the $10,000 - a - month level.

Not a man to hoard his pride of achievement, Cannon once phoned a credit card company and offered them a saddest wager — payable, presumably by cheque. He would fake one of their cards and use it for purchases totalling $1,000 in three months.

The credit representative declined.

But all good things come to an end. Cannon's came that March 17 in a $45-a-day suite at the Barbizon-Plaza on Central Park 59th of Manhattan. The FBI dropped in. Fleeing a speck of lint from the lapel of his immaculate blue jacket, Cannon went along quietly as a gentleman should.

The judge pocketed gentle duly to forgery of $35,000.

It was that or be returned to Florida, which is hardly the season for Florida.

Muscle Trouble Coming Back To Tony Jones

LONDON (Reuters)—Antony Armstrong-Jones is undergoing special medical treatment for muscle trouble stemming from a bout of polio as a young child.

Verwoerd Loses Sense of Balance, Cannot Walk

PRETORIA (Reuters)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, wounded in an attempt on his life on April 9, has lost his sense of balance and cannot walk.

This was disclosed today by Lands Minister Paul Sauer, who visited the recovering Prime Minister in Groote Schuur Hospital earlier this week.

He was asked if there was any truth in reports that his wound had lost his sense of balance and could not walk. He said:

"That is correct," he replied. "The bullet that entered his ear did affect his balance apparatus, but doctors assure me that with a week or two and with a bit of practice this will be resolutized."

Meanwhile, Verwoerd has recovered sufficiently to receive more of his cabinet ministers for consultation, and during the weekend will receive three ministers.

500-Mile Check Never Made Says Expert Witness

TORONTO (CP) — A Collision Appraisal Services expert testified Thursday in a $161,000 action against Pinch Motors and seven other parties that he was told the firm never carried out the 500-mile check-up listed in the Vauxhall manual.

The evidence of Dr. Reginald Seeley, former provost of Trinity College, and the administrator of her husband's estate, Philip MacKenzie, are suing Pinch Buick, Vauxhall Motors and service salesman and service manager, Roy Cosgrove.

Dr. Seeley died July, 1957, when a Vauxhall he purchased from Pinch Buick crashed near Brighton, Ont.

Roy Bond of Collision Appraisal Services said Mr. Cosgrove told him the 500-mile check meant nothing.

Mrs. Seeley testified Tuesday the car had been given the 500-mile check-up at Pinch Buick a day before the crash.

Mr. Bond said he was told customers were demanding the 500-mile checking and to avoid embarrassment a dud agreement the first customer took the car in broke down a 500-mile check and parted the axle. He said the firm only gave a 2,500-mile check.

Herbert Dean, assistant chief engineer from the Vauxhall Motor Works in Luton, England, said the brake linings on the Seeley Vauxhall were in good working condition.

John Karas, a New Hampshire specialist at reconstructing accidents, testified Wednesday that defective brakes on the car caused the crash.

How to Plant and Care for Roses

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

It has been said that roses do not eat their food they drink it. That is true and to have healthy roses 'we must incorporate a moisture holding substance at the time of planting.

Cover the top of the rose bed with four to five inches of peat moss, sawdust, ground corn cobs or other humus. Sprinkle over this three pounds of chemical plant food with 100 square feet of surface. A little more if you use sawdust.

Dig this in and level off the bed before digging holes for the plants. Dig each hole deep enough to allow the graft to be one and a half to two inches below the soil level. Place the roots on a mound and spread the roots out as they were originally, with no crowding.

Fill the hole half way up with soil and firm it in well. Allow the hose to run slowly into the hole until the soil is well soaked. Fill to the top and a little mound above the soil. Eight inches is not too much. This will furnish the stems with a moist protective shield, while they are recovering from their transplanting. Cut the plants back to eight or ten inches, just above the soil mound. Remove any weak wood, or damaged stems.

Leave the soil around the plants for two to three weeks and gradually remove it as the new shoots grow.

A three to four inch mulch of cornocks, or two to four inches of peat should be added to keep the roots cool and moist. Depend on extra plant food if you use corn cobs' ground. The bacteria that break down the cobs will draws on the nutrient of the soil to some extent.

Gradually remove the mounds of soil around your present roses. Trim back to healthy wood and remove all weak and twiggy branches. Burn all cuttings to prevent black spot. Spray the roses with captan, or other good rose spray and after working up the soil around the plants spray the surface heavily. Scores of black spot winter over on the old leaves. Gather up any dead leaves, weeds or other rubbish or material. It may be host to spores of black spot.

Work in a good dressing of plant food and add a mulch to insure cool roots.

If your plants are getting too much sun this would be a good time to move them. Cut off one or ten inches, just above the soil mound. Remove any weak wood, or damaged stems.

When buying new plants study the different types well. Many of the new hybrids are extremely disease resistant as well as having a much longer blooming season than older types.

Have a regular program for spraying for insects and disease. supply sufficient food and water and grow the best roses ever this year.

Belleville Is Ready for Local Airstrip

By DON HARVEY
(Part 1)

It has been suggested that Belleville is not ready for a local airstrip. Too costly to build and not enough people would use it to make it a worthwhile venture.

We're afraid this has been the attitude around here too long. Our investigations have shown that never has any serious thought been given to establishing a small airfield here. As you know, the Chamber of Commerce currently is surveying local industries to see if they would support a field, presumably the ready-made airport at Mountain View.

The man who said Belleville is not ready for an airstrip later admitted he knew very little about airports except that undercarriages land and take off from them. His was a natural and understandable ignorance which, we think, reflected a fair knowledge of the average person. It is certainly no disgrace to admit one knows very little about airports.

To say Belleville is not ready for an airstrip, big or small, implies that the air age has yet to come and that the city does not think progressively. Actually, it is on our threshhold. It is speeding like an express train through the United States and the repercussions are being felt across Canada. For example, in 1952 only 966 privately-owned aircraft were registered in Canada. At the end of September, 1958, only six years later the figure had risen to 2,746. That was almost two years ago. Unfortunately, we do not have last year's figures but we have no doubt they increased even more.

Here are a few figures that are even more startling: At the first of 1956 there were 9,453 private pilots in Canada. This was an increase of 1,821 since 1957.

Also at the beginning of last year there were 1,811 private, commercial and senior commercial pilots in Canada, an increase of 1,569 over 1958.

In addition, there were 1,093 airline transport pilots, 1,997 aircraft maintenance engineers, 632 air traffic controllers, 328 glider pilots, 110 air navigators and 65 flight engineers registered with the Department of Transport.

GETTING BACK

But to return to our friend's belief that airports are costly to build...

His was a broad statement. Airports can be very costly to build or the expense can be negligible. It depends on what you want. In this case, where Belleville wants only to develop the embryo of a licensed airport, the chief expense would be in acquiring land. There, could even be reduced depending on the amount of land desired. We could go by at the outset with an east-west strip of nearly 2,500 feet long by 500 feet wide, providing no obstructions are nearby. The city might even have unused land of that size up near the railway station. Then the expense of purchasing land would be circumvented and, for a few hundred dollars the field could be put into shape for use entirely by light aircraft.

But we must also think of possible future expansion. Never should land be acquired where it is impossible to expand. Perhaps the city could take options on adjacent property to be developed at a later date.

We should forget about leasing Mountain View or Deseronto airports. They are not worth it. At Deseronto the hangars will probably collapse before the Indians, who own them, lease them down. We don't have a ghost of a chance of getting Mountain View Airport. Besides, both fields are much too far away. We would defeat the purpose of locating a flying field close to the city; reducing the time it takes to get there.

Dick Burrows at Duffy's service station on Front Street is prepared to lease part of almost 300 acres he owns near Marysville. But it is 12 miles out. The land — sandwiched between highways 401 and 2 and accessible only from No. 2—is so flat as a billiard table with from six to 12 inches of grass covered clay over monolithic rock. The stunted trees on it can be pushed over easily by a heavy power. In fact, he has already scraped what could be a 2,000-foot east-west runway if it were widened. If you are interested, see Dick. He will be at the field tomorrow.

MONEY PROBLEM

But the city's interest in a flying field should not go more than five or six miles away. No doubt the biggest hold up, even if some civic officials had thought of a local airstrip but didn't press the subject, has been one of finances. Where would the money come from? Well, as we said earlier, the cost need not be great. The biggest expense would be in buying the land, if it had to be bought. But consider these:

The federal government will share in the total cost of construction of a local airstrip up to $100,000, provided the municipality transfers the land title to the department. The local authority, however, will retain the operational responsibilities in accordance with department standards.

Where new airports are involved an investigation will first be made to ensure that the benefits to be derived will bear a reasonable relationship to the costs involved. The municipality must purchase the land and transfer the title to the transport department and the department will assume complete costs of construction. In return, the municipality will be required to assume full operational responsibility for from three to five years, after which the department will, if desired, take over the operation of the field. By that time, however, the community must be served substantially by scheduled airlines. As I've mentioned last week, Quebecair has said servicing Belleville is "a possibility for the future."

In 1793 General Haldimand purchased 92,700 acres from the Mississauga Indians and conveyed it to the Mohawks under Thayendinagea or Capt. Joseph Brant. This tract of land was situated on the Bay of Quinte and comprised the better part of the present township of Tyendinaga which was named in honor of this historic U.E.L. Indian chief. In 1818 Warren Noble and Frederick Keeler leased 200 acres together with the Mill privileges from the Mohawks for 999 years to build a flouring mill. The owner of the mill, Mr. F. Wallbridge, agreed to furnish to the Indians 30 bbls. yearly of flour, as a consideration for rent and this agreement has continued down through the years and at the present time in 1960 is being taken care of by the owner, Shannonville Canners. This mill, a five storey stone structure, with its original slate roof is still in existence in the village of Shannonville.

Shannonville is situated on the Salmon River and was at first called Shannon by the port family who came from the vicinity of Shannon in Ireland. The Salmon River was so named by the Indians because of the large number of salmon fish that abounded in its waters at that time but have now been replaced with pickerel.

Mr. Wallbridge also had an extensive saw mill situated just above the flour mill and capable of turning out several million board feet of lumber yearly. This is the saw mill which we see in our picture along with the stone dam, spillway and log slide, and the adjacent lumber yards.

Just below the dam is old Kingston Road with its wooden bridge crossing the Salmon River. In 1830 this river was extensively used for rafting logs from the northern timber limits down to the mills at Shannon. The harbor, with its docks on the south shore, was a haven of shelter for the boats to enter from the Bay of Quinte during heavy winds and storms and their masts often gave the appearance of a forest because of their numbers. Not only was this a port of entry, with Richard L. Lazier being the collector of Customs but also Division Court sittings were held here.

Guides Agree Noise Bothers Fish

If a fellow gets sick, he doesn't go and see his lawyer; he goes to a doctor. Thus, it seems only logical, when desirous of obtaining useful and accurate information about wild fish and their behavior in open water, that you should go to...somebody who's made a business, his livelihood, to know about these things — the professional fishing guides. He may not be an engineer or have the right to write Ph. D after his name but, believe me, he knows the behavior of fish.

With this in mind, I had a talk with Rolie Hollenbeck and Bill Mann, veteran fishing guides, sailing out of Islamorada, Florida Keys. They agree with me that marine motor noise, onboard or inboard, does affect the behavior of game fish.

Time was, and not too long ago, that the fishing in Florida Bay, right along the edge of the Keys, was very good. A fellow had no trouble finding schools of tailing bonefish within a stone's throw of shore, and the channels held plenty of snook, tarpon and permit.

But Florida Bay is mostly shallow fish in shallow water, game fish, and they will not stand for disturbance. Today, in order to find fishing at all worth while in Florida Bay, we must cruise anywhere from 15 to 25 miles to the outer banks. Even on these excess boat traffic has reduced some of them to the state of virtual biological deserts.

Nine Mile Bank is an excellent example of this. The two largest beds of fish I have caught in 12 years of fishing the waters of the Florida Keys were taken from Nine Mile, both weighing 12 pounds. We don't fish Nine Mile any more — too many boats and no fish. The same, for that matter, is true of Man-O-War Bank. No fish. Both of these banks are at least 30 miles out in the bay.

I asked Rolie and Bill about the experiment the engineers of the Champion Spark Plug Co., conducted in the big tank at Marineland, Florida. There, so claimed the engineers, the fish were startled at first but they soon returned. "Startled," said Rolie. "Startled yet! Those fish just about had to return. They had to! They were."

Fish that are surrounded by or within easy reach of the "safety of deep water offshore naturally can school curiously concerning propellers. But fish in shallow water? Believe me, that is something else. Not on your life.

SPRING FUFFIES

Are you planning to pick up a new shooting dog for use next fall? If you are, right now is the time to do something about it. May and June pups usually are the most hardy, more so than pups born in the fall. A spring puppy should be pointing birds and doing some retrieving by the time fall arrives. Many trainers, among them the late Dr. Logan Way's mallard supply is lost annually to lead poisoning. Quite naturally, forward-thinking individuals are giving this matter consideration though.

Substitutes for lead in shotgun pellets have been tested. The development, on non-toxic shot is more of a problem than appears at first glance. Illinois Natural History Survey and the Winchester-Western Division of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., have combined to do much work on this problem.

The lead alloys tested proved to be just as toxic as pure lead. Copper plating helped not at all. Nylon-coating presented manufacturing difficulties. Other heavy materials, such as gold, were too expensive. To date, the best substitute seems to be soft iron shot.

Iron, by means of repeated remoldings, can be softened so that it will not seriously scratch shotgun barrels. True, iron is less dense than lead and does not have the lamila and penetrating quality of lead. However, this fault can be offset somewhat by the fact that more iron pellets can be used in a shell than the present lead-pellet count. For example, a standard 12-gauge shell load contains 189 lead pellets size no. 4. The same powder loading could fire 250 number 4 shot without increase in chamber pressure and or recoil. True, the iron pellet would not hit a duck as hard as a lead pellet but the duck would be hit oftener.

Under present conditions of so many gunners, reduced breeding grounds, etc., the lead pellet is well down on the list of duck killers. But it is a killer and as such must be kept in mind.

Douglas Proves Big Factor In Maroons' 7-4 Victory

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARROT, Sports Editor

This should be a big year in sport.

Without going out too far on the walk-known limb, it is safe to say the Chatham Maroons or the Trail Smoke-Eaters will win the Allan Cup and the Oil Kings or the TreePees will cop the Memorial Cup.

And speaking of hockey it is rumored that the Mc-Farlands will enter the OHA senior league next season. To the many fans and others who have called or contacted this department, we have had no official word from the club management as to what has been done regarding the 1960-61 entry.

Six teams have indicated their entry for the Belleville District Softball League and anyone who has seen a topflight pitcher on the loose is requested to lasso and hogtie him and deliver him collect to Bill Shaw.

And reports from Deseronto have it that Chief Pat (Satchel Paige) Marsch will do the flipping for the village entry besides supervising the local league.

And while rambling around the grass, Point Anne's night for the village's favorite sports son, Bobby Hull will be the biggest thing to happen to Ox Point since the cement company decided to build a plant there.

Bobby, so scouts inform us, is a popular favorite in the district Knife and Fork League and is establishing quite a reputation as an after-dinner speaker. We saw him on television during the Stanley Cup series and if Bobby had any stage fright he left it in the Hawks locker room. He spoke with poise and confidence and he is the credit when quizzed on his seasonal exploits, gave plenty of glory to his team-mates and club officials.

Earl Anderson and his committee state arrangements for "Bobby Hull Night" slated for May 7 are practically complete. A grand program has been outlined and it is believed one of the largest, if not the largest crowds ever to invade Ox Point will be on hand to honor the popular hockey star.

Wrap Blair the tireless hockey "chef" who had three pots boiling last season, is headed for another three-way effort. Recently the loquacious Whitby mentor signed another two-year contract to manage the Chatham Comets.

Soccer players and enthusiasts are looking forward to a banner season. The two "senior" leagues have been or will be organized while minor soccer is off to a good start. Les Digby and a faithful band of associates have worked hard to get things under way and are deserving of another successful year.

The new sport Go/Karting is readying for its city and district debut and local officials have the race track planned for the local scene, located on the former stock-car racing strip on Highway No. 2 east of the city will be paved next week.

President Al Kelleher and his Umpires Association have redeemed their official hahilimens from the cleaners — and are ready for the take-off. The proxy denies rumors that one or two of the fair ace have applied for entry to the association. Don't see why the objection. Women, after all, are like umpires — they make quick decisions, never reverse themselves and they don't think you're out when you're not.

And it could be a big year for the Bay of Quinte golfers. The district side had a highly successful opening meeting the other night and the gals of the groups are showing a gale interest. Then, it could be a big year, in fact it is — for the new "nine holes". The country club is beginning to look in the pink and all indications point to one of the best all-round seasons in years.

Harness-racing addicts are in for a good year according to officials of the Quinte Riding and Driving club which plans several meets during the summer. The Quinte Tray and Gun Club is off to a fast-shooting start and plans a season of topnotch activities.

The Minor Baseball Division hopes to get off to a good start next week when it hold its spring meeting at the Recreation Centre on Tuesday, May 3rd starting 7.30.

The Quinte Secondary Schools Cross-Country Race is slated for Wednesday, May 4 and a large entry is expected. Mr. Cleo Colling will again present the Ken Colling Memorial Trophy to the winner and awards to leading contestants. More about this on Monday or Tuesday.

And spring has come to the Memorial Arena. The ice is a thing of the past and wrestling makes its seasonal debut on Friday May 13, according to manager Walter Gerow. A topflight card is expected to open the 1960 season.

And in closing; the kids are playing marbles on Church Street and other places. Tennis racquets are coming out of hibernation and . . . The Bobcats softball squad practices Sunday (12.30) Tuesday and Thursday (4.30) all at the CNRA Park . . . Juvenile softballer practice Sunday 7 p.m. at the fair grounds . . . Bishop Seeds work out tomorrow morning at 10 at the Alemite Field. Players are needed . . . And off the sports beat for the moment; don't forget to dig a little deeper when the "Sally Ann" asks you to help. The Salvation Army campaign starts Monday and the Hand that always Helps, Now needs a Helping Hand. The Army never says "No" when assistance is required. How can we say no when it asks . . . Derek's Go-Kart races at Trenton Gardens tonight . . . At this writing there is no report on what the "speeklers" did in the northern haunts . . . And that's it.

Three Goals in 3rd Period Clinches Win for Victors After Smokies Had Tied It

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) The strategy of manager-coach Johnny Horeck worked just fine Friday night and Chatham Maroons scored a 7-4 Allan Cup hockey victory over Trail Smoke Eaters.

Maroons lead the best-of-seven final 2-0 with one game tied.

Horeck inserted ace defenceman Jack Douglas, out the last three weeks with a broken right hand, into his lineup for the first time in the series and the smoothplaying rearguard turned in an outstanding game.

Horeck also used his checking unit of Al Cleary, Fred Pletsch and George Aitken against the high-flying line of Bobby Attersley, Pinkie McIntyre and Hal Jones and kept all three off the goal-scoring list.

And in the last-minute decision he kept centre Frank Bathgate in the lineup and Bathgate came up with his best game of the series, scoring a goal and setting up two others.

MEET AGAIN TONIGHT

The fourth game is here tonight and the fifth Monday.

Seven players from Chatham's scoring—Bathgate, Aitken, Cleary, Attersley, Joe Malo, Ted Power and Bill Forbes.

For Trail Frank Turik, Cal Buckley and defencemen Harry Smith and Don Fletcher each scored once. Fletcher, scorer-of-a goat the first two games, turned in a solid effort and also had two assists.

More than 3,500 fans saw Smoke Eaters jump from a 3-1 first-period deficit to enter the final period tied 4-4. But Maroons scored three-unanswered goals in the final 20 minutes.

With his team off form in the first two games, Horeck threw Douglas in for a steadying factor. Douglas didn't let him down and at times held Chatham up when Smoke Eaters threatened to move in front.

DOUBLE DUTY

Cleary, Pletsch and Aitken did their checking job thoroughly and also found time to score twice, including the winner by Aitken at 6:07 of the third.

Bathgate entered the game in a slump. But Horeck, knowing Frank's brothers — Andy, New York Rangers and Bernie, Universan Pavillion senior player—were in the stands watching, decided to keep him the lineup. Frank responded with three points.

"I'll sleep better tonight," said Horeck. "That was the key game of the series. We played better and we had a bit of luck and won. That's a big factor."

Kromm, Trail playing - coach, was a dejected but not a beaten man.

"We were too sloppy around our own net. Our defencemen watched the play instead of the forwards coming in front of Martin (goalie Seth Martin).

"Douglas really helped them on defence, but still our forward lines are not jelling. We also have to get a little more thrill around their net. . . . We aren't finished yet. Tonight we'll start coming back."

Frick Plays Hard to Get

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick hailed New York's proposed new Ashburn Friday as progress for the Continental League but pointed out that 10 basic requirements must be met by the league to gain major league status.

"We outlined 10 requirements at our meeting in Columbus last May," said Frick. "The majors declared they would favorably consider an application by a group which could qualify. To me that was a pretty definite commitment.

"The rest is up to the Continental League. It is up to them to meet the requirements. When they think they are ready I will be glad to meet with them. In fact, I am here; ready to meet with them at any time.

"I believe now, as I always have believed, that expansion is inevitable. I'm all for it."

Tail Setting

By Phil Stewart

Belleville fairgrounds has been so extremely busy place for the last few weeks with local horsemen preparing for the opening of the 1960 season at the county tracks in Quebec.

Campbell Wannamaker of Consecon is in for a couple of weeks with eleven head, nine of which belong to himself, the other two belonging to Don Charlerson of Brighton. Tom pulled in with April 27 to head the Bee City where he races his stable most of the season.

Another recent departure was the stable of Bobby Rees of Trenton which was trained by Roy Buchanan. Roy wintered with his large string at Lord's track at Potter's Creek. Roy has taken eight horses to Blue Bonnets' Raceway Montreal.

Bill Faulkner of Carrying Place has been busy with his string and with his good black pacer "Cheyenne Kid" by "Bloodless". Bill recently acquired Harry Ingle's chestnut stallion "Red Comet" and will be seen behind him by many district fans. This horse has been raced for two or three years but Bill thinks he should go allright. Harry has raised such horses as "Billy the Kid", "Comet", Bill plans to leave Belleville May 1 for Blue Bonnets.

Allan Facey is still stabled at Belleville but will leave early in May with his string for Blue Bonnets.

Another local horseman who will be going to Connought is Irvin Ness. Irvin will be taking his pacers "Bloodless Bill", "Lee Mac Se", "Lee Mac S", who is owned by Ness, and a string of them to become the leading dash winner in North America.

Mac Abigail Hall will be sent to Mac Abigail golding "JMJ" with Allan Facey and intends to keep "Betty Abigail" to race himself while the latter is stabled at Old Woodbine, Toronto.

Morley Fleet is training five head at Orillia with the exception of Herman Lucas' "Smiling Mary". One of Morley's colts "Gangway MacDuff" owned by Bernard Hunt of Tweed is a likely prospect and intends to keep staked at Old Woodbine Toronto.

In addition many locals ride the horses at Belleville fairgrounds early Tuesday morning including Bill Mitchell "Chips" fosaled a nice filly by "Scotch Mac", "Dot Se Sail, Dot Se Sail" is dark and has no white markings. We expect to name her "Magic".

Another new foal in Belleville arrived at Ben Lucas' home on Saturday night April 23 during the big storm. This one is sired by Ben Lucas' own stallion "Danny B Herbert" and is out of "Betty Jeffery". He dam of Jack Jeffery's pair "Betty Abigail" and "JMJ". Herm says he is going to call this one "Danny Boy Stormy Night".

Remember our first race meet in Belleville this year will be Saturday evening May 28. If you haven't bought your Belleville Driving and Riding Club membership card you should be a member as your fan support is the only way we can promote races here for your enjoyment.

Leafs Defeat Miami Marlins; Royals Edged

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hulking Luke Easter, a big man with a bigger bat, has taken over as the International League's leading exponent of the rudden-death home run.

The 233 - pound, six-foot-four Negro slugged his fifth circuit clout of the season—both against Jacksonville. The lefty - hitting Easter slammed one against Lino Arroyo of Havana opening day for a Red Wings triumph. That came in the 10th inning, too.

Buffalo-based Easter leads the league with its eighth victory in nine games, a 11-3 thumping of Richmond. Toronto Maple Leafs kept pace by defeating Miami 3-1. Havana edged Montreal 3-2.

Rochester, which also received three innings of perfect relief pitching by Tim Cullen, downed a triple play — with Easter the key man—in the fifth inning to shut off a promising Jets' rally.

CAME FROM BEHIND

Toronto's victory over 12 hits, including Joe Lonnett's homer, six walks and two Vees' errors, began when Tom Bellard for their third consecutive win. Reliever Don Erickson, who worked the final six innings, picked up the victory.

Leo (Bowerboat) Smith spaced seven Marlins hits as Toronto scored single runs in the first and second to pot it out of reach. Steve Jankowski gave Leafs an insurance tally his ninth with a solo homer.

Jim Pendleton's two-out homer in the seventh inning gave Sugar Ray Robinson's former pitcher Rene Valdes, who went the distance for the Royals. Arroyo, who took over in the 10th with the score knotted 2-2, won it.

TO START BUILDING

WATERLOO (CP) — Work will begin this fall on a $2,000,000 engineering building at the University of Waterloo, Dr. J. G. Hagey, university president, said today.

Few Surprises In Davis Cup Openers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were few surprises as Davis Cup tennis matches got under way in eight European cities Friday.

At Stockholm, Sweden, one of the strong favorites, won its two matches from South Africa without Ulf Schmidt losing a marathon struggle from Ian Vermaak, and Jan-Erik Lundquist easily defeating Gustan Kocelig.

At Oslo, Holland took a similar 2-0 lead over Norway with Willem Maris beating Gunnar Sjowall and Piet Visser defeating Thorvald Moe.

Czechoslovakia's Pavel Korda defeated Germany's Christian Kuhnke and Jiri Javorsky won over Wolfgang Gattig to give the Czechs a 2-0 lead at Hanover.

Hungary swept three matches against Ireland at Budapest. Istvan Gulyas and Andras Szikszai won over J. D. Hackett and Guy Jackson in doubles after winning singles matches Thursday. Hungary next meets Italy.

At Helsinki, the Finns lost two straight to Argentina. The Argentine winners were Eduardo Moreno and Roberto Ruthoss; the Finnish losers, Reino Nyssonen and Sakari Salo.

The only match that wasn't over-in-a-hurry was at Geneva where Jackie Brichant won for Belgium over Paul Blondel and Heinz Grimm won for Switzerland over Jean-Pierre Froment.

Georgetown Wins Over Napanee By 5-0 Score

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

GEORGETOWN (CP)—Georgetown Raiders, watched by a crowd of 900, steamrolled Napanee Comets 5-0 Friday night to keep alive in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A final series.

Napanee leads the series 3-2 with the sixth game in Napanee tonight and the seventh, if necessary, back here next Wednesday.

Georgetown stunned the Comets in the opening period, most of the play and skating the visitors into the ice.

It was a rough and rugged contest in which referees Frank Udell and Merle Glazebrook handed out 22 penalties, 13 of them to the Georgetown club. All were two-minute minors. There was some brawling, but only coupled penalties were called. No goals were scored on power plays.

TeePees Topple Proud Oil Kings With 6-2 Victory

Struck Early, Fast to Whip Goal-Weakened Westerners; 3rd Game in Toronto, Sunday

TORONTO (CP) — St. Catharines TeePees, confident and full of skate, today sit all square at one game each with Edmonton Oil Kings in their best-of-seven Memorial Cup final.

The Eastern Canada champions, host to the Prairie 3-2 in Wednesday's opener, struck early and fast Friday night to whip the injury-weakened westerners 6-2 on stickly and slow ice before a non-thanksgiving crowd of 2,832. They did all their scoring in the opening two periods and that was enough to convince the Oil Kings they didn't have a chance.

Western fans, and the players, were shocked a couple of hours before game time when it was announced that regular goalkeeper Ross Gillow would sit this one out. His right eye, pulled up and discolored after he was hit by a puck in the series opener, closed tighter than Fort Knox.

JITTERY GOALIE

Spare goalie Dale Gesme, used only sparingly in the western playoffs, was tense and jittery in the opening minutes. He was beaten on a goal 46 seconds after the opening faceoff and from then on settled down only to play a brilliant game despite the score.

The Oil Kings' Ed Joyal, a stickhandling whiz, got the first of his two goals at 6:12 to tie the game 1-1. The Teepees made it 3-1 in less than two minutes on the halfway mark and that was all for the Kings.

Five St. Catharines players figured in the scoring. Defenceman Bill Speer scored the attack with the two goals and singles went to Dude Kingcott, Robinson, Bill Sweeney and Ray Cullen. Chico Maki, captain and centre, was credited with one assist. Harris also picked up an assist and two went to Murray Hall.

Left winger Tom Burgess, ex-Edmonton Flyer for most of the game, and Cliff Pennington, rookie centre in the audience is expected to be the B.C. player to join the national play here, giving rise to speculation that the international record when it meets Hearts of the Scottish First Division and the ranking Russian side from Moscow Dynamo in addition this summer.

UPSET FRESH

In the past, B.C. drew with the Scots Hearts 2-2 and in 1956 they defeated Fulham in exhibition games. Vancouver upset the Irish international eleven in 1933. Since 1956, the B.C. eleven has drawn with Dundee and Aberdeen of them, lost to Hearts and defeated West Bromwich.

This year, Hearts will meet Manchester United in Vancouver May 28, then play the B.C. All-Stars here June 1 and the Victoria All-Stars in Victoria June 4. The Soviet team will be here late in August, about a month before the Canadian championship is staged in Empire Stadium.

There was also a $981.60 daily double return, two $100 payoffs and 1,000 $2 tickets were sold on the combination.

The largest daily double of the season completed at Hialeah Park at $33.80 in the first race and Texas Eagle at $73.

Tripucka Signs With Denver

DENVER (CP) — Frank Tripucka, 41, Friday signed a quarterback with Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Friday with Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Tripucka went to Saskatchewan in 1958, on a conversion forward passing record in 1958, throwing 283 times and completing 218 for 29 touchdowns. He set another passing record with a completion percentage of 61.48 in 1955.

Traded to Ottawa Rough Riders after the 1958 season, Tripucka never played for the 1959 season, then joined the 1959 football season as Ottawa quarterback. But in October, 1959, he was released to Regina as they were released by Ottawa.

He has several games at quarterback for the last - place Saskatchewan team before the coach after the season by import end-attack Ken Carpenter.

New Blood for Brantford Sox

BRANTFORD (CP)—Brantford Red Sox, Intermediate "A" baseball league champions last year, will probably have a new manager and five new players when the season opens next month, it was reported Friday.

Bob Salvisberg, pilot for the Red Sox in 1959, will play for Hamilton Cardinals along with pitcher Rose Payne, catcher Jim Wilson and third baseman Mike Giavedoni. All four are Hamilton residents and have played last year on a one-year release from the Cardinals.

Utility baseman Stan Lipka must also be replaced as he retired at the end of last season after 11 seasons with the club.

The management of the club has been taken over by Brantford businessmen headed by Bob Calloway, Art Bartlett, one of the former owners, now is secretary - treasurer of the club, and Harry Mouradian, the other ex-owner, is on Los Angeles.

On the Track

FORT ERIE (CP)—Early season prosperity has induced the Fort Erie track to double the purse for today's Queenston Stakes. The race has been split into two $7,500 events, each Canadian racing for a prize of $7,500.

The Queenston originally was scheduled as one $7,500 race at six furlongs.

Post will be nine three-year-olds in each division. Likely Sporting Life in the first division are Kennecott, owned by W. J. Farr of Weston, and Windy Ship, owned by Gardiner-Hall Stable of Toronto.

Postmaster put over the fastest three-quarter-mile clocking of the meeting in winning the featured Post Colonist Purse in 1:11 1-5 before 4,404 Friday.

Aussies Will Build Yacht Under Wraps

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australia plans to pick the brains of the United States' top boat designers and build an America's Cup challenger in strictest secrecy.

"We are studying the features of America's best 12-meter yachts," said Alan Payne, the naval architect who has been given the job of designing the Australian boat. "We aim to build a better and faster craft."

The New York Yacht Club has formally accepted a challenge from the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron for a best four-of-seven race series in the late summer of 1962. It's the first time the 109-year-old event has involved any nation outside the United States, Britain Isles and Canada.

Football Club Hangs Up Gear

BRANTFORD (CP) — Charlie Messecar, president of Brantford Alerts' Intermediate Incorporated, said Friday that Brantford Non-Call intermediate football team has suspended operations for the 1960 season.

For the last three years the team has been operated jointly by the Red and Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union. Brant Town Council's Executive Rugby Football Union intermediate champions in 1957 and 1958.

The team played in the now-defunct Big Four senior football league in 1958.

Messecar said the club lacked support and the executive had too heavy a burden raising funds for players. "We seem unable to get new blood into the organization," he added.

He said profits made by the Tiger-Cats had been used to finance the rugby junior football league and in a donation to the Brantford civic centre committee.

Former Toronto Boxer Gets Crack at Light-Heavy Title

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Former heavyweight Gordie Baldwin of Toronto ventures into the light-heavy class this weekend, taking a shot at the Canadian title against hometown boy Burke Emery in a rare Sunday afternoon card.

The 6-foot-3 foreman of a Toronto building maintenance firm tipped the scales at 190 pounds for the 175-pound crown bout. Emery, the Danville who has gone back to fishing full-time in Baie Ste. Anne, N.B.

Baldwin, 29, has a light-heavy ranking from the Canadian Boxing Federation but three months ago after sweating down to 171 pounds went out of the heavyweight division.

HAS 3-3 RECORD

A Hamilton - born Negro, he piled up more than 100 fights at a smaller but made 6-3 appearances in 3½ years as a pro heavyweight, balancing three wins with three losses.

He is married, the father of a six-year-old son, comes from a family of eight brothers and three sisters. His manager is Earl (Sully) Sullivan of Toronto.

Emery, 25, has had four years seasoning in the pro ring, climbing to the CBF's top-contending classification, a 28-7 record.

He was stricken with pneumonia on a British tour a year ago and has had only one bout since, scoring a technical knockout over Bobby Dunlap, 175, Okla., in Montreal last April 4.

Burke is a bachelor and works on a farm near this eastern townships community when he's not training. He's managed by Al Beshman of New York. His top fighting weight is 187.

CBF commissioner Gene Letourneau of Quebec City has announced that the winner must defend the title within 60 days.

Ted Doncaster of Sackville, N.B., and Toronto's Al Hogan, ranked third and fourth respectively, are the logical challengers.

BOSTON (AP)—Durable Ralph (Tiger) Jones gave young Joe Denucci a boxing lesson Friday night and a body pounding Friday night to capture a unanimous 10-round decision at the Boston Arena.

Jones weighed 160½, three pounds less than Denucci.

Collins, a distance driver, was also under par for 27 holes. Palmer, the Masters champion, was eight under for 28 holes.

White Sox Trample Tigers As Yanks Lose 3 in Row; Dodgers Clobber Giants 10-2

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Okay, so lefthanders are supposed to be a bit different from other guys. But what's this whammy Johnny Podres has on the San Francisco Giants?

They haven't beaten the Los Angeles Dodgers' sturdy southpaw since Sept. 4, 1958—and he's allowed the Giants only five earned runs in 42 3-3 innings during that span. Podres made it five straight over San Francisco Friday night, beating Red Sam Jones as the Dodgers made out with eight unearned runs in the 10th inning for a 10-2 victory.

That slipped the second-place Giants 1½ games behind Pittsburgh, rained out at Cincinnati, but left the Dodgers .012 percentage points behind third - place Milwaukee. The Braves defeated Philadelphia 2-0 as Lew Burdette's six innings of no-hit relief, and the St. Louis Cardinals clobbered the Cubs 18-6, scoring 10 in the eighth.

GOOD ENDING

Podres was trailing 2-1 going into the fifth. An error, Willie Mc-Covey's first hit in the 38th BBI and Felipe Alou's single counted both runs in the fourth for the Giants' only earned runs of Podres in 18 innings against Padres this year. He finished with an eight-hitter, walking two and striking out seven.

Podres' whammy then got down to business in the fifth. Jim Davenport walked and Manny Wills, and a bunt hit by Podres loaded the bases. The Giants then scored on Chuck Hiller's reportedly errors before John Roseboro grounded to Podres, a play so spectacular with his first major league grand slam homer, off Jack Sanford (2-2).

Pizarro (1-1) struck out nine before he walked Jim Gilliam before Bob Buhl in the third. He had to give way in the sixth when the pulled groin arm muscle Warren Spahn came in for a perfect relief job, striking out two and fanning two. Del Crandall drove in the Braves' first two runs, the second with a homer off loser Jim Owens (1-2).

Eddie Mathews, as if to celebrate their first .500 record (4-4) since July 15, 1958, topped eight hits off relievers Moe Drabowsky and John Goetz in the eighth—a home run and a double—to earn the majors. Bill While drove in three runs in the Cards' big five with a homer on his second time around. Lindy McDaniel, who earlier hit a three-run homer, drove in four runs for the Cards.

Ernie Banks hit all of the Cubs' runs with two homers that gave him a total of 28 and 324 and broke Gabby Hartnett's club record of 231. Banks' first was a three-run blast in a losing cause.

Bob Buhl in the third. He had to give way in the sixth when the pulled groin arm muscle Warren Spahn came in for a perfect relief job, striking out two and fanning two. Del Crandall drove in the Braves' first two runs, the second with a homer off loser Jim Owens (1-2).

Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Britain's Coleraine has been the dominant force in Canadian soccer since the early 1900s and, with interest booming here, there's little doubt it will continue to hold this position for some time.

"No other area has the same depth of talent as Britain," says Dave Fryatt, chairman of the B.C. Soccer Commission, which has more than 6,000 players registered, exclusive of those in high schools and the 20 leagues in the interior areas.

This depth has helped British Columbia win the Canadian championship 15 times in the 27 years it has been contested since 1912.

It also has had a bearing on the province's outstanding performances in international athletics here. During the last four years B.C. has won twice, drawn once and lost once against first-division touring teams from England and Scottish leagues.

START AT NINE

Among the registered players are between 4,000 and 5,000 juveniles aged 9 to 18 playing with 248 teams and about 1,200 over 18 playing with 86 senior clubs. They are concentrated in the Greater Vancouver and Fraser River areas on the mainland and Victoria and Nanaimo on Vancouver Island.

Fryatt says the number of competitors is growing annually and the primary problems now are finding enough parks in which to play and enough referees to handle the games. Vancouver has only one enclosed park—8,000-seat Callister—in which soccer is played frequently and its dates are taken up primarily by the six-team Pacific Coast League, the top-rated circuit in the province.

Soccer has been played here on an organized basis since the early 1900s and since the Second World War interest in it has expanded with the growth of the population.

With so many youngsters taking part in organized leagues, the province does not depend on immigrants from Britain and Continental Europe for its top talent. Only 10 per cent of the senior players are native-born Canadians.

RUNS UP CUP TEAM

This was one of the reasons why B.C. placed 11 of the 15 men on Canada's 1957 World Cup team, where the rules require each player to be a Canadian citizen to qualify.

Fryatt says B.C. should place at least eight men on the team for next year's World Cup play and as many berths on the Canadian team that travels to The Soviet Union in September for a four-game exhibition tour.

TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Even though the TV antenna itself may be in good condition, reception can suffer badly if the lead-in, if any, is neglected. A lead-in that has been up for more than three years probably needs to be replaced, because after this time the insulation has dried out and become cracked. This allows moisture to enter which spoils the quality of the TV picture . . . even though the set itself may be in perfect condition.

Replacing the lead-in isn't an expensive job and it certainly pays off in better reception. CHECK-TV SERVICE, 264 Coleman St. have the equipment and experienced men to do this work quickly and efficiently. Phone WO 6-6791 and let us give you an estimate on checking over your complete antenna system.

At the Park

Academy Award Actress Star Of 'Room at Top'

Is it deliberately shocking? Or is it adult entertainment? That is the question at the heart of the controversy which centers around the new film, "Room at the Top," which opens here at the Park Theatre on Monday, May 2nd.

Whoever asked this question, young Jack Clayton, whose first full-length directorial assignment this was, answered with characteristic British directness:

"There is no doubt that certain immature minds will come away from this film remembering only the four and five-letter words, which may rarely, if ever, have been heard on the screen before; but isn't this language part and parcel of everyday life? Isn't this the way people talk?"

"As for the intimate depiction of man-woman relationships on the screen continued the mild-mannered, soft-spoken director, "I suggest that the shock from this film is one of recognition and identification, rather than anything else".

Thirty-eight year old Clayton another "over-night" success, with some twenty years of hard labor at assorted jobs in British films behind him, pointed out the fact that the novel by John Braine, England's latest "angry young man", from which the picture was adapted, created the same sort of furor.

"Yet, never during production and the preparation of the film", says Clayton, "did we give any thought to the question of compromise or censorship. I, as the film conviction that—to water down the basic story of the young man who has risen to the top of the social and economic ladder, would be an insult to film audiences; for I believe, people want mature entertainment which reflects the reality they know".

"Much more than that, and most important", he emphasized the words, "is the fact that we knew the majority of our audiences would feel as we do — that this is a highly moral film; that the values highlighted are the correct ones and that we are merely saying "this is the way one man did it . . . and this is what it cost him".

The fact that "Room at the Top", which stars Laurence Harvey, Simone Signoret and Heather Sears, received three top British awards, broke all box-office records in England and seems on its way to break a few here, appears to indicate that Clayton knows what he's talking about. He, himself, credits his success to "A great deal of luck" plus his long association with the late Sir Alexander Korda, British showman, for whom he began to work at fifteen as "The boy who served the tea"; and the knowledge he gained from his work-in assistant director to John Houston on such films as "African Rouge" and "Beat the Devil".

Clayton's first directorial chore, a short subect called, "The Bespoke Overcoat", won both the British and American "Oscars".

On the same program a fast moving comedy "Brother In Law" starring Richard Attenborough, Ian Carmichael and Terry Thomas.

WEDNESDAY AT THE BELLE — Moses, portrayed by Charlton Heston in Cecil B. DeMille's production "The Ten Commandments", opening Wednesday at the Belle Theatre, is seen here at the time the great Lawgiver led the Exodus out of Egypt. The Ten Commandments is showing for the first time at popular prices. Two showings daily at 1.00 and 7.30.

Unbeatable Gunsmoke Series Off, Shooting in 6th Season

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They're hot and shooting in the sixth fall season of the apparently unbeatable Gunsmoke series.

Dodge City is still as dusty, Matt Dillon as trusty, Chester as gimpy and Miss Kitty as fetching as ever. Nothing is still around the Arness household.

"No, we're not planning any changes this season," said big Jim Arness as he twisted between gunplay. "We've gone along pretty well the way we are, so why tamper with it?"

Jim seemed unruffled about facing another eight months of intensive film-making to complete another season.

"Sure, it's hard work sometimes, but the rewards are pretty great, too. There's a lot of independence involved. I like that; it's one of the reasons the acting life appealed to me.

SEES LIMIT

"How long can Gunsmoke last? I wish it could go on indefinitely. Realistically, I would imagine it could last another two or three years: that's what people connected, with the business tell me. I guess it's years should be about the limit for a successful show. Then I would hope that I could get another series."

Jim's satisfaction with his lot extends to his TV corral. It is also something new with him. He's acting to get out of the Dillon role, but last season the producers made him a new deal as co-owner of the returns. Now he can afford a new ranch and yacht to take care of his little spare time he has on land or sea.

He admitted that a year or two ago he fretted about doing feature movies. Now he takes a more realistic view.

"There's no use worrying about it because producers won't hire a TV star for an important role in an important movie. They'll give you big roles in small pictures or appearances in big ones just to cash in on the name value. That doesn't interest me.

"The movie bosses think the public won't pay to see an actor they can see for free on television. I think they're wrong. But I'm not going to worry myself to death trying to convince the producers that they're wrong.

"I'll just go along as I am. I'm contented. Why worry?"

VANISHED ERA

Lillian Russell and Maude Adams were among star performers of the past at Washington's Belasco Theatre, which started as an opera house in 1895 and now is a servicemen's entertainment centre.

Says Airborne Nags, Monkeys Plane Nonsense

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Some horses may be airborne, but not a barrel of monkeys—but one of them isn't a plane-full of monkeys with two horses' behinds.

Martin Tanenbaum, Yonkers Raceway president, said Friday he is concerned over the welfare of two champion trotters being shipped from Australia and New Zealand for the track's International Pace series June 2, 9 and 23.

"The horses left Sydney by plane last Tuesday and are supposed to arrive Monday," Tanenbaum said, "but we have been advised that in a storm over India the plane picked up some more cargo—a bunch of monkeys.

"We have had to sign papers that in event the monkeys become troublesome and make the horses fractious the pilot has the right to destroy the horses in flight. They're worth a million dollars."

Unless the monkeys force their untimely demise, the horses will be met at the airport by the officers of Yonkers Raceway and representatives from the Australian consulate.

CANADIAN STARS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Auchorman Ergas tops—a Lithuanian-born Toronto—shipped into the lead on the final turn to spearhead Michigan to the college distance medley title Friday at the Penn relays. The Wolverines were caught in nine minutes, 36.8 seconds for the 2½-mile jaunt, but it was Ergas who carried the mail home safely.

James Mason Goes Far Out For Fun in New Film "A Touch of Larceny"

Anyone interested in making money fast, without actually stealing it, should make a beeline to see "A Touch of Larceny", when it opens on Monday at the Belle Theatre. The fellow who tries it, in the Paramount film and almost gets away with it is James Mason who, in a surprising switch from his usual dramatic and villainous roles, turns to romantic comedy. He is starred with lovely Vera Miles, who goes glamorous in a highly seductive way and suave George Sanders in another of his likely satisfactory, sophisticated roles.

"A Touch of Larceny," produced in England and Scotland by Ivan Foxwell is the ridiculous funny story of a British Naval Officer (Mason) with not much money, but plenty of nerve. He fails madly in love with an American beauty (Miss Miles), who is engaged to marry an acquaintance of his, a British Ambassador, played by Sanders. For the first time in Mason's life matrimony is not only desirable, but mandatory if he is to live happily ever after. Also mandatory if he is to woo and win the expensive girl away from his rival is the acquisition of big money in a big hurry.

Mason devises a scheme to make it look as though he has stolen some highly secret Navy papers. Then he proceeds to plant the suspicion in certain official minds that he has sold them to "the other side", hoping that when the newspapers break the story, he can use them for bait. But things go wrong — hilariously, and thereby hangs the suspenseful witty tale.

John Wayne is "Jet Pilot"

Exploding with all the power of the jet age — with all the passion of a daring love story — John Wayne and Janet Leigh head a talented cast in "Jet Pilot," filmed in Color, announced as the second Feature attraction at the Belle Theatre starting Monday. The Belle Latest World News is an added attraction.

JUST THE NICEST

Home that one could want. This split-level home is just immaculate throughout — all decorated and obviously has been well cared for by the owner. Now the owner must move and will sell at a price. Has three bedrooms and the living room is really big — as is the kitchen. It has all sorts of extras such as paved driveway — carport. We would enjoy showing it to you.

WOULD TWO BEDROOMS DO?

If so you should consid ere the little brick bungalow that lies on Bell Boulevard has been occupied by only one person and so is in good condition. It has a full basement, oil heat and a garage for the addition. It has a garage — a full basement, of course, but was built in 1949.

LOOK AT THIS FOR PRICE

ONLY $12,900, for a 3-bedroom home in very good condition on Dundas East side with the landscaping all done for you. The interior is delightful with the size of the living room — and the kitchen cupboards. It's an opportunity at this price and a low down payment will make a deal.
